LINES LAID FOR 3-POWER PACT SHOULD OTHER FAIL

U. S., Great Britain and Japan Will Arrange It Only as Last Resort for Fear American Senate Would Reject It.

PRESSURE PUT ON FRANCE AND ITALY

Strenuous Efforts Made to Bring Them Into Accord—Conference of Tardieu and MacDonald Today of Vital Moment.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,

(Copyright, 1930, by the Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, March 15.—With the completion of the agreement between Japan and America, following what has been officially described as a 100 per cent accord between Great Britain and America, it became evident today that a three-Power agreement is within immediate reach of the London naval conference. It was equally clear that such an agreement would be negotiated only as a last resort and with grave misgivings on the part of our delegates lest the pact be upset by the Senate.

The Fly in the Ointment.

These fears arise from the knowledge that no three-Power pact is possible in the present circumstances without some sort of contingent clause that would permit additional building by Great Britain in the event France should exceed certain figures. It has been suggested by our delegates that the difficulty might be got around by the inclusion of a clause similar to Article 21 of the Washington treaty, which provides for a conference among signatory Powers with a view to revision of tonnage schedules if during the term of the treaty any Power should deem its requirements "materially affected by any change of circumstances."

The British Admiralty wants a firmer clause than this if three Powers make a treaty. The Admiralty contends that in any conference which might be called to discuss enlargement of the British program, Great Britain would be in a minority against America and Japan, neither of which has any direct interest in French naval building. What the Admiralty desires is a statement giving Great Britain the untrammeled right, after due notice, to extend her navy if she feels her security threatened.

France and Italy Hold Key.

On this difference debate rested at the week-end, while strenuous efforts went forward to obviate the necessity of a decision by bringing France and Italy into line. Of outstanding significance among the scheduled conversations was that to be held tomorrow at Chequers between Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Tardieu of France.

Meantime, the pulse of the conference has been quickened not only by the American-Japanese understanding but by the hope that the present method of approach to the Franco-Italian problem may produce solutions. Italy is not being invited to surrender her claim to theoretical parity with France but simply to enter an agreement with France as to the number of ships the two nations will lay down before 1936. A solution along these lines would enable practical results to be obtained without raising the thorny question of parity.

Fate of Five-Power Pact May Hang on Today's Conference.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 15.—The fate of the London naval conference is considered to be hanging on the conversation of Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Tardieu at Chequers tomorrow. The French Premier arrived fom Paris tonight and spent the evening with Briand, French Foreign Minister, and the other French delegates.

Early tomorrow he and Briand will go to the country retreat of the British Prime Minister for one of the most important meetings of European statesmen since the World War. When they come back to London tomorrow night, Tardieu and Briand are expected to carry the knowledge whether the London conference has completed its work or whether there is any use in the five-Power delegations staying in London in the hope that France

MELLON DEFENDS REFUND TO U. S. STEEL; ATTACK RENEWED

Says Experts Found Nothing to Criticise in $33,000,000 Tax Repayment—Garner Assails Treasury Head.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The action of the Treasury Department in refunding to the United States Steel Corporation $33,555,356 in income taxes assessed more than 10 years ago, was defended by Secretary Mellon in a statement issued tonight, and again was assailed by Congressman John M. Garner of Texas, minority floor leader in the House. Pointing out that the single refund to the steel corporation was equal to the total income taxes paid by more than half the taxpayers in the United States last year, Garner declared that the history of refunds to great corporations under Secretary Mellon had been "perfectly appalling." The total refunds, credits and abatements made by the Treasury since Mellon took office in 1921, he said, was about $3,000,000,000, approximately equal to the cost of maintaining the navy during the same period.

"Millions of this total have gone to corporations in which Secretary Mellon and members of his family are personally interested," Garner continued. "It is shocking to think of Secretary Mellon sitting on one side of the table and handing over millions of public money to Taxpayer Mellon, sitting on the other side. Assuming that every penny has been properly refunded, Mr. Mellon should at least have the good taste to refuse to serve as Secretary of the Treasury while it is being done."

Given $97,717,848 in Three Years.

Garner referred to Treasury statistics which show that last year 1,539,818 individuals in the lower brackets, comprising more than half the income taxpayers in the United States, paid a total of $15,351,985 to the Government, or less than than one-half the amount refunded yesterday to the Steel Corporation in one lump. In addition, he showed that refunds, credits and abatements made to the Steel Corporation for the tax years 1917-20, since Mellon became Secretary, totaled $97,717,848.

All these taxes were assessed under the Wilson administration, largely under the tax laws of the war period.

Mellon, in defending the refunds, said they had been determined only after "the most thorough and painstaking consideration." He argued that the size of the refunds should not affect public judgment, since "the only question to be determined was what the steel corporation owed the Government," and that the amounts were "necessarily large, since the steel corporation paid about 8 per cent of all the taxes paid by corporations during the war years."

He did not allude to the rather obvious fact that its taxes were large during those years because its profits were correspondingly large.

In Settlement of $130,000,000 Suit.

The Secretary explained that the $33,000,000 sum, consisting roundly of $21,000,000 in principal and $12,000,000 in accrued interest, was being accepted in settlement of a suit for $130,000,000, which had been filed by the corporation. Replying to Garner's statement that the determination of such vast payments should be made openly by the courts, rather than by private dickering between Treasury officials and the corporation involved, Mellon declared that such a policy would "transfer the administration of the tax laws from the Treasury to the courts."

"The overpayment is admitted," he continued. "Sound business judgment and good administration demand that we return the amount promptly." He added that the refund had been submitted to, and approved by, the Joint Congressional Committee of Taxation, consisting of five Senators and five Congressmen, as provided by law.

However, in the latter connection, Garner declared that the Republican majority of the joint committee had proceeded in the most perfunctory manner, and that in this particular case, Chairman Hawley, Old Guard Congressman from Oregon, had appeared at the meeting with the proxies of five Republican colleagues in his pocket and permission to cast their votes as he chose.

"Formed as a Rubber Stamp."

"The committee was formed as a rubber stamp for the Treasury, and that is exactly how it has functioned," he said.

Garner remarked as "an interesting fact," that more refunds have been made to Pennsylvania corporations during 1929 and 1930 than to those of any other states. "They may have been justified," he added, "but certainly propriety demands that they should not be made by a Secretary of the Treasury who is personally interested in, or has financial affiliations with, the corporations receiving them."

Among large refunds ordered by

THREE NEW PARROT FEVER CASES ON U. S. HEALTH STAFF

None in Serious Condition; Physician and Nurse Dead in Outbreak at Potsdam, Germany.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Three new cases of psittacosis, or parrot fever, have appeared among members of the staff of the hygienic laboratory of the United States Public Health Service.

The staff has decided to suspend its work with sick parrots in an effort to find a cure for the disease.

The three members of the staff who have developed the disease recently are: Dr. H. E. Hasseltine, Public Health Service surgeon; Ernest L. Millar, laboratory worker, and a Negro janitor at the laboratory. None is thought to be in a serious condition. Others who have had the disease are Dr. Charles Armstrong, surgeon; Mrs. Sadie Carlin, bacteriologist, and Robert Lanham, laboratory watchman. Harry Anderson, laboratory attendant, who cared for the sick birds, died from the disease.

POTSDAM, March 15.—A fresh outbreak of psittacosis is suspected here in a family of three which bought a freshly imported parrot. The physician and nurse who treated the patients have died.

LOS ANGELES SUBURBS SWEPT BY TORNADO

Lawndale, Hawthorne and Lennox Damaged by Freak Twister.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, March 15.—A tornado spiraled out of the Pacific Ocean today, sweeping through several suburbs and the industrial sections of Los Angeles. Several persons were injured, none seriously, and many buildings were damaged.

The twister unroofed buildings and leveled flimsily constructed buildings.

The storm first struck Lawndale, southeast of Los Angeles, then hopped over to Hawthorne. Lennox felt the blasts. Several garages and other small buildings were unroofed in Lennox.

The industrial district of Los Angeles, several miles away, suffered the greatest damage. The Southern Glass Co. plant was damaged $10,000, officials estimated when the twister went in a large sliding door at one end of the plant and went out the other end, taking the back wall of the steel-sheathed building with it.

Telephone and telegraph poles were broken, box cars unroofed, windows and other glass panels shattered and various merchandise damaged.

Preceding the twister and following it, rain varying from light sprinkles to heavy downpours fell. More than 3½ inches fell at some points.

NEW DETECTOR DEVISED TO TRACE TROPICAL STORMS

Navy Seeks by Its Use to Find Source and Follow Progress of Such Disturbances.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The detection of tropical disturbances in the Caribbean and Gulf of Mexico is expected to be facilitated materially by a new static disturbance recorder developed for the navy. Nine of the machines will soon be installed in those areas, the Navy Department announces.

Experts of the navy's hydrographic office said that "by means of simultaneous cross-bearings from the various stations it was hoped that storm centers could be located when still far distant and the movement of the storm followed continuously."

It is their opinion that storm centers and heavy static sources are associated. The new equipment will make continuous automatic records of static disturbances, indicating the direction from which the static disturbance originated, the time the signal was received, and the intensity of the signal.

Work of detecting storm centers has been given impetus by the experiments of Lieut. E. H. Kincaide and W. B. Burgess of the Naval Research Laboratory.

SIX ROBBERS KILL POLICEMAN BUT FAIL TO GET PAYROLL

Brooklyn Officer Guarding Money Shot by Holdup Men at Shoe Factory.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Six robbers escaped from police today after they had shot and killed a policeman in an unsuccessful effort to seize a $7200 payroll of a Brooklyn shoe factory.

The policeman, Walter de Castillia, had accompanied David Weinstein, president of the shoe company, to the bank to obtain the payroll and after returning to the factory retired behind a partition while Weinstein and two girl clerks counted out the money.

Six men entered, leveled guns at Wenstein and demanded the payroll.

Castillia stepped from behind the partition, pistol in hand, but he never got a chance to use the weapon. Three of the robbers opened fire and Castillia fell to the floor dead.

No one saw the robbers leave the building. Thirty patrolmen, armed with riot guns, guarded all exits while detectives searched the building. No trace of the men was found.

U. S. MOTOR SHIP DISABLED OFF PANAMA, 49 ABOARD

Navy Tug Ordered to Assistance of the Unicol, Bound for Boston.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 15.—Lloyd's reported tonight that the American motor ship Unicol, 3703 tons, was totally disabled 880 miles off Balboa, Panama. The ship carries a crew of 40 and nine passengers.

The United States navy tug Sciota was sent out of Panama tonight with orders to proceed at full speed to the assistance of the Unicol Navy officials think the tug will pick up the Unicol about 100 miles west of Galapagos Islands, off the coast of Ecuador. If the weather holds good the tug should reach her by Tuesday.

The Unicol, which is owned by the United States Shipping Board, hails from Tampa, Fla. She sailed from Sydney, N. S. W., Feb. 14 for Boston and New York.

ARTIST THREATENS LIFE WHEN QUIZZED IN WIFE'S KILLING

Henri Marchand Arrested as Witness Admits Writing to Model Accused of Ouija Murder in Buffalo.

ONE NOTE OFFERS TO PAY HER BILLS

Lilac Jamison, Whom He Addressed, Said to Have Induced Older Indian Woman to Commit Crime

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 15.—Lodged in jail as a material witness in the case involving the killing of his wife by two Indian women who are charged with murder, Henri Marchand, artist of the Buffalo Museum of Science, was closely guarded tonight in the Erie County jail after he had twice threatened suicide.

After Justice Thomas H. Noonan of the Supreme Court has set his bail at $25,000. Marchand was transferred from a cell at police headquarters to the county jail.

The latest development in the case came with surprising suddenness today when three letters Marchand wrote to Lilac Jamison, known also as Lila Jimerson, one of the principals in the case, were revealed to the District Attorney. The letters indicated warmth of affection between Marchand and Lilac Jamison, authorities held.

Threatens to Kill Himself.

Marchand was being questioned in the office of District Attorney Guy B. Moore when he suddenly shrieked: "I'll kill myself, I'll kill myself."

This morning William R. Connolly, Deputy Police Commissioner was informed that three important letters from Marchand to Lilac Jamison were awaiting him. Examination of the letters resulted in an immediate conference with Moore, and Marchand was taken from his studio for questioning.

Moore said afterward that no question he had asked Marchand would call forth a threat of suicide. Later, when Marchand was being taken from his cell to go before Justice Noonan, police removed a scarf from his pocket.

"You are not going to get my goat any more," Marchand said. "You cannot stop me. I'll find a way."

Marchand's wife was killed with a hammer by a Seneca Indian woman, Nancy Bowen, 64 years old, who has confessed she did so because she thought Mrs. Marchand had put a blight on her tribe through witchcraft. Lilac Jamison is alleged to have induced the older woman to commit the crime by working on her mind through the medium messages she professed to receive on a ouija board.

Marchand's youngest son, Henri Jr., aged 12, found his mother's body on the floor of their home, March 6.

Marchand's Letters to Model.

Following is the text of three letters written by Marchand to Lilac Jamison on the stationery of the Buffalo Museum of Natural Sciences, for which Marchand was preparing models of Indian life:

"Feb. 20, 1929.

"My Dear Lila: If you know how much pleasure it gives me to receive a letter from you, you would undoubtedly write more often. And I know what you are going to answer to that, you will say: well, how about you? But you must not forget that I am a very, very busy man, and although you might be in my mind most of the time I do not have the opportunity to sit down and write as you have. I am sorry to hear about your health failing again—please remember that I want a good, strong girl—and you should not say that you are sick and tired of doctoring. Please remember that you have something to live for.

"I gather from your letter that you stopped doctoring because it cost too much. Remember that no price is too high for good health. You remember what I told you about financial conditions the last time we were together? You know that I bought over $1000 worth of new furniture and that I have just finished paying for my car, $2400—furthermore She has been sick most of the winter and the boy, too—you know what that means in doctor's bills and medicines. Then I have big insurance premiums to pay and so on, nevertheless I intend to help you all I can, but just now it is absolutely impossible.

"If you cannot pay, here is my

$10,000 LOSS FROM FIRE IN FRISCO RAILROAD YARDS

Yardmaster's Office and Warehouse at 3900 Chouteau Avenue Destroyed.

Fire of undetermined origin which blazed up in the yardmaster's office in the Frisco Railroad yard at 3900 Chouteau avenue at 11:05 o'clock last night, destroyed the one-story frame building and a frame warehouse, doing damage of approximately $10,000.

A crowd of 1500 persons gathered on the Chouteau viaduct, north of the yards, to witness the fire.

The crew on a switch engine, sighting the blaze, turned in an alarm. The fire was well under way when equipment arrived. Three alarms were sent in. The yardmaster's office, a building about 50 by 150 feet, had formerly been used as a storehouse for barrels of oil and both floor and walls of the structure were oil-soaked.

Hose was stretched over spurs of railroad track and the spectacular fire blazed for 45 minutes. There was no interference with traffic on the main line tracks, which are in another part of the yard.

TWO IDENTIFIED AS KILLERS OF ST. LOUIS GROCER IN 1925

Pair Held in Cleveland for Murder There Named by Mrs. G. T. Huebschen.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., March 15.—George Williams and Charles Hanovitch, charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of Patrolman Carl Sherman heer last March, were identified tonight as the slayers of George J. Huebschen, St. Louis grocer, during a holdup April 29, 1925.

The identification was made by Mrs. Estelle Bestle, a customer at the grocery during the holdup, and Mrs. Marie Huebschen, the grocer's widow. Hanovitch, only 16 at the time of the holdup, and Williams, were both picked out of separate police lineups. Their trial on the charge of killing the policeman will begin Monday.

The Cleveland patrolman was killed when he attempted to question the two men, who parked their car on a road southwest of the city after a holdup here March 3, 1928. The men were arrested a few weeks ago.

BODY OF WOMAN MISSING SINCE NOV. 14 FOUND IN RIVER

Wife of Utica, N. Y., Manufacturer Took Her Own Life, Coroner Says.

By the Associated Press.

UTICA, N. Y., March 15.—The body of Mrs. Beecher M. Crouse, missing Utica society woman, for whom a nation-wide search had been made, was recovered from the barge canal here tonight by two men in a rowboat. One of them said he had seen the body in the water a month ago, but thought at that time it was a log.

Mrs. Crouse, the wife of the president of the Shenandoah Rayon Corporation of Utica, disappeared from her home here Nov. 14 last. She had been in ill health for several years and in September had returned home from a sanitorium.

Dr. Gordon A. Holden, Coroner said she had taken her own life.

POSSE CAPTURES 3 ROBBERS WHO KILLED DEPUTY

Bank Thieves Surrender Calmly at Jetmore, Kan., After Having Slain One, Wounded Three in Flight.

By the Associated Press.

GARDEN CITY, Kan., March 15.—Three men captured in a shack near Jetmore late today have confessed the $4000 Manter (Kan.) bank robbery which resulted in the killing of a Colorado Deputy Sheriff and the wounding of three other officers.

The confessions were obtained, according to Police Chief Richardson, who said the men were questioned here en route from Jetmore to Johnson.

The police chief said most of the loot was found in their clothing. Two money bags, left unopened, in an abandoned car contained about $100 in change.

Officials of Stanton County, in which is the robbed bank, have expressed willingness to have the three extradited to Colorado to be prosecuted for the slaying. There they would stand trial for murder, punishable by death sentence. A life prison term is the maximum punishment provided for bank robbery or any other crime in Kansas.

They Deny Killings.

The prisoners denied killing Deputy Sheriff Charles Hickman of Eads, Colo., and wounding three other persons in their flight.

They gave their names as John Walker, 41 years old, Joplin, Mo.; Andrew Halliday, 22, Webb City, Mo. and Claude Rhea, 24, Webb City, Mo.

Walker admitted serving a term in the Oklahoma penitentiary for motor car theft and Halliday and Rhea to prison terms at the Missouri penitentiary for grand larceny. Walker, suffering from a hip wound, limped into the police station.

Jack Collins, Manter druggist, who was in the bank yesterday at the time of the holdup, identified the prisoners as the robbers. Mrs. W. D. Rorick, a woman Sheriff, will have custody of them at Johnson.

A 24-hour search by Kansas and Colorado posses was ended by the arrest of the three.

Ten airplane scouts were enlisted by officers and citizens in the search.

Immediately after the robbery Friday, officers of the sparsely settled territory were notifed and established guard over the principal highways. Shortly afterward, at Eads, Col., Deputy Sheriff Hickman challenged occupants of a speeding car and was shot, and killed. W. H. Mosher, a county employe, was shot in the leg.

Five miles west of Cheyenne Wells, Colo., Sheriff W. D. Coe and Marshall George Hollingshead attempted to halt the fugitives. Coe was wounded seriously in the left thigh, and Hollingshead was shot through the right shoulder.

Sheriff Coe is in serious condition in a Denver hospital. Following the second clash with Colorado officers, the robbers retraced their way into Kansas.

Abandoned Auto Is Clew.

Eastern Colorado officers co-operated in the pursuit. A national guard company at Burlington was ordered mobilized, and at the time of the capture was preparing to go into action.

The capture followed the abandonment, early today, in a blind

CALLS FOR PROSECUTION OF PEDDLERS OF U. S. JOBS

Senate Subcommittee in Final Report Asks Department of Justice to Act on Evidence It Gathered in South.

WANTS REFEREE SYSTEM ABOLISHED

Urges Broadening of Corrupt Practices Act to Protect Federal Employes From Collectors of Political Funds.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—An investigation by the Department of Justice of the distribution of Federal patronage in Southern states with a view to prosecutions, is recommended in a report submitted to the Senate today by the Postoffice sub-committee which conducted an inquiry in the South.

The committee's final report presents the evidence from four states—Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina and Texas.

The committee, headed by Senator Brookhart (Rep.), Iowa, recommended that the present practice of dispensing Federal offices in the Southern states through the referee system be abolished, condemning it as "most reprehensible."

It also proposed that the Corrupt Practices Act be broadened to include in its scope any person soliciting funds from a Federal office holder or Federal employe for political purposes.

"Your committee further recommends," the report says, "that the Department of Justice make a careful survey of the evidence obtained by your committee and if the facts warrant, that they start proceedings against all persons who have violated the statute covering the barter and sale of public offices."

McKellar Criticises Individuals.

McKellar (Dem.), Tennessee, signed the report with Brookhart, but submitted also a supplementary report condemning Federal officials in Texas and South Carolina. Hastings (Rep.), Delaware, the other member of the subcommittee did not sign the report but submitted a brief separate report explaining that he had participated only in the inquiry in South Carolina. He said the evidence showed the District Attorney for that State, J. D. E. Meyer, had "improperly conducted his office."

McKellar also condemned Meyer and reported that this official had recently resigned.

Referring to R. B. Creager, Republican National Commiteeman or Texas, McKellar said:

"It is but fair to say that Mr. Creager created rather a favorable impression upon me. I agree with Senator Brookhart entirely that Mr. Creager's system of collecting money for party purposes in Texas was beyond the pale, and while not illegal, might well be prohibited by law, but Mr. Creager has adopted and used the plan openly and above board.

"On the other hand I do think Mr. Creager has subjected himself to the grossest sort of criticism for standing by certain office holders in Texas that are unworthy of confidence of any man, notably Campbell and Hartman. I hope he will let both be relieved from the public service." Ray Campbell is Collector of Customs at Laredo and John D. Hartman, United States District Attorney at San Antonio.

"Collecting Organization."

The report said that in Georgia it was learned from examination of John W. Martin, treasurer of the State Republican Central Committee, and of records produced by him, that he had set up "a regular collecting organization which would indicate from the cards turned over to the committee that it was his purpose to secure from 5 to 10 per cent of the salary of the Postmasters and practically all the other Federal officers appointed in the State of Georgia."

The committee added, however, that conditions have greatly improved in Georgia, and "the new organization handling patronage down there seems to have met with success."

"We have information from in-

HAITIAN FACTIONS AGREE ON LEADER PENDING ELECTION

Eugene Roy, Broker, Proposed by the Opposition, Accepted by President Borno Under U. S. Plan.

HOOVER BOARD TO DEPART TODAY

Commission, Starting in Solely Advisory Capacity, Had Been Given Wider Powers by President.

By the Associated Press.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, March 15.—After only two weeks of work in Haiti, but clothed with wide administrative powers given them by radio from Washington, the Hoover Investigation Commission tonight believed they had settled the long-standing Haitian political problem, and ultimately the question of American occupation.

President Louis Borno, who has been recalcitrant toward the commission's plan for holding legislative elections and setting up a provisional government, suddenly agreed to the plans today.

The commissioners immediately followed his acceptance by announcing in a formal statement that all sides had agreed on the selection of Eugene Roy to be temporary President until legislative elections can be held later this year.

They now believe that their work is over and are arranging to leave Haiti tomorrow for home aboard the U. S. S. Rochester, which brought them to Haiti Feb. 28.

Choice Approved by Borno.

The choice of Roy has been approved by President Borno, by Brigadier-General John H. Russell, American High Commissioner, and of course, by the opposition groups who proposed him. President Hoover also gave his approval to him, and his appointment will be formally ratified by the convention of electors on March 20, and by the Council of State on April 14. He will not take office, however, until May 15, when President Borno's term expires.

President Hoover informed the commissioners that he would recognize the Government elected this year and approved the holding of legislative elections as soon as Roy desires to call them. This probably will take place in August.

Roy, about 65 years old, is a broker, who has never taken part actively in politics. He was formerly president of the Government Clearing House and is well versed in the management of finances. All sides apparently are ready to co-operate with him.

It is hoped that the regularly elected president can be inducted into office by September. President Borno's written signature to the commission's plan greatly pleased the opposition. The officers of the confederated opposition groups also put their signatures to it.

Statement by Commission.

The commission's statement announcing the achievements today said:

"The commission is glad to announce that its plan, made public March 9, is now in a fair way to become effective.

"The Federated groups have formulated and sent in a signed statement of their program satisfactory to the commission and to President Borno. They have also suggested five names of candidates for temporary president who would be acceptable to them.

"President Borno has informed the commission, through Brigadier-General Russell, that of these names that of Eugene Roy was satisfactory to him, thus making Roy the coalition candidate.

"The plan provides briefly: That the convention of electors representing the different patriotic groups and organizations be assembled and vote March 20 for the candidate for the presidency, whose name will then be submitted to the Council of State, which will vote on April 14.

"Approved by both sides in due course, he will then succeed to the presidency at the expiration of President Borno's term, having pledged himself to call elections for the legislative chambers at the earliest possible date.

"He will present his resignation to the chambers when they convene. The latter will then proceed to elect a president for the regular term.

"The program also has the sanction and the approval of President Hoover and of the State Department in Washington.

"The commission feels that this is a happy solution of the problem and wishes to express its thanks to President Borno and the officers of the Government, on one side, and to the representatives and delegates of the Federated Groups, on the other, for their gracious conduct and conciliatory spirit, without which this solution of the difficult Haitian situation would have been impossible."

Hearings Opened Two Weeks Ago.

Two weeks ago today the Commissioners opened their first public hearings and met with a boycott from the people, who charged that they were in Haiti only to rake over the events of the past and would do nothing for the future.

A statement from Chairman W. Cameron Forbes and his colleagues, saying that the commission was here with wide powers to solve the Haitian problem, won over the opposition.

The commission's achievements, however, were for a time imperiled by the attitude of President Borno, who refused to modify orders he had sent to the Prefects, declaring that legislative elections could not be held until 1932.

News of this action reached the Commissioners while they were on their trip through the interior, which was seething with indignation over it. When they returned to the capital they immediately set to work to modify the stand of Borno, and their stand finally triumphed.

Think Entire Problem Settled.

Though there were a few rumblings of discontent among independent elements, all sides tonight believed that the commission, by acting with unprecedented rapidity, had solved the entire problem of turning the Government of Haiti back to the Haitian people, which was the chief demand of most Haitians. The withdrawal of the Marines is expected to be gradual, giving Haiti time to set public affairs functioning smoothly.

It was learned tonight that the commissioners had come here with only advisory powers, but after the difficulties with President Borno, President Hoover sent them unlimited administrative power by wireless, giving them absolute power to settle the political problem and making them supersede all American officials in Haiti. This was in response to their radioed report to Washington.

On the highest authority it was reported that Gen. Russell privately interviewed Borno and informed him of President Hoover's step in conferring further powers upon the commission.

Russell himself also cabled President Hoover, according to these reports, and told him there was certain to be bloodshed in Haiti unless the commission's plan was allowed to go through and was approved by all sides.

Old Ironsides Floats Again, Children Cheer Launching

132-Year-Old Frigate Constitution Rebuilt by Pennies of Young America—Masts Are Yet to Be Raised.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, March 15.—The 132-year-old frigate Constitution, three years ago a pathetic, decaying hulk, tonight rode the sea again, her sleek black hull staunch and true.

Much of her refitting still is to be done. Many a day will pass before her masts raise their heads against the sky and many another day before her sails billow in the salty breeze.

But this fact stands out—Old Ironsides is afloat again.

The ceremony of refloating after three years of rebuilding was the simplest. At the head of the great concrete box that forms the dry dock stood Lieut. John A. Lord, grizzled master builder of such steel giants as the superdreadnaughts New York and Arizona, to whose craftsmanship the renewed Constitution is a monument. With him were Rear Admiral Philip Andrews and Capt. C. M. Simmers of the Naval Department of Reconstruction.

Excited children comprised the greater part of the crowd of 2000 about the dry dock—and properly so, for they represented young America which has poured so many millions of its pennies into the $400,000 that already has been spent in renewing the veteran warship.

Martial music came from the head of Pier 2 West, where a navy band played. There was a flutter among the crowd. The sluice gates were opened and water rushed against the old ship's sides.

Swaying gently, the black hull with its white trimmings and its temporary masts flying flags and bunting, rose upon the inrushing tide.

Old Ironsides again embraced the sea to which she was pledged Oct. 21, 1797. Drawn by the navy tug Iwana she slipped gracefully from the gates of the dry dock into the open harbor and then moored at the end of Pier 2.

Freighted with the treasured memories of more than a century she rode the gentle harbor swells tonight. And who knows but that in the darkness a ghostly crew once more trod her decks—heroes of Old Ironsides' 42 victorious battles.

The brave old ship was built only a mile away from the scene of her refloating. Her keel was laid down in 1794 after President Washington had signed the bill authorizing construction.

POSSE CAPTURES 3 ROBBERS WHO KILLED DEPUTY

alley at Jetmore, of an automobile commandeered yesterday from two youths. Rifles, shotguns, automatic pistols and money bags containing some change were found in the car.

Later in the afternoon the three men were caught in the shack. Other than slamming the door on the approach of Len Razer, a citizen posseman, they offered no resistance. After the door was closed Razer fired into the building, and the three emerged.

Plans of pursuit, perfected after the robbery, May 23, 1928, of a Lamar, Colo., bank, which resulted in similar posse action, apparently were responsible for today's success. Two officers of the Lamar bank were slain in the holdup, and two other men were killed by the fleeing gang.

Joplin Police Tell Record of Two; Think One Gave Wrong Name.

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., March 15.—Claud Rhea and Andrew Halliday, both of Webb City, Mo., were sentenced in October, 1925, to four-year terms in the Missouri Penitentiary for grand larceny in connection with the theft of ore. Rhea, while being held in jail at Carthage, attempted to escape and was shot and slightly wounded.

Joplin police think John Walker is John Thomas, of Joplin, wanted in connection with a $2200 bus robbery here in 1928. In 1924 Thomas was arrested here and taken to Oklahoma, where he was sentenced to the penitentiary for motor car theft.

WHITE RUSSIANS IN NEW YORK IN STREET FIGHT WITH REDS

Four Women Arrested; Congress Warned to Beware of Soviet Machinations.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Already at odds with the police, the Socialists, organized labor and the former right and left wings of their own party, New York Communists found themselves under attack today by still another group—the White Russians, who left their country to get away from Communnism.

Carrying banners and distribution leaflets denouncing the arrest of four Bishops and 30 clergymen by the Soviet Government in Kharkov, 60 or 70, whites, most of them women, marched up Fifth avenue past the Amtorg offices at 285 Fifth avenue. The Reds had learned in advance of the maneuver and 50 of them attacked the parade. There was much clawing, kicking and hair pulling, until police reserves dispersed the combatants. Four women, all White Russians, were arrested.

Three associations of White Russians united in petitioning Congress, the Cabinet and leaders of industry for a congressional investigation into the activities of Amtorg, the trade agency of the Soviet Union. They also suggested that Congress look into the question of deporting "all those Communists who are the enemies of the American Constitution and of its liberty." Signers of the petition described themselves as American citizens.

They charge that "the Soviet Government, through its agent, Amtorg, export to the countries of Europe and particularly to the United States, an army of agitators, who organize riots, etc., which, of course, tend to disturb the peace of American citizens."

U. S. BOAT SINKS IN MISSOURI

Dredge Kappa Goes Down Near Hermann; Nobody Injured.

By the Associated Press.

HERMANN, Mo., March 15.—The Government dredge Kappa sank in the Missouri river about five miles west of here today after striking the hull of the Government boat the Missouri, which burned about two years ago.

Twenty-five members of the crew escaped without injury.

Col. C. W. Sturdivant, in charge of the Kansas City District Office of Engineers, was among those aboard the Kappa. The Kappa was the second largest Government boat on the Mississippi and Missouri rivers and was valued at $175,000. The Kappa began to sink rapidly. Those aboard leaped to a barge against which the Kappa swung after striking the submerged boat.

DOHENY DEFENSE IN BRIBERY TRIAL OPENS TOMORROW

Millionaire Oil Man Is to Take the Stand Tuesday—Expected to Testify All Day.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The prosecution of Edward L. Doheny on a charge that he bribed Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, to award his company a lease to the Elk Hills naval oil reserve, was concluded today with testimony from a Government witness that his company would have liked to obtain such a lease but was not offered the opportunity. The defense will begin its case on Monday.

M. E. Lombardi of Berkeley, Cal., testified that the Pacific Oil Co., with which he was connected in 1922, would have liked to have procured the contract to construct a naval oil storage plant at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, if it contained a clause giving the company a lease to Elk Hills. The Pacific Oil Co. did not bid on the contract. Nothing was said in the specifications regarding the lease.

The Government previously had introduced documents and testimony to show that Doheny's Pan-American Co. submitted two bids for the contract, one complying with the specifications in the call and another containing a clause which gave it preference to any land in the naval oil reserve the Government decided to lease. This bid, which was not in accordance with the specifications, was accepted by the Government as the best submitted.

Testimony of Finney.

The defense, on cross-examination of E. C. Finney, solicitor of the Interior Department, brought out that Fall had turned over the negotiations for the Pearl Harbor contract which resulted in the lease, to Finney, who was then Assistant Secretary, and his subordinates.

It also drew from Finney testimony that he, his subordinates and naval officials had recommended to Fall the acceptance of the Pan-American bid which Fall had not seen. He said that after the Pearl Harbor contract was drawn, it was sent to Fall in New Mexico and that the Secretary signed it without changing any of the terms drawn by others.

Testimony and documents showing that the Interior Department had sought to curtail crude oil production in California in 1922, and that Doheny had submitted plans for increasing production through construction of refineries and pipe lines were introduced by Owen J. Roberts, special Government counsel.

Mrs. Doheny to Be Called.

When the prosecution rested the defense moved to dismiss the indictment on the ground that the evidence did not uphold the charge. This was denied by Justice William Hitz.

Frank J. Hogan, chief counsel for the defense, announced that he would open his case Monday with introduction of documents and the calling of naval officers to tell of the negotiations which lead up to the execution of the Pearl Harbor contract. He said he expected to call Mrs. Doheny as a defense witness to tell of the $100,000 loan to Fall, and that Doheny would take the stand on Tuesday. His examination is expected to require a full day.

Decrease in German Air Traffic.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 15.—A sharp decrease in the volume of German air traffic is shown in the report for 1929 by Lufthansa, official German airplane service. Only 87,019 passengers were carried as against 111,115 in 1928. Freight totaled 1889 tons, as against 1891 the previous year, while the year's air mail weighed 412 tons as against 480 tons in 1928.

HIDE SCHEDULE FIGHT GOES OVER UNTIL TOMORROW

Oddie Proposal to Take Shoes and Leathers Also Off Free List Is Still Undisposed Of.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The Senate devoted four hours today to the proposed tariff on hides, leathers and shoes, but lost so much time in efforts to perfect an amendment to cover all three of these commodities, which are now on the free list, that a decision was deferred until Monday.

The unexpected delay caused by the resumption of this controversy led leaders to forecast that the bill could not be passed before next Thursday.

When the recess over the weekend was taken today, the amendment offered by Senator Oddie (Rep.), Nevada, providing a different scale of rates on hides, leathers and shoes from that carried in the House bill was still before the Senate in the form originally proposed.

All Changes Proposed Lose.

Six attempts, three each by Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, and Howell (Rep.), Nebraska, to modify the Oddie amendment, met defeat. Some Senators took this to mean the Nevadan's proposal probably would carry in the end, but others predicted all three commodities would be retained on the free list. The no-duty forecasters thought that inability to get all groups together would defeat the effort to impose a duty.

Compared with the House rates, the Oddie proposal would provide higher rates on hides and lower rates on shoes. The following table compares important particulars of the two proposals.

	ODDIE	HOUSE
Green hides	4c lb.	10 pct.
Cured hides	8c lb.	10 pct.
Sole leather—	6c lb. & 10 pct.	12½ pct.
Side upper leather—	5.2c sq. ft. & 10 pct	15 pct.
Goat and kid leather—	17½ pct.	25 pct.
Ornamented leather—	5.2c sq. ft. & 10 pct.	30 pct.
Boots and shoes—	14c a pair & 10 pct.	20 pct.

Amendments That Failed.

Walsh, believing the Oddie rates favor the hide producers and discriminate against the shoe manufacturers, proposed an amendment to the Nevadan's scale providing a 10 per cent duty on green hides. This was rejected, 49 to 24.

Walsh then proposed a 15 per cent duty but was beaten, 57 to 16. A little later he was defeated, 55 to 11, in an attempt to increase the duty on shoes to 34 cents a pair and 10 per cent.

Howell, who failed last night in an effort to increase the Oddie rates on hides to 5 and 9 cents, was beaten again today, 36 to 31, when he proposed to lower the Oddie rate on sole leather to 5.4 per cent. This same amendment was rejected, 34 to 32, last night. Howell proposed the same duty on leather welting but lost without a roll call. By a vote of 39 to 28 he also was defeated in an effort to retain on the free list goat and kid leather, when used in the manufacture of shoes.

The five record votes today brought the total quorum and roll calls in the Senate since it resumed consideration of the tariff in the regular Legislative session to 306. Estimating each to have taken six minutes, clerks figured two and a half days were spent upon this procedure alone.

fluential citizens of Georgia," the report continues, "that the barter and sale of Federal offices has practically been eliminated."

Discussing Mississippi, the report said the committee found "a most unusual condition existing relative to the barter and sale of Federal patronage. This was carried on by Perry W. Howard, the national committeeman from that State, who was the Washington referee for all patronage in Mississippi."

Perry Howard Assailed.

Recalling that Howard, a Negro, had been indicted and tried twice in Mississippi without being found guilty, the report added:

"Your committee feels that, notwithstanding action taken by the trial Judges in Mississippi, that there is an abundance of evidence in the record to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that Perry W. Howard was guilty of the sale and barter of public offices in the State of Mississippi, and your committee condemns such practice as most reprehensible and in violation of Federal law. Your committee recommends that such method of appointing public officials should be abolished without delay."

Turning to South Carolina, the report said that, "from testimony taken by the committee and summing up of the affidavits submitted with other testimony, it would indicate beyond a reasonable doubt that practically all the Federal offices were placed on sale by J. W. Tolbert or through his representatives."

After reviewing the testimony taken, the report added:

"Your committee understands that Attorney Meyer has resigned. It is the belief of the committee that he should have been removed long ago, or suspended during the investigation of the charges against him.

"If we are to have law enforcement we must have officials that will enforce the law impartially and officials who will and can hold the respect and confidence of the public. We do not believe it is possible that enforcement of the laws can be impartially carried out when they are placed in the hands of such men as J. D. E. Meyers and Perry W. Howard of Mississippi; and we condemn such practice and feel confident that the Department of Justice has the same view as your committee."

Says Creager Played Own Game.

Discussing the activities of Creager in Texas, the report said:

"Creager's only interest in building up a two-party system in the State of Texas is to perpetuate himself in office as National Committeeman of that State. Creager did everything he possibly could to defeat Congressman Wurzbach, the only Republican Congressman from Texas, and your committee believes that the sole purpose in his endeavor to defeat Congressman Wurzbach was to give himself absolute control of all Federal patronage in the State, which would better enable him through the distribution of public offices to retain his hold as leader of the State organization.

"Your committee ascertained that Creager with Nolte, the State chairman, while holding Federal office under President Taft—Creager having received an appointment from President Taft as Collector of the Port of Brownsville and Nolte as United States Marshal for the San Antonio district—that these two simon pure Republicans and keepers of their party's covenants, themselves strayed from the fold and went over and supported the Bull Moose candidate for President, the late Theodore Roosevelt, notwithstanding that they had been appointed to these offices by President Taft. After the election was over President Taft removed Creager and Nolte from office."

The report asserted that Creager's main purpose was to run a "pie counter organization, distributing these Federal offices to parties whom he could depend upon to deliver to him the delegates from the State of Texas to the national convention and he had absolutely no interest in electing Congressmen and State officials."

Dry Prosecutors Denounced.

The committee reviewed testimony concerning Campbell and Hartman. After recounting a San Antonio case in which J. S. Mason, a prohibition officer testified that he had filed a complaint, but had never been asked by Hartman to testify, the report asserted:

"This seems to your committee to be a very clear case, and there should have been no question about conviction had the case been properly presented and prosecuted. It looks to your committee as though the United States Attorney was very derelict in his duties."

Grover C. Wilmoth, District Director of Immigration at El Paso, was quoted as saying that he believed Campbell "drinks to excess."

"Mr. Wilmoth further stated," the report said, "that at a meeting in El Paso Ray Campbell stated: 'If I had an officer who made a liquor catch and would not frame his testimony on the evidence so as to secure a conviction, I would fire him.'"

Discussing Campbell and Hartman, McKellar said in his report:

"Upon their own testimony, they should be immediately dismissed from their places. Mr. Campbell's connection with the liquor interests, his admission that he crossed the border line and drank whisky himself, his close association with well-known bootleggers, his conduct of his office as disclosed by his evidence, his dealings with the importation of Mexican labor, his demeanor on the stand, all show his utter unworthiness, if not corruption.'

Hartman, upon his evidence and "upon the indisputable evidence of credible witnesses," McKellar added, "was clearly in a combination to shield violators of the prohibition law instead of to prosecute them, as was his duty. His own evidence, his demeanor on the stand, his permitting phony stills to be shown to the grand jury, all show his guilt."

REPORTS ARREST OF GANDHI IS IMMINENT

London Sunday Times Says Resignation of Village Officials Changes Situation.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 15.—The Sunday Times says that well-informed quarters in London regard the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi as "imminent."

This view is entertained, the paper says, because of the situation brought about by the resignation of head men in several villages through which Gandhi passed on his march to the sea in connection with his civil disobedience campaign.

"The action of the head men," says the Sunday Times, "is in direct response to Gandhi's appeal and is regarded as a defiance of law, which not even the greatest sense of official tolerance can countenance. The authorities are expected to act with quickness and firmness."

This view does not seem to be held generally in London. The opinion seems to be that the veteran Indian Nationalist leader will be left at liberty for a time at any rate.

SAYS UNITARIAN MINISTERS ARE 3 TO 1 FOR THE DRY LAW

Mrs. William Tilton, Boston, Files Statement With House Judiciary Committee.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—On behalf of the Unitarian Temperance Society, Mrs. William Tilton, Boston, Mass., filed yesterday with Chairman Graham of the House Judiciary Committee a statement declaring ministers of the Unitarian faith were three to one in favor of national prohibition.

Mrs. Tilton, who earlier in the week testified before the committee as a representative of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, said the statement was introduced to offset testimony of a Unitarian minister earlier in the hearings on measures to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

The statement said the Unitarian ministers were nine to one in favor of keeping State prohibition enforcement laws.

PEOPLES BUS CO. STRIKE IN THIRD DAY; NO SERVICE

Some of Lines May Start Operating Tomorrow With Police Guards Assigned to Machines.

250 APPLICATIONS FOR JOBS RECEIVED

Union Officer Seeks Conference With Employers—No Sympathy Walkout by Trolley Crews.

The strike of employes of the Peoples Motorbus Co. entered the third day this morning with no busses running, and with officials of the company silent regarding plans for resuming operations.

Richard W. Meade, president of the company, declined to make a statement. From other sources connected with the company it was learned that some busses probably will be operated tomorrow under police guard. Meade in a statement Friday asked the support of the public, and others connected with the company predict that every effort will be made to resist the demand of the employes for recognition of the union, which is the basis for the strike. Applications for jobs as drivers and conductors are said to have been received from more than 250 idle men, and it is thought the delay in resuming operations was to permit the organization of this force.

Police, who began working 12-hour shifts yesterday morning, returned to their regular eight-hour duty periods later in the day, and are working eight hours today with only small details on duty at the five garages of the bus company. It is anticipated that the 12-hour shift will go into effect again tomorrow, with 356 officers detailed to strike duty. Following a conference with Meade Friday, Chief of Police Gerk announced that one or two policemen will be detailed to each bus that is operated.

Union Executive Arrives.

William B. Fitzgerald, first international vice president of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes & Motorcoach Operators, arrived here yesterday to assist Robert B. Armstrong, international organizer, in conducting the strike.

Fitzgerald, who conducted the 1918 strike of street car men here, resulting in the recognition of Local Union 788, said he will seek a conference with Meade in an effort to settle the strike.

"The street car men's union has been recognized for years," Fitzgerald said, "and with the same holding company behind the bus concern I cannot conceive how officials of the company can deny the same privilege of organization to the bus men."

Fitzgerald will remain in the city for several days and will address the strikers at one of their daily meetings at Unity Hall.

No request for arbitration has been received by the union from the company and no formal meeting of representatives of the two groups is planned at this time. Discussing the suggestion that the City Utilities Co., which controls both the Peoples Motorbus Co. and the Public Service Co., could turn over the permits of the bus company to the street car company, union leaders said they would seek a general public protest against such a move. "The people want the green busses and I think the city administration would be called on to take a hand if any such action is contemplated," Armstrong said.

Gather Near Garages.

The union was organized at a mass meeting of employes last Sunday after more than 500 of the 700 operating and mechanical department employes signed applications for membership. All of the employes have joined the strike with few exceptions, union leaders say. The strikers have congregated near the company's garages, except for the period spent in the daily meeting. They are under orders to conduct the strike in an orderly manner. Union leaders, however, declined to state what action might follow an effort on the part of the company to operate busses. The men will meet this morning at 10 a. m.

The strike has caused slight inconvenience to the public generally, necessitating in most instances a somewhat longer walk from home to a street car line. Residents of Southwest St. Louis, who were served by the Lindenwood line, were the most seriously affected, being dependent solely upon motorized transportation. Organized service car drivers announced that additional machines will be placed in service on all lines. The Public Service Co. had 70 extra cars in operation Friday and yesterday and will increase the number if needed.

Harry Nelson, president of the Street Car Men's Union, stated that a rumor circulated yesterday that street car men would strike in sympathy with the bus men was without foundation. The present working agreement of the street car men does not expire until May 20 and contains a 30-day notice clause, with provision for arbitration by the State Public Service Commission.

Meade, in the only statement issued by the company since the strike was called, declared the employes had always been treated fairly and received an adequate wage. The statement declared that many of those joining in the strike did so through intimidation, and would prefer to have been let alone.

Speculations as to Whether Full Service Will Be Restored.

The fact that the People's Motorbus Co. is owned by the same interests that control the Public Service Co., has led to speculation as to whether any effort will be made to resume the extensive operation of the busses that existed before the strike.

The purchase of the bus company by the City Utilities Co., which also owns 38 per cent of the voting stock of the street car company, was made several months ago after R. F. Kelker Jr., engineer for the City's Transportation Survey Commission, had recommended a co-ordination of busses and street cars to eliminate "wasteful duplication of service."

It is known that the City Utilities Co. looked favorably on the general objective of the Kelker plan, and one thing that kept them from putting it into effect was the labor situation, the probability that the Peoples company employes would ask for the same wages paid to the street car company's bus operators. Now that the employes have forced the issue, the situation is somewhat changed.

One possibility is that the City Utilities Co. could turn over to the Public Service Co. the operating permits of the Peoples company on such routes as would supplement and feed the street car system, without providing unnecessary duplication of service. Such a move undoubtedly would result in a substantial reduction in the number of busses operated, and many of the men who went on strike would not be re-employed.

THOMAS F. RYAN II INJURED SERIOUSLY IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Grandson of Late New York Financier Unconscious at Hospital Several Hours.

By the Associated Press.

SHERIDAN, Wyo., March 15.—Thomas Fortune Ryan II, grandson of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, New York financier, is in a hospital suffering from a fracture of the skull and jaw as the result of an automobile accident last night. He regained consciousness early today and hospital attendants said he was expected to recover.

At the time of the accident, Ryan was returning to his home here. The street ends abruptly in a grove of trees. Thinking he had another block to travel, Ryan drove his car into a gravel truck and a tree. Ryan's wife is in Colorado Springs, Colo. He is the son of John Barry Ryan, New York.

Ryan was taken to the operating room this morning to extract glass from his neck. Several veins were cut, and one large one severed by flying glass. Several severe hemorrhages occurred after Ryan was brought to the hospital. In addition to injuries to his neck, Ryan suffered cuts on the face and hands, head wounds, a severe chest bruise and a deep wound in the leg.

and Italy can compromise their naval stalemate.

Briefly, conference accomplishments can be listed under four broad headings:

1. Complete American, British and Japanese agreement regarding naval ratios and limitation.
2. A five-Power battleship holiday for five years, or until a general disarmament conference is called at Geneva in 1935-36.
3. Humanizing of submarine warfare.
4. Settlement on a permanent basis of important technical problems such as the compromise between global and category tonnage theories.

Tomorrow will tell what hope there is of adding a Franco-Italian naval rapprochement to the list.

Tonight Italy stands firm for parity with France. France stands equally firm against it and against every other move to reduce her "absolute' fleet needs unless her desires for political guarantees of national security are satisfied.

FIVE AMERICAN SHIPS ESCAPE CHINESE BANDITS AND RAPIDS

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, March 15.—Five American and two Chinese steamers, attacked with heavy machine-gun and rifle fire by Chinese bandit soldiery late yesterday, beat off their attackers and escaped from one of the most dangerous rapids in the Yangtse River.

Hidden among rocks of cliffs between which roars the Hsintang rapids, the bandits fired from both banks, where the great river is narrowed to 60 yards. The attack was made 50 miles above Ichang and more than 1000 miles from the sea.

The brunt of the attack was borne by the American steamer Chiping, whose American guard, under command of Lieut. C. M. Winslow of the United States Navy, fired more than 3000 bullets at the hidden foe and passed through the rapids to Ichang. Casualties of the Chinese could not be learned.

Winslow, son of a fighting father, Rear Admiral Cameron McR. Winslow, retired, was struck in the left leg with machine gun bullets. At an Ichang hospital physicians said Winslow was not wounded seriously. Three Chinese members of the Chiping's crew were wounded severely. The Chiping was reported hit by 500 bullets and its side pierced by the fire of a field piece.

STATE TO LOOK INTO PRACTICES OF LOAN FIRMS

Several St. Louis Companies, Not Licensed, Said to Be Exacting Interest in Excess of Legal Rate.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 15.—Activities of several loan companies in St. Louis, which are alleged to have been exacting interest rates on loans in excess of 8 per cent a year, without having qualified under the State small loan law, will be investigated by the State Finance Department, Commissioner Cantley said today, based on a ruling by the Attorney-General on powers of the department under the small loan law.

Commissioner Cantley said he had received complaints from the Better Business Bureau of St. Louis and others that several companies were engaged in the business of small loans, at high interest rates, without qualifying under the small loan law, but declined to name the companies pending an inquiry into their affairs.

He said the Finance Department examiners would demand access to the books of these companies, to determine the nature of their business, and to determine whether they were violating the small loan law. Where such violations are found the Finance Commissioner, under the law, may turn the information over to the Prosecuting Attorney of the county in which the violations occurred for prosecution, or may institute proceedings to oust the offender, if incorporated.

Can Prosecute Offenders.

Assistant Attorney-General G. C. Weatherby, in an opinion just furnished to Commissioner Cantley, held the Finance Commissioner had authority to investigate any loans or operations of a loan company, which he believed were within the provisions of the small loan act, regardless of whether the lender had been licensed under that act, and could proceed against offenders who had violated the act.

The small loan law, enacted in Missouri in 1927, authorized loans up to $300 at the rate of 3½ per cent a month, amounting to 42 per cent a year, under numerous regulatory provisions. Administration of the act was placed under the State Finance Department and such lenders were required to obtain licenses and be subject to supervision by the Finance Department.

The 1929 Legislature amended the act to reduce the interest rate to 2½ per cent a month, or 30 per cent a year, made the regulatory provisions more stringent, and brought the so-called salary buyers under the law.

Penalties Under Two Laws.

In the opinion given to Commissioner Cantley, Weatherby ruled that any person, partnership or corporation engaged in loaning money in amounts up to $300, at an interest rate greater than 8 per cent a year, was engaged in the small loan business within the meaning of the small loan law. Lenders, engaged in business without having qualified under the act, and receiving a license were subject to prosecution under both the usury laws and the penalty provisions of the small loan law, he said, unless their operations were authorized under some other special law.

He said the commissioner's authority was not limited to regulation of the business of individuals or companies which had qualified and received licenses, but extended to any loan of the kind falling under the act, regardless of whether the lender was licensed or unlicensed.

Scott Field Soldier Hurt.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., March 15.—Private Otha Coleman of the Ninth Airship Company, Scott Field, suffered a fractured left leg and doslications of bones in the left foot when his motor cycle was crowded off the road by an automobile here today. Coleman, who was on his way to his home in Marion, was taken back to Scott Field.

TRUCK HITS POST WHICH FALLS OVER, KILLING WOMAN

Mrs. Ivine Elliott, 7208 Southwest Av., Victim of Accident in Maplewood—Driver Gives Bond.

Mrs. Ivine Elliott, 32 years old, of 7208 Southwest avenue, was killed yesterday afternoon when she was struck by an iron lamp post knocked over by a truck on Manchester avenue, near Marshall avenue, Maplewood.

The driver of the truck, William H. Busch, 425 Oak street, Webster Groves, employed by the Maplewood Feed and Moving Co., told police that the truck, which he had parked on the south side of Manchester avenue, in reverse gear, started backward suddenly when he attempted to crank it. The impact of the truck with a lamp post snapped the lamp post, striking Mrs. Elliott as it fell and fracturing her skull.

The body was identified by T. A. Mahon, with whom the Elliotts roomed, and Will Nesbitt, 6129 Wagner avenue, Wellston, whose telephone number was found in Mrs. Elliott's purse. Elliott is a grocery clerk. They have a daughter, Virginia, 13.

Mrs. Elliott had stopped at a grocery on her way home from work in the Sefton National Fiber Can Co., 3275 Big Bend boulevard, and had her purchases with her.

Busch was released on $2500 bond pending a Coroner's inquest.

NEGRO SLAIN BY TERMINAL AGENT IN CHASE ON LEVEE

William Jones, 40, Shot by Harold K. Holts After Latter Had Attempted to Halt Him.

Willie Jones, a Negro, 40 years old, was shot and killed by a special agent of the Terminal Railroad Association at 11 o'clock last night after a chase along the levee. After the agent fired two shots in the air in an effort to halt him.

The agent, Harold K. Holts, said he saw the man board a moving freight train loaded with merchandise and pursued him. The man jumped off, ran two blocks and after Holts had fired in the air, climbed back aboard the train. Holts then fired directly at him, the bullet lodging in the right side of the neck. Death was almost instantaneous.

The shooting occurred at the foot of Chestnut street. Police said that Jones lived at 409 North Levee, and had a record of arrests.

Says Byrd Can't Waive U. S. Claim To His Antarctic Discoveries

Acting Secretary of State Cotton Issues Statement Following Explorer's Statement in Dunedin, N. Z.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Acting Secretary Cotton of the State Department today expressed the view that the intention of Rear Admiral Byrd not to claim lands discovered in the Antarctic area was not considered binding upon the American Government.

A press dispatch from Dunedin, N. Z., on March 13 said Byrd in an interview held that his discoveries had been for the entire world as much as for his own country, and that he did not intend to lay claim to Antarctic lands for the United States. His idea, he said, was to secure complete understanding between the United States and the British Empire.

It was the opinion of Cotton that whatever the eventual decision in regard to claiming South Polar territory might be, the State Department would take the view that national claims could not be affected by verbal relinquishment on the part of a discoverer.

At the beginning of the Byrd expedition exploration the Polar discoveries were made the subject of correspondence between the United States and Great Britain when the latter Government laid claim to practically the entire Antarctic region by right of prior discovery.

The United States has not admitted the British claim, but there has been no correspondence on the subject since November, 1929, when the State Department acknowledged the British note without admitting the validity of the claims it contained.

The British note, received a year before the American reply was dispatched, stated that the Byrd explorations were going to be conducted on territory claimed by the British extending over an area estimated at 5,000,000 square miles. An offer of assistance to the explorer was made the basis for the communication.

The American reply was so worded that the way was left open for a further discussion of the sovereignty question. The reply was delayed a whole year to permit an extensive study of the question of sovereignty claims.

This work, conducted largely by J. Reuben Clark, then Undersecretary of State, established, it is understood, that the United States has valid basis for claims to considerable Antarctic territory. The time, however, was held inopportune for a full discussion of the subject between the two countries in view of the conversations on naval reduction then pending.

In the dispatches from Dunedin referred Byrd said, also that Antarctica was "big enough for all." In an address referring to American claims in the Antarctic regions, he explained that the American claim lay entirely outside of the Ross dependency and that there was nothing in the situation likely to cause controversy. The Ross dependency is a British settlement under the jurisdiction of the Governor-General of New Zealand.

"We are more interested in good fellowship and sportsmanship with you in our common investigation down there than we are with any claims in the Antarctic," he added.

Among the most important discoveries made by Rear Admiral Byrd was a new land to the east on the other side of the Ross dependency which he named Marie Byrd Land in honor of his wife.

ALLEGED BLACKMAILER SLAIN

Chicagoan Shot in Shop Under His Apartment.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 15.—Dominick Melfi, 28 years old, whom police termed a blackmailer, was shot and killed tonight in a West Side butcher shop, below his apartment, supposedly by one of his victims.

A search was started for Daniel Fidanze, who is said by authorities to have received several threatening letters from Melfi.

Chicago Police Put on Diet.

CHICAGO, March 15.—Chicago's police force is too large, not in numbers but in girth, the department's dietician announced today in prescribing a graduated diet for a selected group of healthy but oversized patrolmen.

GIRL REPORTER JAILED ON CONTEMPT CHARGE

Declines to Tell Where She Got Story of Life of Woman on Trial for Murder.

By the Associated Press.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 15.—A girl reporter, questioned concerning "a life story of Irene Schroeder" that is running serially in newspapers, today was committed to jail in contempt of court when she refused to disclose the source of information in the story after being called to the stand in the murder trial of the woman about whom she wrote. Mrs. Schroeder is charged with killing a highway patrolman after the hold-up of a store last December.

The reporter is Mrs. Ella Kerber Resch of Youngstown, O., across the State line from here. She was taken to a cell in the county jail.

After her refusal to answer, Judge R. L. Hildebrand, presiding at the trial, said the only thing the court could do was send her to jail until she was ready to answer. Attorneys said it would be impossible for her to obtain bail under the law and her only recourse was to the State Supreme Court.

Some time after she had been locked up, another opportunity was given her to answer, but she again declined. Attorneys for the defense went to the jail to put the question after an informal conference with Judge Hildebrand and prosecution counsel.

Following Mrs. Resch on the stand was Sheriff Charles Wright of Maricopa County, Arizona, where Mrs. Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague, indicted with her for the killing, were captured two weeks after the shooting.

William Kiessling, a policeman of St. Louis, was another witness today. He identified Mrs. Schroeder and Gague, who was brought into court for identification, as the person, who had engaged in a revolver fight with him in St. Louis last January.

The Sheriff charges Mrs. Schroeder and Dague were fleeing westward from New Castle at the time of the encounter with Kiessling, who said he was fired on when he halted their automobile. The pair escaped, he said, after the man had struck him on the jaw.

MOTORIST KILLED WHEN AUTO HITS POST

Granite City Steel Worker Thrown From Car by Impact; Tried to Turn.

Ross Inman, 26 years old, laborer in an East Side steel plant, was fatally injured at 7 o'clock last night in Granite City, when his automobile crashed into a telephone post at Fifteenth and State streets, hurling him to the ground. He was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, where he died of a skull fracture and internal injuries.

Two other men and a woman, who were riding with Inman, received minor injuries. His machine was traveling north on State street at high speed. He attempted to make a right turn at Fifteenth street and apparently failed to slow down sufficiently. He roomed at 2036 Lee avenue, Granite City.

Miss Sarah Gekler, 65 years old, a scrubwoman, 1323 (rear) Seventh boulevard, was struck and killed near her home shortly before noon yesterday by an automobile driven by Tony Capitano, 21, 1224 South Broadway.

Capitano told police the woman ran in front of the vehicle as he was driving in Hickory street 30 feet west of the Seventh boulevard intersection. He was held for the Coroner.

Miss Gekler was identified by a woman neighbor, who said she had relatives in Indianapolis.

Merrill, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mesger, 3920 Turner avenue, suffered a skull injury yesterday afternoon when hit by the automobile of John Schweitzer, a contractor, of 3814 North Market street. Schweitzer, who was released on bond, said the boy ran into the path of his machine near Kossuth and Camellia avenues. He took the boy to Christian Hospital.

Mrs. Mollie Stayton, 54, of 2828 Gamble street, suffered a fracture of the right leg yesterday when struck by an automobile at Glasgow avenue and Gamble. The automobile did not stop. She was taken to City Hospital.

Lenten Speaker From Pittsburg.

The Rev. Edwin J. Van Etten, rector of Calvary Church, Pittsburg, Pa., will speak at the Lenten noonday services, at Christ Church Cathedral, Thirteenth and Locust streets, beginning Tuesday. His subject for the week will be "Modern Forces." The Rev. R. D. S. Putney, superintendent o' St. Luke's Hospital, will speak at the service tomorrow.

INTERPRETATION OF WILL OF EDWARD MARTIN SOUGHT

Heirs Want to Sell Property at Sixth and Washington Avenue.

Suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by heirs of Edward Martin, who died 34 years ago, for an interpretation of his will. The heirs want to sell property belonging to his estate at the northeast corner of Sixth street and Washington avenue, but because of the terms of his will creating a trust during the life of ony of his seven children the petition states that the trustee desires an order of court authorizing a sale. However, it is believed the right to dispose of the property is given in the will.

Martin left a widow and seven children. The widow and four sons have since died. The suit was filed in the name of Joseph E. Martin, a son, and Agnes M. O'Reilly and Annie M. Martin, daughters. The latter is a trustee. Martin also owned realty at the northeast cornen of Tenth street and Washington avenue, and the southeast corner of Tenth and Lucas avenue. The Sixth and Washington property consists of a five-story building.

FIRE AT WILLIAM AND MARY

Three Outside Departments Called to Fight Flames at College.

By the Associated Press.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., March 15.—Fire starting about 3 o'clock this afternoon in the William Barton Rogers science hall of William and Mary College was brought under control shortly before 6 o'clock after three outside fire departments had been called in for aid. Hundreds of students assisted firemen in their efforts to confine the blaze to the new building and keep them from spreading over the campus of the second oldest college in the United States.

Fire-fighting equipment from Fort Eustis, the United States Naval Mine Depot at Yorktown and Newport News were sent here. Several students suffered blistered feet and were choked by the smoke. Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, president of the college, declined to make an estimate of the damage. Starting in the elevator shaft, the fire spread to the roof, burning it off, but without damaging any of the class rooms or chemical store rooms, except by water.

U. S. Trade Cuts Liquor Prices.

By the Associated Press.

VICTORIA, B. C., March 15.—H. R. Pooley, Attorney-General, told members of the Legislature last night that tourists from the United States had so increased the profits of the British Columbia Government liquor stores that the price would be cut. Canadian consumption of liquor has not increased, Pooley said, but the tourists' consumption from the United States has.

Sees More Orchid Blossoms In Shaw's Garden Than Panama

Superintendent Pring Home From Tropical Station With Rare Specimens After Opening New Field, So Declares.

Superintendent George H. Pring returned from Panama to Shaw's Garden yesterday after opening up a region previously unvisited by orchid collectors and obtaining many species thought to be new, reported to Director Moore, and made straight for the orchid house.

"These," he exclaimed, beaming as he looked over the bank of blooming Flores de Mayo, ladyslipper and butterfly orchids, "are more orchid blossoms than I've seen since I left St. Louis last month.

"And the greenest grass I've seen since last fall is the Washington Bent in the entrance plaza. Everything down there is burnt up. It's the dry season."

Hundreds of orchids, imported by special permit of the Plant Quarantine Board, are following him from Shaw's Garden tropical station at Balboa, Canal Zone. Among them is a species of oncidium, discovered by his companion, Dr. Robert E. Woodson of the garden's scientific staff. It is closely akin to the butterfly orchids at the garden, but apparently a variety previously unknown. Other discoveries of the orchid-hunters cannot be identified until they bloom, and many of them appear to be new varieties.

The Sobralia Powelli.

With them is probably the rarest orchid known—the Sobralia Powelli, discovered by the late Charles W. Powell, who gave his Panama garden and the fruit of his 20 distinguished years of collecting to Shaw's Garden for its tropical station.

Mr. Powell found the Sobralia in the bed of Gatun Lake when the lake was being filled. No other plant has ever been found. Manager A. A. Hunter of the tropical station has contrived to divide the one plant in two, so that now, Pring remarked, the only known specimens will be "in Missouri Botanical Garden, St. Louis—and Missouri Botanical Garden, Panama." The Sobralla, a terrestrial or ground orchid as distinguished from the epiphytes of the treetops, has exceptionally large and showy flowers of a delicate yellow, shaped like Cattleyas, but growing on four-foot stems.

Other discoveries included a new cycad and more than 50 seeds of a brilliant red flowering plant, which Dr. Woodson dissected in the jungle and identified as a member of the Justicia group. It seems suitable for display in St. Louis.

Dr. Woodson familiarized himself with orchid environment, collected tropical woods for anatomical study, gathered material for his already extended study of evolution in vestigial structures of the apocynaceae, the family which includes rubber-yielding plants, and amassed at first hand an amazing —and painful—lot of information about insect pests of the tropics.

Beeswax as Flypaper.

"The natives carry a ball of native beeswax as a substitute for flypaper," he related. "When one feels a tick he dabs at it with the beeswax and pulls it off. As the process goes on the ball grows until it appears to be a solid mass of little wriggling legs."

"We didn't expect to get into the jungle this trip," Pring remarked, "but once down there we couldn't keep away from it.

"My principal business was to inspect progress at the tropical station. And we found a great deal of it to inspect. Everything appeared in the finest possible condition, and many of the plants had grown so that I scarcely recognized them. A tiny chaulmoogra oil (used in treating leprosy) tree that we planted three years ago was 15 feet tall, and Mr. Hunter had engaged in a planting program which makes the garden, always a mecca for botanists, increasingly a place of interest for lay tourists.

"We found, however, that an 18-mile dirt road, rising from sea level to 2000 feet altitude, was just being completed to open up the El Valle region. Here was a new territory within 100 miles of Balboa, where we might expect to find flora similar to the more distant Chiriqui region which has yielded hundreds of orchids for the garden. And that was just what we did find, on several trips of which the first, probably, was the most interesting.

102 Miles in 12 Hours.

"Hunter, Dr. Woodson and I set out at 6 a. m. in the sedan of Adrien M. Bouche Jr., an American electrician of the Canal Zone and an orchid fan from the word go. Near the old seaport of San Carlos we turned on the snakelike, freshly graded road, an interesting but dangerous climb which Bouche drove with reassuring expertness. It was 6 p. m. when we reached El Valle—12 hours for 102 miles—and the doctor on whom we had counted said he couldn't put us up.

"Neither would the native to whom he directed us, until Bouche overwhelmed him with pathos in eloquent Spanish. He showed us the only available sleeping quarters— an adobe hut—and drove out the ducks and chickens to make room for us.

First he escorted us to the 'dining room,' three plam-leaf walls with a thatch roof for shelter from the trade winds, and served a meal of maize bread— not like good old cornbread—a native pea soup that looked like chocolate, rice, and black native coffee with goat's milk. Knowing my appetite, Dr. Woodson dipped to the bottom of the gourd tureen to give me a generous supply of the peas, but the actual result was to give me a great quantity of sand.

"There was something intangibly mystifying about Bouche's manner as he directed the natives to bring two cots to supplement the bamboo bed.

"I've been 20 years in the tropics," said Hunter, courageously. 'I'll take the bed.' He lay down on the bed and Dr. Woodson and I took the cots. 'But where are you going to sleep?' we asked Bouche.

" 'Oh, he said—and couldn't abstain from a triumphant grin—"I'll sleep out in the machine. "

"Almost Like Home."

"Nothing could exceed the hospitality of the natives, within the limits of what the locality has to offer, but Bouche was wise. The trade wind blew, and the house shook until I thought I was back in the tornado of two years ago. Within 30 minutes the chicken-fleas found us, and from then on they had free access to the fresh meat—Dr. Woodson and me. Hundreds of things seemed to be crawling on my face. I pulled the covers over my head.

"We were up at 5, entertained by the disapproval of the fowl whose sleeping quarters we had taken, and I found that what I had felt on my face was dust, shaken down by the wind from a loft where rice and yuccas were stored. Our host had gone out of his way to have an excellent breakfast for us, and by 6 o'clock, machetes in hand, we were hunting orchids along the headwaters of Rio Anton.

"Fauna was almost as interesting as the flora. Dr. Woodson and I sat down to rest—we had been cutting our way on hands and knees—while Hunter and Bouche, who were used to it, continued the search on the other side of the river.

" 'Do you see what I see?' I asked. 'Isn't that a magnificent specimen,' exclaimed the scientist characteristically. Not 100 feet away was a fine black puma. He looked 14 feet long to me, and he probably was eight feet long. Fortunately, the wind was blowing from his direction, so he did not notice us.

" 'It's almost,' remarked Dr. Woodson, looking at the powerful beast as he might examine a cross-section frosh from the microtome— 'almost like being back home at the Zoo.' "

ARTIST THREATENS LIFE WHEN QUIZZED IN WIFE'S KILLING

proposition. On the first of June this year I will be able to help you. So, as I know your credit is good where you live, why not get what you want, or rather what you need on credit, and then turn the bills over to me after the first of July? Write me again as soon as you can, and tell me what you think of my proposition.

"Again, please take care of yourself, you must. As ever yours,

HENRI.

"Your Last Lovely Letter."

"March 21, 1929.

"My dear Lila: I am not trying to find an excuse for not answering your last lovely letter to me but when I get through it will look very much as if I had done so and besides it is a very good excuse. Here it is.

"Ed has been sick for the last two weeks, and I as a good old pal of his, though it would be quite appropriate if I was going to fall sick, too. And so I did but I feel very much better now (same as Ed.) and I am only waiting for a good excuse to break away from the city's worries and come to say hello to you which I hope will be very soon even if I have to walk part way.

"I cannot tell you how much pleased I was to hear about the condition of your lungs. That was good news and you must do everything in your power to get rid of that last sore spot.

"Now for the other part of your letter about ginog out nights ,etc., and so forth. I want to say a few words about this which I hope won't have to be repeated again. I want you to understand once for all that I trust you implicitly. If you feel like going out nights, by all means do so.

"This Is Not Flattery."

"I have your word of honor on one thing and I know you won't break that as long as you live. Well, outside of that you are free to do to a certain extent as you please because I would be a fool if I did not have realized long ago that you are a very rare and exceptional type of Indian girl and this is not flattery but I mean every word I say. On the other hand, it may sound conceited on my part to say that you would have to go quite far to find another man who would appreciate you better or more than I do or could understand you better.

"For instance, why do your people call you proud, stuck-up and so on? Because they don't understand you as I do. Because they can't see why you should be different from them and should be satisfied to do as the majority of them do, and marry the first no-account Indian that happens to want you and a few other things that belong to you.

"They call you proud just because you have better tastes, better ideals than they have. That is why. So do not worry about doing what you please. The main fact is that we undestand each other and we are not children any more. Well, Lila, I think I will close as I have still some fever left and I feel not so good just now.

"I expect to come in a week or so and I will probably stay for a few days if you will let me know soon enough if you need anything from the city, I would bring it along.

"As ever, your H."

"P. S.—Give my regards to Aunty and your father and ask her if she is still angry with me and tell me what I could buy her and bring with me which would make her feel kind toward me, as I want all your people to be friendly with me."

Missed Christmas With Her.

"December 27, 1929.

"My Dear Lila: I am very glad to hear from you and your family. I hope that your father will be all right very soon.

"Now, about this church business, I really don't know what to do. You seem to forget the fact the Rev. B. S. Ferrall is a stranger to me, and to call a perfect stranger on the phone and tell him to come and see me, and then ask his advice about something, seems to me a very impolite thing to do.

"Usually, when people crave advice they go out and beg for it. They do not wait until it is brought to them on a silver platter. However, I am perfectly willing to do the best I can to oblige you which means that I will have to go and see him, if you will only let me have more details about this church-breaking in business. You should not forget that I know very little about it, and outside of asking one question to the Reverend, I would not really know what to talk about.

"I am glad that you would like to go to the big New Year dance. I am ready to come and take you if the roads will only permit it, as I tried to reach you the day before Xmas and had to turn back.

"So far as you are concerned you have guessed right, my health is as good as ever and Bear's, too, and we both join in wishing you and your family a very Happy and Prosperous New Year.

"Your friend,

"H."

The letters are addressed to Miss Lila Jimerson, Box 77, Versailles, N. Y.

The "Ed" referred to in letter 2 is Edward Burmeister, assistant to Marchand at the Museum and boarded in Marchand's home. "Bear" in letter 3 is the Marchand police dog.

$200,000,000 GAS HOLDING COMPANY REPORTED FORMED

Concern Said to Have Been Organized to Unite Louisiana and Texas Firms.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The New York Times tomorrow will say O. R. Seagraves, president of the United Gas Co., and E. G. Diefenbach, president of G. E. Barrett & Co., were reported to have reached an agreement with Electric Bond & Share Co. interests for forming a $220,000,000 holding company to unite Louisiana and Texas natural gas properties having an annual output exceeeding 175,000,000,000 cubic feet.

Official announcement of the transaction is expected early next week. The paper says the Standard Oil Co. of New York, P. W. Chapman and Union Utilities interests are understood to be interested in the plan through contributions of important property to the proposed company.

Properties reported to be included in the transaction at the outset were the greater part of the United Gas Co. system, valued at $110,000,000; the Magnolia Gas Co., with assets of $60,000,000; the Louisiana Gas & Fuel Co., the Memphis Natural Gas Co., and possibly the Northern Texas Utilities Co.

INSURGENT MINERS ADOPT CONCILIATORY ATTITUDE

Springfield, Ill., Convention Elects Officers and Asks A. F. of L. Head's Aid in Peace Move.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 15. —Having elected their officers, miners attending the insurgent convention of the United Mine Workers of America today agreed to send a letter to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, asking his aid as an intermediary in arranging another convention, at which an impartial credentials committee would pass on the eligibility of all delegates and exclude all representatives of "dead or inactive unions." This convention, it is proposed, would attempt to bring the opposing factions together in a reorganized union. It was stipulated that, if Green is unwilling or unable to make such arrangements, the new union would continue its fight on John L. Lewis and the parent organization.

Alex Howat of Kansas was elected president, Adolph Germer, Mt. Olive, Ill., vice president, and John H. Walker, secretary-treasurer. Walker thereupon announced his intention to resign as president of the Illinois Federation of Labor to give his full time to his new du ties.

The following were selected as policy committee: William Daech, Panama, Ill., J. D. Winters, Montana, Ark.; Frank J. Bender, Zanesville, O.; J. P. Agnessen, Centerville, Ia.; Joseph L. Claypool, Indianapolis; Powers Hapgood, Lafayette, Colo.; Arch Helm, Lexington, Mo.; Burchell Baker, Beaver Dam, Ky.; Houston Martin, Dines, Wyo. and Frank T. Keeney of Charleston, W. Va.

ntermediary in arranging another convention, at which an impartial credentials committee would pass on the eligibility of all delegates and exclude all representatives of "dead or inactive unions." This convention, it is proposed, would attempt to bring the opposing factions together in a reorganized union. It was stipulated that, if Green is unwilling or unable to make such arrangements, the new union would continue its fight on John L. Lewis and the parent organization.

Alex Howat of Kansas was elected president, Adolph Germer, Mt. Olive, Ill., vice president, and John H. Walker, secretary-treasurer. Walker thereupon announced his intention to resign as president of the Illinois Federation of Labor to give his full time to his new duties.

The following were selected as a policy committee: William Daeck, Panama, Ill., J. D. Winters, Montana, Ark.; Frank J. Bender, Zanesville, O.; J. P. Agnessen, Centerville, Ind.; Joseph L. Claypool, Indianapolis; Powers Hapgood, Lafayette, Colo.; Arch Helm, Lexington, Mo.; Burchell Baker, Beaver Dam, Ky.; Houston Martin, Dines, Wyo. and Frank T. Keeney of Charleston, W. Va.

NORTH CAROLINAN, 44, DISCUSSED FOR SUPREME COURT

President Hoover Making Inquiries About Judge J. J. Parker of U. S. Appeals Tribunal.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Confronted with numerous recommendations, President Hoover is prepared to consider the selection of a successor to the late Justice Edward T. Sanford of the Supreme Court. With increasing support for Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina, of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, it is understood that the President is making some inquiries about him.

However, receiving additional recommendations daily, Mr. Hoover has given no evidence of reaching a conclusion. He is looking first to the Southland. Justice Sanford was from Tennessee.

Senators Goff, West Virginia, and Goldsborough, Maryland, both Republicans, indorsed Judge Parker to the President today. Congressman Pritchard (Rep.), North Carolina, did likewise, and members of the North Carolina delegation have informed the President of their support for Judge Parker, although they also have proposed Judge Stacy of the State Supreme Court for the position.

Judge Parker a Republican.

Judge Parker is a Republican, as was Justice Sanford. His being only 44 years old has been advanced by his friends as an advantage.

Judge A. S. Van Valkenburgh of the Federal Court of Appeals for the Eighth District was recommended by Senator Patterson (Rep.), Missouri. Henry W. Anderson of Richmond, Va., a member of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission, was proposed by Congressmen Lankford, Garber and Shaffer of Virginia, all Republicans.

Judge Xenophon Hicks of Knoxville, Tenn., a member of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals for the Sixth District, was recommended by Congressman Taylor (Rep.), Tennessee.

Many Others Mentioned.

There are many other prominent names in the President's mind. Among these are John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee of 1924; Newton D. Baker, Cleveland, Secretary of War in the Wilson administration; Judge Curtis D. Wilbur of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals and Secretary of the Navy in the Coolidge administration; Senators Borah, Idaho; George, Georgia, and Walsh of Montana and Judge William S. Kenyon of the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Mr. Hoover is expected to reach an early decision.

West Virginian Expected to Be Named to Bench in Capital.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Edward Maxwell of Clarksburg, W. Va., a Justice of the State Supreme Court, is under serious consideration by President Hoover for appointment to the bench of the District of Columbia Supreme Court. He conferred with the President today.

ROBBED AT FILLING STATION, KIDNAPED, DRIVEN 125 MILES

Two Brothers From Millersville, Cape Girardeau County, Found in Carondelet.

Found wandering in Carondelet early yesterday, two filling station proprietors from Millersville, Mo., in Cape Girardeau County, 125 miles south of St. Louis, told police they had been robbed, kidnaped and driven here.

Two men in a coupe drove up to the station late Friday, bought and paid for 10 gallons of gasoline and then held up Russell Nelson, 19 years old, and his brother, Austin, 17. Russell was robbed of $15 and forced to sit between the robbers. Austin, who had no money, was locked in the rumble seat compartment.

After several miles, Russell protested: "This is far enough, let us out," but the robbers replied they would take the brothers to St. Louis to prevent them from summoning help. Near Stein street and Virginia avenue, the robbers put the brothers out and drove on.

SONG WRITER IN DIVORCE SUIT

N. H. Brown's Wife Says He Is Infatuated With Actress.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 15.—Nacio Herb Brown, song writer, was sued for separate maintenance by his wife, Ruby Porter Brown, in a complaint on file in Superior Court today. She alleged her husband was infatuated with Doris Eaton, actress, and charged Brown with sending her on a trip to Florida while he followed Miss Easton to New York City. The song writer was declared to have an income "in excess of $50,000 a year," of which Mrs. Brown asks for $2500 monthly for the support of herself and 9-year-old son. Mrs. Brown accused her husband of ordering her to get a divorce and inducing her to deed him $90,000 in property which she claimed she inherited from her father.

The complaint stated the couple married April 14, 1920, and separated a few days ago.

MRS. THOMAS COLLINS, 83 TOMORROW, ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Native of County Galway, Ireland, Plans Double Celebration at Her Home.

Mrs. Thomas Collins, who says she is related to "nearly all the Irish in St. Louis," plans to hold a double celebration at her home, 3919 Cleveland avenue, tomorrow. It will not only be St. Patrick's day, but will be her eighty-third birthday anniversary as well.

She was born in County Galway, Ireland, and came to this country when she was 18 years old. For many years she made her home a gathering place for Irish immigrants and Irish-Americans. She is still active and attends services daily at St. Margaret's Catholic Church. Among her close friends have been the late Gov. Hadley, former Govs. Gardner and Major and former Mayor Kiel.

Mrs. Collins had 14 children, seven sons and seven daughters, including four sets of twins. Seven of the children are living. They are Martin J. Collins, president of the Graham Paper Co.; Joseph P. Collins, of the Orchard Paper Co.; Sister Andrea of the Sisters of Charity, Mt. Clemens, Mich.; Miss Sarah and Miss Dena Collins, of the Cleveland avenue address; Mrs. John F. Deveney, 4056 Castleman avenue, and Mrs. Charles E. Seegger, 4436 McDonald avenue.

First Ruling by New Chief Justice.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Chief Justice Hughes yesterday delivered his first opinion since taking his seat on the bench. It ruled upon two cases from Ohio challenging the validity of the State law creating Metropolitan parking districts at Cleveland and Akron, and attacking a section of the Ohio constitution. The decision sustained both the State act and the constitutional provision which had been attacked.

OPENING

If you can postpone the purchase of new slippers for just a while longer . . . we suggest you to await the . . .

OPENING of the
NEW I. MILLER SHOE SALON
823 Locust Street . . March 24th.

FIRST of all, let us assume that you know absolutely nothing of I. Miller—or of I. Miller Beautiful Shoes. Let's start from the beginning and tell the whole story:

Thirty years ago, I. Miller was a custom shoe maker. Because of his talent—because of his flair for color—of his instinctive knowledge of style, most of his slippers adorned the feet of stage celebrities only.

But the little shop that saw so many of the famous characters of the past generation was not to remain unnoticed by the leaders of New York's fashionable society. Protestingly, almost, I. Miller accepted more clients. He was forced to employ and train new craftsmen.

Slowly, perhaps, but none the less surely, the vogue for I. Miller Beautiful Shoes began to grow. Certain models which had proved particularly popular, were created in volume. I. Miller became a manufacturer. His little shop became busy. More craftsmen were employed. And I. Miller himself concentrated his efforts to the development of new styles.

Success in New York brought demands from Washington and Philadelphia. From Baltimore and Chicago. Actresses carried the I. Miller vogue to San Francisco and Hollywood. A hundred other cities began to demand the style, the quality and the fit that only I. Miller could produce.

But today—in spite of the fact that thousands of shoes leave the I. Miller shops every day—in spite of the fact that the institution is international in scope, the same traditions of quality prevail. I. Miller Shoes are more than mere shoes. They are creations of beauty and loveliness. They reflect rare artistry in conception of line and color. They are perfect in execution—exquisite in fit—loyal in wear.

So, if it is at all possible for you to postpone the purchase of new slippers until the opening of the St. Louis I. Miller Shoe Salon, we feel confident that in the beauty of the shoes we shall show you—in the grace of line—in the loveliness of the colors available for Spring—in the cleverness of design—in the faultless styling and in the perfection of fit, you will discover much of the worthiness and character of I. Miller traditions.

MOTORIST KILLED WHEN AUTO HITS POST

Granite City Steel Worker Thrown From Car by Impact; Tried to Turn.

Ross Inman, 26 years old, laborer in an East Side steel plant, was fatally injured at 7 o'clock last night in Granite City, when his automobile crashed into a telephone post at Fifteenth and State streets, hurling him to the ground. He was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, where he died of a skull fracture and internal injuries.

Two other men and a woman, who were riding with Inman, received minor injuries. His machine was traveling north on State street at high speed. He attempted to make a right turn at Fifteenth street and apparently failed to slow down sufficiently. He roomed at 2036 Lee avenue, Granite City.

Miss Sarah Gekler, 65 years old, a scrubwoman, 1323 (rear) Seventh boulevard, was struck and killed near her home shortly before noon yesterday by an automobile driven by Tony Capitano, 21, 1224 South Broadway.

Capitano told police the woman ran in front of the vehicle as he was driving in Hickory street 30 feet west of the Seventh boulevard intersection. He was held for the Coroner.

Miss Gekler was identified by a woman neighbor, who said she had relatives in Indianapolis.

Merrill, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mesger, 3920 Turner avenue, suffered a skull injury yesterday afternoon when hit by the automobile of John Schweitzer, a contractor, of 3814 North Market street. Schweitzer, who was released on bond, said the boy ran into the path of his machine near Kossuth and Camellia avenues. He took the boy to Christian Hospital.

Mrs. Mollie Stayton, 54, of 2828 Gamble street, suffered a fracture of the right leg yesterday when struck by an automobile at Glasgow avenue and Gamble. The automobile did not stop. She was taken to City Hospital.

Lenten Speaker From Pittsburg.

The Rev. Edwin J. Van Etten, rector of Calvary Church, Pittsburg, Pa., will speak at the Lenten noonday services, at Christ Church Cathedral, Thirteenth and Locust streets, beginning Tuesday. His subject for the week will be "Modern Forces." The Rev. R. D. S. Putney, superintendent of St. Luke's Hospital, will speak at the service tomorrow.

INTERPRETATION OF WILL OF EDWARD MARTIN SOUGHT

Heirs Want to Sell Property at Sixth and Washington Avenue.

Suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by heirs of Edward Martin, who died 34 years ago, for an interpretation of his will. The heirs want to sell property belonging to his estate at the northeast corner of Sixth street and Washington avenue, but because of the terms of his will creating a trust during the life of ony of his seven children the petition states that the trustee desires an order of court authorizing a sale. However, it is believed the right to dispose of the property is given in the will.

Martin left a widow and seven children. The widow and four sons have since died. The suit was filed in the name of Joseph E. Martin, a son, and Agnes M. O'Reilly and Annie M. Martin, daughters. The latter is a trustee. Martin also owned realty at the northeast cornen of Tenth street and Washington avenue, and the southeast corner of Tenth and Lucas avenue. The Sixth and Washington property consists of a five-story building.

FIRE AT WILLIAM AND MARY

Three Outside Departments Called to Fight Flames at College.

By the Associated Press.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., March 15.—Fire starting about 3 o'clock this afternoon in the William Barton Rogers science hall of William and Mary College was brought under control shortly before 6 o'clock after three outside fire departments had been called in for aid. Hundreds of students assisted firemen in their efforts to confine the blaze to the new building and keep them from spreading over the campus of the second oldest college in the United States.

Fire-fighting equipment from Fort Eustis, the United States Naval Mine Depot at Yorktown and Newport News were sent here. Several students suffered blistered feet and were choked by the smoke. Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, president of the college, declined to make an estimate of the damage. Starting in the elevator shaft, the fire spread to the roof, burning it off, but without damaging any of the class rooms or chemical store rooms, except by water.

U. S. Trade Cuts Liquor Prices.

By the Associated Press.

VICTORIA, B. C., March 15.—H. R. Pooley, Attorney-General, told members of the Legislature last night that tourists from the United States had so increased the profits of the British Columbia Government liquor stores that the price would be cut. Canadian consumption of liquor has not increased, Pooley said, but the tourists' consumption from the United States has.

Sees More Orchid Blossoms In Shaw's Garden Than Panama

Superintendent Pring Home From Tropical Station With Rare Specimens After Opening New Field, So Declares.

Superintendent George H. Pring returned from Panama to Shaw's Garden yesterday after opening up a region previously unvisited by orchid collectors and obtaining many species thought to be new, reported to Director Moore, and made straight for the orchid house.

"These," he exclaimed, beaming as he looked over the bank of blooming Flores de Mayo, lady-slipper and butterfly orchids, "are more orchid blossoms than I've seen since I left St. Louis last month.

"And the greenest grass I've seen since last fall is the Washington Bent in the entrance plaza. Everything down there is burnt up. It's the dry season."

Hundreds of orchids, imported by special permit of the Plant Quarantine Board, are following him from Shaw's Garden tropical station at Balboa, Canal Zone. Among them is a species of oncidium, discovered by his companion, Dr. Robert E. Woodson of the garden's scientific staff. It is closely akin to the butterfly orchids at the garden, but apparently a variety previously unknown. Other discoveries of the orchid-hunters cannot be identified until they bloom, and many of them appear to be new varieties.

The Sobralia Powelli.

With them is probably the rarest orchid known—the Sobralia Powelli, discovered by the late Charles W. Powell, who gave his Panama garden and the fruit of his 20 distinguished years of collecting to Shaw's Garden for its tropical station.

Mr. Powell found the Sobralia in the bed of Gatun Lake when the lake was being filled. No other plant has ever been found. Manager A. A. Hunter of the tropical station has contrived to divide the one plant in two, so that now, Pring remarked, the only known specimens will be "in Missouri Botanical Garden, St. Louis—and Missouri Botanical Garden, Panama." The Sobralia, a terrestrial or ground orchid as distinguished from the epiphytes of the treetops, has exceptionally large and showy flowers of a delicate yellow, shaped like Cattleyas, but growing on four-foot stems.

Other discoveries included a new cycad and more than 50 seeds of a brilliant red flowering plant, which Dr. Woodson dissected in the jungle and identified as a member of the Justicia group. It seems suitable for display in St. Louis.

Dr. Woodson familiarized himself with orchid environment, collected tropical woods for anatomical study, gathered material for his already extended study of evolution in vestigial structures of the apocynaceae, the family which includes rubber-yielding plants, and amassed at first hand an amazing—and painful—lot of information about insect pests of the tropics.

Beeswax as Flypaper.

"The natives carry a ball of native beeswax as a substitute for flypaper," he related. "When one feels a tick he dabs at it with the beeswax and pulls it off. As the process goes on the ball grows until it appears to be a solid mass of little wriggling legs."

"We didn't expect to get into the jungle this trip," Pring remarked, "but once down there we couldn't keep away from it.

"My principal business was to inspect progress at the tropical station. And we found a great deal of it to inspect. Everything appeared in the finest possible condition, and many of the plants had grown so that I scarcely recognized them. A tiny chaulmoogra oil (used in treating leprosy) tree that we planted three years ago was 15 feet tall, and Mr. Hunter had engaged in a planting program which makes the garden, always a mecca for botanists, increasingly a place of interest for lay tourists.

"We found, however, that an 18-mile dirt road, rising from sea level to 2000 feet altitude, was just being completed to open up the El Valle region. Here was a new territory within 100 miles of Balboa, where we might expect to find flora similar to the more distant Chiriqui region which has yielded hundreds of orchids for the garden. And that was just what we did find, on several trips of which the first, probably, was the most interesting.

102 Miles in 12 Hours.

"Hunter, Dr. Woodson and I set out at 6 a. m. in the sedan of Adrien M. Bouche Jr., an American electrician of the Canal Zone and an orchid fan from the word go. Near the old seaport of San Carlos we turned on the snake-like, freshly graded road, an interesting but dangerous climb which Bouche drove with reassuring expertness. It was 6 p. m. when we reached El Valle—12 hours for 102 miles—and the doctor on whom we had counted said he couldn't put us up.

"Neither would the native to whom he directed us, until Bouche overwhelmed him with pathos in eloquent Spanish. He showed us the only available sleeping quarters— an adobe hut—and drove out the ducks and chickens to make room for us.

First he escorted us to the 'dining room,' three plam-leaf walls with a thatch roof for shelter from the trade winds, and served a meal of maize bread—not like good old cornbread—a native pea soup that looked like chocolate, rice, and black native coffee with goat's milk. Knowing my appetite, Dr. Woodson dipped to the bottom of the gourd tureen to give me a generous supply of the peas, but the actual result was to give me a great quantity of sand.

"There was something intangibly mystifying about Bouche's manner as he directed the natives to bring two cots to supplement the bamboo bed.

"I've been 20 years in the tropics," said Hunter, courageously. 'I'll take the bed.' He lay down on the bed and Dr. Woodson and I took the cots. 'But where are you going to sleep?' we asked Bouche.

"'Oh, he said—and couldn't abstain from a triumphant grin—"I'll sleep out in the machine."

"Almost Like Home."

"Nothing could exceed the hospitality of the natives, within the limits of what the locality has to offer, but Bouche was wise. The trade wind blew, and the house shook until I thought I was back in the tornado of two years ago. Within 30 minutes the chicken-fleas found us, and from then on they had free access to the fresh meat—Dr. Woodson and me. Hundreds of things seemed to be crawling on my face. I pulled the covers over my head.

"We were up at 5, entertained by the disapproval of the fowl whose sleeping quarters we had taken, and I found that what I had felt on my face was dust, shaken down by the wind from a loft where rice and yuccas were stored. Our host had gone out of his way to have an excellent breakfast for us, and by 6 o'clock, machetes in hand, we were hunting orchids along the headwaters of Rio Anton.

"Fauna was almost as interesting as the flora. Dr. Woodson and I sat down to rest—we had been cutting our way on hands and knees—while Hunter and Bouche, who were used to it, continued the search on the other side of the river.

"'Do you see what I see?' I asked. 'Isn't that a magnificent specimen,' exclaimed the scientist characteristically. Not 100 feet away was a fine black puma. He looked 14 feet long to me, and he probably was eight feet long. Fortunately, the wind was blowing from his direction, so he did not notice us.

"'It's almost,' remarked Dr. Woodson, looking at the powerful beast as he might examine a cross-section frosh from the microtome—'almost like being back home at the Zoo.'" proposition. On the first of June this year I will be able to help you. So, as I know your credit is good where you live, why not get what you want, or rather what you need on credit, and then turn the bills over to me after the first of July? Write me again as soon as you can, and tell me what you think of my proposition.

ARTIST THREATENS LIFE WHEN QUIZZED IN WIFE'S KILLING

"Again, please take care of yourself, you must. As ever yours,
HENRI.

"Your Last Lovely Letter."

"March 21, 1929.

"My dear Lila: I am not trying to find an excuse for not answering your last lovely letter to me but when I get through it will look very much as if I had done so and besides it is a very good excuse. Here it is.

"Ed has been sick for the last two weeks, and I as a good old pal of his, though it would be quite appropriate if I was going to fall sick, too. And so I did but I feel very much better now (same as Ed.) and I am only waiting for a good excuse to break away from the city's worries and come to say hello to you which I hope will be very soon even if I have to walk part way.

"I cannot tell you how much pleased I was to hear about the condition of your lungs. That was good news and you must do everything in your power to get rid of that last sore spot.

"Now for the other part of your letter about ginog out nights ,etc., and so forth. I want to say a few words about this which I hope won't have to be repeated again. I want you to understand once for all that I trust you implicitly. If you feel like going out nights, by all means do so.

"This Is Not Flattery."

"I have your word of honor on one thing and I know you won't break that as long as you live. Well, outside of that you are free to do to a certain extent as you please because I would be a fool if I did not have realized long ago that you are a very rare and exceptional type of Indian girl and this is not flattery but I mean every word I say. On the other hand, it may sound conceited on my part to say that you would have to go quite far to find another man who would appreciate you better or more than I do or could understand you better.

"For instance, why do your people call you proud, stuck-up and so on? Because they don't understand you as I do. Because they can't see why you should be different from them and should be satisfied to do as the majority of them do, and marry the first no-account Indian that happens to want you and a few other things that belong to you.

"They call you proud just because you have better tastes, better ideals than they have. That is why. So do not worry about doing what you please. The main fact is that we undestand each other and we are not children any more. Well, Lila, I think I will close as I have still some fever left and I feel not so good just now.

"I expect to come in a week or so and I will probably stay for a few days if you will let me know soon enough if you need anything from the city, I would bring it along.

"As ever, your H."

"P. S.—Give my regards to Aunty and your father and ask her if she is still angry with me and tell me what I could buy her and bring with me which would make her feel kind toward me, as I want all your people to be friendly with me."

Missed Christmas With Her.

"December 27, 1929.

"My Dear Lila: I am very glad to hear from you and your family. I hope that your father will be all right very soon.

"Now, about this church business, I really don't know what to do. You seem to forget the fact the Rev. B. S. Ferrall is a stranger to me, and to call a perfect stranger on the phone and tell him to come and see me, and then ask his advice about something, seems to me a very impolite thing to do.

"Usually, when people crave advice they go out and beg for it. They do not wait until it is brought to them on a silver platter. However, I am perfectly willing to do the best I can to oblige you which means that I will have to go and see him, if you will only let me have more details about this church-breaking in business. You should not forget that I know very little about it, and outside of asking one question to the Reverend, I would not really know what to talk about.

"I am glad that you would like to go to the big New Year dance. I am ready to come and take you if the roads will only permit it, as I tried to reach you the day before Xmas and had to turn back.

"So far as you are concerned you have guessed right, my health is as good as ever and Bear's, too, and we both join in wishing you and your family a very Happy and Prosperous New Year.

"Your friend,
"H."

The letters are addressed to Miss Lila Jimerson, Box 77, Versailles, N. Y.

The "Ed" referred to in letter 2 is Edward Burmeister, assistant to Marchand at the Museum and boarded in Marchand's home. "Bear" in letter 3 is the Marchand police dog.

$200,000,000 GAS HOLDING COMPANY REPORTED FORMED

Concern Said to Have Been Organized to Unite Louisiana and Texas Firms.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The New York Times tomorrow will say O. R. Seagraves, president of the United Gas Co., and E. G. Diefenbach, president of G. E. Barrett & Co., were reported to have reached an agreement with Electric Bond & Share Co. interests for forming a $220,000,000 holding company to unite Louisiana and Texas natural gas properties having an annual output exceeding 175,000,000,000 cubic feet.

Official announcement of the transaction is expected early next week. The paper says the Standard Oil Co. of New York, P. W. Chapman and Union Utilities interests are understood to be interested in the plan through contributions of important property to the proposed company.

Properties reported to be included in the transaction at the outset were the greater part of the United Gas Co. system, valued at $110,000,000; the Magnolia Gas Co., with assets of $60,000,000; the Louisiana Gas & Fuel Co., the Memphis Natural Gas Co., and possibly the Northern Texas Utilities Co.

INSURGENT MINERS ADOPT CONCILIATORY ATTITUDE

Springfield, Ill., Convention Elects Officers and Asks A. F. of L. Head's Aid in Peace Move.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 15.—Having elected their officers, miners attending the insurgent convention of the United Mine Workers of America today agreed to send a letter to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, asking his aid as an intermediary in arranging another convention, at which an impartial credentials committee would pass on the eligibility of all delegates and exclude all representatives of "dead or inactive unions." This convention, it is proposed, would attempt to bring the opposing factions together in a reorganized union. It was stipulated that, if Green is unwilling or unable to make such arrangements, the new union would continue its fight on John L. Lewis and the parent organization.

Alex Howat of Kansas was elected president, Adolph Germer, Mt. Olive, Ill., vice president, and John H. Walker, secretary-treasurer. Walker thereupon announced his intention to resign as president of the Illinois Federation of Labor to give his full time to his new duties.

The following were selected as a policy committee: William Daeck, Panama, Ill., J. D. Winters, Montana, Ark.; Frank J. Bender, Zanesville, O.; J. P. Agnessen, Centerville, Ia.; Joseph L. Claypool, Indianapolis; Powers Hapgood, Lafayette, Colo.; Arch Helm, Lexington, Mo.; Burchell Baker, Beaver Dam, Ky.; Houston Martin, Dines, Wyo. and Frank T. Keeney of Charleston, W. Va.

NORTH CAROLINAN, 44, DISCUSSED FOR SUPREME COURT

President Hoover Making Inquiries About Judge J. J. Parker of U. S. Appeals Tribunal.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Confronted with numerous recommendations, President Hoover is prepared to consider the selection of a successor to the late Justice Edward T. Sanford of the Supreme Court. With increasing support for Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina, of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, it is understood that the President is making some inquiries about him.

However, receiving additional recommendations daily, Mr. Hoover has given no evidence of reaching a conclusion. He is looking first to the Southland. Justice Sanford was from Tennessee.

Senators Goff, West Virginia, and Goldsborough, Maryland, both Republicans, indorsed Judge Parker to the President today. Congressman Pritchard (Rep.), North Carolina, did likewise, and members of the North Carolina delegation have informed the President of their support for Judge Parker, although they also have proposed Judge Stacy of the State Supreme Court for the position.

Judge Parker a Republican.

Judge Parker is a Republican, as was Justice Sanford. His being only 44 years old has been advanced by his friends as an advantage.

Judge A. S. Van Valkenburgh of the Federal Court of Appeals for the Eighth District was recommended by Senator Patterson (Rep.), Missouri. Henry W. Anderson of Richmond, Va., a member of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission, was proposed by Congressmen Lankford, Garber and Shaffer of Virginia, all Republicans.

Judge Xenophon Hicks of Knoxville, Tenn., a member of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals for the Sixth District, was recommended by Congressman Taylor (Rep.), Tennessee.

Many Others Mentioned.

There are many other prominent names in the President's mind. Among these are John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee of 1924; Newton D. Baker, Cleveland, Secretary of War in the Wilson administration; Judge Curtis D. Wilbur of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals and Secretary of the Navy in the Coolidge administration; Senators Borah, Idaho; George, Georgia, and Walsh of Montana and Judge William S. Kenyon of the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Mr. Hoover is expected to reach an early decision.

West Virginian Expected to Be Named to Bench in Capital.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Edward Maxwell of Clarksburg, W. Va., a Justice of the State Supreme Court, is under serious consideration by President Hoover for appointment to the bench of the District of Columbia Supreme Court. He conferred with the President today.

ROBBED AT FILLING STATION, KIDNAPED, DRIVEN 125 MILES

Two Brothers From Millersville, Cape Girardeau County, Found in Carondelet.

Found wandering in Carondelet early yesterday, two filling station proprietors from Millersville, Mo., in Cape Girardeau County, 125 miles south of St. Louis, told police they had been robbed, kidnaped and driven here.

Two men in a coupe drove up to the station late Friday, bought and paid for 10 gallons of gasoline and then held up Russell Nelson, 19 years old, and his brother, Austin, 17. Russell was robbed of $15 and forced to sit between the robbers. Austin, who had no money, was locked in the rumble seat compartment.

After several miles, Russell protested: "This is far enough, let us out," but the robbers replied they would take the brothers to St. Louis to prevent them from summoning help. Near Stein street and Virginia avenue, the robbers put the brothers out and drove on.

SONG WRITER IN DIVORCE SUIT

N. H. Brown's Wife Says He Is Infatuated With Actress.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 15.—Nacio Herb Brown, song writer, was sued for separate maintenance by his wife, Ruby Porter Brown, in a complaint on file in Superior Court today. She alleged her husband was infatuated with Doris Eaton, actress, and charged Brown with sending her on a trip to Florida while he followed Miss Easton to New York City. The song writer was declared to have an income "in excess of $50,000 a year," of which Mrs. Brown asks for $2500 monthly for the support of herself and 9-year-old son. Mrs. Brown accused her husband of ordering her to get a divorce and inducing her to deed him $90,000 in property which she claimed she inherited from her father.

The complaint stated the couple married April 14, 1920, and separated a few days ago.

MRS. THOMAS COLLINS, 83 TOMORROW, ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Native of County Galway, Ireland, Plans Double Celebration at Her Home.

Mrs. Thomas Collins, who says she is related to "nearly all the Irish in St. Louis," plans to hold a double celebration at her home, 3919 Cleveland avenue, tomorrow. It will not only be St. Patrick's day, but will be her eighty-third birthday anniversary as well.

She was born in County Galway, Ireland, and came to this country when she was 18 years old. For many years she made her home a gathering place for Irish immigrants and Irish-Americans. She is still active and attends services daily at St. Margaret's Catholic Church. Among her close friends have been the late Gov. Hadley, former Govs. Gardner and Major and former Mayor Kiel.

Mrs. Collins had 14 children, seven sons and seven daughters, including four sets of twins. Seven of the children are living. They are Martin J. Collins, president of the Graham Paper Co.; Joseph P. Collins, of the Orchard Paper Co.; Sister Andrea of the Sisters of Charity, Mt. Clemens, Mich.; Miss Sarah and Miss Dena Collins, of the Cleveland avenue address; Mrs. John F. Deveney, 4056 Castleman avenue, and Mrs. Charles E. Seegger, 4436 McDonald avenue.

First Ruling by New Chief Justice.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Chief Justice Hughes yesterday delivered his first opinion since taking his seat on the bench. It ruled upon two cases from Ohio challenging the validity of the State law creating Metropolitan parking districts at Cleveland and Akron, and attacking a section of the Ohio constitution. The decision sustained both the State act and the constitutional provision which had been attacked.

OPENING

If you can postpone the purchase of new slippers for just a while longer . . . we suggest you to await the . . .

OPENING of the
NEW I. MILLER SHOE SALON
823 Locust Street . . March 24th.

FIRST of all, let us assume that you know absolutely nothing of I. Miller—or of I. Miller Beautiful Shoes. Let's start from the beginning and tell the whole story:

Thirty years ago, I. Miller was a custom shoe maker. Because of his talent—because of his flair for color—of his instinctive knowledge of style, most of his slippers adorned the feet of stage celebrities only.

But the little shop that saw so many of the famous characters of the past generation was not to remain unnoticed by the leaders of New York's fashionable society. Protestingly, almost, I. Miller accepted more clients. He was forced to employ and train new craftsmen.

Slowly, perhaps, but none the less surely, the vogue for I. Miller Beautiful Shoes began to grow. Certain models which had proved particularly popular, were created in volume. I. Miller became a manufacturer. His little shop became busy. More craftsmen were employed. And I. Miller himself concentrated his efforts to the development of new styles.

Success in New York brought demands from Washington and Philadelphia. From Baltimore and Chicago. Actresses carried the I. Miller vogue to San Francisco and Hollywood. A hundred other cities began to demand the style, the quality and the fit that only I. Miller could produce.

But today—in spite of the fact that thousands of shoes leave the I. Miller shops every day—in spite of the fact that the institution is international in scope, the same traditions of quality prevail. I. Miller Shoes are more than mere shoes. They are creations of beauty and loveliness. They reflect rare artistry in conception of line and color. They are perfect in execution—exquisite in fit—loyal in wear.

So, if it is at all possible for you to postpone the purchase of new slippers until the opening of the St. Louis I. Miller Shoe Salon, we feel confident that in the beauty of the shoes we shall show you—in the grace of line—in the loveliness of the colors available for Spring—in the cleverness of design—in the faultless styling and in the perfection of fit, you will discover much of the worthiness and character of I. Miller traditions.

TRIBUTE OF 3 NATIONS TO EIELSON AND AID

U. S. Flags Draped About Caskets at Seward—Soviet and Canada Join in Honors.

By the Associated Press.

SEWARD, Alaska, March 15.—Three nations today paid tribute to the memory of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, who lost their lives early in November while trying to fly from Teller, Alaska, to North Cape, Siberia.

American flags were draped over the caskets as they stood in a hall awaiting the arrival tomorrow of the steamer Alaska, which will bear the international funeral party to the United States. Beside each casket stood large floral offerings, bearing the official designs of the Soviet Government of Russia and the Dominion of Canada, placed there by the representatives of those two countries who participated in the long search for the bodies.

After ceremonies and a military funeral in Seattle, Eielson's body will be taken to Hatton, N. D., by his father, Ole Eielson who came North to receive it. Borland's body will be interred in Seattle.

"MAGAZINE COVER GIRL" DIES

Madaleine Maneval Once Known as Highest Paid Artist's Model.

CONNEAUT, O., March 15. — Madaleine Maneval, also known as Ann Cartere and "the magazine cover girl," died here last night at the home of her aunt, Mrs. James Reiner. Miss Maneval had been ill nearly a year and had been living in seclusion. Death came from heart disease.

At one time known as the highest paid artist's model, Miss Maneval's picture had appeared, relatives said, on the cover page of Saturday Evening Post, Red Book, McClure's, American, McCall's, Woman's Home Companion and Cosmopolitan magazines. Among the artists for whom she had posed were Haskell Coffin, Charles Chambers and J. Knoles Hare.

MOSCOW ORDERS VILLAGE OFFICIALS TO END VIOLENCE

Threatens Severe Punishment for All Who Refuse to Relax Attacks on Rich Peasants and Religion.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, March 15.—The Soviet Government, apparently recognizing that some village officials and Communist party workers have been too zealous in their campaign against the rich peasants and against religion, appears to have begun a less drastic campaign in realizing its ultimate goal, Socialism.

A peremptory order has been issued by the Central Committee of the Communist party—the body of supreme power in the Soviet Union—threatening severe punishment and dismissal of all village officials and party members who depart from the Kremlin's new decree.

Relaxation of previous stern methods dealing with the churches, priests, kulaks or rich peasants, and private traders, has created a distinctly better feeling throughout the country and greatly eased anxiety and tension among nonproletarian elements. The order has even revived hopes in some cities and towns that Lenin's famous policy of 1921, which gave a new lease of life to private trade, may be restored in modified form.

Vendors Back On Streets.

Already a thousand peasants, street vendors and small traders who disappeared months ago during the Government's drive against private trade have flocked back to the streets, feeling secure from molestation.

There can be no doubt, foreign observers here say, that a new era in Soviet Russia is at hand, almost as important and decisive in its consequences as the far-reaching economic, political and social policies instituted last year.

These observers say that it is for no fortuitous circumstance that the attitude of the Government in dealing with the church and religion is included in the sweeping new orders respecting the Kremlin's rural policies. They attribute the Government's more lenient attitude toward the church to resistance of the peasants.

Reports of Violence.

The change in attitude regarding the collectivization of farms and drastic attacks on religion is reflected in the newspapers, which every day publish columns of dispatches from villages and towns showing to what extremes Soviet officials have gone in collectivizing the peasants, exterminating the Kulaks and warring upon religion. There are even articles bitterly criticising the authorities responsible for these harsh measures. Already many of these officials have been dismissed or are undergoing trial.

Many instances are cited by the newspapers of ruthless treatment of the peasantry. In a village of the Tompinsky district, no less than 35 per cent of the peasants were dispossessed of their property upon the assertion they were all Kulaks. The newspapers declare the Kulaks themselves helped in this pressure against poor and middle class peasants in order to discredit the whole collective farm movement.

Many other instances are cited of intimidation, threats and false promises to induce the peasants to join collective farms. In many cases peasants abandoned these farms after finding there was no compulsion to remain.

Campaign of Atheists.

The Society of Militant Atheists is preparing for an aggressive anti-Easter campaign and a new assault on religion. It was announced today it had been decided to seek prohibition of the public sale of matzoths and similar food during the Jewish Passover and to prevent the sale during the Christian Easter of such articles as dyes for Easter eggs, special Easter cakes prepared by orthodox Russians and other tokens of Eastertide.

The atheist society also announced its intention of forming 10,000 atheists into "shock brigades" to carry on anti-religion propaganda.

During the Christian and Jewish Easter period there will be at least 4000 anti-religious lectures in Moscow and 10,000 in the provinces. Four motion picture programs, three theatrical troupes and 100 anti-religious brigades will be dispatched to the provinces. Radio loudspeakers will be placed in the streets to transmit anti-religious propaganda to the masses.

PLANS TRANSFER OF PATIENTS FROM THE CITY SANITARIUM

Transfer of patients at City Sanitarium to State institutions to relieve crowded conditions will begin as soon as a survey is completed showing how many may be accommodated, Dr. Curtis Lohr, Hospital Commissioner, said yesterday.

City Sanitarium, built to house 2036 patients, is occupied by 3260, and authorities at the institution have decided to avail themselves of the privilege St. Louis has of sending patients to outside institutions, a right hitherto not exercised. Only patients who have no friends or relatives here will be transferred, Dr. Lohr said. The number to be sent is estimated at 250.

RESTORATION OF BEAR PITS IN FAIRGROUND PARK URGED

North St. Louis Business Men Make Suggestion in Plans for Comfort Station.

Restoration of the exterior appearance of the old bear pits in Fairgrounds Park, which have been a North St. Louis landmark since 1872, by converting them into a shelter yet retaining the design of the original facade, is provided in plans submitted Park Commissioner Pape by the North St. Louis Business Men's Association.

A committee from the association, which is urging the preservation of what it regards as a landmark, learned that the city contemplated erecting a comfort station in the park and took the opportunity to suggest that the pits be utilized and their exterior restored. Commissioner Pape has under consideration a drawing of the project prepared by W. William Wedemeyer, an architect, who is chairman of the Public Improvements Committee of the association and a member of the City Plan Commission.

Commissioner Pape indicated yesterday that he will inspect the pits soon and that if restoration proves feasible he will be inclined to favor the project. About $15,000 has been tentatively allotted for the construction of a comfort station. Work on the station will begin probably this summer.

DE CASTRO BROTHERS GO TO BRITISH HONDURAS, NOT ITALY

Counts Depart From New Orleans on a Banana Freighter as Passport Extensions Expire.

The brothers Ciura de Castro, ordered out of the United States on threat of deportation, have departed, Immigration Inspector Nash was informed yesterday, the date of the expiration of the extension granted on their passports.

However, they did not go to Italy, as they had promised Nash. Instead, he was informed, they departed from New Orleans for British Honduras, aboard a banana freighter.

Count Jose and Marquis Rafael arrived in St. Louis in 1928. Before their departure, they were held in jail for some time because of inability to furnish $500 bond guarantee that they would leave the country when their passport extension expired.

$22 Holdup at Creamery.

The retail department of the Beatrice Creamery, 1700 North Vandeventer avenue, was held up early yesterday by an armed man, who took $22.58.

DEAL FOR CONTROL OF TWO ST. LOUIS INSURANCE FIRMS

Southern Surety and Southern Fire Directors Approve Transfer to New York Interests.

Control of the Southern Surety Co. and the Southern Fire Insurance Co., which have headquarters in the Paul Brown Building would pass to interests associated with the Home Insurance Co. of New York under a plan approved by the directors of the Southern companies, subject to ratification by the stockholders.

Norman R. Moray, president of both Southern companies, is in New York City in connection with the pending deal. In notices received by Southern stockholders last week, the proposal is outlined as follows:

The Southern Surety Co. will increase its present capitalization of 300,000 shares to 600,000. The new shares will be purchased for cash by the Home Fire Security Co., a holding company affiliated with the Home Insurance Co. The price to be paid will be equal to the approximate liquidating value a share after segregation of certain assets, the exact nature of which was not stated in the letters sent to stockholders.

Would Increase Surplus.

Par value of Southern Surety stock will be reduced from $10 to $2.50. The difference will be used to increase the surplus, in order properly to adjust the relation between capital and surplus. This is said to have been made desirable by the fast growth of the company.

The proposal also embraces organization of a new securities company to handle the segregated assets, principally real estate. The securities company would be owned by the present stockholders of Southern Surety, who, on adoption of the plan, would hold one share of Southern Surety, $2.50 par, and one share of the securities company, for each $10 share of Southern Surety now owned. Stockholders will vote on the proposal March 27.

A controlling stock interest in the Southern Fire Insurance Co. would be purchased from the bankers now controlling the company.

Casualty Business Sought.

On completion of the deal, the two Southern companies would operate in harmony with the Home Insurance Co. and its constituent companies, one of the largest groups of the kind in the country. The Home group would have then completed its entry into the casualty insurance field.

No changes affecting the St. Louis offices have been announced. Employing 400 persons, the Southern Surety Co. moved its general offices here from Des Moines, Ia., in 1928. The move was sponsored by Rogers Caldwell, owner of a controlling interest in the Missouri State Life Insurance Co. and a large owner of Southern Surety Co. stock. The Southern Surety reported surplus of $1,700,000, and assets of more than $11,000,000, consisting principally of cash, bonds and stocks. Subsequently the Southern Fire Insurance Co. was organized by the same interests, with $1,000,000 capital and $2,000,000 surplus.

Detroit Man Murders Her as She Sleeps; Jumps Out of Window.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., March 15.—After killing his wife, Amelia, with a razor, as she lay asleep in their home in Dubois street this morning, William Janczyk went to the attic of the house and jumped through a window into the street, killing himself.

Janczyk's three children were asleep in the home. Neighbors said Janczyk was jealous.

$3,000,000 CUT IN CITY BUDGET MUST BE MADE

With Tax Limit Reached Sum Must Be Lopped From $25,605,400 Department Heads Ask For.

About $3,000,000 must be cut from the total of $25,605,400 requested by city department heads as the budget for operation of their departments for the fiscal year 1930-31. This task falls upon the city Board of Estimate and Apportionment, composed of the Mayor, the Comptroller and the President of the Board of Aldermen. The Board of Estimate will submit the budget to the Board of Aldermen in April.

The sum requested by department heads comprises $23,256,603 for maintenance, and $2,348,896 for improvements and equipment. For the fiscal year 1929-30, the total appropriated was $22,276,206, of which $21,285,000 was for maintenance and the balance for improvements and equipment.

As the city will end the current fiscal year, 1929-30, wit ha deficit of $1,085,000, a large part of this deficit must be added to the appropriation list. It is planned to reduce the deficit by at least one-half in 1930-31.

Tax Rate at Legal Maximum.

Increase of the tax rate for municipal purposes is impossible, as it has reached the State constitutional limit of $1.35 on $100 valuation. The total city, State and school tax rate, which is $2.69 for the current year, will be increased to $2.71 or $2.72 for the next fiscal year, the added 2 or 3 cents to go to interest and sinking fund, on public improvement bonds.

Of the total of $23,256,603 for maintenance of department, $15,573,632 is for salaries and wages, and $7,682,978 for materials and supplies. For the last fiscal year, $14,633,218 was appropriated for salaries and wages, and $6,651,800.90 for supplies.

The Police Department, which has not formally presented its budget, is expected to ask for the same amount it asked for last year, $5,450,000. The granting of its request is mandatory. In addition, it will require $625,000 for the police pension fund, which for the current year received $213,961, the fund being legally established for only part of the year.

Improvements Sought.

The principal items in the department heads' list of special purpose accounts for improvements and equipment are:

Construction Moline Creek sewer, $650,000; Skinker-Rosedale sewer, $100,000; Humboldt avenue sewer, $170,000; Bittner street sewer, $100,000; traffic signs, $152,405; sewer inlets, outlets and manholes, $120,000; hospital fund for repairs and extensions, $220,000; legal expenses of opening streets, $50,000; advertising St. Louis, $30,000; equipping municipal elevators with safety devices, $10,000; freight elevator, City Hall, $18,000; steel work, Municipal Bridge, $10,000; painting Municipal Bridge, $52,500; repairing roadway Municipal Bridge, $10,000; addition to and repairing city stables, Vandeventer and Forest Park place, $55,000; aerial trucks, Fire Department, $36,000; four-wheel tractor, Fire Department, $19,000; sirens for engine houses, $21,446; electric refrigerators, Fire Department, $16,000; cable for Fire and Police Telegraph Department, $40,000; painting corridors, City Hall, $25,000; painting interior old Court House, $8300; city's share street improvements, $200,000.

The largest increase in department expenses is for election and registration. The August primary and November election expenses of 1930 will have to come out of the 1930-31 year's funds, while in the year 1929-30 there were no major elections. The appropriation requested is $487,240; last year it was $145,200.

Major Appropriations.

The major appropriations requested this year are:

Board of Aldermen, $81,270; Mayor's office, $41,130; City Plan Commission, $18,373; Efficiency Board, $30,467; Comptroller, $108,338; Assessor, $231,132; Law Department, $97,183; Recorder of Deeds $140,784; Markets, $74,832; Justice of the Peace Courts, $130,200; Circuit Courts, civil division, $172,600; Sheriff, $175,000; President of the Board of Public Service, $619,200; light and buildings, $236,916; lighting streets and alleys, $1,000,000; lighting boulevards and maintenance, $214,558; power plants, $383,847; Director of Streets and Sewers, offices, $103,188; bridge maintenance department, $122,569; bituminous paving section, $389,358; block pavement section, $384,020; telford macadam section, $244,038; refuse collection, $215,612; stable section, street department, $240,044; street cleaning, $680,563; sewer maintenance, $288,830; garbage reduction, $60,000; municipal garage, $133,970; Fire Department, $2,346,843; Fire and Police Telegraph Department, $177,759; Building Commissioner, $208,746; maintenance City Hall and Municipal Courts, $134,630; smoke inspection, $48,904; Health Commissioner, $231,932; sanitary division, $227,627; City Hospital, $777,594; City Infirmary, $148,226; Robert Koch Hospital, $405,895; sanitarium, $734,670; city dispensary, $113,292; Negro Hospital, $203,589; isolation hospital, $140,197; training school for the feeble minded, $198,254; psychiatric clinic, $13,179; maintainng parks and playgrounds, $1,001,843; Bellefontaine Farm for Boys, $133,566; workhouse, $184,280; Board of Children's Guardians, $232,688; firemen's pension fund, $101,000; municipal airport, $23,425.

Most of the institutions are asking considerably more than they received last year, and this will afford to partial index to the cuts to be made. The amount for park and playground maintenance is $203,000 more than the appropriation for the current year. The amount asked for smoke inspection, $48,904, is $29,000 more than appropriated for the current year.

Buy a set of bath towels with what it saves you

On the basis of a tube a month, Listerine Tooth Paste at 25c costs you $3 a year as compared to $6 for dentifrices in the 50c class. That's a clear saving of $3 a year. Buy things you need with it.

Teach her the secret of healthy teeth and economy

This dentifrice saves $3 per year

HERE'S something for young heads and old to remember:

It isn't necessary to pay an extravagant price for a dentifrice, to have lustrous, white teeth and firm, healthy gums.

You can get the same result with Listerine Tooth Paste—and it costs but 25c the large tube.

Knowing that Listerine Tooth Paste is made by the makers of Listerine, you cannot question its quality. Its gentle action, its swift cleansing, its invigorating aftereffects have been acclaimed by nearly million people. They choose it now instead of costly dentifrices that accomplish no more.

Such a tooth paste at such a price is made possible only by extraordinary power to buy raw material, and by mass production—the same system that makes the Ford automobile a shining example of merit at low price. Get a tube of Listerine Tooth Paste today and judge its quality for yourself. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

EXPECTS P. S. CO. TO APPEAL BUS RULING

Muench Says Effort Will Be Made to Force State Board to Take Jurisdiction.

City Counselor Muench said yesterday he expected the Public Service Co. to appeal to the State Supreme Court in its latest effort to have the Missouri Public Service Commission take jurisdiction of its bus operations. The appeal will be from the action of the Public Service Commission last Thursday dismissing the street car company's application for a certificate of convenience and necessity to operate a bus line which would be entirely within the city of St. Louis. The commission ruled it had no jurisdiction.

The company will ask the Supreme Court for a writ of mandamus to compel the commission to take jurisdiction, Muench said. T. E. Francis, general attorney for the Public Service Co., said it was the company's position the commission had authority to regulate bus service in cities as well as elsewhere, but he would not discuss the company's future course in this case. Before the application was filed Muench discussed it with executives of the street car company and it was agreed a test of the law should be made by carrying this case to the Supreme Court.

The effect of State Commission control over the busses would be to enable the company to include all its bus properties in its valuation on the reproduction new basis on which it would be entitled to earn a return of more than 7 per cent, provided it could obtain franchises for their operation. By withholding franchises the city still could retain control and grant permits for bus operation on such terms as it saw fit.

At preesnt all busses in St. Louis, both those of the Public Service Co. and of the Peoples Motorbus Co., operate under permits from the Board of Public Service, which also prescribed the maximum rates of fare and other operating conditions. This is by virtue of the facts that the State Public Service Commission act does not include busses among the utilities over which the commission was given jurisdiction and that the State bus act enacted in 1927 specifically exempts busses operating wholly within a city from the regulatory power granted the commission.

The Public Service Co., however, takes the position the law excluding city busses is not clear and was not intended to apply to busses operated by a street railway as an integral part of its system. The application dismissed was for a permit to operate busses over a route from Florissant and Taylor avenues to Euclid avenue and Page boulevard.

City Counselor Muench said he favored home rule over utilities and thought the city could regulate them better than a State commission not conversant with local conditions. Hence he will oppose surrender of any of the city's present powers to the State commission and would like to see the city, through its Department of Public Utilities, acquire full control over its utilities.

PROTESTS AGAINST REROUTING OF NATURAL BRIDGE CAR LINE

New North Grand Improvement Association Asks Public Service Commission for Hearing.

As its first official business after adopting a permanent organization Thursday night, the new North Grand Improvement Association made a protest to the State Public Service Commission against the rerouting of the Natural Bridge car line, effective today.

The route was changed because of work to be started on the new terminal of the Illinois Terminal System in the vicinity of Lucas avenue and High street. The association objects to the removal of the Natural Bridge line from Spring avenue between Hebert and North Market streets, and from North Market street between Spring and Garrison avenues. The line was changed to follow Hebert, Jefferson and St. Louis avenues in that neighborhood.

The rerouting will cause "untold inconveniences" for car riders between Prairie and Jefferson avenues, the association asserted, and it held that a less radical change might have been made. Referring to the Public Sevice Co.'s statement that the rerouting would "remain for an indefinite period," the association expressed fear that it might become permanent. The organization complained that the first notice of the change was given only a few days ago and it asked for a hearing by the Public Service Commission.

The North Grand Improvement Association, with M. J. Cullinaue as president, is devoted to the district bounded by Easton avenue and Page boulevard on the south and by Natural Bridge, Garrison and Prairie avenues.

Theater Employes Accused of Holdup.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 15.—First degree robbery charges today were filed against Leo A. Wyman, treasurer of the Shubert Theater, James E. Woods, advertising agent for a theatrical company, and Eugene Jones. They are accused of the $6700 holdup of the theater, March 6. All pleaded not guilty. Their bonds were set at $7500 each. Police say Jones confessed the holdup, saying he was aided by Harvey Patton, who he says went to Oklahoma.

YOUR ST. LOUIS

How Well Do You Know It?

Chicago & Alton Railroad

Since 1865 the Chicago & Alton has been a pioneer in the railroad world. The Chicago & Alton has fostered and aided greatly in the development of many of the improvements now in use by all railroads. Chief among these comfort features we find dining cars, which were introduced by this road. The first Pullman car was constructed in the C. & A. shops. The C. & A. was the first to give additional comfort to their chair car passengers by introducing the reclining chair.

The "Alton Limited," running between St. Louis and Chicago, is often called "The World's Most Beautiful Train." This train is one of a big family of 12 DeLuxe (No Extra Fare) Trains between St. Louis and Chicago. Six trains daily each way. The C. & A. was foremost in the adoption of the bedroom car and was first to install radio out of St. Louis. The C. & A. is always among the first to adopt new equipment that will add to modern comfort and make traveling easy and convenient.

The C. & A.'s success can be attributed directly to the prosperity of this section of the country. As St. Louis has prospered the C. & A. has grown. From the day that rails displaced the river as means for conveyance of freight the C. & A. has stood supreme in quality of service rendered to St. Louis shippers.

Follow the series—it directs your attention to the institutions which are responsible for the growth and progress of St. Louis.

Woman's Sentence Suspended.

By the Associated Press.

CLARKSDALE, Miss., March 15.—A 90-day jail sentence given Mrs. K. A. Carney, wife of a Clarksdale attorney, when she was convicted last week of beating her husband's stenographer, Miss Mae Ross, was suspended today by Judge W. A. Alcorn. He ruled, however, that a $500 fine should stand. Miss Ross, 22 years old, testified at the trial that Mrs. Carney, 53, struck her in the face, breaking her nose, when she sought to explain an automobile ride with her employer. The girl testified she had been asked by Carney to go to his office to complete some stenographic work.

Largest Submarine Launched.

By the Associated Press.

MARE ISLAND, Cal., March 15.—The V-6, newest and largest submarine of the United States Navy, slid from the ways at the navy yards here at 1:45 p. m. today with Gov. C. C. Young among the several thousand spectators. Curtis D. Wilbur, former Secretary of the Navy, who signed the contract for the submarine's construction in 1926, was among those witnessing the launching. The diver was christened by Jeanne Keesling, 16-year-old San Francisco High School girl, the daughter of Attorney Francis D. Keesling, friend of President Hoover. She broke a bottle of cider against the bow.

Sir Robert Harvey Dies at 82.

TOTNES, Devon, England, March 15.—Death of Sir Robert Harvey, 82 years old, who for many years was connected with mining of nitrate in Bolivia, Peru and Chile, was announced today.

HALTS HEARING ON INSURANCE AGENTS' DISPUTE

J. F. Holland to Lay Evidence of Alleged Unethical Practices Before State Superintendent.

Joseph F. Holland, State Deputy Insurance Superintendent, yesterday afternoon summarily adjourned a hearing on alleged unethical practices in insurance salesmanship, complained of by rival groups of life insurance general agents in St. Louis, and returned to Jefferson City to lay evidence taken during the past few days before Insurance Superintendent Thompson. The superintendent will determine from the evidence whether there is a basis for further hearings on the question of the propriety of licensing the agents who are under inquiry.

The Insurance Department took cognizance of the agents' controversy in St. Louis when a committee of general agents nearly a year ago filed a complaint against James P. Sullivan, then general agent of the Lincoln National Life Insurance Co., of Fort Wayne, Ind., Ray P. Prewitt and Lewis B. Tebbetts, accusing them of "twisting" an insurance term for an attempt by an agent to induce a policyholder in one or more companies, to surrender all his insurance policies, obtain the cash surrender value, and purchase in the agent's company other insurance to replace it.

Misrepresentation Charged.

Following the action of the committee of general agents, Sullivan filed a complaint against Stratford Lee Morton, general agent of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., and Flavel L. Wright, general agent of the Northwestern Life Insurance Co., accusing them of attempting to sell insurance to Sullivan's prospect by misrepresenting the policy Sullivan sought to sell.

Under the Missouri law no person may be an insurance agent unless he has obtained a license from the State Department. An agent's license may be revoked by the Superintendent for cause, or an application for license may be rejected for cause. Accusations of unethical conduct have been considered grounds for action by the State Department.

In an effort to arrive at the facts of the St. Louis situation, Holland called a public hearing at the Jefferson Hotel for Friday morning. Sullivan presented his accusations against Morton and Wright and testimony was taken on them. Morton offered testimony by which he sought to show that a policy Sullivan sold, known as the "emancipator" policy, did not conform to Sullivan's representations to prospects. Sullivan's complaint was based on statements by Morton to the same effect in a letter. Sullivan's complaint against Wright was that he had circulated a letter written by the actuary of the Northwestern company, and containing statements to the same general effect as those in Morton's letter.

Accuser Must File Affidavit.

With these cases heard and taken under advisement, Holland called upon Morton to file his detailed complaint against Sullivan, Prewitt and Tebbetts in the form of an affidavit. This Morton refused to do, his attorney, George B. Logan, contending that there was nothing in the Missouri law which required the filing of formal charges under oath. He insisted it was the duty of the Insurance Superintendent to act in such cases on information furnished him, and that the informants should not be required to assume the position of prosecutors.

Logan presented to Holland a form of citation on Sullivan, Prewitt and Tebbetts, containing the details of the complaint, with the evident purpose of seeking to have the department act as of its own motion to cite them to show cause why renewal of their licenses, which expired March 1, should not be denied.

Holland refused to proceed in the absence of formal allegations, informing all the parties that the hearing was adjourned, and that the whole matter would be laid before Superintendent Thompson for such action as he deemed advisable. Sullivan, Prewitt and Tebbetts, who have not been informed officially of the details of the complaints, were told that all the records of the Insurance Department would be open to their inspection Monday.

Alleges Discrimination.

Sullivan brought out at the hearing that the department had renewed the licenses of Morton and Wright notwithstanding that complaints against them were on file, and had withheld renewal of his and Prewitt's licenses because complaints against them were on file. Holland offered no explanation of the department's action in this respect, but assured Sullivan that it was the purpose of the superintendent to pass upon the cases at the earliest possible time.

Although there was no formal hearing on the complaint against Sullivan, he was able to get into the record of the general hearing his contention that the "emancipator" policy was as he had represented it to be, and that his salesmanship methods conformed to the ethics of the insurance business.

IN Java the natives are gathering Cinchona bark. In Sicily they are extracting Oil of Lemon. In Zanzibar they are filling monkey skins with Aloes. In Chile, kegs of Iodine . . . in Honduras, leaden boxes of Sarsaparilla root . . .

All are bound for the shelves of the independent druggist, around the corner from your home or downtown near your office. Each is a component part of the vast storehouse of 5,000 drugs which your doctor can draw on at a few minutes' notice, certain that the independent druggist will fill the prescription accurately and faithfully.

Because the independent druggist owns his store, he has an owner's interest in serving you better. Because he is an individual owner, his service is interested, human, and sincere. The McKesson Symbol helps you identify the independent drug store with newer merchandise and better values.

CONVICTION REVERSED IN U. S. LIQUOR CASE

Court Holds Circumstantial Evidence Must Be "Inconsistent With Innocense."

"Testimony which is wholly circumstantial must not only be consistent with the guilt of the defendant but inconsistent with his innocence," the United States Circuit Court of Appeals held yesterday in reversing a conviction in a Kansas City liquor case.

The case was that of Philip Spalitto, sentenced to two years in the penitentiary and fined $3000 by Federal Judge Reeves last March for setting up and operating a still without bond and with the intention of defrauding the Government of tax on spirits. The appeal was heard here in December.

The Appellate Court found that on the date before the search of the premises, a Negro boy was seen rolling an empty barrel to Spalitto's door; that prohibition agents had seen evidence of a leak in the ceiling of Spalitto's building and presumed the leakage to be mash; that the gas bills had been higher during the few months preceding this observation than before, and that though Spalitto owned the building, the upper rooms were rented to a woman and had not been in Spalitto's possession for some time.

The court held that "where circumstantial or presumptive evidence is allowed to prevail, even to the convicting of an offender, still the circumstances themselves must be proved not presumed." The decision held that Judge Reeves, in charging the jury, had presumed that it was a mash barrel that the investigators had seen taken into the house.

Circuit Judge Gardener wrote the decision. Circuit Judge Van Valkenburgh and District Judge Munger concurred.

SUIT AGAINST CLAUDIUS HUSTON DISMISSED BY U. S. COURT

Chairman of G. O. P. National Committee Was Made Co-Defendant in Claims for $900,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The Federal District Court today dismissed the complaint of E. H. Price & Co., Florida real estate operators, against Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican National Committee, in an action recently brought against the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers for $900,000 commissions in connection with the brotherhood's land development at Venice, Fla.

The suit involved the brotherhood's 50,000-acre development in Sarasota County, Fla., known as Venice City. Huston was accused of having been guilty of unethical practices in connection with the development.

Huston's attorney said Huston's connection with the brotherhood was that of a business expert in reorganizing its affairs.

New Recipe for Coloring Gray Hair

By LOIS PAGE

One of the questions most frequently asked me is: "What shall I do for my graying hair?" Unhesitatingly I recommend that tried and proven recipe of sage tea and sulphur. A brew of common garden sage with sulphur and alcohol added, makes the best hair restorer I know of.

You can either prepare the mixture yourself at home, or as most people prefer to do, buy it already prepared and ready to use. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is the name of the ready-to-use preparation and since all druggists sell it at 75c a bottle, there is really no need of going to the bother of making it yourself.

You simply moisten a comb or soft brush with it, and draw it through the hair, one strand at a time. One application banishes the gray and one or two more completely restores your gray, faded or streaked hair to its original color. There is no hard, dyed look. The whole effect is one of perfect naturalness. Thousands of men and women use this preparation with no one suspecting it.

You Meet Them

in the movies!

There is a certain fastidiousness which habits of cleanliness cannot achieve alone. The person you sometimes suspect of carelessness may have bathed within the hour. If you are absorbing intestinal toxines, soap and water will not solve the difficulty. Nor will any refreshant neutralize unpleasant vaporings of the body, or the breath, for any length of time.

Nobody is that way by nature. It is a condition that might be corrected. Just a few days are often sufficient to take the unpleasant odor out of perspiration and render one's breath as pure as can be; and this personal cleanliness made permanent. Ask any doctor—or nurse—about Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

You may not know that you emit unpleasant vapors. Try Stuart's Calcium Wafers, and see! If there is any improper elimination in the system, everything will speedily be sweet and clean. Your skin will be less acrid; color improved; this colonic correction even brightens the eyes and gives life to your personality! And you will never need another harsh cathartic from the time you have learned to prevent even semi-constipation by just occasionally taking a tiny calcium wafer.

MAKE THIS TEST

A five-day test should prove to you very conclusively the system's need for Stuart's Calcium Wafers, and the decided benefit from these little wafers. Your druggist has them—the test size for pocket is 10c. Or the family size, 60c.

Healthiest!

"My little daughter is about the healthiest girl I know," says Mrs. H. Mitchellette, 4030 Chouteau Ave. St. Louis. "And I want to give credit where it is due.

"Kathryn was constipated several years ago and I gave her California Fig Syrup. It helped her so wonderfully that I have used it ever since for all her upsets or as a laxative during colds. It has kept her strong, energetic, rugged."

Children suffer when bowels aren't regular. Breath becomes unpleasant, tongue coated, eyes dull. When these symptoms are neglected, biliousness, feverishness, lack of appetite invariably follow.

The first dose of California Fig Syrup relieves these symptoms and activates sluggish bowels. Successive doses help tone and strengthen weak bowels; improve appetite; encourage digestion and assimilation. Try it with a bilious, headachy, constipated child and see how it helps!

The pure vegetable product, endorsed by doctors for 50 years, always bears the name California. So look for it when buying.

ELECTION MAR. 25 MEANS $3,250,000 TO CITY SCHOOLS

If Majority Is Not for Continuing 85-Cent Rate Tax Will Drop to 60 Cents on $100.

HIGHER FIGURE IN EFFECT NINE YEARS

Loss of Revenue Would Cripple Education Seriously, Curtailing Work, Officials Say.

A week from Tuesday the taxpaying voters of St. Louis will decide whether the tax rate of 85 cents on $100 assessed valuation for support of the city's public school system, which has been in effect for the last nine years, shall be retained for the next four years.

If they do not give a majority of "yes" votes at the special election which is confined to this proposal, the rate will revert automatically to 60 cents under the State Constitution and the operation of the schools will be crippled seriously.

The defect of the proposal would mean that the revenue of the Board of Education would be reduced by about $3,250,000 next year and by larger amounts in the succeeding years, as the assessed valuation of the city grows. The Citizens' School Tax Campaign Committee has been saying the loss would be $2,750,000 a year, but city officials think the total assessment on which next year's tax revenue will be based will approximate $1,300,000,000. The 25-cent difference between the 60 and 85-cent rates applied to that figure would mean $3,250,000 difference in income.

Effects of Lower Rate Cited.

School officials have said that failure of the tax proposal would mean that construction of new schools would have to be stopped, class rooms would become overcrowded, adversely affecting child and public health; the vocational educational program would be curtailed, as would the recently expanded junior colleges and the night schools, and summer schools and summer playgrounds would be closed. It has been intimated that teachers' salaries might have to be cut. School income, rising steadily, as have the needs, has reached about $11,000,000 a year.

The polling places in the 670 precincts will be open from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m., March 25, for the special election. There are 348,951 registered voters in the city, not all of whom are taxpayers, but it is not regarded as likely that more than one-fifth of them will vote, in spite of the intensive campaign. Supporters of the movement have found no organized or general opposition to retaining the 85-cent rate and are afraid only of apathy as a cause of defeat. About 1600 persons who had moved since the last registration, Feb. 14, 1929, had their names transferred on the poll books in a three-day period ending yesterday.

Majority in Every Ward in 1926.

In the last previous school tax election, March 23, 1926, the vote was 49,322 in favor of retaining the 85-cent rate and only 5070 against it, out of a registration of 301,127. The favorable majority was large in every ward. Just one precinct showed a majority against the proposal, and that was only four votes.

For purposes of this election, the definition of a taxpayer is one who pays geeral State and city taxes on real or personal property, or a State income tax or a merchant's or manufacturer's tax. This includes considerably more than 200,000 voters, officials think, but there is no method of determining exactly how many. The voter does not have to produce evidence that he is a taxpayer, and most persons who go to the polls will not be questioned or put to any formality. Precinct officials may require the voter to take oath that he or she is a taxpayer if there is a challenge or upon suspicion, but in the absence of evidence to the contrary the voter's statement under oath will be sufficient proof. Registration is an essential qualification.

To Cost About $35,000.

The election will cost the city about $35,000.

On the ballot the proposition will read: "Shall the rate of taxation for school purposes for each of the next ensuing four years in the school district comprising the city of St. Louis be increased from 60 cents on the $100 valuation of property to 85 cents on such $100 valuation?" A footnote will explain that the 1926 election authorized the 85-cent rate for the last four years, so that this is not really an increase. The words "yes" and "no" will be on the ballot, and the voter who approves the proposition will scratch "no."

All the public schools arranged to have "open house" some evening preceding the election, to show the people what the schools are doing and to present entertainment and talks in support of the 85-cent rate. A number of the schools held such affairs last week, and the rest will have them this week.

GETS MEDAL FOR LIFESAVING

Adrain Younglove Treated Man Overcome by Gas.

The McCarter medal of the American Gas Association for lifesaving was awarded Friday night to Adrain Younglove, 3332 Folsom avenue, a foreman for the Laclede Gas Light Co., who saved the life of Lawrence J. Kennedy, 1803 Rutger street, overcome by gas on Oct. 9, 1929. Presentation of the medal and certificate was made at a meeting of the St. Louis Safety Council at Soldan High School.

Younglove was working with two other gas company employes near 4725 South Broadway when he heard cries of help from Mrs. Katherine Landis, of that address, whose father had been overcome while connecting a gas range at her home. He applied first aid to Kennedy until an inhalator arrived.

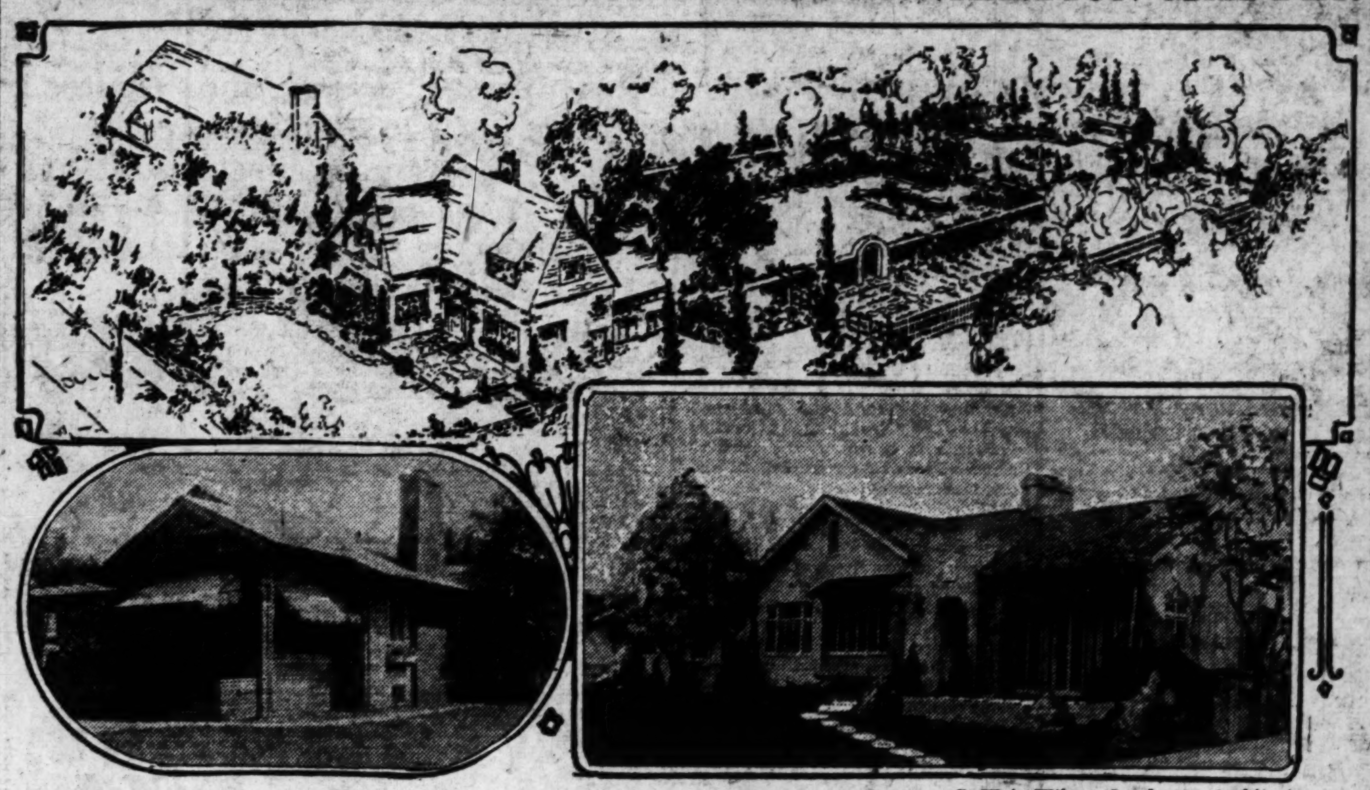
LANDSCAPING AN IMPORTANT MODERNIZATION MATTER



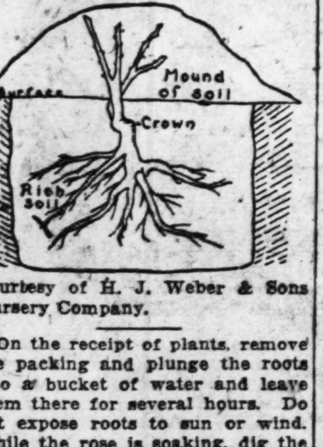
G. Weir Wilson, Landscape Architect.

These Views Show How Important Landscaping Affects the Surroundings of the Modernized Home

HARDY ROSES GIVE COLOR TO A GARDEN

Success With These Flowers Depends Largely on Proper Planting.

Diagram shows how roses should be planted.



Courtesy of H. J. Weber & Sons Nursery Company.

On the receipt of plants, remove the packing and plunge the roots into a bucket of water and leave them there for several hours. Do not expose roots to sun or wind. While the rose is soaking, dig the hole for it in the richest and best drained ground that you have. Make it large enough to hold all the roots without crowding or bending. Then using a sharp knife, cut back any broken or bruised roots, leaving clean cuts at the ends. Cut the tops back so that not more than four or five buds or "eyes" remain on a stem. This is very important. Then remove entirely all but three or four of the strongest shoots or canes.

Set the plant in the hole and spread the roots carefully. The rose should be planted two or three inches (no deeper) than the crown from which the canes arise. Fill in around the roots with loose top soil (do not use manure) until the hole is about half full, then tamp with foot to hold plant in position. Fill the hole with water and after it has seeped away, finish filling the hole with soil and step tight with foot.

Draw a mound of soil clear up over the tops of the canes and leave it there until the new growth comes through, after which the mound of soil should gradually be removed.

For fall planting, follow the same instructions, only do not prune the tops so heavily and cover the mound with straw or litter. In the spring remove soil and cut the tops back to four to six buds.

When planting pot roses in spring, the soil about the roots should not be disturbed, but set in hole very carefully, packing soil around plant to hold in place. Then give enough water to settle soil, after which you fill in balance of soil and step tight.

WELL KEPT LAWN REFLECTS THE OWNER'S CIVIC PRIDE

Beautiful Private Grounds Always Focus Attention of Passers-By.

Home owners can help make their city a better place in which to live, by improving the home grounds.

We often see an elegant house that lacks the final touch to change it into a "home." Landscape planting is the frame of the picture; the artistic setting: that final touch that changes a house to a home.

As a background or a frame to the picture which is to be created, shrubs or trees are indispensable. The idea being to have the surroundings harmonize so that the impression will be comfortable and homelike.

Landscaping Is Final Touch Which Completes the Home

Embellishing the Modernized Home Place With Trees, Shrubs and Vines, Is the Finishing Touch to the Picture.

A home owner who has modernized his home and the man who contemplates modernization must use landscaping as the final touch which completes the picture.

Even the house that was built last year or a few years before may be in need of a proper environment to set it off properly.

Even the house with all of the latest architectural style has a raw and unfinished look if the landscaping is neglected. The lawn may be green and well trimmed, it may be level and rolled, but landscaping will improve the appearance of the dwelling 100 per cent, when the landscaping plans have been carried out.

The home owner who is going to do a thorough job of landscaping his grounds will work from a plan. He will plot out his work in advance so that his efforts will be concentrated and direct.

If possible, call in a landscape architect to aid in the plans. The fees charged by these experts are not high, although their extensive work on large estates and real estate developments has given the average man the idea that they are a luxury which he cannot enjoy.

If no landscape architect is available, doubtless a salesman for a nursery concern will give his advice in return for orders.

But whatever the source of information, work by a plan. Know what you are striving to accomplish before setting out shrubbery and flower beds.

The Importance of the Lawn.

After the lot is rolled so that it is level and ready for planting, sow grass seed if the lawn is in bad condition. A stretch of velvety lawn is just the first step in the plan.

Next comes the planting of shrubbery and hedges. A low, trimmed hedge along the public sidewalk and the boundary lines of the lot, defines the limits of the property and holds the lawn together, artistically speaking.

Well massed shrubbery may be set at angles in the shrubbery to soften the abrupt change in line. Near the house additional shrubbery should be used to conceal the foundation of the dwelling. Flower beds are often set near the house for the same purpose.

The lawn should be kept clear of shrubbery as a lawn broken by beds does not have that clear sweep which emphasizes its spaciousness.

Trellis work, arbors and ladders are used to train vines and taller shrubbery. Vines are often trained against the side of the house to relieve the bareness of the walls. They aid in giving the home a cozy, comfortable atmosphere.

DESIGNING THE HOME GROUNDS

By G. WEIR WILSON.

The fact that the space is limited on the average home grounds is no reason that an attractive development cannot be achieved nor is a place so small that it would be foolish to consult with a landscape architect in the arrangement, as often problems of this nature tax the ingenuity of the most capable designers, however one should not become discoraged as after a few years of observation persons become quite intimate with the art of gardening. People are begining more and more to realize that attractive surroundings mean a great deal to the domestic welfare in the home not to mention the influence and property value to the community.

The paramount essential in all home developments is first to plan the arrangement of the grounds preferably when the residence is being planned, not in a detailed but in a general way. When the design is finally determined the thing to do is to keep working to the design as one is not expected to complete the development immediately after the house is finished considering the building and interior expenditures, but always keep in mind that no matter how small the yearly budget is for this work, eventually, with a vision of the completed picture, you will have something to be justly proud of.

The above sketch might tend to inspire readers to give some thought to the posibilities of their grounds. This development of course could not be adapted to all locations but it can be adjusted to any lot having a three to one proportion. The excavation from the cellar could be distributed in front and rear of the lot with a dry retaining wall bordering the sidewalk and driveway thus eliminating the proverbal grass terrace and giving more space between the house and street and certainly it is a more interesting setting. A dry wall preferably a weathered stone with soil joints about two inches thick and plants such as myrtle or moneywort planted between the stones as the wall is laid up. The foundation planting in front of the house should have a very simple treatment, only a few accent plants well placed and not cluttered up with inharmonious textures, for example, a mixture of spruces, pines and cedars that one sees so often. If evergreens are used at all, the varieties of junipers with perhaps a few non-rampant shrubs interspersed makes the most attractive planting. It is always a good plan to let the house be visible entirely to the ground in several places.

PAINT IS ONE OF THE GREAT MODERNIZATION AGENCIES

for the finishing of woodwork; either as a part of the wall, or as a part of the furniture.

The former is, in most cases, preferable. As a part of the wall it should be a shade or two darker of the same color as the wall. This insures harmony and good taste, and gives that restful effect of space so much to be desired.

In the second method, the woodwork takes the color of the furniture, or, perhaps, only the doors and permanent furniture are given the furniture color, while baseboards, cornices and "standing trim" have the wall color.

This method may be successfully used in large rooms, or in rooms that have a relatively small amount of woodwork, so that it does not distract the attention from the sum total of the room.

FORMAL GARDENS BEAUTIFY A HOME

Charming Flowers and Plants Are Sources of Genuine Family Pleasure.

Thousands of home owners are planning this spring to make their homes and surroundings more beautiful and more enjoyable by planting a garden.

Gardening, landscaping, the growing and care of flowers, interior and exterior beautification—all of these help to make the ideal home. For the gardened home has become an American ideal—a fascinating interest of home loving people.

The growing and care of flowers provide enjoyment and recreation. Flowers beautify the home and certainly go a long way toward making life more worth while.

Usually the flower gardens are placed at the side or rear of the house. They should be so located that a pleasant view of them can be obtained from the windows of the house. Often they are located with reference to the living room or a sun porch. These flower gardens may be formal or otherwise, depending on the attitude of the owner.

The kitchen garden is always placed at the rear of the lot because of its utilitarian nature. This garden may be extensive, but often is small.

A pergola has a decorative value and will aid in giving the house a more low and clinging appearance. Vines may be trained over the pergola. The old-fashioned grape arbor still has an important place in the landscape plans of the man with a spacious lot.

Rocky Pools.

A small informal pool is always delightful and creates a most charming vista. The pool is usually constructed with a concrete bottom, rocks being placed around the sides to emphasize its informal atmosphere.

Sometimes the concrete pond is rectangular in shape, a narrow walk being constructed around the edge. A fountain may be placed in the center to supply fresh water.

These rock pools and more formal concrete pools and ponds often contain water lilies and other aquatic plants. Gold fishes in the pools will prevent mosquitos from breeding.

MODERN FLOWER GARDENS

Spring of the Year Best Time to Remodel Home Garden.

When making a garden in a cool, quiet, shady spot, perhaps with a pool or slowly running brook, think of quiet, restful colors, with green shades predominating, possibly with a single color note of deep yellow or orange.

And does not a garden with phlox, peonies, in their pure white, pink or red colors, in beds with box edgings, the colors and flowers laid in a delicate pattern, recall the old-fashioned garden atmosphere so much desired in our modern days? The blue shades of tall, stately larkspur, intermingled with pink or white lilies, orange and yellow day-lilies and other flowers of brilliant color in masses suggests a garden covering a large area.

A Safeguard to Health.

The plumbing and plumbing system of a house is one of the most important adjuncts as the health of the family is jeopardized by faulty and worn out [illegible] ver and water pipes. When remodeling a home or purchasing a house already built, look after the plumbing. Examine the entire system thoroughly to see that it is up to par. Don't pass it by with a casual inspection but give it a careful examination.

DENTAL INSURANCE SYSTEM DESCRIBED

London Specialist Describes "Panel" Method to Care for the Poor.

Members of the St. Louis Dental Society, meeting last night at Hotel Statler, were told that economic changes within the next 25 years might reduce the practice of dentistry to the status of a trade, unless dentists prepared to assume the responsibilities of their profession.

Dr. F. N. Doubleday of London and Dr. Herbert E. Phillips of Chicago, chairman of the economics committee of the American Dental Association were the speakers.

Dr. Doubleday explained the workings of "panel" dentistry, which operates under the Health Insurance Act in England to supply dental care to the masses who could not otherwise afford it. Under this system dental care may be provided through the insurance available to workers, the cost of which is shared by employers and the Government.

"Panel" dentistry is so called because dentists who practice it are required to register with the insurance associations, the list of registered dentists being known as a panel. Fees and standards of work are fixed by Government committees, and friction has developed because of conflicts in the opinions of laymen and the practicing dentists.

Dr. Phillips estimated that only 25 per cent of the population of the United States had regular dental care. The profession must realize an obligation to supply its services to the other 75 per cent, many of whom were unable to pay for it, he said.

"The dental profession must take the lead in seeking a solution of the problem of supplying its service to all, or a system will be worked out by the Government so that dentists will have to operate under its regulations," Dr. Phillips said. He suggested that the proper remedy would be found in some form of universal insurance.

ILLINOIS PASTOR ARRAIGNED FOR SHOOTING; CAN'T GIVE BOND

The Rev. James A. Wilson, Mendota, Held for Attack on Janitor and Wife.

OTTAWA, Ill., March 15.—The Rev. James A. Wilson, 60 years old, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Mendota, was arraigned in Circuit Court today on two charges of assault with intent to kill. He was indicted for shooting Amos Elliott, the janitor of his chruch, and the latter's wife, Mrs. Wilhelmina Elliott, over a letter which the minister had writen to a woman member of his congregation and which was in the hands of the Elliotts.

Wilson was not represented by an attorney, but told the Court he intended to hire a lawyer. He entered neither a plea of innocence nor guilt and, after being formally served with the indictments, he was returned to the county jail where he has been held since January, unable to make $30,000 bond.

The janitor, suffering from a bullet wound below the heart, is still confined to his bed, but his wife has recovered.

The letter over which the shooting occurred was addressed to Mrs. Emma K. Wagner, asking her forgiveness for an unnamed offense. Learning that it was in the possession of the Elliotts, Wilson went to their home to demand its return. His congregation voted to continue his salary during his imprisonment.

$7000 JUDGMENTS AWARDED OVER AUTO CRASH IN 1919

Mrs. Lottie Gassei and Another Sued Owner of Truck, Who Failed to Appear.

Default judgments totaling $7000 were rendered by Circuit Judge Hartman yesterday against Edward G. Mittrucker in favor of Mrs. Lottie Gassei, 4428 Lee avenue, and John W. Van Geenen, 1410A Hebert street, for injuries suffered in a motor vehicle accident nearly 11 years ago. The judgment in each case was for $3500.

It was alleged that Mrs. Gassei and Van Geenen, with 30 others, were in a truck May 18, 1919, when the truck collided with an automobile. According to the claimants the truck chauffeur was laughing and talking with passengers when the accident occurred and failed to pay attention to other traffic.

The suits naming Mittruck, were filed soon after the accident but were delayed because of technical and other reasons. When they were finally set the defendant failed to appear for trial. He was sued as the owner of the truck, having rented it to the outing party. It was driven by an employe. The collision occurred near 10,800 Riverview drive.

U. S. ART SHOWN IN SWEDEN

STOCKHOLM, March 15.—The American art exhibition at the Academy of Art was officially opened today by the Minister of Education, Prof. Claes Lindskog, in the presence of the Crown Prince Eugene, diplomats and painters.

"American art as we meet it here," said Prof. Lindskog, "is rich and free from sometimes too heavy traditions full of powerful ideas of proud and original culture. I am sure that the exhibition will give our Swedish art a strong impulse. Sweden is grateful to be the first State of Europe to receive an American art exhibition of such high standing."

ANOTHER FORD GIFT TO SCHOOL

$250,000 Dormitory for Mountain Girls at Mount Berry, Ga.

By the Associated Press.

MOUNT BERRY, Ga., March 15.—Construction of an additional building in the Berry Schools' Ford unit, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford, was announced today by Miss Martha Berry, director and founder of the school for mountain boys and girls. It is estimated the cost of the dormitory will be $250,000. Ford has agreed to give that sum or any additional sum required to complete the building.

The new unit, a dormitory for the girls' school, is the second built by the Fords and further plans of the automobile manufacturer and his wife call for the construction of more quarters for the girls, Miss Berry said in her announcement.

Discoverer of New Planet Got First Telescope at 9

Clyde Tombaugh's Father, Kansas Farmer, Interested Him in Astronomy With Homemade Instrument.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LARNED, Kan., March 15.—With an education in astronomy gained under difficulties, Clyde W. Tombaugh, 24 years old, born and reared on his father's farm in Pawnee County, northeast of Burdett, has participated in what his associates at the Lowell Observatory in Flagstaff, Ariz., call the greatest astronomical achievement since the discovery of Neptune in 1846.

With fingers and eyes carefully trained by more than 12 years of intensive, lonely work with homemade telescopes in his father's farm-yard, he was able to get results from the big 13-inch special photographic telescope equipped with refractor type lenses. His father and mother are Mr. and Mrs. Muron B. Tombaugh, who always have fostered his leaning toward astronomy. He is the eldest of six children.

Working on the theory expounded by the late Dr. Percival Lowell, founder of the Lowell Observatory, years ago, that a planet at least as large as the earth was in existence, Tombaugh made his discovery. The young astronomer became connected with the Lowell Observatory in January, 1929. He furnished drawings and other data taken from his observations at the eyepieces of his home-made instruments proving to the satisfaction of the observatory executives that he was the man they wanted to search for the unknown planet, according to his father.

Father Interested in Astronomy.

His first interest in astronomy was born of a somewhat cursory interest in the subject shown by his father. His father and his uncle, L. M. Tombaugh, of Streator, Ill., constructed about 35 years ago a small telescope, fitted with a lens magnifying to 10 diameters procured from a magazine. With it they gazed at the heavens for endless enjoyable hours. Before they always had derived keen pleasure from merely making casual observations with the naked eye and comparing them, but with the construction of the new telescope their interest rapidly increased. While they stayed at the old family home in Streator they continued to use it.

Later, when Mr. and Mrs. Tombaugh moved to Pawnee County, he brought with him an astronomical knowledge which caught his son's interest when the boy was no more than 9. He gave his son the telescope he and his brother had used.

Clyde's interest increased rapidly. He wanted to build a telescope of his own. While the other boys of the rural neighborhood were at play he would spend hours in his room studying works by noted astronomers and absorbing as much of them as he could. He would go around with the words of a formula on his lips and frequently was called a fool by his schoolmates.

Made Telescope at 20.

He made his first telescope when he was only 20 years old. It had an 8-inch reflector and was in the shape of a long square box. Its construction took two months of hard painstaking work. It magnified to 100 diameters. With it he studied the bands of Jupiter and also trained it on the moon for hours at a time.

He constructed a slightly smaller telescope the next year for his uncle in Streator, grinding and polishing the lenses as before. He made this one with a 7-inch reflector. When it was completed it would magnify clearly to 150 diamaters, according to his father. This telescope was equipped with a polar axis mounting so that the north star could be observed without continually making changes in the directing apparatus.

The next year the desire to make a bigger and better instrument gripped him and he constructed a telescope with a 9-inch reflector, which would bring the heavens to him 300 times nearer. It was fitted with special eye pieces and with this he spent many hours making observations, later to draw his own conclusions as to what was going on above. It was these conclusions that won for him his place with eminent men in the astronomical profession.

Remembers Discouragements.

His father and mother and sisters and brothers together with the whole country side are proud of him. His own family remembers only too well the many discouragements he had to meet.

They recall how he felt after having spent hours in grinding and polishing a lens when his funds were slender, to have it broken in some accident; but he just set to work and made another.

His mother is a kindly little Kansas farm woman. There is nothing ostentatious about her, and when she speaks of him it is with a quiet pride. She has watched him through the years of study and observation, and fostered his inclination wherever and whenever she could.

Giving an interesting sidelight on his work in the observatory, she quoted from a recent letter:

"My consolation slogan used to be 'the longest night has an end.' Now-a-days, it should be 'the longest exposure has an end.'"

'PRINCESS' HELD FOR ROBBERY OF ARTISTS

With Common-Law Husband, Terecita Ferguson Is Bound Over at Taos, N. M.

By the Associated Press.

TAOS, N. M., March 15.—Terecita Ferguson and her common law husband, Carmel Duran, were bound over to the District Court tonight after a preliminary hearing on charges of committing a series of robberies, including the looting of the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Younghunter, New York artists.

J. H. Crist, attorney for the defendants, attempted to show several of the articles Mr. and Mrs. Younghunter identified as stolen from their studio home were the property of A. R. Manby, 69 years old, who was found dead in his home last July. The head had been severed from the body.

Miss Ferguson was released on $1800 bond and Duran sought to make bond of $5100.

During his lifetime Manby was closely associated with Miss Ferguson, whom he called "The Princess Terecita."

Duran and Miss Ferguson also were charged today with the robbery of the home of Miss Felix Archuleta, in Taos. George Ferguson, Miss Ferguson's nephew, who also is charged with the robberies, waived preliminary hearing.

Gets Life for Murder of Wife.

By the Associated Press.

MARYVILLE, Mo., March 15.—Charles D. Dimmick, St. Joseph draftsman, was convicted of a first degree murder charge for the killing of his wife by a jury in circuit court here tonight and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Thinks Cold on New Planet Would Solidify Oxygen.

CHICAGO, March, 15.—Concerning the new planet, Prof. George van Biesbroeck of the Yerkes Observatory at Williams Bay, Wis., believes the sun's rays on the ninth sphere of the solar system are dimmer than moonbeams.

"It is probably so cold that oxygen would be a dense solid," the astronomer said, "for the newly-found astral body gets only about one two-thousandth as much sunlight and heat as the earth."

Yet the new planet observed and photographed by the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., has given rise to the same speculation upon life possibilities as have arisen in the case of the planet Mars.

"Of course, we like to toy with the thought that maybe on this new planet astronomers are peering through telescopes at our planet through 4,000,000,000 miles of space, just as the Lowell astronomers looked at theirs," Van Biesbroeck said. "But if there is any form of life on the new planet we can be sure it is totally different from that on the earth because of the extreme cold and lack of life-giving sunlight."

Since the distant spheroid was picked out of the sky last Tuesday, the moon has been so brilliant as to make impossible any effort to protograph it at the Yerkes Observatory, the astronomer said. By tonight, however, the fullness of the moon is expected to be passed and the University of Chicago astronomers will sweep the dimming sky with their 40-inch refracting telescope.

In this part of the world Prof. van Biesbroeck explained, the early evening offers the best chance of success to observe the new planet, for later in the night it would be too far westward.

Minister Designed Telescope Used in Discovery.

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 15.—Credit has been given posthumously to the Rev. Joel Metcalf for an important part in the discovery of "Planet X," which was announced yesterday by Harvard Observatory.

It was the Unitarian minister who in 1923 conceived the idea of the powerful "triplet" telescope with which discovery of the planet was mode at the Lowell observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz. The telescope had not been completed when the Rev. Mr. Metcalf died in 1925.

The minister was described by Prof. Leon Campbell of Harvard observatory as a man of unusual ability and achievement both as an astronomer and as a clergyman.

"His religion and his asttronomy went hand in hand," said Campbell.

The minister was credited with discovering more than 40 minor planets, several variable stars and five comets, and the making of numerous valuable telescopes. He was such a skilled workman that he ground his own lenses.

"Mr. Metcalf had previously made a number of telescopes," continued Campbell, "including a 10-inch triplet now in use in the Harvard observatory in South Africa. We have at the observatory here a 16-inch doublet made by him, and also the telescope he used at his private ovservatory at Winchester to secure photographs of Asteroids (tiny planets.) He discovered many of them and originated a method of photographing them."

Mexican Flyer's Ambitious Plan.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, March 15.—Col. Roberto Fierro, head of Mexico's civil aviation, is planning to make a nonstop flight from Washington to Mexico City some time next month, then to continue on to Europe by way of the South Atlantic. Fierro expects to go to Burbank, Cal., where a specially built plane is awaiting him. He will fly to Washington and then take off for Mexico City. From Mexico City he plans to fly to Havana, Panama, Pernambuco, Brazil, and thence across the South Atlantic to Dakar, South Africa.

All I want is your name and address so I can send you a free trial treatment. I want you just to try this treatment—that's all—just try it. That's my only argument.

I've been in the Retail Drug Business for 20 years. I served four years as a member of the Indiana State Board of Pharmacy and five years as President of the Retail Druggists' Association. Nearly everyone in Fort Wayne knows me and knows about my successful treatment. Over Fifty Thousand Men, Women and Children outside of Fort Wayne, have, according to their own statements, been rid of such eruptions by this treatment since I first made this offer public.

If you have Eczema, Salt Rheum, itching skin—never mind how bad—my treatment has stopped the worst cases I ever heard of—give me a chance to prove my claim.

Send me your name and address on the coupon below and get the trial treatment I want to send you FREE. The results accomplished in your own case will be proof.

WOMEN GAIN NOTICE IN CARNEGIE EXHIBIT

Only Five of Them Among 64 Artists but Their Work Is Outstanding.

The foreign section of paintings collected for Carnegie Institute's recent international exhibition, now on view at the Art Museum in Forest Park, gives space to only five women among the 64 artists who contributed to the exhibition, but their paintings have attracted attention.

More than 3000 persons have viewed the exhibition since its opening Tuesday night. The paintings of Tamara Lempicka and Mela Muter, Polish artists, are perhaps the most interesting of those shown by women. Lively interest has been shown also in the works of Anna Boberg of Sweden, whose pictures are hung in the same gallery. Other women artists are Jacqueline Marval of France and Elena Bebutova of Russia.

The Carnegie Exhibition, now in its twenty-eighth year, always has been more or less inaccessible to women, and only once, in 1899, has the first prize been awarded to a woman artist. In that year it was won by Cecilia Beaux, an American portrait painter. Of the 185 prizes awarded since the exhibitions began, only 16 have gone to women.

Woman Third in Popular Vote.

The highest honors won by a woman artist in the current exhibition were gained by Tamara Lempicka, whose "Portrait of Dr. B.," ranked third among foreign paaintings in the popular vote in Pittsburg. This picture and the two others which complete her contribution, have been widely reproduced.

In each of them she employs the same technique, which has been described as modern classicism, with the figures clear cut and decisive, but with a certain angular distortion. Her other pictures are "Kizette on the Balcony," said to be a portrait of her daughter, and a picture of a woman called "Dreaming."

The five pictures of her countrymen, Mela Muter, differ from hers in almost every respect. Where Lempicka is suave and sophisticated, Muter is plain and direct. The feeling of power which marks her picture of a mother nursing an infant, is apparent in each of her pictures. In her portrait of Prof. Bohn she shows a tired and disillusioned old man. Count Karolyi, a recent visitor to St. Louis, she depicts as a dapper cynic.

If Anna Boberg had no other claim to distinction, it could be said of her that she is probably the only artist who habitually paints within the Arctic circle. Her pictures are hung in the permanent collections of museums in New York, Rome, Paris and other cities. This Swedish artist does most of the work in the Lofoten Islands, and goes out with the fishermen in their light boats, sketching on an easel strapped to her waist. Her contribution to the exhibit includes these Arctic views in which she achieves a noteworthy effect in painting reflections in the water and the glint of sunshine on distant snow-capped mountains.

Jacqueline Marvel, the Frenchwoman, shows three paintings in the light, trivial manner. Elena Bebutova, the Russian, exhibits three paintings, "The Washerwomen," "Harvest" and "Bois de Boulogne." They are in the simple, bold style characteristic of the other Russian paintings shown.

Shikari Exhibit to Be Shown in Vandervoort Gallery.

An exhibition of paintings and art objects made by members of Shikari, the women's honorary sorority of the School of Fine Arts of Washington University, will open tomorrow in the art gallery of Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Dry Goods Co.

The exhibition is the second given by the sorority since its organization three years ago. Members have been chosen from the various departments of the art school and their work in the exhibit includes sculpture, tooled leather, block prints and paintings.

Among the exhibitors are several who are living in other cities or studying abroad. Miss Mary Rush, who is now in Czecho-Slovakia, has been studying in Munich. Miss Helen Miller has had her work shown in the Toronto museum, and Miss Esther Daubenick, who has won some recognition for her etchings, is teaching art in Quincy, Ill.

Others who contributed to the exhibit are Miss Gertrude Horton, winner of a scholarship offered by the New York Art League, and Miss Evelyn Buchroeder, who gained first honorable mention in the same competition; Mrs. Jessie Rickly, a regular exhibitor at the Artists' Guild; Miss Florence Boefer, known for her batiks and portraits in pastel; Miss Elsa Schmidje, designer for a New York costume salon, and Miss Eloise Frazier, who has written and illustrated stories for newspapers.

O K's Service to Disabled Soldiers.

Service offered to disabled veterans in St. Louis offers no cause for complaint, according to Joseph J. Eichorn, Kansas City, commander of the Missouri Department of the Disabled American Veterans, who made a tour of inspection of veterans' agencies in St. Louis Thursday. He addressed a meeting of the St. Louis branch of his organization at the chapter house, 3737 West Pine boulevard.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 15.—Central High of Kansas City won the Missouri State High School basketball championship here tonight defeating East of Kansas City.

The score was 13 to 11.

Central's players came through the upper bracket of the tournament to meet East High in the final game after being defeated by East in the city tournament at Kansas City last week. Central at that time did not play the regular line-up, but used second string men.

Fielding Morrow, sharp shooting forward, put the Centralities into the championship with four field goals. Mallon added a field goal and a free throw and Peltzman, center, tossed in the other Central counter.

The final game was a clever exhibition of zone defense and stalling after getting a lead. Central got off to a 12 to 6 lead at the half and successfully defended through the desperate charges of the green-clad East. The final minute found the ball in Central's possession, playing catch in the back court, while the East tried desperately to get the ball.

In replacing East as state champion, Central takes the state high school cage honors to the city of the Kaw for the second successive year.

Soldan Beats Windsor.

Annexing its third victory in four tournament starts, Soldan High of St. Louis won third place in the State basketball championships by defeating Windsor High, runner up in the Central Missouri district 43 to 12. Both teams dropped by the wayside in the championship semifinals this morning.

It was distinctly a Soldan game throughout, with Windsor only once holding an advantage, and that by counting two free throws as the initial points of the game. So tight was the defensive play at the start that it was three minutes before either team could score but immediately thereafter Soldan hit its stride and from then on the outcome of the game was never in doubt.

Not until the last minute of the first half did Windsor succeed in scoring. Hamlin, forward, counting a long one. The St. Louisans led 18 to 4, at the close of the half and had the advantage, 8 to 2, at the close of the first period.

In contrast to the wild and hit-or-miss style play that the Windsor quintet employed, Soldan used a deliberate and well planned attack that featured a delayed offensive with Ben Reese and William Jones, Soldan guards, playing catch in the back court.

By the end of the third quarter the game had turned into a rout and a flock of Soldan substitutes entered the encounter to take

It was distinctly a Soldan game throughout, with Windsor only once holding an advantage, and that by counting two free throws, as the initial points of the game. So tight was the defensive play at the start that it was three minutes before either team could score but immediately thereafter Soldan hit its stride and from then on the outcome of the game was never in doubt.

Not until the last minute of the first half did Windsor succeed in scoring. Hamlin, forward, counting a long one. The St. Louisans led, 18 to 4, at the close of the half, and had the advantage, 8 to 2, at the close of the first period.

In contrast to the wild and hit-or-miss style play that the Windsor quintet employed, Soldan used a deliberate and well planned attack that featured a delayed offensive with Ben Reese and William Jones, Soldan guards, playing catch in the back court.

By the end of the third quarter the game had turned into a route and a flock of Soldan substitutes entered the encounter to take up

Kress Accepts Terms, Starts for Camp Today

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 15.

BUSINESS MANAGER BILL FRIEL of the Browns announced here tonight that Ralph Kress, slugging shortstop, had accepted terms with the club after an argument over salary, as a result of which the infielder has remained away from the team during the first three weeks of training.

Kress wired Friel asking for transportation immediately, to enable him to start from Berkeley, Cal., tomorrow to join the Browns here.

WORLD RECORD AMONG SEVEN MARKS BROKEN IN TRACK MEET

By the Associated Press.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 15.—Seven records, including a world's mark, were shattered tonight as 1000 athletes from 100 universities and colleges finished their competition in the University of Illinois thirteenth annual Indoor Relay Carnival.

Lee Sentman, the slightly-built, spindle-legged hurdler from Illinois, had the distinction of breaking the world's record in the 75-yard high hurdles twice in one day. Sentman, fast developing into one of the greatest hurdlers the world has ever seen, cut one-tenth of a second off the record of :09 4-10 in winning his preliminary event.

Then, coming back, for the finals after dinner, Sentman shaved the record one-tenth of a second more in :09 2-10 in the semifinals and repeated the performance in winning the final. Not content with winning the high hurdle event, Sentman returned to competition a few minutes later to capture the 75-yard low hurdles in :08 2-10.

New records for the carnival were established in the four-mile university relay, one mile university relay, college medley relay, 75-yard high hurdles, 1500 meter run, 1000-yard run, and the shuttle hurdles.

Sentman shared honors with Barney Berlinger, University of Pennsylvania all-around star. Coming back to defend his championship, he won in the all-around competition last year, this strapping big boy from Pennsylvania outclassed the field to win the event with 6058½ points, 11½ short of his carnival record. Everett Utterbach, University of Pittsburg Negro star, was a comparatively poor second with 5040 points. Buford Harper of Illinois was third with 4842½ points.

Pennsylvania, Missouri, Marquette and Iowa divided the university relay honors. The races produced no thrilling encounters with the exception of the one mile event, in which Missouri established a new carnival record of 3:32 9-10.

FINAL SUMMARIES

75-YARD DASH—Won by Simbson (Ohio State); Tolan (Michigan) second; East (Chicago) third; Sickel (Kansas) fourth. Time :07 5-10.

1500-METER RUN—Won by Putnam (Iowa State); McIlrath (Grinnell) second; Fortune (Kansas) third; Brown (Michigan State) fourth. Time 4:00 4-10. (New carnival record; former mark of 4:05 1-10 made by Martin of Purdue in 1929).

300-YARD DASH—Won by Gordon (Miami); Campbell (Michigan) second; Useman (Illinois) third; Treps (Marquette) fourth. Time :31 7-10.

TWO MILE UNIVERSITY RELAY—Won by Notre Dame (Little, Quigley, Abbott, Wilson; Northwestern, second; Iowa, third; Indiana, Fourth. Time 7:58 2-10

75-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Sentman (Illinois); Saling (Iowa) second; Haydon (Chicago) third; Hager (Iowa State) fourth. Time :09 2-10. (New world's record). (Breaks mark of :09 3-10 Sentman set in preliminaries today)

ALL-AROUND FINAL SCORE—Won by Berlinger, Pennsylvania, 6058½; Utterbach, Pittsburg 5041; Harper, Illinois, 4842½; Douglas, Grinnell, 4531; Parker, Lake Forest, 4403½; Crain, De Pauw, 4313; Stearns, Butler, 4292; Holden, Crane, 3362½.

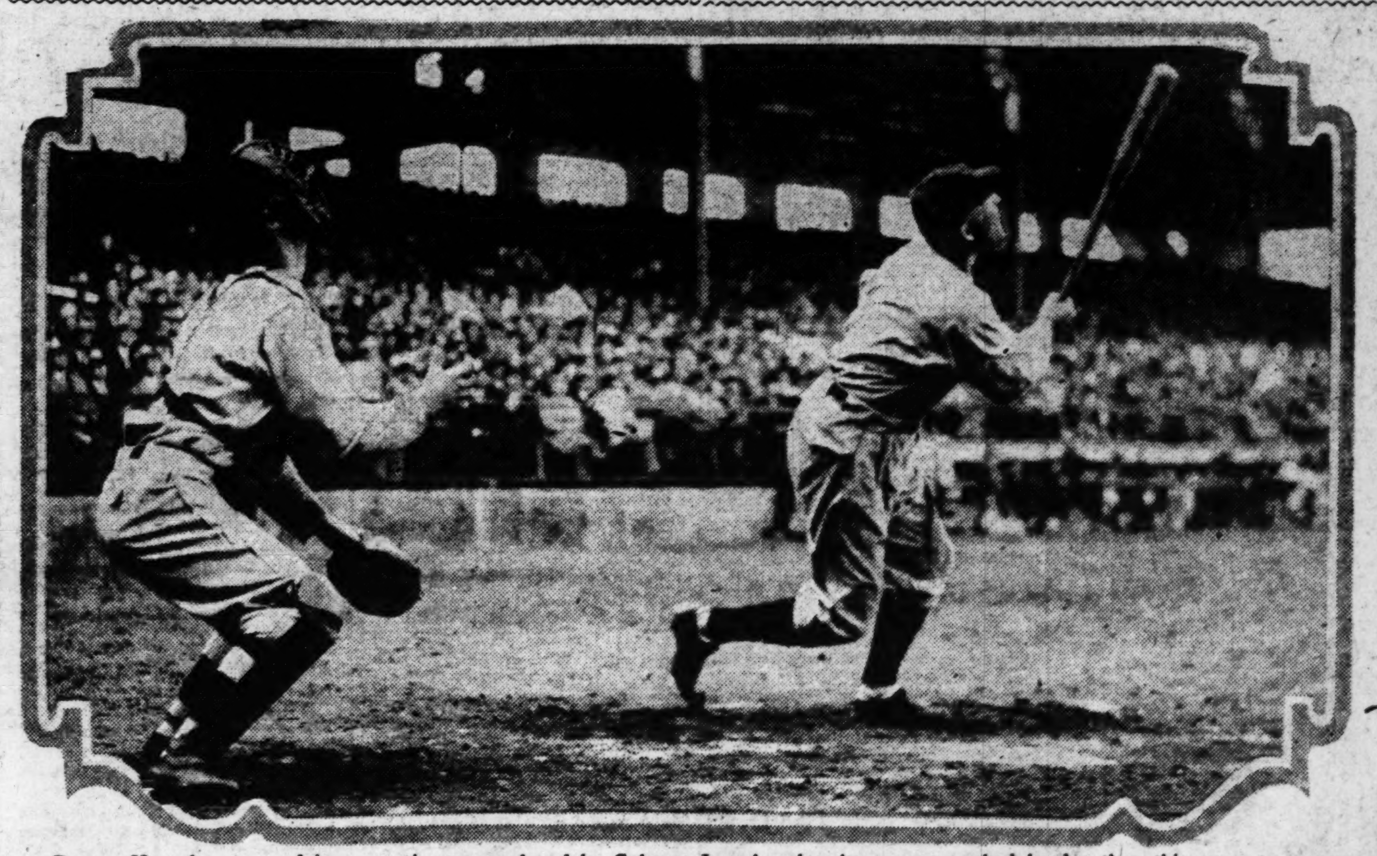
The National League's "Most Valuable" Star Gets His Eye on a Fast One



Rogers Hornsby, snapped in a practice game played by Cubs at Los Angeles, has never worked harder than this year, to prepare himself for a baseball race. Hornsby, who won the league's highest honors last year, and then cracked in the world series by striking out many times, apparently is determined to redeem himself for that last failure. Los Angeles won this game, 7 to 6.

WICHITA FIVE WINS NATIONAL A. A. U. TITLE

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 15.—Succeeding where they failed a year ago, the Henry team of Wichita, Kan., tonight won the National A. A. U. basketball championship, defeating the Olympic Club of San Francisco, 29 to 14.

The Henrys were in great form, while the Olympic club plainly showed the strain of a hard week of play. The Olympic club never was in the lead, and at no time was a real threat to the new champions.

The defeat of the Olympics was the second this year at the hands of the Henrys, the Wichita team having beaten them severely on a coast tour during the winter.

In contrast to the howling, shrieking mob which usually fills Convention Hall for the final game of the national cage event, the crowd was almost listless, presumably because there was no local entry.

Almost every section of the United States was represented by the 45 seekers of the championship that played through the week.

The East Central Teachers College team of Ada, Okla., won third place in the tournament by defeating Bethany College, Kansas Conference champion, 42 to 21, tonight.

Collins Takes U. S. Cue Title by Beating Fessenden in Play-off

By Dent McSkimming.

Percy Collins of Chicago won the national amateur balkline billiard championship early today when he defeated Ray V. Fessenden of Madison, Wis., in the third game of the play-off of a triple tie, 300 to 76. The tournament was held at the University Club.

It was the shortest and best game of the tournament, going only 13 innings. Collins clicked off 119 billiards in the eighth inning, his high run of the game. Collins had only three scoreless innings. Fessenden was in good form, but Collins was better—much better.

Collins won both of his play-off matches, defeating Edgar T. Appleby of New York yesterday afternoon, 300 to 283. Appleby then came back last night and defeated Fessenden in the second play-off match, 300 to 239.

Appleby played brilliant billiards against Fessenden in the fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth innings, when, with runs of 63, 51 and 45, respectively, he ran his score from 47 to 207. He had the balls under perfect control in these frames.

Appleby—1 2 2 8 0 11 2 20 1 0 0 0 0 63 51 45 0 1 0 0 3 0 9 1 21 3 0 3 18 33—300
Fessenden—2 0 2 25 2 35 6 2 3 0 3 0 1 14 1 21 2 0 22 5 0 10 0 11 6 33 11 1 7 14—239

Collins gained his victory against Appleby by a great uphill fight. Appleby started with one in his first inning, then came back with a cluster of 56 which was the high run of the contest. At the end of the seevnth inning he had 101, while Collins had only been able to gather 45 but Collins kept plugging along and it was not long until he had closed the gap.

Then when the going was rough, toward the close of the game, Collins came through with his high run of the contest, a cluster of 43, and scored consistently while Appleby, whose play had been brilliant in the early part of the game, faded toward the close.

Collins made two of the most spectacular shots of the tournament, executing a free hand masse along an end rail and pulling off a three-cushion shot which had the fans pop-eyed.

Score by innings:
Collins—9 20 5 0 11 0 0 21 0 0 1 1 42 4 13 2 19 42 0 1 32 1 13 0 16 0 43 0 1 0 0 7—300.

Boston Bruins Win

BOSTON, March 15.—The Boston Bruins toyed with the Detroit Cougars here tonight when they won their twenty-first consecutive home game by 5 to 2. It was the most colorless contest staged here this season.

SCRIBNER LEADS STEIN 385 PINS IN FIRST BLOCK

DETROIT, Mich., March 15.—Joe Scribner, Detroit star took a long lead of 385 pins over Otto Stein Jr. of St. Louis in the first 10-game block of their 60-game match here tonight, shooting 2373 to 1988 for Stein.

Scribner was in wonderful form as his average of 237.3 pins per game shows while Stein was considerably below his usual standard with 198.8 average.

It was in the last three games that Scribner took his great advantage, for while Stein was bowling only 168, 177 and 150 in the three, Scribner shot 214, 227 and 279.

Scribner's high game was 279 while the best Stein could do was 247. Six of Stein's games were 200 or over while Scribner was over the double century in nine.

They bowl 20 games, tomorrow, 10 in the afternoon and 10 in the evening then move to St. Louis for the remaining 30 games.

Tonight's scores:

RALSTONS WIN FROM MEMPHIS FIVE IN FAST GAME, 26-25

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 15.—St. Louis Y. M. C. A. Industrial League champions, the Ralstons, eked out a hard earned 26 to 25 victory tonight over the Okmnx Five, Commercial League winners.

Weidner, the center of the visiting team, proved the best man on the floor. His exceptional shooting under the basket was the biggest single factor in the victory for the Ralstons. Crider, forward, played a nice floor game for the visitors. Next Saturday the locals go to St. Louis for a return. The final of the three-game series will be decided by a toss of a coin.

Carnera's Black Eye.

WHEN Ace Clarke closed Carnera's eye in the fourth round of their fight at Philadelphia, one of the ringside physicians ordered the bout stopped and only by jockeying was Manager See able to send the big fellow back for the next round. That a black eye should be deemed sufficient cause to halt a boxing match is a novelty in ring history and Manager See was asked about it.

"That wasn't a black eye of the usual type," replied See. "The eye was closed so tightly that Carnera could not use it but he was not hurt nor was the eye.

"At the close of the fourth round Clarke popped Carnera one on the left eye—not a heavy blow. It was not bleeding. It was not the usual eye swollen from a blood vessel. It was alright until Carnera tried to blow his nose. The obstruction cause the air to be forced back up through the channel connecting the nose and eye and at once puffed up and closed the damaged optic. Before the fifth round was over the eye was tightly sealed.

"When he came back to his corner I wanted to nick it with a safety razor blade and relieve it, but the doctor would not let me do that. He wanted to bar Carnera from continuing. He argued so strongly that Carnera received no attention between rounds and the gong rang with the doctor still arguing. He thought Carnera would ruin his eye.

"As it was I told Primo, as he went out for the sixth, to be sure to win in this round fearing he would not be allowed to go out again by the doctor. Primo couldn't see well and he missed several blows, but finally he backed Clarke into a corner and flattened him.

"Carnera, despite reports that Clarke was winning, had the Negro bleeding from a cut and also from the nose, in the first round, and had him on the floor twice afterwards. He was under orders not to extend himself but was easily leading on points.

CROWDER'S SLOW CURVES BAFFLE BREWERS; MELILLO DRIVES OUT A HOME RUN

By James M. Gould.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 15.—Mr. Phil de Catesby Ball's St. Louis team had a rather easy time proving its superiority over Mr. Phil de Catesby Ball's Milwaukee team here this afternoon, and the Browns rang in with their second seccessive spring victory by a score of 9-0. This sounds like the score of a forfeited game, but such was not the case. True, the rain interrupted proceedings at intervals, but the regulation number of innings was finally completed.

The main trouble with the Milwaukee club was that it neither could hit nor field. Off Al Crowder and Earl Caldwell, the minor leaguers collected the amazing total of three hits—all singles. How good their defense was is indicated by the statistics which show that the Brewers—anyway they used to be called that before the wets and drys started to argue before Congress—made exactly twice as many errors as they did hits. Therefore, it is not especially strange that the score was what it was.

Crowder in Fine Form.

Crowder worked six innings and Caldwell three. In his six, the "General" permitted two hits, struck out five with that tantalizing slow curve of his and walked two. Caldwell, going three frames, allowed only one hit, fanned three and walked a pair. Altogether, it was the triumph of major-league mind over minor-league material.

Blue, Badgro and Crowder, with two hits apiece, were the chief Brownie sluggers, though Oscar Melillo came through in the second with a potent slap which sailed over Centerfielder Dick's head and was good for the entire trip around. Hale was on at the time.

Manager Berghammer of the Brewers used three pitchers—Block, Stark and Hopkins. It is doubtful if the showings of any of the three will lead to their immediate purchase by the Browns. At that, they were as much sinned against as sinning. Six errors is quite a flock of errors in any man's league.

Neither team scored in the first. In the second, Hale started with a walk and came in when Melillo's hit to center went for four bases. Ted Gullic then walked and stole, scoring on Crowder's single to left. The Browns waited throughout the third but resumed in the fourth. Melillo was safe on a fumble by Benton. After Gullic rolled out to Stanton, the Brewers began to show how easy it was to mishandle a baseball. Young and Turgeon added errors to those made by Pick and Benton and, with hits by Crowder and Blue, the Browns added three more to their total.

Game Resumed in Rain.

Rain gained a decision for a short while, but both teams agreed that the $45.60 (more or less) in the stands was worth having, so the game was resumed in a downpour and, this time, finished.

Two well pitched innings by Stark, the second Milwaukee hurler, kept the Browns away from the plate in the fifth and sixth, but, in the seventh, they gathered two off Hopkins, Berghammer's No. 3 choice. Three rather puny fly-ball hits to right, center and left, filled the bases and a couple of force-outs put two runs over.

The final scoring came in the last of the eighth and the run therein gained was without benefit of base-hit. With one down, Hungling walked. Pitcher Caldwell hit a long fly to left which Kuppich muffed, after which Hungling scored as Kimsey rolled out to short.

The Brewers never were in scoring distance. Whatever they had of offense or defense was left at ANNOUNCER — Joseph G. "Biz" Kenney.

TIMEKEEPER—Fred Gilmaster.

By W. J. McGoogan.

Walter Heisner, who is to referee the heavyweight bout between Charles Frederick "Chuck" Wiggins of Indianapolis and Primo Carnera, Italian boxer, at The Arena tomorrow night is to meet with the two boxers today and instruct them as to his interpretation of the rules and tell them how he expects them to conduct themselves in the ring.

Heisner is taking this action under orders from Commissioner Seneca Taylor, who recognizes the fact that there has been considerable talk among fight followers as to the possibility of a foul. However, Heisner believes both Carnera and Wiggins realize that such an occurence would be decidedly injurious to the game here and that they will be careful.

Wiggins has worked harder to get himself into condition for this match than for any other bout he has fought here in the memory of boxing fans and he appears to be ready. He will be under a big handicap in that every physical advantage will be with Carnera but Wiggins has behind him 16 years in the ring and he has acquired a wealth of experience in that time.

Wiggins Takes a Look at Primo.

"Chuck" has had a look at the big fellow in street clothes and was much impressed by his size but his eyes opened wide when his gaze fell on Primo's feet. "Phew! what feet!" Wiggins ejaculated. "I never saw anything like them in my life."

Wiggins just grins when asked how he plans to attack Carnera. "I don't know what I'll do when I get in there," Chuck said after his workout at the National Gymnasium yesterday. "Nobody ever fought a guy that big, there's nobody but him that big in the world, so I don't know how I'll go about it; but I'll throw a lotta leather at him, you can gamble on that."

Meanwhile, Carnera has gone about his own preparations under the watchful gaze of his manager, Leon See, and appears to be ready to meet anybody, so far as physical condition is concerned.

See is very confident of the outcome of the battle with Wiggins, and declares that his man will win by a knockout.

Carnera Invincible, See Says.

"I don't believe there is a man in the world who can stand up to Carnera. He has proved that he can stand punishment. He is only dangerous when he gets hurt. I know that Wiggins is an experienced man and he is just the kind of an opponent I have been looking for to face Primo since we came to America.

"All of Carnera's victories have been accomplished too easily. He has learned nothing from the men he has faced. But I believe he will learn a great deal from Mr. Wiggins. However, I expect Primo to knock him out, and only hope that he doesn't do it too quickly, so that he may derive the benefit of boxing Wiggins for a few rounds."

Both boxers put in their usual training time yesterday, and will do the same thing today. Tomorrow they will take it easy before the bout begins.

Wiggins worked at the National Gymnasium, while Carnera was at the St. Louis U. gym. Chuck shadow boxed, tugged awhile with big Joe Baker and punched the bag, while Carnera did some boxing and calisthenics.

Knost and Schwake Busy.

Some of the other boxers on the card are busy preparing for their matches here. Both Dave Knost and John Schwake have been working out at the Olympian A. C. Gymnasium for their five-round bout for the heavyweight championship of the city. Schwake has recovered from the painful injury he received when Tiny Roebuck fouled him last Monday night.

Jackie Horner is in excellent condition for his bout with Ivan Laffineur, French welterweight champion. This bout is scheduled for five rounds, and should produce some interesting fighting. Both are noted for their willingness to mix. Horner has been boxing four or five rounds each day lately with Eddie Goldberg, his stablemate, and those who saw them go to it for four rounds at the National Gymnasium yesterday probably saw as much action as they will see in any four rounds tomorrow. For some reason these two boys seem to be trying to knock each other out every time they go through a training bout. It is the same thing each afternoon.

The advance ticket sale has been large, and Promoter Mique Malloy last night stated that it has passed the $11,000 mark.

ATTAINS SPEED OF 200 MILES AN HOUR ON TEST RUNS AT DAYTONA BEACH

By the Associated Press.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 15.—Kaye Don, British contender for the world's automobile speed record sent his powerful Silver Bullet machine over the Ocean Speedway here today at a clip of approximately 200 miles per hour in a pratice run under poor weather conditions.

Tte driver, who expects to make an official assault upon the record of 231 miles per hour early next week, put his racer through two fast runs at low tide this afternoon with the visibility poor and the beach in only fair condition.

TRAFTON MATCHED WITH CARNERA FOR BOUT AT KANSAS CITY, MARCH 26

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 15.—Primo Carnera, the ambling Alp, and George Trafton of Chicago have been matched for a scheduled 10-round bout here March 26 under the auspices of the American Legion.

Benny Bass and Shea Are Due Here This Week

Benny Bass, world's junior lightweight champion, and Eddie Shea, Chicago, who meet for the title at The Arena on Friday, March 28, are due here this week to finish training for the bout. Both boxers already have started work for the match, according to word received from their managers.

Tom Packs, under whose promotion the bout is to be held, said last night that he may try to match Lou Terry and Martie Field, Chicago, the junior lightweights who fought an interesting draw at the Coliseum last Monday night, for the semiwindup on the card, provided he is unable to get an opponent for Davey Abad.

A meeting of members of the City Boxing Commission and Seneca Taylor, State Boxing Commissioner for the St. Louis District, is to be held tomorrow in an effort to straighten out the tangle which has arisen over dates for boxing shows and it appears at this time that the City Commission may attempt to block the Shea-Bass bout if Jack Tippett is allowed to go through with his card at the Coliseum on March 25, as the City Commission is opposed to two shows being held so closely together.

Taylor stated yesterday that nothing would be permitted to interfere with the championship bout and if necessary he would cancel Tippett's date for March 25.

Tippett, whose card at the Coliseum Monday night drew such a small attendance that he was unable to pay off his boxers, must show Taylor releases from all the boxers by tomorrow or stand suspended. At a meeting Tuesday in Taylor's office the boxers took cash for part of their purses for Monday's show and were given notes by Tippett for the remainder. Tippett was given five days by Taylor to take up the obligations. The time ended yesterday but Tippett's arrangements for getting the releases from the boxers was not satisfactory to Taylor and he was given until tomorrow to take up his notes.

the work of the regulars, with the score standing in their favor, 37 to 6, Windsor succeeding in scoring but one basket and a free throw in the third quarter.

Big Dave Cook, Soldan center, proved to be the pivotal force of the St. Louisans' attack, his heady work providing the starting point for most of his team's plays. The goal shooting of Robert Mautz, diminutive Soldan forward, at times reached heights that was uncanny.

Kirksville High School won the consolation championship, defeating Cuba High School, 18 to 16, in an extra-inning game.

McElroy, stalwart Kirksville guard, was the spark plug of the team, taking his men into the lead after they had been behind most of the game.

The regular period ended at 16 all after McElroy and Garwood for Kirksville had tossed in a couple of field baskets in the closing minutes. In the three-minute overtime period McElroy contributed two free throws to win the consolation title.

Cuba, winner of the Rolla district meet, takes second place in the consolation flight.

WRAY'S COLUMN

of $50,000 a year, which he earned in the ring. Mickey Walker is able to fight regularly for sums varying from $25,000 to $100,000, and is worth at least $250,000. Jack Sharkey is now a half-millionaire at the cost of some slight anguish administered by Jack Dempsey and an otherwise soft career. Half a dozen other fighters are soaring upward financially in terms of six figures.

Then we turn the page and read: "Jack Britton, former welterweight champion, at the age of 45 has joined the National guard. After 90 days he will be eligibles to box i nstate armories. Fighters are making considerable money, in these small clubs, and Britton hopes to make enough to keep him for the rest of his days."

That's a fine outlook for a former champion to face, at the age of 45—down and out.

Also, we read: "The Olympic Athletic Club is sponsoring a relief benefit for Kid Williams, former bantamweight champion, and Bobby Garcia. William Muldoon of the Sports Alliance has sent a check for $250."

Then here's another: "A boxing benefit for the widow of Bartley Madden, who fell to his death from a public building in Washington recently, is being sponsored by A. P. Scott, a Wall street broker."

Think It Over.

THIS boxing game has two sides to its shield, and the dark side is not its least important. For one who makes good, ten fail. Even those who succeed too often end as above, needing a benefit on their own account or testimonials for their widows. Men like Paul Berlenbach, who padded their pocketbooks by fighting, have done so at a reported heavy cost physically.

The trails and byways of pugilism that lead into championship highways are thronged with young fellows coming up and going—who can guess where?

A little chat with Babe Asher, Harry Kabakoff and other St. Louis boys who have followed the leather pusher's trade, might serve to clear out this rush of youths toward goofyland, the asylum for the blind and the poorhouse.

It's a dark side—but it's there, boys. Look into it before leaping.

No Trouble Expected.

REFEREE WALTER HEISNER, who will handle the Primo Carnera-Wgisgin fight, is not expecting any difficulty from the fight at the Arena tomorrow night.

"I will have a chat with both men today or tomorrow, long before the men enter the ring and will see that they understand what is expected of them under the rules." Heisner said yesterday. "I have refereed for Wiggins before and I saw Carnera box here some weeks ago. Wiggins boxed Renault when I officiated and it was a good fight with no complaints from anybody. Carnera and Wiggins both will thoroughly understand what is expected of them before they enter the ring and there should be no occasion for fouls of any consequence."

Heisner does not believe in giving instructions in the ring and thinks a few hours or even a day before the bout affords the best chance to impress rules on the boxer's mind.

"The boxers' minds are not on what the referee tells them with the fight about to start," Heisner commented. "On the other hand if they have a night to think over the instructions they have a settled idea what to expect."

Carnera showed a tendency to hit on the breakaway last time here, while Wiggins is supposed to be a bit careless where he plants his body punches.

But Next Year!

THE numerous baseball holdouts this year promise some sort of reaction against this practice of major league players, next year. The keynote speech already has been made by John McGraw, who pipes this little spring lay: "These fellows who stay away from the training camp and neglect their early work are a detriment to the club. They slow up the whole team. They won't do it again next year, if I have anything to say about it. At least, if they do, they will pay for it."

There is the other side. If the ball clubs do not want to have their players report late, they ought to complete the signing of all their men before the squads go South.

This could be done by having the contracts cover the training season as well as the playing campaign, and thus automatically, players would be suspended who did not report at training time.

Mr. Howley Smiles.

DAN HOWLEY, who talked himself out of St. Louis and into Cincinnati, according to the Browns' front office, is having trouble with his sore lip. Dispatches from Palm Beach tell of Heine Manush and other Brownies holding out and cramping the Browns' style.

Other dispatches from the Reds' stamping grounds tell how Heilmann and Meusel, now with Cincy, after being passed up by the Browns, are slapping the ball around the lot at a .375 pace, while Durocher is eating up the grass cutters.

One grasps the thought that Daniel would like to smile, but can't. However, sore lips can't remain sore forever.

13 Changes in Day Among the High Teams in A. B. C.

CLEVELAND, March 15.—Thirteen positions among the team leaders at the American bowling congress tournament here had changed tonight. Three changed as a result of rolling on the first squad.

The Buckeye Malts of Cincinnati, always in the money, proved no exception to their general rule, as they cracked out a 2832 and mounted to fifth place.

Eighth place was claimed by the Paul Dugal five of Detroit with 2818. Ninth went to the Wash and Schroeder team of Chicago. Its mark was 2806.

But one other team was able to get well up into the money, this being the Ohse Construction Company of Detroit, which pounded out a 2788.

50,000 AT OPENING OF CENTRAL AMERICAN OLYMPIAD AT HAVANA

HAVANA, March 15.—Fifty thousand persons packed the tropical stadium here today to witness the opening ceremonies of the second Central American Olympic games. Some 600 athletes from nine nations were entered in competition in various sports.

Dr. Rafael Martinez Ortiz, Cuban Secretary of State, was the principal speaker. He welcomed the young athletes with a message for closer Pan-American relations which he held would be brought about through sportsmanship and athletics.

ED MORRIS IS ONLY RED SOX PITCHER NOT IN GOOD CONDITION

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 15.—Every one of the Boston Red Sox regular pitchers, except big Ed Morris, was described as being in perfect trim here today by Manager Heinie Wagner. Morris, always slow in getting into shape, promises to be ready to take his turn when the season opens, Wagner said.

The Red Sox were slated to stage an exhibition clash here this afternoon with the Mobile club, but rain interfered. Wagner had planned to make all of his regulars go the full nine innings.

ONE MILE UNIVERSITY RELAY—Won by Missouri (Wells, Dill, Ulfers, Hurley); Michigan, second; Wisconsin, third; Chicago, fourth. Time, 3:22 9-10. (New Carnival record. Former record of 3:24 5-10 set by Iowa in 1928.)

BROAD JUMP—Won by Gordon, Iowa, 24 feet 4⅝ inches; Boyles, Pennsylvania, second, 23 feet 3⅝ inches; Thompson, Nebraska, third, 23 feet 7⅛ inches; Wanger, Illinois, fourth, 23 feet 4⅞ inches.

POLE VAULT—McDermott, Illinois, and Warne, Northwestern, tied for first and second places, 13 feet 6 inches; Canby, Iowa, third, 13 feet; Pottle, Michigan, Osman, Nebraska, Olson, Michigan State, Collins, Drake, and Lamrad, Drake, tied for fourth, 12 feet 6 inches.

HELENE MADISON BREAKS ANOTHER WORLD'S RECORD IN SWIM MEET

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 15.—Helene Madison, 16-year-old aquatic sensation of the Crystal Swimming Club, Seattle, established her second world's record here today, shattering existing marks in the 220-yard free style event. Her feat together with the breaking of former marks for the 300-yard medley relay, featured the third day's program of the National A. A. U. Women's indoor swimming championships in the Roman pools.

Miss Madison clipped 5 2-5 seconds from the former time, which was made by Martha Norelius, New York, in 1926.

Yesterday she chopped 1 2-5 seconds from the former mark for the 100-meter try against time.

The Women's Swimming Association, romped away with the 300-yard medley relay event, to establish the Easterners firmly in the lead for the meet and to establish a new world's record for the event. The team which was composed of Agnes Geraghty, Eleanor Holm and Catehrine Ames negotiated the distance in three minutes, 38 2-5 seconds. The former record was three minutes 45 4-5 seconds.

BROWNS SHUT OUT MILWAUKEE, 9-0 WITH THREE HITS

the Fort Pierce training camp. The Brewers finished seventh in the American Association last year. They may get as high as sixth on what they showed here today.

As for the Browns, they played snappily and well. In two games now they have made but one error and they have hit consistently and in timely fashion.

Tomorrow, in the second of the series with Milwaukee, Walter Stewart, the southpaw, will make his 1930 debut for the Browns while another left-hander, McIntyre by name, will start for Berghammer.

Brownie Notes.

THERE was a queer play in the Milwaukee second. Jenkins was on first when Pick sent a roller toward first. The ball skidded off Blue's glove and was pounced on by the alert Melillo, whose throw to first found Blue back on the bag and Pick was out.

For the second successive game Blue hit safely his first time. Today's contribution to Killefer's pleasure was a clean single past third.

Melillo's Homer Legitimate.

Melillo's homer which scored Hale ahead of him in the second was a legitimate wallop. Pick slightly misjudged the ball's flight, which may have helped Oscar to four instead of three bases.

The first stolen base of the season for the Browns was engineered by Ted Gullic, who slid into second as Ferrell struck out in the second inning.

Crowder's pass to Benton in the third was the first frank to first given by a Brownie pitcher this spring exhibition season.

Herman Block, the young southpaw who started for Milwaukee, hails from Rockford, Ill. As a semipro last year, he won 17 games and was unbeaten. He is counted a good pitching prospect by Manager Berghammer of the Brewers.

The sun played hide-and-seek during the game, which was interrupted by hard showers. But it was a sort of family affair and so was completed.

Crowder Fans Five.

Crowder had a wonderful slow curve with which the Brewers could not get on speaking terms. Three of the five men he fanned took the third strike.

Lu Blue retired after the sixth with a bit of a kink in his throwing arm. Kimsey batted for him in the seventh and singled. The hit was made off Paul Hopkins, the right-hander the Browns bought from Washington last year and then sent on a "seeing America first" tour through the minors.

There's nothing graceful about Caldwell's pitching but there is no doubt of the quality or diversity of his "stuff." He'll be given a real trial and has a fine chance to stick around.

BROWNS' SECOND TEAM DEFEATS BUFFALO, 7-5

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 15.—A squad of St. Louis Browns, led by Lena Blackburne and augmented by three Buffalo players deefated the Buffalo Bisons of the International League in a 10-inning game here today, 7 to 5. Homers in the tenth by Roy Grimes, lent by Buffalo, and Clyde Manion, who had a perfect day with three hits, gave the Browns their margin of victory. Stiles and Wilson, two youngsters, each hurled five innings for the Browns and the former yielded only four hits, and Wilson five.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 15.—Frankie Frisch will be the only ardinal regular missing from the attle front tomorrow afternoon, hen the Red Birds meet the lugging Phillies of Burt Shotton t Winter Haven. Frisch went hrough two hard workouts today, nd said he was willing to take his lace at second or shift to third or the contest, but Manager Gabby Street is afraid that his star infielder might pull a tendon or train a muscle, so Frankie will e given another week of training efore he takes his place as capain and second baseman or third aseman of the Cardinals.

With Infielders Joel Hunt and Eddie Delker released to minor league farms and with only five big league infielders now on the oster, the winter idea of shifting Frisch to third has been revived, ut Street said this afternoon he till would have to be convinced hat it was a wise move.

elbert to Adams to Bottomley?

"I'll work Adams every day now, nd if he shows me that he can make the double plays, I'll consider shift." Street said this afternoon s he bounced grounders to his nfielders. "Adams has shown me verything else. He is a grand litle fielder and he's nobody's fool hen pop flies are hit between the utfielders and the infield. Of ourse, he can't go and get 'em ith Frisch. Nobody can, as far s that's concerned. Frisch, in my pinion, is in a class by himself as second baseman, and when he is here you have an extra outfielder o cover part of center and part f right. But if Adams shows me hat he can make double plays as ell as Frisch, I'll give the comination a trial."

Frisch worked at third base for ome time during the afternoon orkout, but Street said that didn't mean anything. Frisch proved ong ago that he can play third skillfully, so as Street says, the nly question is whether Adams or nybody else can force the Fordham flash from his best position, which is second.

Pleased With the Pitchers.

Street, Sam Breadon, Branch Rickey and Charley Barrett are elighted with the condition of the Cardinals and especially the pitchrs.

"I've been going to training camps for a good many years," Breadon said, "and I have never een pitchers or the whole squad n as good condition at this time f the year. There was a little rying at first that the pitchers ere not ready to give the boys all he batting practice they wanted, ut I don't believe it will be necesary to go back to the old practice of getting the pitchers down here a week ahead of the other layers.

"We had all the boys report here t once and with only five days of ork we met the Athletics and broke even with them in four ames. And noobody's arm was hurt by the pitching of those ames. Of course, it might work ut better to schedule the first exhibition game a bit later, but I can't see where we would have ained anything."

Hallahan to Start Today's Game.

Manager Street announced this evening that Bill Hallahan would e the starting pitcher against the Phillies tomorrow, with Jess Haines, Bill Sherdel and Sylvester Johnson ready to take a turn after Sweet William has his workout. Street said he would not let any f the old pitchers stay in more han three innings.

"After we have more warm weather we'll give some of the oys four or five," Street explained. "But we have a whole month before the season opens and e have the staff coming along so beautifully now that we won't take ny chances. It does them more ood to run and shag flies and hen run some more anyhow. We now that the boys can pitch if hey are in condition, so we won't worry about them doing any too much pitching just yet."

It is generally agreed in camp hat the Cardinals will have t make a deal for an infielder. can be said further that if any ma jor league club with a spare in fielder would like to obtain title t great young catcher, the Re Birds would sit in on a little dis cussion of a trade.

Mancuso Needs Regular Work.

Gus Mancuso is the catcher wh is likely to be swapped if the de sired infielder can be obtained. Gu is a great little catcher, but he ha to have steady work to remain star. As a first string receiver h will shine, but when you drop hi to second or third string and mak him ride the bench four or fiv days a week, he becomes just a b with a lot of extra weight in th trousers region. And with Jimm Wilson and Earl Smith on the ro ter there isn't much chance th Mancuso will see much service wi the Red Birds. So for his own goo and to bolster an infield that nee reserves badly, Mancuso can be sa to be on the market.

Jimmy Wilson will do his fir catching of the season tomorro afternoon and after he has handl the slants of Bill Hallahan, Ea

"But we have a whole month before the season opens and we have the staff coming along so beautifully now that we won't take any chances. It does them more good to run and shag flies and then run some more anyhow. We know that the boys can pitch if they are in condition, so we won't worry about them doing any too much pitching just yet."

It is generally agreed in camp that the Cardinals will have to make a deal for an infielder. It can be said further that if any major league club with a spare infielder would like to obtain title to a great young catcher, the Red Birds would sit in on a little discussion of a trade.

Mancuso Needs Regular Work.

Gus Mancuso is the catcher who is likely to be swapped if the desired infielder can be obtained. Gus is a great little catcher, but he has to have steady work to remain a star. As a first string receiver he will shine, but when you drop him to second or third string and make him ride the bench four or five days a week, he becomes just a boy with a lot of extra weight in the trousers region. And with Jimmy Wilson and Earl Smith on the roster there isn't much chance that Mancuso will see much service with the Red Birds. So for his own good and to bolster an infield that needs reserves badly, Mancuso can be said to be on the market.

Jimmy Wilson will do his first catching of the season tomorrow afternoon and after he has handled the slants of Bill Hallahan, Earl Smith will take over the mask and pad and make his first appearance of the season behind the bat.

Chick Hafey and Andy High are other regulars who will break into their first exhibition game of the year in the frolic with the Phils. Chick has had a week of work and High has recovered from the blisters and sore toe which kept him out of previous contests.

Hafey looks like the insufficiently well-known million dollars. He got smart during the winter and had his eyes tested periodically. They were found to be holding their own and it has not been necessary to change the lenses of the spectacles that he wore during the last few weeks of the 1929 campaign.

He will have his eyes tested again as soon as he returns to St. Louis.

If his batting in the practice at Bradenton means anything, Chick doesn't need any new glasses. He has been bombarding the clubhouse in left field and has knocked numerous branches off moss-covered live oaks in deep center.

It was here at Bradenton that Hafey first learned that he was to be an outfielder. He was clubbing the ball from one of the batting cages. "What is your position?" Branch Rickey asked him. Chick replied that he was a pitcher.

"Judas Priest, no. You're not a pitcher. You're an outfielder," Rickey replied. "Remember that. From now on you're an outfielder. I don't want to see you near the pitching mound."

So Hafey became an outfielder. He was a product of the batting cages, right here in the ball park, where the Red Birds are training this year. And he still loves those cages. When he isn't chasing flies he runs to the cage, gets a few donkey pitchers to throw to him and bats and bats. If nobody interrupts and if the pitchers hold out he'll bat for hours at a time.

"There's base hits in them there cages," Hafey declares.

After the game with the Phillies the Red Birds will have a day of rest Monday, before resuming their exhibition schedule Tuesday, when they meet the Detroit Tigers at Bradenton.

Tilden Picks United States to Win in American Zone Final in Davis Cup Play

Allison and Van Ryn Sure to Win Doubles—Officials Must Pick Player to Aid Lott in Singles.

Big Bill Says Foreign Teams Are Very Strong—Favors Australia or Italy to Defeat Japan.

BILL TILDEN.

By William T. Tilden II.
(Copyright, 1930.)

NICE, France, March 15.—The draw for the Davis Cup competition for 1930 opens the field for interesting speculation, particularly when one is on the Riviera watching the gradual gathering of the strength of the European zone on its courts. The draw seems to me to be slightly lop-sided, but not so bad as it might have been expected with a blind draw.

The American zone needs no discussion. The four nations entered, United States, Canada, Cuba and Mexico, meet in that order and nothing but the most startling upset can prevent the United States from coming through to meet the European winner in the inter-zone final in Paris in July. No discussion of the teams in the zone is warranted at this time.

Europe presents an entirely different aspect. Both Australia and Japan are once more in competition and recognizing the absolute necessity of training in Europe have forsaken the American zone and wisely challenged in the European. It is a pity that our United States Association did not follow this lead and send its team to Europe early in the spring.

Germany Out of Running.

The outstanding contenders in the European zone, in my opinion, are Australia, Italy, Japan and Great Britain. Germany, which but for the unfortunate tragic death of Hans Moldenhauer, would have been almost a favorite, is now practically out of the running, having no one to fill his place. Holland is the fifth nation and dangerous if both Timmer and Diemer-Kool play. Unless Holland is lucky, I believe Japan should come through to the final.

The other half is full of interest. England meets Germany in the first round, thus bringing the two nations in combat at once instead of in the final as last year. However, Moldenhauer's death, coupled with the fact that the tie will be played in England this year, seems to rob Germany of any chance for victory. In the same quarter with England is Australia. This match may well decide the finalists of the zone and it is my opinion that a very close battle will result. I look to see a 3-2 margin, with Australia a slight favorite.

Interzone Final Close.

Italy should come through her quarter with no trouble and meet the winner of Australia and England.

The interzone final will be no set-up for anyone. If one thinks the United States can sail into the challenge round without a battle they grossly underestimate the teams of the other leading nations. Our team should have Lott, Allison and Van Ryn as certainties, with the fourth man from Doeg, Mercur, Coen or possibly Hennesey if he has recovered from his illness of last year. This is a strong team.

Allison and Van Ryn definitely proved last year how well they can play in Europe and should play the doubles in our Davis Cup ties over on the other side, no matter what their American record may be. Lott, notwithstanding his none too successful season in 1929, is a logical choice for one singles player in 1930 for he has more experience abroad than any other young player than Coen. The second singles player is a problem but I would recommend Van Ryn, Allison or Coen.

Australia Looks Strong.

However, consider for a moment the personnel of the leading teams any one of which may come through to the interzone final.

Australia with Jack Crawford, Harry Hopman, J. C. Willard and Moon looks promising.

Italy has Baron de Morpurgo whose record gives him a slight edge on any of our men. With him is Stefani, the ambidextrous player, whose improvement this year is remarkable.

England, with Bunny Austin, J. C. Gregory, I. G. Collins and Charles Kingsley, is a well rounded team whose strength in Europe is far greater than one would judge from the play of Austin in America last year.

American Team Should Win.

Japan is the dark horse. Harada evidently is playing as well or better than ever. His victory over Cochet in Japan proves it. Ohta and Abe are fine players, not quite good enough to beat our boys, but dangerous if any of our men should have a bad day. The new star of the team, Sato, who three times beat Brugnon in Japan, is said to be the most promising player Japan has yet discovered. If he improves steadily during the year he may prove a serious problem for anyone.

To give a brief resume of my impressions based on the Davis cup draw, I look to see America win her home zone with ease. I look to see the European semifinal fought between Japan vs. Holland, and Australia vs. Italy, with either Italy or Australia beating Japan in the final.

The interzone final looks like a tossup, with the United States needing to find a second singles player to support Lott if we are to challenge France.

WRESTLER GETS TOO ROUGH; CHASED OUT OF TOWN BY SOLDIERS

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 15.

THERE are limits to how rough a wrestler can get even in the eyes of the United States Army. When George Poulis of Paducah, Ky., began to "rough up" Bobby Myers of Portland, Ore., in a professional wrestling match at the Fort Sam Houston Gymnasium last night, the soldiers stood it just so long.

Then six military policemen jumped through the ropes, grabbed Poulis, escorted him to the edge of military reservation and instructed him to keep going, although he was clad only in ring togs and a bathrobe.

It was announced that Poulis would not be allowed to wrestle again at the army post.

Few Changes in State Bowling Meet Standings

The Moss five topped the teams. E. Wolf and J. Esser were high in the doubles and Jule Schmitt got the best total in the singles in the Missouri State Bowling Tournament on the Wellston Recreation alleys yesterday. The Moss team scored 2786, which placed it fifteenth in the standings. The scores for the class of bowlers were very low. The Moss team had games of 923, 935 and 928. Ray Holmes was best with games of 186, 222 and 210. Al Gehner got 590. Joe Weiss 508, E. Held 507 and Ray Niederinghaus 557.

The Flints were second for the day with 2785, Buss Wilson shot 647 for high. The E. A. Schaefers scored 2725, Congress Alleys 2583, Weeks 2573, Katy Specials 2550.

Wolf and Esser rolled 1198 in the doubles. Wolf had games of 226, 204 and 192 for a total of 622, Esser shot 202, 190 and 184 for 576. The pair gained third place.

M. Mulconnery and L. Groneck hit for 1194 for fifth place, Mulconnerry scoring 636 and Groneck 558. T. P. Forgey and W. John rolled into sixth place with 1189. L. Jackson and C. Gierke are seventh with 1186, Harry Dean and Jul Schmitt shot 1184 good for eighth place.

Juls Schmitt is tied for third place in the singles with 651. His games were 211, 243 and 197. A. Mieger counted 197, 245 and 203 for a 645 total and fifth place. J. Esser got 625 with games of 233, 210 and 182.

Out-of-town shooters will start bowling at nine this morning in the doubles and at 7 o'clock, 14 five-men teams will bowl and the final squad of 14 teams will take the drives at nine o'clock.

St. Louis teams hold the first 10 places in the five-men standings, and other places, except where Kansas City or St. Joseph bowlers are named as follows:

See Says European Promoter Would Back Carnera-Dempsey Go

JEFF DIXON, an American, who is a leading boxing promoter in Europe, has written to Leon See, Primo Carnera's manager, in response to an invitation by See to come to the United States and promote a match between Carnera and Jack Dempsey, that he would be delighted to do so if he could be sure that he would not arouse the jealousy of all other promoters in this country.

Dixon stated he would be glad to ask outstanding promoters here to associate themselves with him in the enterprise and further stated he was in position to post a guaranty fund of $1,000,000 for the match.

See wrote Dixon that everything necessary for a Carnera-Dempsey match was at hand except a promoter, able to promote.

Leon said he thought Dempsey would be willing to sign for the match if shown that its success was assured and that there was a real demand for it.

Doeg and Partner Lose to Hall and Pare in Net Meet

By the Associated Press.

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., March 15.—Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., and J. Emmet Pare, Dayton, O., won the South Florida doubles tennis championship in four hard-fought sets here today, beating John Doeg, Santa Monica, Cal., and Gus Feuer, University of Florida, 6-4, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2.

Doeg and Feuer led at 4-2 in the first set onlyy to have Pare win his service and with Hall even the count when they broke through Feuer's service. Hall won his service to get the edge at 5-4, and the set ended when Doeg's service was broken for the final game.

Pare and Feuer won the first game in the second set, but Hall and Pare ran the next six games to stand two sets to the good.

With the count three love against them in the third set, Doeg and Feuer took a new lease on life and ran out the next three games for the set, breaking Pare's service for the first time during the match. Feuer played his best tennis in this period, having 11 placements and making only six errors.

The last set was a thriller for the frist four games where the count stood two all, but the ultimate winners ran the next four games for the match, Hall playing the brilliant tennis for his side in the last three sets, making but six errors and corralling 17 placements.

The score was 6—3, 2—6, 6—4, 7—5.

TABLERS OPPOSE KOLSTER ELEVEN IN CITY TITLE CONTEST, TODAY

PROBABLE LINEUP

Tablers	Position	Kolsters
Dueker	Goal	M. Delaney
McGirl	L. B.	Runge
Dorley	R. B.	Anderson
Benoist	L. H. B.	T. Moore
Kane	C. H. B.	Hartigan
Schweppe	R. H. B.	E. Delaney
Brengle	O. L.	Hart
J. Moore	I. L.	O'Connell
Cronin	C.	Chartrand
Bochnicek	I. R.	Metz
McHenry	O. R.	Ikemeyer

Referee, Robert (Ribby) Murphy; linesmen, Nick Reidy and Len Zarschel. Time of halves, 45 minutes. Starting time of second game, 3 o'clock.

Preliminary game, which will start at 1:30 p. m., will be between Dolans and Cook A. C. Time of halves, 30 minutes. Referee, Oscar Mossman.

Having captured the Municipal Soccer League championship by defeating the Schenbergs in two straight games, the Kolsters today will endeavor to add the city championship to their list of titles. They invade the lair of professional soccer to oppose the Tablers at Sportsman's Park, the game starting at 3 p. m.

Year after year the Municipal League survivor tries to wrest the city title from the professional league, but the big leaguers have thus far repulsed the youngsters. Not so much in the matter of years of experience do the pros excell, but in point of steady play. In the lineup of the Kolsters, for instance, are many players who have had professional league experience. Competition in the professional league is keener, week in and week out, and the result is better team play.

All of Johnny Marre's players are Municipal League graduates, some of them first year men. McGirl, Dorley, Kane and McAuliffe are youngsters, both in years and experience.

Brothers will find themselves on opposing sides when Timmy Moore, left halfback of the Kolsters, faces Dinty Moore, inside left of the Tablers. They not only look alike but play much the same sort of football.

A preliminary game between the Cook A. C. and the Dolans will start at 1:20 p. m. Danny Murphy, former member of the Scullins, coaches the Dolans, and John Scully, former star at C. B. C., guided the Cooks to the Muny League semifinals. Both clubs are composed largely of youngsters.

The admission charge will be 50 cents.

60,000 SEE ENGLAND AND SCOTLAND PLAY TO TIE IN RUGBY MATCH

By the Associated Press.

TWICKENHAM, England, March 15.—The rugby teams of England and Scotland played to a scoreless draw this afternoon before a crowd of 60,000, including the Duke of York and Prime Minister MacDonald.

It was the fifty-second game for the Calcutta Cup, rugby football trophy. In the previous 51 games each side won 21 and nine were draws.

GUS SONNENBERG TO SHOW IN KANSAS CITY

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, March 15.—Gabe Kaufman, promoter, today announced that Gus Sonnenberg had agreed to wrestle in Kansas City, March 31, in the elimination tournament conducted here under the auspices of the Missouri Athletic Commission.

Originally it was planed to have Sonnenberg meet the winner of the tournament. The third round of which is scheduled for March 31. Kaufman said today Sonnenberg's opponent would be either Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former world's champion; Martin Plestina, Dan Koloff, or Henri Deglane.

WASHINGTON HIGH WINS INDIANA TITLE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 15.—Washington, (Ind.) High School tonight won the Indiana High School Athletic Association basketball championship by defeating Muncie, 32 to 21, in the final game of the State titular series. Muncie held a 14 to 12 advantage over the victors at half time.

Big Ten Meet Changed

By the Associated Press.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 15.—Maj. John L. Griffith, Commissioner of Athletics for the Western Conference, announced tonight the date of the Big Ten outdoor track and field championships had been changed from May 31 to May 24 in order to avoid confliction with the final examinations of some universities. The meet will be held at Northwestern University as originally planned.

Y. W. H. A. Girls Win

The Y. W. H. A. girls' basketball team defeated the Ste. Genevieve girls last night 56 to 11, on the Y. M. H. A. floor. Miss Bess Schwartz scored 16 and Miss Dorothy Garden 11 of the winners' points. Miss Petersen starred for Ste. Genevieve.

THREE AMATEUR CHAMPIONS ARE ON PROGRAM AT OVERLAND CLUB

Three newly crowned Mississippi Valley Athletic Association boxing champions will be seen in action on Tuesday night's amateur boxing show at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 2400 Woodson road, in Overland, St. Louis County, according to an announcement by George Wilsman, matchmaker for the Overland Athletic Club.

The three title holders are Carl Holst, heavyweight, Olympian A. C.; Werner Kranz, lightweight, Sherman Park A. C., and Frank Doxey, flyweight, Olympian A. C.

Holst, who was the "dark horse" entrant in the recent ring championships, has been re-matched to meet Ernest Doorac, South Broadway A. C. slugger. Holst outpointed the husky South Sider to take the crown, while in their first meeting Doorac won via the knockout route.

Herbst Made Good Showing.

Matchmaker Wilsman has selected Joe Herbst Jr. of the Olympian A. C. to serve as Kranz's opponent. The former found the going to his liking in the tournament fights, knocking out Paul French of the Olympian A. C. in the first round of the championship battle. Herbst did not enter the tourney because he was on the ailing list, but he reports he is now feeling fit. Herbst and Kranz have never met before, although both have been battling in local ring circles for the past three years.

Doxey's foe has not been selected as yet. The clever mid-city battler won as he pleased in the tournament fights and because of that Matchmaker Wilsman is determined to select a suitable opponent. In the deciding Valley bout, Doxey stopped Gene Burke of the Business Men's A. C. in the third round.

Kogel vs. Bush.

Another special match will bring together Richard Kogel of the Olympian A. C. and Johnny Bush, Tower A. C. slugger, who was runner-up in the South Broadway A. C. title fights. The welterweights engaged in a hectic scrap recently, a late rally in an extra round enabling Bush to win by a shade.

Bob Parkinson will referee the matches.

Two Collegiate Swim Records Set in Big 10 Meet

By the Associated Press.

EVANSTON, Ill., March 15.—Northwestern swimmers shattered two national collegiate records and topped off their performance by winning the Western Conference swimming championship in Patten Pool here tonight.

Michigan, conference champions for three straight years, was second.

The Purple swimmers won six of the nine events and collected 45 points. Michigan scored 31, Minnesota 12, Illinois 11. Iowa and Wisconsin 7, and Chicago 2. Howlett of Northwestern broke both the Big Ten and national collegiate marks in the 200-yard breaststroke event, swimming the distance in 2:35.6. The former national record was 2:36.5, established by Allen of the Navy, while the former Big Ten record of 2:37.4 was made by Peterson of Northwestern.

Dick Hinch, his teammate, broke his national collegiate and conference record of 1:40.4 in the 150-yard backstroke with the fast time of 1:39.6.

Captain Al Shwartz of Northwestern was high point scorer of the meet with firsts in the 40,100 and 220-yard free style events.

Northwestern's 300-yard medley relay team cracked its own conference mark in the event, skimming the water in 3:09.2. It's old mark was 3:10.6.

UNIVERSITY CITY LEADS HOCKEY RACE

The interscholastic hockey season closes with four more games to be played. McBride and University City meet in the first of the two this week and Normandy and Clayton face off in the second game tomorrow afternoon at the Winter Garden.

The race is still in doubt between McBride and University City. Normandy also will have a chance to win if its protest of last week's game is upheld. This week's games should see McBride and Normandy come out on top, but the University City team will still have a one-point hold on first place and will meet Clayton the following week.

If the league officials award Normandy a tie, McBride has an excellent chance to tie for the championship.

Illini Fencers Win

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 15.—Illinois tonight successfully defended its Big Ten fencing championship, winning first place in all three events, for 15 points. Chicago was second, with 6½; Northwestern fourth, 5; Purdue fourth, 4; Michigan fifth, 3½; Ohio State sixth, 1, and Wisconsin, seventh with ¾ point.

But he brings the bacon home
With a devastating right.

He may wobble on his legs,

"Y" BASEBALL LEAGUE ENTRIES CLOSE MARCH 31

Teams entering the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Baseball League for the coming season have until March 31 to file, it is announced by the committee in charge of organization plans. As in previous years, the league will be affiliated with the Municipal Baseball Association and will open the season about the last Saturday in April.

Most of the 24 teams that held berths in the league last season are expecting to enter again this year. Several new teams are expected to enter. All players must be on the payroll and employes of the industry they represent at least 60 days prior to the opening of the league. Anyone desiring information or entry blanks may obtain the same by addressing the Secretary of the League, Room 420, 1528 Locust street.

LELAND VICTOR OVER BRACEY IN TWO EVENTS

By the Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 15.—Roy Leland of Texas Christian University outran Claude Bracey, Rice Institute track star, twice in the Southwestern stock show meet here today.

Twice the T. C. U. flyer unlimbered his long legs to beat his more experienced rival to the tape. In the 100-yard dash it was by a foot; in the 220 it was 12 feet.

Paxton Tourney Results

CHICAGO, March 15.—Ace Hudkins, Nebraska wildcat, will meet Larry Johnson, Chicago colored contender for the light heavyweight championship, in a 10-round bout at Chicago Stadium, March 28, it was announced today.

THREE-CUSHION PLAYERS OPEN AMATEUR TITLE MEET TOMORROW

FRENCH LICK, Ind., March 15.—Sections from Coast-to-Coast will be represented in the national amateur three-cushion billiard championship tournament which opens at the French Lick Springs Hotel here tomorrow afternoon. Eight players—the defending champion and seven sectional representatives, will compete.

The entry list follows: Max Shimon of Milwaukee, the defending champion; Joseph Hall of San Francisco, winner of the Pacific Coast title; R. P. Harper of Denver, winner of the Rocky Mountain title; Bernard Fritz of Nashville, winner of the Southeastern title; John Toledano of New Orleans, winner of the Southwestern title; E. S. S. Carroll of New York, winner of the Eastern title; Ervin O. Tucker of Dedham, Mass., winner of the New England title, and Lewis N. Vogler of Indianapolis, Western representative.

Hall is rated the most dangerous player in the tournament. The Pacific Coast has had a monopoly on the three-cushion title during the last two years. Two seasons ago J. N. Bozeman of Vallejo, Cal., won the tournament while last year Charles A. Jordan of Los Angeles was the victor. Jordan was disqualified by the National Billiard Association when he won the Western sectional three-cushion professional tournament. Shimon won a special challenge match and thus gained possession of the crown.

Toledano Rated Dangerous.

Hall won the Pacific Southwest championship, then finished first in the play-off against the winner of the Pacific Northwest tournament.

Toledano is a player who will bear watching. He was second last year and this season finished in a triple tie in the Southwestern tournament at New Orleans. He won the tournament after two play-offs.

Fritz also was forced to play a strong game to win the Southeastern tournament, which was staged at Atlanta. He is a close student of billiards.

Carroll of the New York Athletic Club made an impressive showing in winning the Eastern sectional and while he is not expected to win, he is counted upon to supply some genuine opposition.

Harper again will represent the Rocky Mountain district. This Denver Athletic Club representative is a seasoned player and one capable of some fine performances.

Tucker went through a strong field to finish in front in the New England section. This will be his first national championship tourney.

Vogler was selected when R. S. Hubbell of Cleveland, Western winner, was unable to make the trip to French Lick on account of business. Vogler is a former Western amateur titleholder.

Games of 50 Points.

Shimon finished third in last year's tournament. He defeated Perry Dickens, also of Milwaukee, in the challenge match. He defended the title successfully against Bud Westhus of St. Louis in St. Louis.

All games will be at 50 points each. The schedule calls for 28 games, with four being played Monday, five on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, and four on Saturday. James J. Peabody of Chicago will referee.

Cambridge Wins Over Oxford in Track, 8 to 3

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 15.—Cambridge defeated Oxford by eight events to three in the sixty-second athletic meet between the two universities at Stamford Bridge this afternoon.

This was Cambridge's fifth successive victory and the thirty-first time she had won from the Oxonians. Scoring was by first places only. Oxford has won 25 times, while six times the meet has been a drawn affair.

The only American student in either university figuring in the results was H. H. Bayley of Cambridge and Columbia University who tied for second place in the pole vault with F. Jacquard Smith, Oxford, at 10 feet 6½ inches.

Congress Pin Meet Opens

The Congress Elimination Tournament with a field of 30 bowlers will roll their first round matches today on the Congress Alleys. Eight matches are scheduled at 2 o'clock, with the remaining matches at 3 o'clock. Each contest will be three out of five games and is being bowled on a 60 per cent handicap basis.

Following are the pairings for the first round:

GALAHAD EASY WINNER OVER FIELD OF FIVE AT NEW ORLEANS TRACK

HEAD PIN WINS FIRST RACE AND PAYS BACKERS $51.30 FOR $2

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, March 15.—The Reuter Stable's Galahad, with Palumbo up, won the fourth race, a mile and one-sixteenth gallop, which featured the program here today at Jefferson Park. By Product was second and War Instigator, third. Mole Hill was fourth and Islam fifth and last.

There were only five starters, with War Instigator favorite, while the price on Galahad receded in the betting, but when it came to racing it was really no contest. War Instigator showed a flash of speed and led for half a mile, then stopped when Galahad ran into the lead.

The last half mile of the journey was simply a breeze for the Reuter gelding, which won by five lengths. By Product beat War Instigator two lengths for the place. The time was 1:53 4-5.

Head Pin Pays $51.30.

Head Pin, which paid $51.30 for a $2 ticket, won the opening race. Good Shepherd was second and Old Bill third. Head Pin ran a remarkable race. He was last away from the barrier, but went up on the outside and coming very wide in the stretch, won in the last stride by a head. Good Shepherd beat Old Bill half a length for the place. The time was 1:17 3-5.

Vole, heavily played, won in a driving finish in the second event, a mile and one-quarter gallop. He ran the 10 furlongs in 2:17 2-5. Bill Phillips was second and Kajaba third. Turquoise rushed to the front and set the pace for a mile. Then his heavy impost of 116 began to tell and he stopped badly, while Vole took up the running to win by half a length. Bill Phillips beat Kajaba two lengths for the place. The winner paid $7.70 .

True Boy was an easy winner of the third event, a mile and one-quarter gallop for older horses, and paid $11.50 for $2. Jim Bell was second and Isostasy third. The time was 2:16 3-5. Flag Lieutenant Isostasy alternated in the lead for the first mile. True Boy came around and taking command, won by three lengths. Jim Bell beat Isostasy a length for the place.

Bob Kernan Wins.

Bob Kerman, racing in the Reuter Stable silks, made it a double for that stable when he romped away with the purse in the fifth race. Lincoln Plaut was second and Tommy Tickle third. Aregal, the favorite, ran a miserable race, being outrun from the start. His performance was away below his best form in the mud. Bob Kernan ra ninto a long early lead and making all the pace won by four lengths. Lincoln Plaut beat Tommy Tickle a like distance for the place.

Villager won the sixth race, a gallop of a mile and one furlong and which paid $5 for a $2 ticket. Lena M was second and Haymaker third. Haymaker led for a mile by a wide margin but in the final furlong tired and Villager, closing fast, won by half a length. Lena M beat Haymaker a length for the place. The time was 2:02 3-5.

Veterans Return For Track Team At Webster High

Spring sports, baseball and track, are under way at Webster High. The track season opens with the Boonville meet next Saturday, while baseball starts against Hancock March 31. With most of last year's stars returning, the track team is expected to star this season. Baseball prospects also are bright.

Of the men counted on to bring laurels to the track team, Bill Freschl is outstanding. He is expected to better his mark in the shotput, and his dash time may improve. Another dash man is Walter Leck. The two Sibley brothers, Paul and Dow, are returning and they, with Leck and one other, will make up a fast relay team. Paul Sibley is also a weight man.

Frank Fuchs and "Tubby" Harkey are the main hopes in the high and low hurdles. Rustemeyer will work on the shotput. Evans, a junior, is practicing for the middle distances.

Coach Gaines has some fine material from which to pick his baseball team and he will have a difficult decision when he cuts his squad to 18 or 19 tomorrow afternoon.

Shortage of Pitchers.

Gaines has one big worry, and that is a shortage of pitchers. Bud Thompson, the star of the Webster hurlers last year, was lost by graduation, as was Moser, another pitcher. The only regular mound man returning is Hudson. Dan Coyne, outfielder, is being considered for the pitching staff.

Among the candidates for a position on the receiving end of the Webster battery are "Red" Barrie, "Bugs" Bayer, and Milton Young. All are new men. Harold Steinmeyer is making a bid for first base. Floyd Schutz, who was unanimously elected captain recently, will play second base, while Coates and Scott, other veterans, are working at third and shortstop. Several newcomers are giving the oldtimers a hard fight. Among these are Bob Devine and Charlie Haywood. The outfield, with the exception of Coyne, probably will be composed of new players.

Six Receive Basket Letters.

Yesterday the Webster "W" Club, an organization of lettermen, met and decided upon the letter awards to the basketball players. Six, Gustafson, Nisbet, Harkey, Leck, Sawyer and Hicks, received letters. Four others, Moller, Flint, Weigel and Connors, were given numerals.

Grand National Favorite Beaten in 3-Mile Race

NINE AMATEUR BOXERS ENTER A.A.U. TOURNEY

Nine entries from St. Louis amateur boxers, and three from Muskogee, Ok., have been received to date for the Western A. A. U. district boxing championships which will be held Thursday night at the Coliseum.

The Oklaoma fighters are Emil Steubgen, featherweight; Howard Renfrow, lightweight, and Joe Vernon, welterweight. Renfrow, a high school athlete, probably has the best chance of winning a Western A. A. U. title. His records show seven one-round knockouts. He won the Oklahoma State championship in just 52 seconds of fighting.

The 1929 Oklahoma Citizens' Military Training camp's welterweight belt belongs to Vernon. This 147 pounder is the most experienced fighter of Muskogee's amateur crop. Steubgen, who has been advancing fast during the last year, won the C. M. T. C. featherweight crown last year.

Leslie Schulte, a local heavyweight, who Friday night won the National A. A. U. junior crown in this class, will also be seen Thursday night. Louis Vollmer, hard-hitting local welterweight who went into the semi-finals in the National A. A. U. junior tournament, will also show his punching powers at the Coliseum.

Nathan Crystal, Edward Boxley, Joey Parks and Joe Borich are some of the other local stars who will compete.

58 THOROUGHBREDS ARE STABLED AT FAIRMOUNT

EASTER HERO IS BEING GIVEN RAY TREATMENT FOR STRAINED TENDON

SWINDON, England, March 15.—J. H. Whitney's Steeplechaser, Easter Hero, who is entered in the Grand National, March 28, is undergoing ray treatment here for a strained tendon.

F. H. Cundell, veterinary surgeon, said that Easter Hero was making normal improvement and was a little better. He added it would not be possible to say definitely for four or five days whether Easter Hero would be able to compete in the Grand National.

GALLANT FOX STILL CHOICE IN DERBY, NOW, 8-1

Shortening of odds is shown in the current quotations on entries in the Kentucky Derby, several horses having been reduced from 100 to 60 or 40 to 1.

Gallant Fox remains the favorite in the figures quoted by Tom Kearney, local authority, and is now at 8 to 1. Gallant Fox had been held at 10 to 1.

Late 100 to 1 shots reduced to 40 to 1 are Broadway Limited and Uncle Luther. Others reduced to 60 to 1 are All Upset, Buckeye Poet and Busy.

The second choices in the early figuring are Dedicate, Desert Light and Flying Heels, at 10 to 1. Next come High Foot and Ned O, 12 to 1. Spinach is at 15 to 1, and Gone Away and Grattan are held at 20 to 1.

BREAK O' DAWN WINS BY SIX LENGTHS AT AGUA CALIENTE

By the Associated Press.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., March 15.—Break O'Dawn, running in the colors of Benny Creech, easily won the Western Air Express claiming handicap, the feature on today's program. Fred Almy's Labellotte, the favorite, was second, and the Dago, from the stable of J. McNamara, was third. The winner paid $17.40. J. Redding rode the winner and this made a double for him today, he having ridden Busy Seth, the winner of the fifth.

Taking a long lead in the stretch, Break O'Dawn won easily by six lengths. Labellotte closed fast and finished half a length in front of the Dago. The latter bore out in the stretch but headed Morsun in the final run.

FLYERS TO PLAY FINAL HOCKEY GAMES HERE MONDAY AND TUESDAY

The St. Louis Flyers will close their local hockey campaign this week when they meet the Tulsa Oilers tomorrow and Tuesday nights at the Winter Garden. The Flyers suffered the hardships of nine defeats and one tie and four injured players on the just-concluded road trip.

Moose Jamieson has a bad left eye, which will probably keep him out of the game. Although Nobby Clark is nursing his eyes he is expected to play as is Billy Hill and Larry Goyer. Hill has an injured ankle and Goyer a bruised back.

NAISHAPUR 5-2 FAVORITE FOR AGUA CALIENTE STAKE MARCH 23

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, March 15.—The withdrawal of Golden Prince, along with others from the Agua Caliente Handicap field, leaves Naishapur the favorite to win the $140,000 stake on Sunday, March 23.

Surprising as was the announcement of the withdrawal of Golden Prince, it appears that there was sufficient grounds for uneasiness of his owners after his disappointing race of Sunday, March 2, when the "prince" finished last in a field of six.

Other recent races had a big bearing on the decision of owners to scratch horses which had been considered serious contenders. In these test efforts, Scimitar came out best, beating as he did Naishapur, Alexander Pantages, Victorian, Vanity, My Dandy, all probable starters in the stake. The distance was a mile and a sixteenth and Scimitar carried 105 pounds.

Those now considered almost positive starters follow: Alexander Pantages, Donnay, Dowagiac, Hatrick, Listo, Longus, Naishapur, Scimitar, Uluniu, Victorian and Wirt G. Bowman. There is also a possibility that the following will go to the post: Brown Wisdom, Calf Roper, Gold Rush, Good and Hot, Leucite, My Dandy and Vanity. If the track is muddy Jim Dandy and Trieze will probably go.

Following are the revised odds on the outstanding contenders:

Naishapur	2½ to 1
Scimitar	4 to 1
Dowagiac	4 to 1
Victorian	6 to 1
Brown Wisdom	6 to 1
Alexander Pantages	15 to 1
Donnay	15 to 1
Hatrick	15 to 1
Listo	15 to 1
Longus	15 to 1
Uluniu	20 to 1
Wirt G. Bowman	20 to 1

T. LOUIS SENDS 166 PLAYERS TO MAJOR AND MINOR LEAGUES

6 IN NATIONAL, 7 IN AMERICAN; JEWEL ENS IS PILOT OF PIRATES

St. Louis, long known as the "cradle" of baseball, because of the large number of players it sends to the major and minor leagues, will be represented in the national pastime this season by 143 players who have signed their 1930 contracts, and 21 who still are looking for places.

St. Louis sends more of its native-born to baseball diamonds than any other city in the country, Chicago and New York not excepted. St. Louis also has a larger baseball colony every winter than any other city.

In the major leagues there are four St. Louis coaches, three in the National League and one in the American. One, a former coach, Jewel Ens, is manager of the Pirates, and the city has a major league umpire in Mike Donohue of the National League.

As for major league connections, the city has 16 players in the National League, four of them with the Cardinals and seven in the American League, not counting men who are just residents, like Sisler and Hornsby. In the "ivory department" St. Louis furnishes two scouts in the National League and four in the American League. Other notables are two minor league club owners, one minor league business manager and seven minor league managers, two of them Class AA pilots in the American Association, Albert "Lefty" Leifield of St. Paul and Edward "Dutch" Zwilling of Kansas City.

St. Louis boasts of such players as Andy High, Ray Blades, Wallie Roettger, Charley Grimm, Fresco Thompson, Gene Robertson, Jimmy Welch, Jewel Ens, Billy Walker, Jim Elliott, Harold "Muddy" Ruel, Chalmers Cissell and others.

McGraw Suggests Spreading Player's Salary Over Eight Months to End Holdout Fever

By John J. McGraw,
Manager, New York Giants.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 15.—Practically all the so-colled holdouts are in the various training camps now and team work for 1930 is beginning to click, but the annual annoyance of ball players failing to sign their contracts and reporting late brings about a harmful situation that should not exist. Steps must sooner or later be taken to stop it and I believe that I can suggest a way.

John McGraw.

I doubt if the average fan realizes how much harm these hold-out players can do a ball club, and particularly, to themselves. I could point out a half dozen cases right now—and I believe you could, too—where players have been of little value to their teams all season on account of failure to get in condition in the spring. How can a ballplayer report two or three weeks later than his teammates and expect to get away to a good start? No athlete is that much of a superman. I don't think they realize it.

Mind you, I find no fault with the ballplayer who takes time and carefully considers the terms of his contract before he signs it. He should be enough of a business man to do the best he can for himself. I have been a ball player and understand those things just as other managers do. There is no excuse, however, for a player allowing anything to lessen his playing efficiency.

There may be a flaw in the present system. That can and should be remedied. At present, you know, the player receives so much for a season, the salary being paid over a period of six months. The pay begins on the first day of the regular season, the year's salary being divided into equal bi-monthly checks. Consequently some players do not consider it imperative to report for duty until just before the season starts. They figure that they lose nothing because they are working without pay during the training period. The thing they overlook is that the club is paying their expenses while getting in shape to fulfill their end of the contract. In other words, the club by offering a player a contract in advance is taking all the chances.

Spread Pay Over Eight Months.

Now, I think this situation could be avoided by spreading the year's salary over a period of eight months instead of six, the pay starting the first of March and ending the latter part of October.

Do you see the advantage of that? If the player knew that his pay began March 1, and that if he did not report by that time he would get no pay, he would quickly find it to his advantage to show up and get in shape.

It makes no difference to a ball club just when the pay should start as the total amount has to be paid during the year.

Of course, there will always be some so-called hold-outs but the scheme I have suggested would start them holding out sooner and everything would be adjusted so as not to interfere with the training of the teams so as to have them in first class condition to start the season. I already have suggested this idea to the league and I believe that it would work. Nothing tends to urge a man in any profession to go to work so much as the knowledge that if he doesn't he will be losing pay.

Many players in recent years have asked leaves of absence so as to attend to their farms or their business. They do not realize, perhaps, that their business interests have been built up through baseball.

Should Prepare for Summer.

The ballplayer is worth to himself just what he earns in the way of success during the ball season. The impression that he should be paid for his drawing ability at the exhibition games in the early spring is due largely to a failure to consider the real facts. The fans in smaller cities who go to see Babe Ruth hit home runs, for example, are really paying to see the man who hit them last summer. In other words, if he didn't hit them during the regular season the fans would not be so anxious to see him in the spring. It is therefore up to the player to center his efforts on preparation for his work in the summer.

No man can start three weeks later than his teammates and expect to catch up with them. I have known several cases where players ruined their efficiency for a whole season by not reporting for duty early enough in the spring. The older a player gets the more necessary is it for him to start early and gradually get in shape.

County League Baseball Season Opens April 4

The County High School League will open its baseball season April 4. On this date all 10 teams will see action. Maplewood meets Ferguson; Hancock plays University City; Clayton opposes Wellston; Kirkwood meets Jennings, and Ritenour faces Normandy. This is the first time in several seasons that 10 schools have entered, Clayton being the new member.

Most of the coaches have already started practice. Others will start this week.

Last season's race ended in a three-way tie between Kirkwood, Normandy and University City.

Coach Wahlbrink's Maplewood nine may be stronger this year as he has not lost a single man. Wahlbrink also got an early start, his boys having been out for practice for two weeks.

The County League schedule:

April 4.—Maplewood vs. Ferguson; Hancock vs. University City; Clayton vs. Wellston; Kirkwood vs. Jennings; Ritenour vs. Normandy.
April 11. — Maplewood vs. Hancock; Clayton vs. Ferguson; Kirkwood vs. University City; Ritenour vs. Wellston; Normandy vs. Jennings.
April 18. — Maplewood vs. Clayton; Kirkwood vs. Hancock; Ritenour vs. Ferguson; Normandy vs. University City; Jennings vs. Welston.
April 25. — Maplewood vs. Kirkwood; Ritenour vs. Clayton; Normandy vs. Hancock; Jennings vs. Ferguson; Wellston vs. University City.
May 2.—Maplewood vs. Ritenour; Normandy vs. Kirkwood; Jennings vs. Clayton; Wellston vs. Hancock; University City vs. Ferguson.
May 9.—Maplewood vs. Normandy; Jennings vs. Ritenour; Wellston vs. Kirkwood; University City vs. Clayton; Ferguson vs. Hancock.
May 16. — Maplewood vs. Jennings; Wellston vs. Normandy; University City vs. Ritenour; Ferguson vs. Kirkwood; Hancock vs. Clayton.
May 23. — Maplewood vs. Wellston; University City vs. Jennings; Ferguson vs. Normandy; Hancock vs. Ritenour; Clayton vs. Kirkwood.
May 30. — Maplewood vs. University City; Ferguson vs. Wellston; Hancock vs. Jennings; Clayton vs. Normandy; Kirkwood vs. Ritenour.

VINCENT RICHARDS AND PARTNER WIN PRO TENNIS DOUBLES

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 15.—Vincent Richards of New York and George Agutter, Palm Beach and New York, defeated Paul L. Heston, Washington, and Charles M. Wood Jr., New York, in the doubles final of the annual Southern professional tennis tournament here today.

WESTERN AND EASTERN SOCCER TITLE CONTESTS SCHEDULED TODAY

Divisional championships in the United States Football Association title competition will be decided in games at the Polo Grounds, New York, and Detroit University Field, Detroit, this afternoon. In the Eastern contest, two old rivals, Fall River and Bethlehem, battle for the title. The Western game brings together the Holleys of Detroit and the Bruells American-Hungarians of Cleveland.

The winners of these matches will meet in a best two-out-of-three series for the national championship, won last season by the Hakoah All-Stars of New York in straight matches from the Madisons of St. Louis.

Both Have Played Here.

In the Western final two elevens, which have been seen in action in this city, will battle for honors. The Holleys played an exhibition match here during the Christmas holiday and gave the Ben Millers a lesson in how the game should be played, winning 5 goals to 2. In this contest, the Holleys showed a well-balanced eleven with plenty of punch and a strong defense.

The Bruells completely outplayed and defeated the Tablers, leaders in the St. Louis league, 3 goals to 1, in a Western semifinal. The Holleys and Bruells have battled twice this season in Western Intercity League matches. In the first the Holleys won, 3 to 1, but the second resulted in a 4-4 draw. The Holleys earned the right to play the Cleveland team in the Western final, defeating the Bricklayers of Chicago, 2 to 1, the victory coming as a result of a penalty kick.

Teams Have Fine Records.

The two rivals in the East are considered among the best in the country, and have long been identified with the title series, inasmuch as both elevens have several times held the championship. Fall River's last title came several years ago, when the eleven walloped the Detroit Holleys by an overwhelming score.

Bill Tilden and Miss Aussem Win Nice Net Honors

By the Associated Press.

NICE, France, March 15.—Bill Tilden and his German partner, Miss Cecilie Aussem, won the honors in mixed doubles in the Nice championship tennis tournament defeating Charles F. Aeschliman of Switzerland and Mrs. Isaac, 6—3, 3—6, 6—3.

Tilden plays Lyttleton Rogers of Ireland in the singles final tomorrow.

The first game in the finals to decide the girls' junior championship of the Municipal Basketball League will be played at Mullanphy Community Center, Tuesday evening, between the Continental team and the Purinas.

PICKED FERGUSON TEAM TO PLAY OLSON'S FIVE

Olson's Terrible Swedes, who have won 91 out of 105 basketball games this year, will oppose a selected Ferguson team Friday, March 21, at the Ferguson High School. The Swedes have won 534 games in the last nine years.

The probable lineup for the Swedes will be: C. M. Olson and Lefty Byers, forwards; Anthony Wapp, center; Bonnie Stewart and Earl Cartwright, guards. Raymond West is another forward who will be used in the game.

While the Ferguson team has not been selected, it is probable that Fred Schulze and Aleck Burgess will be the forwards; Joel Hall the center, and Harold Tuthill and Gene Slater or Phil Sheridan, guards. Burgess, Hall and Slater are members of the high school quintet.

WILL OF GEORGE M. BURNS, CONTESTED BY HEIRS, UPHELD

Testament of Railways Steel Springs Agent Admitted to Probate.

The will of George M. Burns, sales agent of the Railway Steel Springs Co., who died Aug. 16, 1926, at his home, 5385 Pershing avenue, was formally sustained and ordered admitted to probate by Circuit Judge Rutledge yesterday. The will made bequests totaling $30,000 and left the residue to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children, a Masonic institution.

Suit to set aside the will on the ground that Burns was mentally impaired was filed by four heirs, whose fathers were John C. and Joseph Burns, deceased half-brothers of the testator. They set forth that the estate was worth $200,000, although an inventory placed its value at $141,964. The will was written about two months before Burns died.

There was no objection to Judge Rutledge's order, it being stated that the claims of the petitioners had been adjusted. Attorney James R. Claiborne, representing the estate, indicated that approximately $5000 had been paid in compromise. Witnesses to the will testified Burns was in normal mental condition when he signed the document. He was 68 years old and was a bachelor. He bequeathed $10,000 to the public library of Coshocton, O., his native city.

Italian Novelist Dies.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, March 15. — Antonio Beltramelli, novelist and member of the Royal Academy of Italy, died today at the age of 55. In addition to novels, Beltramelli wrote literary reviews and political articles and was the author of a life of Premier Mussolini.

RECORD FEBRUARY CIRCULATION OF BOOKS BY PUBLIC LIBRARY

Use of 327,791 Volumes Represents 24 Per Cent Increase Over Month Five Years Ago.

A circulation of 327,791 volumes by the St. Louis Public Library for the month of February, the largest number for any February since the founding of the library and an increase of 24 per cent over the figures of five years ago, was reported yesterday by Dr. Arthur E. Bostwick, Librarian.

Among the branch libraries, which circulated 58 per cent of the total, the Carpenter Branch, Grand boulevard and Utah place, issued the largest number of books, 23,913 volumes. During the month 4050 library cards were issued to persons who had not used the library before. More than 4000 new books were added to the shelves in the some period.

Criminal Cases in U. S. Court Have Increased 1000 Per Cent Since 1910

Volstead Law Chiefly Responsible—Other Factors Are the Mann, Dyer and Harrison Anti-Narcotic Acts.

Since 1910 the number of criminal prosecutions instituted in the United States District Court at St. Louis, under Federal penal laws, has increased from 98 for that year to 1119 for 1929.

This manifold growth has been coincident with the enactment by Congress of various laws defining offenses for which individuals are subject to prosecution in the Federal courts. The Volstead act has been most prolific in piling up cases for the Federal judges, but other penal statutes have contributed their share.

The laws most responsible for the increase, besides the Volstead act, are the Mann act passed in 1910, the law covering thefts from interstate shipments enacted in 1913, the Harrison antinarcotic act of 1914, and the Dyer act of 1919 covering interstate transportation of stolen automobiles. The Volstead act was passed in 1919 and recently has been strengthened by the Jones law providing severer penalties for liquor violators.

By 1918 the number of prosecutions in the District Court had risen to 422 and in 1923 it went up to 1112. The next four years it was around 900 and in 1928 went up to 1211. In 1910 with 98 cases there was one judge, now there are two for more than 1000 cases a year.

The result of this situation has been to force the judges to assess light penalties on pleas of guilty to avoid the large number of trials that would hopelessly clog the machinery of the court. About 160 cases is the maximum that could be tried by the two judges in a year and if many of the cases were not disposed of on pleas of guilty the court would soon be far behind.

As it is, the two judges disposed of 1097 cases last year, some of which had come over from the year before, leaving 278 pending at the close of the year.

Another bill is before Congress which would greatly increase the business of the Federal courts. It would make it a felony under Federal statute to transport any stolen goods from one state to another. This bill has been passed by the House. Like most of the existing Federal penal acts, it is aimed at an offense for which adequate punishment is provided by state laws.

PRIMARY ELECTION TO BE HELD IN KIRKWOOD ON TUESDAY

A primary election to name two candidates for Mayor and four for Commissioners will be held at Kirkwood Tuesday. The commission form of government recently was adopted there. A Mayor and two Commissioners will be elected April 1.

The nomination of candidates for Mayor will be a mere formality since only two have filed. They are Joseph R. Matthews, banker and manufacturer, and A. S. Kinyon, merchant and banker, who opposed each other for Mayor in 1029, Matthews wining by five votes.

Three members of the present Board of Aldermen are candidates for commissioner. They are Ernst M. Dierl, Frank F. Stone and C. W. Wheeler. Other candidates are C. S. Sample, Irvine A. McGirk and William L. Hoeman.

MRS. ELLEN MARTIN, 85, DIES

Mrs. Ellen Martin, 85 years old, died from the infirmities of age Friday evening at her home, 3911 Castleman avenue. She had lived in St. Louis 55 years, and was the mother of John J. Martin, a clerk in the Postoffice, Walter F. Martin of New York, a former Colonel in the United States Army, and the late Stephen A. Martin.

"Steve" Martin was widely known in newspaper work and as a singer, was clerk of the House of Delegates, and at the time of his death in 1918 was St. Louis manager for a bonding concern.

The funeral will be from St. Margaret's Catholic Church, Thirty-ninth street and Flad avenue, at 10 a. m. tomorrow, with interment in Calvary Cemetery.

IOWA TOWN MARSHAL SHOT TO DEATH BY TWO STUDENTS

Officer of Dyersville Killed by Youths, One of Whom Wore Girl's Clothes.

DUBUQUE, Ia., March 15.—Raymond McCormick, 17 years old, and Gerald Haberman, 16, high school students at Prairie du Sac, Wis., confessed to Sheriff F. J. Kennedy today that they shot and killed Henry Hanfeldt, Marshal of Dyersville, Ia., this morning. The boys were arrested at East Dubuque, Ill., a few hours after the shooting. McCormick was dressed in girl's clothing. The boys said Haberman did the shooting, while they were fleeing from Luxemberg, Ia., where they had held up and robbed Matt White, manager of a filling station.

Death Has Removed Most Of the Statesmen and Soldiers Of War, Lloyd George Notes

He Lists as Survivors Only Petain, Pershing, Hindenburg, Ludendorff, Poincare, Berchtold, King Albert and Ex-Kaiser.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE,
War-Time Premier of England.
(Copyright, 1930.)

LONDON, March 15.

ADMIRAL VON TIRPITZ is the latest of the great war figures to pass away. Death has now removed most of the notable men of the war—statesmen and warriors. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, who will go down in history as the author of the notorious "scrap of paper" indiscretion, died soon after the war. He was an honest, well-meaning, peace-loving man of good administrative abilities, but quite unfitted by his abilities or temperament to cope with the deluge. He fought Von Tirpitz both before and during the war. Before the war he did his best to restrain that fatal battleship program of the ambitious Admiral which was partly responsible for bringing Britain into the war on the side of the French.

It was Von Tirpitz who frustrated the Haldane mission. But for him Von Bethmann-Hollweg would have reached an understanding with Britain for restriction of naval ship building on both sides. Von Tirpitz won the support of the Kaiser and the mischief, as later events proved, accelerated the pace toward the World War. Von Bethmann-Hollweg also fought von Tirpitz on the question of an unlimited submarine campaign. This brought the United States into the war on the side of the Allies. Von Tirpitz contended to the end that, had it not been for Von Bethmann-Hollweg's timidity, a ruthless submarine campaign would have been waged at the beginning of the war with the result that Britain would have been starved into surrender long before America came in.

There is far too much to be said for Von Tirpitz' point of view to make us contemplate the French submarine program with equanimity. The submarines the French are constructing are larger, better equipped and more numerous than those Admiral von Tirpitz had at his command, and they have sheltering harbors along the most vulnerable of our trade routes.

Viviani Died Soon After War.

But let us resume the list of fallen war notabilities. There is Viviani, the eloquent and neurotic French Premier who was paralyzed with terror when suddenly confronted with the greatest and most devastating invasion of France since Attila's. He was the most brilliant of all French orators, but his was not the oratory of action. It always reminded you of a pyrotechnic display from the Eiffel tower and not of the deadly flashes of Verdun. When I saw him soon after the declaration of war he looked like a man whose faculties had been completely overwhelmed by the unexpected catastrophe. He survived the war, but not for long.

Count von Berchtold, Austrian Minister, whose arrogant stupidity was primarily responsible for the war, is still living, but his adversary, the astute old Serbian statesman, Pashitch, who did his best to avert the war by going to the very limit in his practical acceptance of Berchtold's ultimatum, has gone the way of all flesh. He survived the disasters of 1915 and in the three years that followed he saw his small country become a powerful kingdom. It was just as well he did not live long enough to see the Slavonic federation he built up on freedom and good will degenerate into an autocracy dependent for its continuance on force.

Berchtold's imperial masters, Franz Joseph and Carl, have died, one during the war and the other, a penurious exile in an Atlantic island far from home, a few years after the war. The amiable but weak Russian Czar was brutally butchered with all his family in a squalid cellar shortly before the war ended. His chief minister, Sozonof, is also dead. The charlatan Rasputin, who played such a part in the downfall of the Czar, was assassinated in 1917. Baron Sonino, who was responsible for bringing Italy into the war, on the side of the Allies, died soon after the establishment of the Fascist regime.

Other Notables Dead.

Lord Asquith, Britain's Premier when war was declared, Aug. 4, 1914, died two years ago. Talaat Pasha and Envor Pasha, who brought Turkey into the war, were assassinated some time ago. Constantine, the perfidious Greek King, is dead and his minister, the courtly Counaris, was shot as a traitor by the order of a Greek tribunal. President Wilson and Clemenceau are no more.

Of the statesmen who took a prominent part in the direction of the war there are barely half a dozen left. Of those who had primary responsibility for the direction of the events that led to the war, there are only four still living, the former Kaiser, Raymond Poincare, Lord Grey and Count Berchtold. To these may perhaps be added King Albert of the Belgians.

On the military side there has been just as considerable a passing away of the great names of the war. Marshall Foch, greatest of the soldiers of the war, preceded Clemenceau in death by a few months. These two patriots who loved France profoundly had just as deep a hatred for each other. Some of the best known of the French Generals have passed away. Gen. Gallieni, the military governor of Paris who organized the famous taxicab transport that played such a part in the saving of Paris; Gen. Manoury, who led into action the troops driven to the front in Parisian taxis; Gen. Sarrail, hero of Nancy; Gen. Mangin, one of the finest fighting Generals of the war.

On the British side, the two commanders in chief on the Western front—French and Haig, are both dead. The two Italian commanders-in-chief, Cadorna and Diaz, also are dead. Generals Moltke and Falkenhayn, who at one time commanded the German forces, are both dead. The most brilliant of all the German Generals — Von Hoffman — died a short time ago. He organized the great drive on the Eastern front which finally broke the power of Russia and forced it first into revolution and then to the humiliating treaty of Brest-Litovsk.

One of Greatest Generals.

Competent writers regard him as the greatest of all the German military leaders. The contact he then established with the Bolshevik leaders imbued him with the detestation of Bolshevism which obsessed him to the day of his death. He spent the last years of his life in futile and rather foolish endeavors to organize a combined military attack from the west on Soviet Russia in order to stamp out Communism by force.

On the Russian side, two of the greatest soldiers produced on that frontier—the Grand Duke Nicolas and Gen. Alexieff—have died since the war.

The only outstanding military figures of the war still left are Von Hindenburg, Ludendorff, Petain and Pershing. To these history will probably add the name of Gen, von Weygand, one of the greatest staff officers of all time.

It is only 11 years since the

HOW CHICAGO WENT BROKE

Collapse of Taxing Machinery, Designed to Fit Only a Village, and Municipal Favoritism and Graft Responsible for Extraordinary Condition—Committee of Bankers Doles Out Loan Funds to Officials, Who Still Have Titles but No Power Over Expenditures.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

CHICAGO, March 15.

CONTROL of the government of Chicago has passed from the hands of the politicians, who have made a sorry mess of it, to the dictatorship of bankers. The politicians still have the official titles and still function under the forms of law, but not one dollar can they spend except under the supervision of the banker group, which doles out the funds for purposes it approves and withholds them when it disapproves.

Just now the dictatorship appears a benevolent one, made necessary by a condition of virtual municipal bankruptcy, due principally to a breakdown of taxing machinery, which functioned well for the village days of Chicago, but which has proved entirely inadequate to the demands of modern progress.

Fundamentally that can be assigned as the principal reason, but as a strong contributing factor appears the years of sordid political favoritism and graft which has pervaded many of the municipal administrations in the last half century.

Bankers Gain Power by Advancing Money.

But whatever the necessities of the present situation and the commendation which goes out to the bankers who stepped in to "save Chicago," the fact stands out clearly that the ruling of the city has gone from its citizens into the hands of the few who control the wealth of the city, contrary to every principal of American government.

The bankers assumed the management of Chicago's fiscal affairs a few days ago, after agreeing to advance to the city $74,000,000 in addition to $185,000,000, which they had advanced in 1928 and 1929, the $74,000,000 being the amount required to meet the city, county and school payrolls until July.

Neither Chicago, Cook County nor the school district had collected any taxes for two years because of a complete reassessment of all real estate in the city and county, ordered by the State Tax Commission when evidence was produced of gross inequalities in the 1927 assessment. The reassessment was fought through the courts up to the Supreme Court and tax collections delayed at the instance of the political bosses of the Thompson administration in Chicago in an effort to prevent a readjustment which threatened a disruption of political practices in connection with assessments, which had done much to build up the power of the bosses.

By early this year the Chicago banks held claims against the city, county and school district, aggregating $185,000,000 for funds advanced on tax anticipation warrants, 40,182 employes were demanding backpay to the amount of $11,276,157, and there was no money to pay either the banks or the workers.

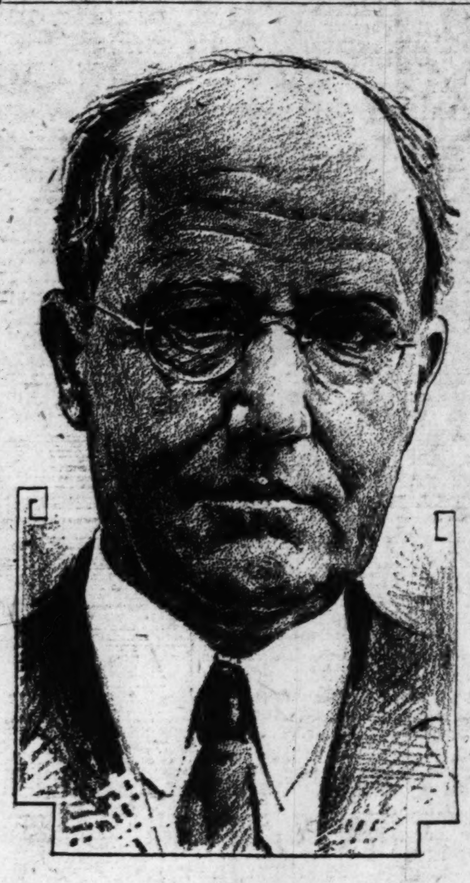
In this situation the banks refused to advance more money, insisting that they had all that sort of paper they desired, and that the controlling officials were taking no steps toward correcting the condition. There was a string to their refusal, however. Silas H. Strayn, former president of the American Bar Association, was chairman of a Citizen's Committee of bankers and business men formed as a volunteer organization to work out a plan of relief. Strawn said the money could be raised if the Mayor and other officials would agree that it should be expended as the committee dictated.

Mayor Thompson Balks but Finally Gives In.

Mayor Thompson rejected the proposal, as did also H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the Board of Education. The Mayor denounced it as an usurpation of the powers of government. Caldwell expressed fear that it would cause the people to distrust their public officials, as though under the conditions there was any public confidence in the officials. After two months of controversy Thompson and Caldwell submitted, no other avenue being open. Anton J. Cermak, president of the Board of County Commissioners, had agreed to the proposal when it was made.

With the officials agreed, the committee started out with "Save Chicago" as its rallying cry. The nucleus of the old Liberty Loan organization was called together, and within two weeks the required $74,000,000 had been pledged.

Holds Chicago's Purse Strings



SILAS STRAWN.

Now Chicago is hopeful that its difficulty will be solved, but there is no certainty that the optimism is justified. The question of what proportion of the taxpayers will be able to meet the extraordinary drain of paying three years' taxes in one year bobs up to strike a note of pessimism. It is not unlikely that in July the bankers again will be called upon to advance more funds that policemen, firemen and school teachers may eat, and undoubtedly they will respond more willingly then because at least some of the money previously advanced will have been repaid them.

Newspapers Print Stories of Hardship.

When the meeting of payrolls was suspended, the Chicago newspapers began to print stories about individual hardships. A policeman was compelled to break up his home and send his wife and five children home to mother that they might eat. A county nurse was compelled to walk seven miles to and from her work because she had no money for carfare. A doctor gave her $1, but she was late again the next day, explaining that she had bought 50 cents worth of food and 50 cents worth of coal, and still had no money for car fare. Neighborhood storekeepers of small capital were said to be on the verge of bankruptcy because of the large number of unpaid accounts of municipal employes.

City officials made a feint at retrenchment by discharging a few policemen at the height of a crime wave which had attracted nation-wide attention, but they soon were restored to their jobs.

While the controversy between Strawn and Mayor Thompson was dragging along, the citizens of Chicago learned a great deal about the condition of the city's finances and the causes of it. As a general rule the common run of citizen had known little about it. He knew he had not been called upon to pay taxes for two years, but he was more pleased than disturbed about that. But beginning about the first of the year each newspaper devoted one or more columns a day to the developments.

How City Hall Drag Affected Assessment.

They learned of gross inequalities in the assessment of real estate, that some property owned by men with a "pull" at the City Hall was assessed at as low as 5 per cent of its value, while other property, owned by persons without political influence, was assessed at as high as 150 per cent of its value.

They heard that many political ward organizations were maintained largely by money derived from fixing assessments, that if one went to the "right party" with his tax bill, he could save at least one-third of it, that there were politicians who on the payment of one-third of the amount of the bill would have it reduced two-thirds, thus the taxpayer paid one-third to the city and one-third to the fixer and save a third for himself.

They were told by Mayor Thompson that the reassessment made at the direction of the State Tax Commission was for the purpose of relieving the big property owners of the Loop district and that the little fellow in the outlying districts was to stand the burden. The Mayor told them that the reassessment had reduced the assessment of Loop property $300,000,000.

The Loop property owners replied that their cut had been only $119,000,000. The truth seemed to hinge upon how much property was considered in the Loop, the Mayor taking in a larger territory. These property owners also said that an exactly similar cut, $119,000,000, had been made in property on the South Side, the Mayor's stronghold.

While of course the causes of the bankruptcy of Chicago accumulated through probably 50 years, the events which brought it to a head started in 1927, when a voluntary committee, known as the Joint Commission on Real Estate Valuation, published a report charging inequalities in assessments. This was followed by the filing of a complaint before the State Tax Commission by the Chicago Teachers' Federation, charging inequalities in individual assessments, the failure to publish the assessments for 30 years, and the failure of the Board of Review to publish its rules of procedure.

The Board of Review refused to attend a hearing conducted by the State Tax Commission, and the Commission ordered a publication of the 1927 assessment.

Obedience to the order would mean that there would be spread for public gaze the record of inequalities, and there was much skirmishing about to learn whether the order could be evaded. Fifteen lawyers were called in by the Board of Assessors to give advice, and the Attorney-General of the State accommodatingly came along with an opinion that the Tax Commission had no authority to issue the order until after the 1928 assessment was made.

A special session of the Legislature, called in the summer of 1928, passed acts authorizing the publication of assessments, and the Tax Commission ordered a reassessment of all Cook County real estate.

This reassessment order threatened the Chicago politicians with a serious situation, and they organized to oppose it, their first fight being on an order by the Board of Commissioners of the county, appropriating $800,000 to pay the expenses of a scientific reassessment. The Citizens' Committee demanded the work be done by experts. The Chicago politicians demanded that it be done by the regular assessors. The politicians thought they had the whip hand because the appraisers would be required to serve technically as deputy assessors. The salary of a deputy assessor was limited by law to $7 a day and no expert would work for that wage.

Reassessment Shows Heavy Reduction.

Harry S. Cutmore, a recognized expert, was employed as Director of Appraisals, and immediately a suit was instituted to question the right of the county to pay him more than $7 a day. Two months later the Illinois Supreme Court held that the $7 limit must be enforced. Strawn then came forward with a pledge to raise $250,000 to pay the expert appraisers, and raised the money, but in the meantime the Legislature had passed an act lifting the $7 limitation.

The reassessment was completed in six months, and disclosed a reduction of $518,093,183, the assessment for 1927 having been $3,202,514,532, and the reassessment $2,684,421,349.

Then followed nearly a year of controversy, during which the Board of Review failed to complete the assessment books on the basis of the new assessment. During all the time the Mayor and the politicians accused the State Tax Commission and its chairman, William H. Malone, of acting for the benefit of the wealthy Loop property owners, and with being responsible for the chaotic condition of the city's finances.

Malone defended the action of the Com-

Sidelights on the Naval Conference in London

Was the Hughes Speech at the Washington Conference a Surprise?—Need of a Good Press Agent at St. James's—Chequers and Lord Lee of Fareham—An Ax in Pickle for President Hoover.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, March 5.

A QUESTION that caused debate at the time of the Washington naval conference of 1921-22 has been settled here by Lord Lee of Fareham, who was one of the British delegates. Did the British know in advance that Charles Evans Hughes, head of the American group, was going to open the conference with his history-making proposal of wholesale battleship scrapping? A good many observers thought at the time that Hughes would not have launched so drastic a program without giving the other delegates an inkling of what was coming. The testimony of Lord Lee, given the other day at Lord Riddell's dinner for the "survivors" of the Washington conference, is that the Britishers, Balfour and all the rest, were taken utterly by surprise. He and Balfour, he said, found it hard to preserve the traditional British calm under emotional stress as they heard Mr. Hughes "sinking the British navy."

IT WASN'T said out loud at the interesting Riddell dinner, but it was in the minds of some of those present, that the London conference could do very well with a press agent, either British or American, of Lord Riddell's skill. There has never been a more successful "spokesman" at an international gathering than the urbane London publisher. It was due as much to Riddell's efforts as to the manner in which Balfour rose to the Hughes program that the British throughout the conference—and the conference itself—had a favorable "press." The task of interpreting the British position to the public is now in the hands of Sir Arthur Wilbert, who used to be the correspondent of the London Times at Washington, but Wilbert is handicapped by the fact that he is on the official Foreign Office staff. Hugh Wilson on the American side suffers from a similar disability; he is our Minister to Switzerland. Lord Riddell was the personal friend of Lloyd George and acted in a purely unofficial capacity.

THE reunion dinner, as the host called it, brought together a score of newspaper writers, mostly American, British and Japanese, who "covered" the Washington conference. Outstanding among them was the veteran Henry W. Nevinson of the Manchester Guardian, who has reported wars and rumors of wars, peace conferences and cabinet crises, in all quarters of the globe. Nevinson, in his younger days, before he began to write his delightful books of reminiscences, was a militant agitator for social reforms; he still is, but his methods are less violent. Prime Minister MacDonald, who is his close friend, told recently of a meeting from which Nevinson was removed by the police. As he was hustled down a staircase, said the Prime Minister, Nevinson lashed out with his cane, shattering the glass in cabinets along the way. Nevinson retorted that the Prime Minister's recollection was inaccurate in one important respect; he did the shattering with his boots.

LORD RIDDELL is a unique British institution. He publishes the "News of the World," a weekly compendium of crimes and other matters that appeal to the unregenerate taste, and in his leisure moments writes pieces for serious reviews. He can deliver with equal felicity a sermon, (as he did while in America) or an after-dinner speech. His liking for Americans is proverbial, and to many of them he is guide, philosopher and friend when they come to London.

LORD LEE of Fareham is the man who gave Chequers to the nation as a country home for Prime Ministers. He married an American, and one of his intimate friends was Theodore Roosevelt. Roosevelt's name, in great sprawling letters, is one of the first entries in the guest book at Chequers—a book in which the Lees, on the night before they left Chequers, wrote a touching farewell message to the house, hoping it would provide for its future official occupants the peace and contentment that the Lees had found there. The book is still in use in the great hall at Chequers.

CHEQUERS, a war time gift, was turned over to the nation as it stood, with all its magnificent furnishings, its Rembrandts and other notable pictures, its library and its priceless collection of Cromwellian relics. Portions of the house date back to the middle of the twelfth century. It has, of course, its secret passage. More than one of the Prime Minister's guests at recent week-end parties have been maneuvered by Miss Ishbel MacDonald to a certain point in the bookshelves and persuaded by the power of suggestion to reach for a volume, only to find that the books in this section are not books at all, but an artfully camouflaged door. In the same room, kept under lock and key in a cabinet, is a life mask of Cromwell, the only one in existence.

ONE feels on seeing the MacDonalds in their country home—the Prime Minister, Ishbel and Malcolm, the latter an M. P. like his father—that the wish of the Lees, so far as the MacDonalds are concerned, has been fully realized. A party of conference guests, shown through the house on a Saturday afternoon, noticed a mud-smeared ax on a table in the Prime Minister's study. He had just left off the job of cutting away a tree—which suggests that if Mr. Hoover ever visits Chequers Mr. MacDonald will be able to retaliate upon him for the dam-building on the Rapidan. The Prime Minister received his guests in golf costume, and after showing them the treasures of the house took them for a walk over the estate. The way led over springy turf, vividly green in the middle of February, to the flat top of a hill, which somebody named the "Prime Minister's quarterdeck." Most of the guests were puffing when the top was reached, but the Prime Minister's swinging stride had brought him up without apparent effort. Back at the house, tea was served and the talk ran on a hundred topics, but never on the conference. That, for the day, was taboo.

NOTHING could have been more informal. One had to make a conscious effort to realize that the man in the rough golf suit, seated on a low cushion in front of the fireplace, was the head of the British Cabinet. Between him and the social system which had created this house of his temporary occupancy was an immeasurable gulf. One saw epitomized here the contrast between feudal England and the England of which the Labor party dreams—which it hopes by slow degrees to bring about. This is the period of transition, of difficult adjustment between the old and the new. The amazing thing in England today is the way in which the old machinery of government has been made to serve

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution, but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

On Life Under the Soviet Government.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch

I WAS interested in reading an article that appeared in this column a few days ago by Mrs. Jesse Hauser in defense of Soviet education. It must have been very gratifying to the Soviet Government officials when a translation of this article was transmitted to them. Naturally they want the world to know and believe that they are doing a wonderful thing in educating the younger generation, as well as the soldiers, workmen and peasants.

I was surprised to learn that anyone interested enough in Russia, as Mrs. Hauser must be to write an article in defense of Soviet education, could really come out and refer to it as a government "of the people, by the people and for the people." Nothing could be farther from the truth. The real reason the Soviets are educating the children and grown up citizens to read is in order to have them able to digest the tons and tons of Bolshevik propaganda that is broadcast throughout Russia daily. The Russians are allowed to read only what their Government wants them to read—Bolshevik propaganda.

I spent five years in Russia under the Soviets, from Siberia to the Black Sea, and I am talking from actual experience and observation. Every newspaper and book that I tried to take into Russia, or have sent to me, was confiscated by the Soviets. Nothing in the way of printed matter that goes into the country is delivered to the person for whom it was intended.

The younger generation will know nothing of American history. It will know of America only as a great capitalist nation, where the working men are oppressed and are nothing more than slaves of the capitalists. If Mrs. Hauser should doubt this let her write an article on the American working man, stating how many of them ride to work in their automobiles, how many of them live in houses of more than two rooms, what the average wage scale is, etc., and send the article to the editor of "Pravda," the Soviet newspaper in Moscow. I venture to say if the editor published such an article he would be executed the following day, without even a trial. No, the Russian Government is anything but a government of the people, by the people and for the people. The Russian citizen has no more to say about the affairs of the Soviet Government than had an American slave in 1850 in the United States. The whole nation of over 150,000,000 souls is ruled by a party consisting of about 500,000.

The Russian is by nature a slow moving creature. He can be kicked around for a long time, but sooner or later he will rise up and proclaim his independence. Give the Soviets enough rope and they will hang themselves. The minute any weaknesses in their Government come to light they rise up and shout that the capitalist countries are jealous of their success and preparing to make war against them. Mrs. Hauser should go to Russia and see what a delightful place it is to live in. Mr. "Big Bill" Haywood went over—I lent him a dollar just before he died, as he hadn't had a meal in two days.

MAYBE Mahatma Gandhi got the idea for his non-co-operative policy by watching our non-co-operation policy with the Volstead act.

River and Rail.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ABOUT a week ago the fast packet express barge, "Mobile," arrived in St. Louis from New Orleans with a cargo equal to 337 carloads of merchandise for distribution to northern cities. This is equal to practically three trains of freight cars. It took the packet barge about 10 days to make the trip upstream, at about seven miles per hour.

One of the arguments against river shipping is its slowness. But, consider the time it takes for three average length trains to get to St. Louis, even though they make about 25 miles an hour average speed. Along with these freight trains are passenger trains and other trains blocking the way, so that it will be found out that it takes considerable time to put through the cargo of one express packet by rail. Of course, the cost of shipping it by river is a great deal below the rail cost.

It Would Break Henry.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

HENRY FORD says: "No man or woman will fail to find plenty of work if he looks for it." What a travesty on the truth! Henry Ford has lots of wealth, but if he had to pay for all the gasoline, street car fare, etc., and for shoe soles worn out in unsuccessful attempts to find work by the unemployed people of the United States in the last three months, he would be broke.

Mr. Taft's Greatest Public Utterance

The late William Howard Taft produced a great state paper which will probably go farther to establish his place in history as a statesman than any other utterance of his career in high office. It was written when he was out of office, teaching law at Yale, but none of his official papers compare with it in quality of profound and far-seeing statesmanship. The paper was composed of two letters, one supplementary to the other, the first written to Allen B. Lincoln, June 18, 1918, in answer to his request for Mr. Taft's opinion of the proposed eighteenth amendment. The second letter was written as a supplementary elaboration of his opinion to be published with it when Mr. Taft consented to publication in the New Haven Journal-Courier, Sept. 7, 1918.

The two letters combined not only the reasons for Mr. Taft's opposition to Federal prohibition, but an amazing forecast of its working and effects. In the letters Mr. Taft revealed clarity and vigor of expression, keen power of analysis, mastery of the philosophy of law, comprehension of the lessons of history, grasp of the fundamental principles of constitutional government, knowledge of popular psychology and an amazing prophetic vision of political consequences.

Nothing has been added to his picture of prohibition and its results by all the debate and hearings since. The first letter follows:

> My Dear Mr. Lincoln: I am opposed to national prohibition. I am opposed to it because I think it is a mixing of the National Government in a matter that should be one of local settlement. I think sumptuary laws are matters for parochial adjustment. I think it will vest in the National Government and those who administer it, so great a power as to be dangerous in political matters.
> I would be in favor of state prohibition if I thought prohibition prohibited, but I think in the long run, except in local communities where the majority of the citizens are in favor of the law, it will be violated.
>
> I am opposed to the presence of laws on the statute book that cannot be enforced and as such demoralize the enforcement of all laws. If I were in a local community in which I thought prohibition could be enforced I would vote for it. If not I would favor a high license, but I am not in favor of a national amendment which would force 12 or 15 great states into a sumptuary system which the public opinion and the real practices of the people of those states would not support. I think it is most unwise to fasten upon the United States a prohibitory system under the excitement of the war, which I do not hesitate to say every sensible supporter of prohibition in the end will regret.
> Let the states which wish to do so prohibit. They have every means now of enforcing prohibition. There is a Federal law, sustained as constitutional, which forbids the importation into them of liquor from other states and the whole field is open to state legislation and its enforcement.
> I don't drink myself at all, and I don't oppose prohibition on the ground that it limits the liberties of the people. I think that in the interest of the community, and of the man who cannot resist the temptation to drink in excess, if he has the opportunity to drink at all, other citizens in the community may be properly asked and compelled to give up drinking, although that drinking may do them no injury. My objections to prohibition are as I have stated them above.

Following are salient excerpts from Mr. Taft's supplementary letter:

> * * * A national prohibition amendment to the Federal Constitution will be adopted against the views and practices of a majority of the people in many of the large cities and in one-fourth or less of the states. The business of manufacturing liquor and beer will go out of the hands of law-abiding members of the community, and will be transferred to the quasi-criminal class. In the communities where the majority will not sympathize with a Federal law's restriction, large numbers of Federal officers will be needed for its enforcement. The central Government now has very wide war powers. When peace comes these must end, if the Republic is to be preserved.
> If, moreover, a partisan political head of the Internal Revenue Department, or of a separate department created for the purpose, shall always be able through Federal detectives and policemen to reach into every hamlet and to every ward, and to every purlieu of a large city, and use the leverage of intermittently lax and strict enforcement of the law against would-be dealers in liquor and their patrons, he will wield a sinister power, prospect of which should make anxious the friends of free constitutional government. * * *
> After the law-abiding members of the business go out of the business and a complete readjustment follows, the pressure for violation and lax execution in communities where the law is not popular will be constant and increasing. The reaching out of the great central power to brush the doorsteps of local communities, far removed geographically and politically from Washington, will be irritating in such states and communities, and will be a strain upon the bond of the national union. It will produce variation in the enforcement of the law. There will be loose administration in spots all over the United States and a politically inclined national administration will be strongly tempted to acquiesce in such a condition. Elections will continuously turn on the rigid or languid execution of the liquor law as they do now in prohibition states. The ever-present issue will confuse and prevent clear and clean-cut popular discussions on the most important national question, and the politics of the nation will be demoralized as the politics of states have been through this cause. The issue will never be settled.
> The theory that the National Government can enforce any law will yield to the stubborn circumstances, and a Federal law will become as much a subject of contempt and ridicule in some parts of the nation as laws of this kind have been in some states. We are acting now under the heroic impulse of a war, which stirs our feelings and makes us think we can have a millennium of virtue and self-sacrifice for the future. This is a fundamental error. I profoundly deprecate having our constitutional structure seriously amended by a feverish enthusiasm, which will abate to neglect and laxity in many states as the years go on. If through the abnormal psychology of war the 36 states are induced to approve a national prohibition amendment now, we can never change it, though a great majority of the people may come later to see its utter failure. Thirteen prohibition states can always be counted on to prevent a retraction of the foolish step. We shall thus hang a permanent millstone around our necks.
> Individual self-restraint, the influence of proved social standards and criticisms and the restrictions enforced by employers of labor for industrial reasons, have probably had more to do with moderating the evils of intoxication than statute law. I would not minimize, however, the advantage of the removal of the temptation of access to liquor by law when the law is backed by local public opinion and can be enforced.
> Nor is my conviction affected by any sympathy with those who are engaged in the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors. * * * Moreover, the demoralizing political power which saloonkeepers and liquor manufacturers sought and wielded to protect their business from proper regulation and the defiance they did to reasonable public opinion, roused the just indignation of the electorate. Many have voted for prohibition merely to destroy the power of the saloon in politics without any other consideration. The saloonkeepers taught the Anti-Saloon League how to fight and the latter has learned the lesson well and applied it, and often without any more scruple as to the method or means than its teachers. * * *
> An intensively active minority in favor of adopting an unwise policy may win through the failure of the members of the majority, though opposed to the policy publicly to declare themselves and to take the trouble to give effect to their opinions by their votes. A minority like this, conceiving that it is moved by a moral issue, loses its sense of proportion and sacrifices other issues, no matter how vital to the nation. Such minority visits with its condign punishment all public servants who oppose it on this issue, however useful to the states they may be. I would not impeach the high-minded motives of the great body of those who support national prohibition. It does awaken one's protest, however, to note the manner in which the ordinary type of politician becomes a prohibitionist because he fears the balance of power that an active political minority may wield against his political fortunes. In the past he may have been subservient to the liquor dealers; in the present his practices may completely refute the sincerity of the principles he advocated, but he and men of his ilk would recklessly and selfishly hurry us into an irretrievable national blunder. * * * If the power of regulation is irrevocably committed to the general Government the next generation will live deeply to regret it.
> For these reasons, therefore, first because a permanent national liquor law in many communities will prove unenforceable for lack of local public sympathy; second, because attempted enforcement will require an enormous force of Federal policemen and detectives, giving undue power to a sinister and partisan subordinate of the national administration, and third, because it means an unwise structural change in the relations between the people of the states and the central Government and a strain to the integrity of the Union, I am opposed to a national prohibition amendment.

Mr. Taft's opinion and accurate prophecy had little effect on the raging campaign of 12 years ago for Federal prohibition, but they will stand in history as a proof of his high capacity in free action and as a warning against similar disastrous sumptuary experiments in the future.

SOCIAL NOTE.

Miami, Florida, turns its back on one of its most prominent citizens. The city fathers have officially and by resolution decided that Al Capone "is an unwelcome visitor whose presence is a detriment to the whole community," and the proper officials have been instructed to keep Capone away from "his estate on Palm Island in Biscayne Bay."

And now, Mr. Capone, who next week is scheduled to leave Philadelphia where he has kept a temporary residence during the winter season, not to mention a few other seasons during the past year, has the blustering remainder of March and the uncertain weather of April ahead of him, and no southern clime to welcome him. It is to weep. But tears or no tears, one thing is certain. It is no longer Mr. Al Capone of Chicago and Miami.

GIANTS IN YEARS.

Judge Salmon W. Gleason of St. Charles, Minn., is 97 years old, but he refuses to collapse into the "second childishness and mere oblivion" of the poet's final stage in man's decay. He has just concluded an active campaign for re-election with a 2-to-1 victory, and hopes to round out his four-year term before he thinks of retiring. The venerable yet sturdy jurist has not made the nonagenarian's customary announcement attributing his long life to vegetable diet, meat diet, tobacco or abstinence therefrom, temperance or a regular nip, outdoor life, heredity or buttermilk. Doubtless he is too busy to think about it, and would merely agree with John Burroughs that "old age is practically held at bay so long as one can keep the currents of his life moving; nature is always young."

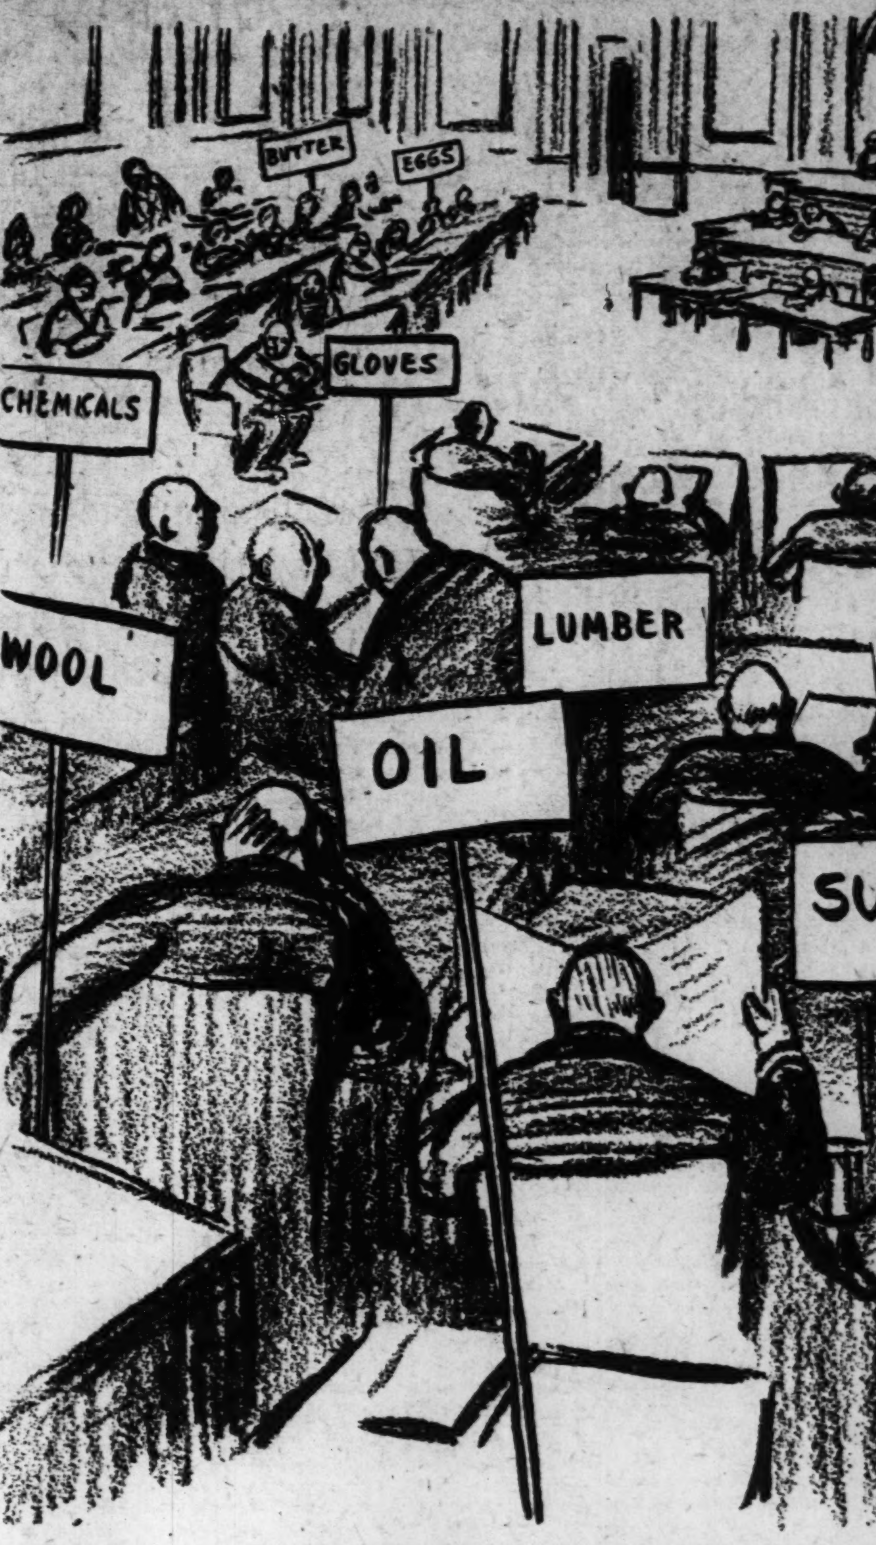
This good jurist belongs to the little tribe of the world's citizens who have found usefulness, not senility, in old age. As an elder statesman of his little city, Judge Gleason parallels the record of Supreme Justice Holmes, who is in his ninetieth year. John R. Voorhis, nearing 101, is active in Tammany's councils, just as George F. Baker, at 89, visits his banking offices daily. The senior Rockefeller, although retired at 90, keeps a finger on the business pulse, and just now is absorbing Florida's sunshine with Thomas Edison, who at 83 has mapped out a decade's further research. Elihu Root at 85 is one of America's sages; England has her Earl Balfour, 81; Canada's grand old man is George Dessaulles, a Senator at 102; Germany salutes President Hindenburg, who is 82. Britain's 85-year-old laureate, Robert Bridges, has just published a monumental volume.

Such is a partial catalog of leaders who, full of years, pass on their hard-won heritage to callow, inexperienced society. As science advances man's span of years, each generation's roll of honor past the Scriptural three-score-and-ten will lengthen, to celebrate "an old age, serene and bright."

THE RETURN OF RHEM.

With an affectionate pat on the shoulder St. Louis welcomes back to the hearthstone that wandering prodigal son, Flint Rhem. Since he left us Flint has bolted pemmican in the icy sweeps of Minnesota and broiled under Texan suns and has had ample hours for reflection. He has arrived, so reports from the Florida front say, at what the philosophers call "the supreme contrary choice." He has assured Manager Street that he has concluded his survey of dolce far niente. No more for him the noctes ambrosianae. Never again shall his footfall be heard in the threnody of the primrose path. "Longfellow was right," continued Flint, "right as a rabbit when he remarked that 'Life is real, life is earnest and the pennant is its goal.'" And to that waving, bannered event, Mr. Rhem purposes to contribute 18 victories. An honorable quota, that, and if September fulfills the promise of March the Cardinals will be eagles and nightingales and Shelley's skylarks, and Flint will have regained his place in the Valhalla of our Rhemembrance.

Where had that newly discovered planet, larger than the earth, been hiding all this while?



GRUNDY'S MAP OF THE SENATE.

Do War Books Help Peace?

War books like "All Quiet on the Western Front," though purporting to be pacifistic argument, really feed the public's interest in war; their success is due to the fascination of horror and as offering an escape from drab lives; war is best combated, not by lingering upon its details, but by closing the mind to it altogether.

Salvador de Madariaga in the New York Herald Tribune.

"TELL me what you read and I will tell you who you are." This proverb does not exist, but it might be adopted for the benefit of the numerous pacifists, critics and other publicists who have hailed the present fashion for war novels and plays as a sign of war weariness and peace wisdom.

Herr Remarque's novel ("All Quiet on the Western Front") and Mr. Sherriff's play ("Journey's End") have had a huge success. This success has set publishers and theatrical managers in a fever and every week sees the launching of a new war book on the glutted market. Advocates of world peace rub their hands and say: "Good! The world is unmasking war. All these books and plays are going to disgust the peoples of the earth with the most cruel and dismal of sports." And while "patriotic" newspapers endeavor to react and publish cheerful accounts of wit and gayety in the trenches, enthusiastic anti-war observers propose that Herr Remarque be awarded the Peace Prize and Mr. Sherriff's manuscript is sold at auction for the benefit of the League of Nations Union.

The good faith and honesty of these authors are too obvious to be upheld here. The men who turn their war experiences into literature are obeying first—and for the most part, only—a personal need of self-expression and of "riddance." They have something on their chests. They get rid of it and feel relieved. Others, thinking in terms of the community, add to this motive a desire to impress their fellow men with horrors of war. Thus there are many authors who genuinely believe that in writing up the horrors of war they are writing down war and working for peace.

But who ever saw people rushing to swallow nasty, if health-giving, medicine? Who forces the millions of readers of war books to plunge into the unpleasant, heart-rending, sordid narratives which are going to purge them of their warlike tendencies? By what noble self-denial, by what springs of lofty virtue are these crowds made to undergo the hours of repulsive reading so that war may be abjured in their hearts? Let us brush aside this absurdity. The essence of all art is enjoyment, however subtle or inverted, however morbid, even. People do not read what they do not enjoy reading. The success of war books is due to the fact that people like them. This ridiculous truism becomes a startling discovery. It reveals, moreover, an appalling truth: War books are a success because people like war.

War books are in fact war propaganda, no matter how ugly they make war. There is such a thing as the fascination of ugliness. Often our eyes will come back again and again, not to the most beautiful, but the most overwhelmingly ugly person in a room. And so with war and horrors.

It is difficult to know what are the exact feelings of the numberless readers of Herr Remarque, but I find it still more difficult to believe that the thought of war is unbearable to them. It seems more natural to explain such successes as due to the fascination of horror, not only in itself, but as an escape from the drab monotony of eventless lives. Pacifist enthusiasm is therefore wasted on war books. War is not to be cured by making people dwell on the horror of it, but by turning their minds away from it altogether.

Furthermore, war books work on the emotions in which the roots of war find food, instead of appealing to the constructive reason, where war dries up. From this angle, the real peace agent to be substituted for war books is some constructive thinking on the organization of life among men and nations. We do not want war books; not even books about how to disarm or how to make peace and insure its continuation. We want books on how to live together in a constructive, healthy and co-operative way.

The minds of men and nations must turn away from disarmament (i. e., from arms) and from peace (i. e., from war). They must turn to wisdom, life, mirth, good companionship, creative activity. A book on jazz, if it be well conceived and well written, does more for peace than a book on "peace."

War books are to be deplored because they fill up the place of better stimulants. It is true that better stimulants are, unfortunately, rare. Who will find them in the dreariness of photographic novel-writing or in the millions of tons of paper devoted to dull and accurate description of the tepidly interesting lives of ordinary people? Surfeited by reading about their own dullness, people seek extraordinary tales. And war is extraordinary enough.

But if only literature left the ways of drab sense and accurate observation—if it created and imagined and gamboled out of the common, yet putting enough life into its creations to captivate its readers, if it produced such things as "Don Quixote" and "King Lear" and "Amadis de Gaul" and "Robinson Crusoe" reincarnated in modern garb, people would not have to drink the hot stuff of trench literature to keep going.

And then, who cannot see that war books are still the war served cold, rehashed, made into pies, fried with spices, but always the war? No; if there are critics who can defend them, let us hear their case. But let no one put forward the plea that war books are a contribution to peace. War is always war. Even in books.

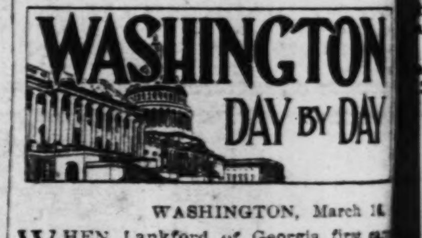
NORTH CAROLINA JUSTICE.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

THE five men charged with the murder of Ella May Wiggins, cotton mill worker of Gastonia, N. C., have been acquitted.

Some legal proceedings are still pending at Marion, but except for these the record is now complete. In the course of the disturbances in North Carolina one policeman and seven cotton mill workers have been killed. As a result of the killing of the one policeman, seven people have been sentenced to prison for terms ranging up to 17 years. As a result of the killing of the seven cotton mill workers, not one person has been sentenced to a day.

This is North Carolina justice. It requires no comment.



WASHINGTON, March 1

WHEN Lankford of Georgia first ca to Congress a decade or so ago, he wa in his early forties. His major legislative o cupation then was the effort to promote waterway project first authorized for surv "when I was 6 months old." And he's sti at it.

What he wants is a canal across Sout Georgia and North Florida to connect th Atlantic and the Gulf by barge line. Amon his first acts as a new member of the Si ty-sixth Congress was introduction of bil providing for route surveys in that conne tion.

"I am convinced this canal will be bui in the near future," Lankford now say "I am not sure, though, just where. I wa the best route to be selected. I shall b for that route whatever it may be." Whic is at least a hopeful outlook on the resul of 10 years' persistent effort.

THE Congressional Record is used fo many purposes. Just now, with Congressional elections in the offing, a third o the Senate membership and all Representatives scan its possibilities in getting material stored up for the coming campaign

Any constant reader of the appendix o the Record could give a reasonable gue as to what sort of plea of services rendere will be made to the voters of many districts by men who hope to succeed themselves. The Record, plus the franking pri ilege, affords the usual mode of organi ing campaign preliminaries by sitting members, up to the time Congress adjourns an permits them to go home and climb on th stump.

Among matters embalmed in the Record however, there is one continued—and to b continued, apparently—story that brings n joy to Washingtonians. It is there, kindnes of Senator Cole Blease of South Carolina and it recites in newspaper clippings a story of police happenings in the national capital, unrelieved by any more pleasing matter. It is part of the prolonged warfare with local authorities the Senator has conducted.

JUDGED by publicity methods of othe communities seeking to draw attention to their attractions for visitors, this particular advertising of conditions in the District of Columbia looks startling. No other city has ever been subject to nation-wide exhibition of all its internal troubles in so sweeping a fashion.

Since Washington is voteless, it is to no one's political interest in Congress to find a way of presenting the silver lining side of the cloud. That is a penalty Washington pays for its unique status as the only Federal city.

But there is a reverse side. It has to do with the efforts of Washingtonians to get out of the voteless class. Never has so active a campaign to change that been waged. And perhaps the Blease contributions to the Record will help. They should arouse sympathy among the voting mass of Americans for the voteless folk here.

How Chicago Went Broke

mission and sharply attacked Thompson and the Chicago politicians.

"In 1927," he said in one statement, "when the Boards of Assessors and Reviews finished their work, there were more than 110,000 complaints which could not be heard for lack of time, and there were over 40,000 individual complaints filed in the County Court.

"The Tax Commission has no authority to change any individual assessment. The law does, however, authorize the commission to order a complete revaluation in any county where it appears that inequalities exist.

"It would have taken over 15 years to hear the cases on file in the County Court, to say nothing of the hundred odd thousand which had the doors closed upon them for lack of time.

"If the taxing officials had complied with the reassessment order immediately, instead of fighting the order through the courts and up to the Supreme Court, and if the city fathers had started pruning their payrolls then, instead of now, what a wonderful condition Chicago would be in today."

Politicians Held Taxing Power Like a Whip.

In another statement he lashed the Chicago politicians with:

"It is common information that local politicians held the taxing system like a giant whip over the heads of the people, forcing campaign contributions, exacting money for fixing taxes, rewarding friends with light assessments, and using it to build and maintain political machinery.

"Local taxing officials exercised virtual dictatorship here for years. Tax fixing became a lucrative source of income for shyster lawyers and racketeers, who had the right connection in the Board of Assessors and Board of Review offices."

The Thompson administration maintained the losing fight against the Strawn committee for two months, and then was forced to yield. The Committee demanded the curtailment of expenditures, and the City Council by a small majority fixed the annual budget at $55,000,000, which was $5,000,000 less than Thompson demanded. Thompson vetoed the budget. It was again passed by the Council, and again the Mayor vetoed it. A third time the Council passed it, and then the Mayor yielded. It was better to have $55,000,000 to spend than to postpone indefinitely the time when there would be anything.

The $74,000,000 which is being advanced by the Strawn committee will take care of the monthly payroll of slightly in excess of $9,000,000 until July, and there will be enough over to meet certain bond issue requirements falling due in April and July. By the middle of the summer, it is expected, the collection of taxes will begin, the bankers can be repaid, and the city can begin on a new set of debts to the bankers.

Rigid Economy Needed and New Taxing Laws.

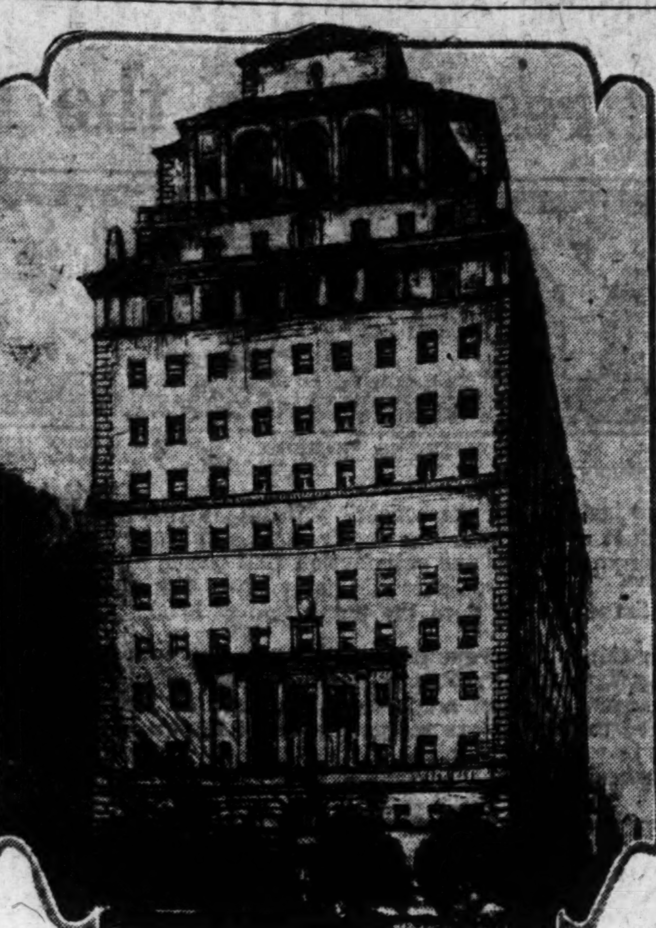
It is an endless chain sort of an affair, with the city collecting taxes to be paid to the bankers for money advanced, the payments again leaving the city without funds, and the bankers advancing more money to be repaid from taxes to be collected.

It isn't that the tax revenue of Chicago is really insufficient to maintain the government. If taxes had been collected regularly the needs of the city, county and schools could have been met. The failure to collect as the taxes became due, however, means that there will be heavy losses, and much of the revenue will be obtained only after costly litigation and delays. The borrowing of $259,000,000 some of it for as long as two years and some of it for only a few months, at interest rates varying from four to six per cent will mean a further deduction of more than $10,000,000, which will go to the lenders and which must come from the revenues. If the taxes had been collected when due this interest would have been saved to the city.

Chicago, it might be said, is suffering from frozen assets. It has had plenty of money due but did not collect it.

What Chicago needs in its predicament is rigid economy for a year or two, to catch up with its current debts and start all over again. It needs a change in the taxation laws to require scientific assessments instead of permitting political assesments. It needs to get away from padded payrolls, wasteful expenditures and, in general, to alter its political favoritism method of running its affairs.

Architect's Design of New Hospital



Cardinal Mistrangelo Gravely Ill.

FLORENCE, Italy, March 15.—Cardinal Archbishop Mistrangelo is seriously ill here of bronchial pneumonia.

$1,200,000 FUND FOR M'MILLAN HOSPITAL SOUGHT

Board of Directors Decides to Open Campaign to Insure Endowment of Institution.

A decision to build the new McMillan Hospital and Oscar Johnson Institute on a scale adequate to their function, and to begin a campaign at once for $1,200,000 required to place them on a sound financial basis, was announced yesterday for the board of directors.

The revised plans call for a 14-story building in which the two institutions will have separate quarters. Original plans were for a nine-story structure. The cost, with the equipment and ground, at the northwest corner of Kingshighway and Euclid avenue, will amount to $1,500,000. The shell of the building is complete up to the eighth floor.

As previously published, the institution is declared to be the only one of its kind and scope. Specialists point out that it will make St. Louis a world center of treatment and research in diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat.

The first steps toward an undertaking of this magnitude were made possible by the $1,000,000 bequest of Mrs. William McMillan for the McMillan Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital, and the $500,000 gift of Mrs. Oscar Johnson and her sons for the Oscar Johnson Institute of Research in Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology, with a $1,200,000 grant from the General Education Board, which distributes Rockefeller millions to notable efforts in education and research.

Endowment Limited.

As explained by Dr. Harvey J. Howard, professor of Ophthalmology in Washington University school of medicine and head of the new institutions, the Rockefeller grant is limited definitely to the endowment of personnel. Also limited is another grant for work to be conducted in the new hospital—the $50,000 annual grant of the Commonwealth Fund, of New York, which is to be devoted to a monumental study of trachoma, one of the worst diseases of the eye and a scourge in this State.

Although interest has appreciated the McMillan bequest by about $400,000, and the gifts of Mrs. Johnson and her friends now amount to $650,000, said Dr. Howard, inadequate funds remain to endow the general maintenance of the institutions. For this purpose $400,000 still is required for Oscar Johnson Hospital and $800,000 for the hospital and clinics.

Pointing out that the Community Fund in its present circumstances is unable to help out, Dr. Howard remarked that the board was faced with the alternative of leaving some floors unfinished and raising "within the next few months additional funds as further endowment so that the hospital and institute may serve the purposes for which they are erected.

"No money will be asked for endowment, but funds will be sought to provide memorial laboratories, memorial floors and rooms. For instance, Mrs. Oscar Johnson and her sons are quite willing that their fund shall be used for endowment and that the various laboratories in the institute shall be assigned as memorial laboratories to those who desire to assist in financing this enterprise. The fund of $1,200,000 can be secured by dividing the building up in this manner."

McMillan Hospital will occupy the first eight floors of the structure, with an entrance on Euclid avenue, and Oscar Johnson Institute will have the six upper floors, with an entrance on Kingshighway. The building is designed for adequacy to all demands for the next 20 years, and two floors will be available for nurses' quarters until required for the growing functions of the hospital.

McMillan Hospital, differing from others in the medical school group, will be an open hospital, so that specialists not on the staff will be allowed to take their patients to the private and semiprivate floors.

"In a sense," said Dr. Howard, "the Oscar Johnson Institute will be another medical school, since provision is being made to provide laboratories and specialists to run them, in pathology, bacteriology, immunology, physics, physiology and chemistry."

An unusual feature will be the use of the third floor for Negro patients, with two private rooms. A small front wing will be reserved for internes' quarters.

Fourth Floor Arrangement.

Use of the fourth floor exclusively for trachoma patients from various parts of the state was authorized by the board following a recent conference with Gov. Caulfield, State Health Commissioner Stewart and Dr. Mossman of the trachoma hospital at Rolla, in the hope of obtaining state co-operation in the effort to determine the cause of trachoma. It was one of the requirements which necessitated enlargement of the building beyond the original plans.

An ear, nose and throat clinic of 8000 square feet will be on the ground floor, and an eye clinic of 9000 square feet will be on the first floor. They will have the latest and finest in equipment. Postgraduate instruction will be given on the second floor, which will have an auditorium for 120 persons and six operating rooms, with locker rooms for visiting physicians and nurses.

The fifth floor, for ward patients, will be divided equally between the Shoemaker wards for eye patients and the Shapleigh wards for ear, nose and throat patients, where sinus diseases, a scourge in this country and this city, will be treated. The seventh floor will have semiprivate rooms at modest cost for 34 patients, and the eighth, the top floor, will have 18 private rooms for those to whom expense is secondary.

Sidelights on the Naval Conference

new uses. It has creaked and groaned under the strain, but it is going ahead. The Labor party could not have come into control of the Government if it had been purely a doctrinaire party; it has had to be an opportunist party. The theory on which the Labor party is founded stands at the opposite pole from the theory which accords a share in the Government to an hereditary House of Lords. Yet the Labor Party is able to accommodate its practices to the demands of the existing system. It accepts the system as it finds it, creates peers to be its spokesmen in the House of Lords, and the Government goes on under the old forms. The forms are old, but the spirit animating them is new. Chequers is old, but today's master of it is a new man. England is in the throes of a revolution—bloodless and slow, but still a revolution.

ANEURIN BEVAN, a young Welshman, has lately come to the front in the Labor party. Bevan is a miner. He is also a natural orator, with a gift for phrases of Biblical flavor. New blood for the mining industry, he said in a recent debate with Lloyd George in the House of Commons, could not be got from "the dried veins of the miners" and in another stirking pasage he asked the House "whether the sinews of industry must always come from out the loins of the miners." He moved the Labor benches to applause with a crisp summary of his argument: "It is better to have dearer coal than cheaper colliers." In a direct personal attack on Lloyd George, he declared that "the right honorable gentleman has been trying to use the parliamentary position for the purpose of breathing life into a decaying party," which was equivalent to charging Lloyd George with demagoguery. As he finished, Labor members pressed about him to shake his hand and slap him on the back.

ZIONIST MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

Will Be Conducted in St. Louis March 24-26.

A membership campaign to enroll 750 members in the Zionist organization of St. Louis, dedicated to building up the Jewish homeland in Palestine, will be held March 24, 25 and 26.

A preliminary meeting will be Saturday evening at Dorr & Zeller's, De Baliviere and Waterman avenues, when a symposium, "Why Strengthen the Zionist Organization," will be presented.

Sir Robert Harvey Dies at 82.

By the Associated Press.

FALMOUTH, England, March 15.—Sir Robert Harvey died here today at the age of 82 while on a visit from his home in Totnes, Devonshire. Sir Robert was one of the pioneers of English enterprise in South America, where he lived for 20 years. He founded the Tarapaca (Chile) Bank, which afterward was taken over by the Anglo-South American Bank. He was chairman of the latter for many years and also headed nitrate and utility companies.

treaty of peace was signed and already the majority of the men who exerted a dominating influence on affairs during the four years of war that preceded that event have been gathered to their fathers. It may be due to the fact that the war on its civilian as well as on its military side was in the main conducted by men already well advanced in years. Napoleon and his Marshals were young men. Wellington was in his prime at Waterloo. Clemenceau was nearly 80 years of age and Foch was approaching 70 in his victorious campaign of 1918. The other Generals were men of mature years. Of all the Prime Ministers in any belligerent country, I was the youngest. As far as the direction of the war was concerned, it was an old man's war. That may account for the heavy post-war casualties amongst Generals, Admirals and statesmen.

"Drunkenness Is a Disease and I Can Cure It"

—Leslie E. Keeley, M. D., LL. D.

THE EDITOR of a powerful Chicago Newspaper before his death, challenged this statement of Dr. Keeley that "Drunkenness is a disease and I can cure it." He defied Dr. Keeley to cure the men whom he would send to the Institute. The results were so convincing that, through his great newspaper, he was personally responsible for thousands of men and women taking The Keeley Treatment for Liquor.

EXPERT INDICATES WAY OF SPEEDING PUBLIC WORK

Assessment Specialist From New York Advises Committee of Metropolitan Government Council.

Philip H. Cornick of the National Institute of Public Administration and New York Bureau of Municipal Research, a specialist in condemnation of private property for public use and in special assessments for public improvements, has been here for three days in consultation with the Finance Committee of the Council on Metropolitan Government concerning condemnation and special assessment phases of the proposed central government for St. Louis and St. Louis County.

In a discussion with a Post-Dispatch reporter, he pointed out that the problems confronting St. Louis in carrying out public improvements are common to all American communities. He suggested to the committee that one means of facilitating condemnation procedure without depriving individual property owners of their rights might be carried out in the proposed charter as has been done in New Jersey.

Three Notification Plans.

This plan is to give notice of the filing of a condemnation suit against private property in three ways—by publication, by posting the property and by mailing notification to the last known addresses of all parties at interest. The practice under the present city charter has been to serve notice through the ordinary legal process on each party at interest, which is slow and cumbersome. A bill for a charter amendment, sponsored by the City Improvement Association, is pending in the Board of Aldermen; it would provide only for notice by publication, whereby legal requirements would be satisfied and the process facilitated, but some parties might fail to be informed.

Cornick also pointed out to the committee the need of providing in the metropolitan charter for a definite legal status for the various factors entering into fair appraisal of real estate in condemnation. He said that the procedure in use here recognized these factors, but that it was advisable to give them legal recognition.

For Permanent Board.

The weakest point in the system in St. Louis, Cornick said, was the appointment of a new set of condemnation commissioners for each project. He is an advocate of a permanent expert commission for this work. The tentative proposals of the Finance Committee contemplate recommending one for Greater St. Louis. City Counselor Muench and other experts here have argued in favor of the same thing. The pending charter amendment, however, would have a special jury of six freeholders working under close direction of a Circuit Judge, appointed for each project.

Seattle, Wash., has the best example of the permanent commission, Cornick said, in its Board of Eminent Domain Commissioners, three men giving most of their time to the work.

While here, Cornick also had a general discussion of the assessment of general taxes with the committee and he studied the tentative draft of the committee's proposals with local experts to determine if necessary powers were included.

Cornick departed last night for Little Rock, Ark., where he will participate in the tax phase of a state administrative survey.

THEATER CHAIN FOUNDER DIES

Col. G. P. Whallen Succumbs at Home in Louisville, Ky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 15.—Col. James Patrick Whallen, 72 years old, Democratic leader and business man, died here this morning as a result of a heart attack suffered Feb. 12.

Col. Whallen took an active part in nominating Woodrow Wilson for the presidency at the convention in Baltimore in 1912. Born in Kentucky, he enlisted at 13 with Gen. John H. Morgan during the Civil War and was cited for bravery. After the war he operated saloons and laid the foundation for a fortune that later was used in establishing the Empire Circuit Co., a chain of burlesque theaters that grew from a $1,000,000 to a $10,000,000 concern in a short time. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Susie McDiermott Whallen.

Charitable Work Claims Attention Of Society Women

Lectures and Musicales Among Other Lenten Interests—Junior League Preparing for Annual Ball.

AS the Lenten season progresses society is finding diversified interests which include working for the success of favorite charities and attending lectures and musicales; for the Junior League it means the beginning of real work for the annual charity ball.

Several weeks ago a group of women met at the home of Mrs. Robert McKittrick Jones, Westmoreland place, to organize the Frontier Nursing In Missouri Association, patterned after a group which has been functioning in Kentucky under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harry French Knight.

The object was to help the sick poor in the Ozark Mountains. Since that time small numbers have met at the home of those interested to sew, and sufficient warm garments and bed coverings for 500 people have been distributed.

Although the movement is non-sectarian, the nuns at Villa Duchesne became interested and offered a large room in their institution, where individual groups which had overflowed the homes of Mrs. James M. Franciscus, Mrs. Richard S. Hawes Jr., and Mrs. Leo de Smet Carton, have consolidated into one working unit. It is not unusual to see limousines drive to the door of the convent at o'clock each Tuesday morning and discharge passengers laden with portable sewing machines on which they stitch diligently until noon.

Mrs. Hawes is chairman of the sewing and Mrs. J. L. McHugh vice chairman. Among the women devoting their time to the work are Mrs. Martin Lammert III, Mrs. Garneau Weld, Mrs. H. T. Green, Mrs. William D. Orthwein II, Mrs. Adalbert von Gontard, Mrs. Edward L. Bakewell, Mrs. John Boland, Mrs. Malcolm McMenamy, Mrs. Francis Muckerman, Mrs. F. W. Phelan, Mrs. John A. Schaefer, Mrs. F. W. Obermoeller, Mrs. James Newman, Mrs. F. M. Switzer, Mrs. Joseph O'Neil, Mrs. Jules de Lescaille, Mrs. Milner Donovan, Mrs. Alfred C. Carr Jr., Miss Claire Garneau, Mrs. Lee Langan, Mrs. Hugh Sullivan, Mrs. Neil O'Day, Mrs. Harry E. Papin, Mrs. S. G. Hoffman, Mrs. H. C. Smith, Mrs. Watts Smyth, Mrs. Marion Lambert, Mrs. Harry Scullin, Mrs. George T. Moore, Mrs. Joseph Rankin, Mrs. Douglas Houser, Mrs. Maffitt Bates, Mrs. George W. Niedringhaus, Mrs. Chouteau Walsh, Mrs. Birch O. Mahaffey, Mrs. J. W. Polk, Mrs. I. D. Kelley Jr., Mrs. A. B. Ewing, Mrs. George O. Carpenter Jr., Mrs. John G. Lonsdale, Mrs. J. W. Bray, Mrs. Boyle Price, Miss Emily Sproule, Mrs. L. W. Baldwin, Miss Loraine Grover and Mrs. Harold Brown.

An innovation in entertaining, called a Sinfonietta, or Little Symphony, is being arranged by the Women's Committe of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. It will be given in the gold room of Hotel Jefferson the afternoon of March 26 at 3:30 o'clock. Tables for the guests will be placed in a circle, the center of which will be occupied by the musicians, 18 members of the Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Alexander Thiede, concert master. Each table will be in charge of a hostess, a member of the Women's Committee, and a group of young society women will serve as ushers.

Eugene Goossens, guest conductor of the orchestra, and his bride, will be the guests of honor. Mrs. Lindell Gordon Jr. is chairman of the ushers and Miss Grace Taussig, has charge of the tables. Tea, for which a small charge will be made, will be served on the main floor of the hotel.

From the Junior League's active members has been selected the chorus to do two of the specialty numbers at the Junior League Montmartre Ball, to be given April 25 in the ballroom of Hotel Jefferson.

Miss Margaret Rumsey is chairman of the chorus, and additional members will be Miss Loraine Grover, Mrs. John B. Kennard Jr., Miss Anne Farrar Semple, Miss Dorinda Kennerly, Miss Virginia Hemenway, Miss Elizabeth Tupper, and Miss Edith Peters. Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Faust have lent the elaborate Italian ballroom of their home at 1 Portland place for rehearsals, which will begin tomorrow under the direction of Denny Madison.

Judges in the feature song contest conducted by the League, which ended last week, will be engaged this week in selecting the winning manuscript for which the award will be made the night of the ball.

Miss Mary H. Betts, Former V.P. Maid, to Wed H. H. Hubbell

Engagements of Miss Ivy Newman, Miss Marie Lucks and Miss Harriet Delicate Also Announced.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the engagement of Miss Mary Howell Betts, daughter of Mrs. John Frederick Betts, 5150 Westminster place, and Howard Hanson Hubbell, son of Harry P. Hubbell, 5934 Clemens avenue.

Miss Betts was graduated from Mary Institute and attended Vassar College. She was a member of the Junior League and served as maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball in her debut year, a few seasons ago. Mr. Hubbell was graduated from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis and served four years in the United States Navy. He is a member of the University Club and the Missouri Athletic Association.

Arrangements for the wedding to take place early in the summer will be informal because of mourning in the family of the prospective bride.

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Newman, 6450 Cecil avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ivy Newman, and Henry Bernard Steele Jr., son of Mrs. Lydia Foreman Steele of Chicago.

Miss Newman is a graduate of Mary Institute and Wellesley College, where she majored in art. She did not make a formal debut, but has devoted much of her time to the continued study of the subject.

Mr. Steele attended Dartmouth College, where he was on the staff of the Jack-o'-Lantern, the college publication.

Dr. and Mrs. Newman will give an informal reception for their daughter and her fiance the evening of March 23 at their home. It will be attended by several out-of-town guests, including Mrs. Steele Sr., her daughters, Mrs. Robert Mack and Mrs. Alvin Binswanger, and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Steele, uncle and aunt of the bridegroom-elect.

Later in the spring Mrs. Steele will give a similar affair in Chicago to introduce Miss Newman and her parents to their circle of friends.

The wedding date has not been set.

Announcement was made last Sunday evening at a buffet supper for a few intimate friends, of the engagement of Miss Marie Lucks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lucks of 65 Fair Oaks, to Arthur Michel Macheca Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Macheca, 5518 Cabanne avenue.

The announcement was made with the dessert course on small, pink- heart-shaped cakes decorated with the names of the prospective bride and bridegroom, surrounded by a spray of spring flowers. The same decorative motif was used on the tea table which had as its centerpiece a silver basket of spring flowers.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Announcement also has been made of the engagement of Miss Harriet Delicate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Delicate of Edwardsville, Ill., and Thomas Spencer Shore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben R. Shore, 4475 West Pine boulevard.

Miss Delicate is a graduate of Wellesley College. Mr. Shore is a graduate of Missouri University and Harvard, and is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

The wedding will take place in the early spring, and after a honeymoon trip to Bermuda, Mr. Shore and his bride will make their home in New York.

Woman's Club Recital

THE St. Louis Woman's Club is planning an interesting entertainment Thursday afternoon, when Josephine Carradine Dixon, pianist, and John Halk, violinist, both St. Louis Musicians, will be heard in a recital. Mrs. Dixon has not played in public since the played the Rachmaninoff Concerto with the Symphony Orchestra a few seasons ago with Rudolph Ganz conducting. The most important composition on her program Thursday will be Chopin's Sonata in B Minor. Mr. Halk, who has studied in Paris with Thibaud and in Berlin with Carl Flesch, gave a recital at the Sheldon Memorial a few weeks ago. A luncheon precedes the entertainment.

The winners in the recent contract bridge tournament held at the Woman's Club were announced last week. Mrs. Edward Banister and Mrs. Franklin R. Pierce won in the north and south positions, and Mrs. Albert D. Nortoni and Mrs. Jesse W. Barrett in the east and west. Their names will be engraved on the silver cups retained by the club, and in addition individual cups were awarded to each.

Lenten Lecture Today At Visitation Convent

MRS. J. Hugh Powers, Mrs. D. F. Thomas, Mrs. C. W. Massee, Mrs. Margaret Sickles, Mrs. G. C. Edmonson, Miss Josephine Dockery, Mrs. W. T. Donovan, Miss Harvey Smith, Mrs. Richard Bull, Mrs. H. C. Priesmeyer, Mrs. Robert Brown, Mrs. Charles McNamara, Mrs. Eston Randolph, Mrs. Floyd Harding, Mrs. Volney C. Turner, Miss Clara Papin, Miss Julia Farrelly and Miss Margaret Maguire will assist Mrs. J. Fred Schafly, chairman of the Reception Committee, in receiving the guests at the Lenten lecture which will be given today at 3 p. m. at Alumnae Hall, Visitation Convent, by the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., who will talk on "The Drama and Life."

This afternoon's lecture is the second in a series of three being given to raise money for the endowment fund of the convent.

Mrs. Louis M. Hall of Hotel Chase will depart today for Tulsa, Okla., to attend the performances of the Chicago Civic Opera Company this week.

Former St. Louisans Neighbors in New York

DURING her recent visit in St. Louis Mrs. Louise Chappell Rumsey told interesting news of a small colony of former St. Louisans who now live within a short distance of each other in New York. Mrs. Rumsey and her daughter, Miss Louise, have an apartment at Sixty-Fifth street and Park avenue, and frequently see Mr. and Mrs. William V. Schevill, who now divide their time between New York and the Northern summer resorts. Another neighbor is Mrs. Lelia Chopin Hattersley, who is entertaining Mrs. William R. Orthwein of St. Louis at the present time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Hill, formerly prominent St. Louisans, have bought an apartment on the seventeenth floor of one of the new co-operative ownership buildings a little farther up Park avenue, and have furnished it with English and French furnishings brought from Europe last summer. From balconies outside their windows they can see the Hudson river on one side and East river on the other. Mrs. Hill's sister, Mrs. Letitia Parker Williams, has a pent house apartment next door to them. The Hills have a summer home in Rye Beach, N. H., one of the show places in New Hampshire. Mrs. Rumsey departed yesterday for her home.

Mrs. Marion Niedringhaus, Ladue road, with her small daughter and her sister, Miss Janet Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon B. Wallace, will return home today from Olympia, Fla., where they have been members of the resort colony since January.

LENTEN TRAVELS OF ST. LOUISANS

MR. AND MRS. F. W. A. VESPER of Fredmar Farms, St. Louis County, left Thursday for the East with stopovers at Cleveland and Washington. Mr. Vesper goes to Washington to attend a meeting on uniform traffic regulations.

After a visit of several days in New York, during which they will stay at the St. Regis Hotel, they will go to Hot Springs, Va., where they will be joined by their daughter, Josephine, for the spring holiday season at the Homestead. Miss Josephine is a student at National Cathedral Schools in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Vesper will return to St. Louis April 1.

Mrs. Elizabeth Niedringhaus Watts has taken an apartment in Hollywood, Cal., for the spring months, and will be joined this week by her mother, Mrs. Ralph E. Niedringhaus, 760 Carondelet avenue. Mrs. Watts has been visiting friends in Pasadena, Cal.

Miss Elizabeth Tupper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Tupper, 30 Wydown terrace, will return early next week from Pompano, Fla., where she has been with her mother, who returned home Thursday. Miss Tupper was joined last week by Mrs. Harold Hoover of the St. Regis Apartments, who passed the earlier part of the month at Miami Beach.

Mrs. Edgar Rand, 7358 Pershing avenue, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Washington Moore of Nashville, Tenn.

Mrs. Charles Parsons Pettus, 38 Westmoreland place, has arrived from a visit of six weeks in the South. At Miami Beach, Fla., she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Davis, 47 Portland place, at the villa which they leased for the season. She also was the guest of Mrs. Harold Fitzgerald of New York, who has a winter home at Palm Beach. On her way home Mrs. Pettus stopped at Aiken, S. C., where her younger daughter, Miss Mary Pettus, is a student at the Fermata School.

Mr. and Mrs. George Welch Simmons, 21 Westmoreland place, who also visited Mr. and Mrs. John T. Davis at Miami Beach, returned home Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen T. West, 48 Westmoreland place, have gone to Aiken, S. C., to spend a short time with their daughter, Miss Betty West, who is attending the Fermata School.

Mrs. Henry S. Butler of the Chase apartments, and her daughter, Miss Jane Butler, are expected home this week from Castle Hot Springs, Ariz. Mr. and Mrs. Felix E. Gunther, 37 Portland place, have returned from a visit of several weeks at the same resort.

Mrs. Henry H. Ferris, 18 Lenox place, will leave Wednesday for New York, where she will meet her daughter, Miss Annie Ferriss, a student at Vassar College. Miss Ferriss will spend her spring vacation with her mother in New York and Boston.

Miss Alice Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin G. Chapman Jr., 58 Kingsbury place, will spend two months at Camp Cochechee in Maine, where she will be a counselor. Miss Chapman attended the camp two summers during her school years and Mr. and Mrs. Chapman's subdebutante daughter, Miss Jacqueline Chapman who is in Europe, spent four summers there.

Mrs. Paul Lau of Kingston, Ontario, Can., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Krause of the Versailles Apartments. She will be here several weeks and was the guest of honor Tuesday at a bridge party given by Mrs. Kenneth Hagemann, 621 Westwood avenue and a similar party Tuesday for which Mrs. Leighton Shields, 3665 Delmar boulevard, was hostess.

Mrs. Royal H. Switzer of Ridgewood and McKnight roads, will leave Tuesday for a visit in the East before going to Bermuda, where she will spend several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson M. Watts, formerly of Webster Groves, have taken possession of their new home in Hampton Park.

Miss Grace Gilmore of Cleveland, O., arrived yesterday to be the guest for a week of her cousin, Miss Margaret Prendergast of the Forest Park Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric F. King and family of Valparaiso, Chile, arrived last week to be the guests for a short time of Mr. King's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Wall of 5959 Minerva avenue. They will depart late in May for a tour of Europe and before returning to their home in Chile, will place their two older sons, Eric Jr. and Alan in the University at Edinburgh. While in Scotland they will be the guests of relatives of Mr. King.

Among the St. Louisans planning summer trips to Europe are Mrs. Sears Lehmann, 239 Westgate avenue, and Mrs. William Keech of Hotel Chase, who will sail early in the summer. Mrs. Lehmann will be accompanied by her younger son, Frederick. Mrs. Keech is in Washington for a fortnight. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Ewing, 7 Lenox place, and Mrs. J. Boyle Price, formerly of the Kingsway Hotel, and her daughter, Jane, will sail in June for Europe. Mrs. Firmin Desloge Jr. of the Clayton road, and Mrs. Rufus Lackland Taylor, 5014 Waterman avenue, will leave for Europe in June.

Miss Marjorie Cooney of Huntsville, Ala., has returned to her home, after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Dana von Schrader, 5157 Waterman a venue, for three weeks.

Mrs. Robert A. Holland, 8 Hortense place, and her sister, Mrs. Stanley Stoner of the Kingsway Hotel, will visit New Orleans this week, following a stay of several weeks at Pass Christian, Miss.

Mrs. Charles McLure Clark, 15 Hortense place, will depart today for New York, to spend several days before sailing with Mr. Clark next Saturday for Italy. They will spend six weeks or two months with their son-in-law and daughter, Marchese and Marchesa Giovanni Carignani of Naples.

Mrs. Charles Fletcher Sparks, 6320 Wydown boulevard, will arrive home the last of the week from Palm Beach, Fla., where she and Mr. Sparks have been living at their winter home. Mr. Sparks will go to Norfolk, Va., before returning to St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Block, 6363 Wydown boulevard, are expected home the last of the week from Honolulu, where they have been for two weeks.

Mrs. Charles Mulliken, 812 Goodfellow avenue, has gone to Providence, R. I., where she is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Trowbridge. Mrs. Trowbridge was formerly Miss Rebecca Chase, daughter of Mrs. Henry Leverett Chase of St. Louis.

Mrs. Lon O. Hocker, 39 Portland place, is expected home this week-end from Florida, where she has been following a trip to Nassau in February.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Frank Carter of the Congress Hotel will remain at Coronado Beach, Cal., until after Easter. With them is their daughter, Miss Martha Carter.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Danforth, 17 Kingsbury place, and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Donald Danforth of Brentmoor, have returned from a visit of a fortnight at Augusta, Ga. They were joined in Georgia by Mr. and Mrs. Danforth's daughter, Mrs. Randolph P. Compton of Scarsdale, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Funsten of Hampton Park sailed recently from Rio de Janiero, Brazil, for England, where they will spend a short time before returning home the latter part of April. Mr. and Mrs. Funsten have been in Rio de Janeiro since the middle of February.

Mrs. L. Warrington Baldwin, 23 Westmoreland place, is spending two weeks at Savannah, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Langenberg of the St. Louis Country Club grounds will return this week-end from a visit in Florida.

Various Floral Shows Interest Washington

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 15.

FORMAL society in the capital was at a standstill this week, the first week of 30 days' official mourning for William Howard Taft.

Invitations for dinners and other entertainments were recalled. There were, of course, numerous small dinner parties, but until April 9 no one will venture on formal entertainment. Cabinet members' dinners for the President and Mrs. Hoover were among the functions cancelled.

Washington flower shows began to take their place in the interest of the society folk. Notable among these are the shows held by the Department of Agriculture The Amaryllis show will be held Monday, although the customary morning reception by Secretary and Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde for a private view of the flowers will not take place.

The pilgrimage through the iris gardens of Georgetown soon will start. Mrs. Marion Cram of England, authority on gardens, will come from California and be the guest of Mrs. Morris Evans for a tour of the old Virginia gardens.

The Washington Opera Association, Inc., is sponsoring an appearance of the Metropolitan Opera Company in the Capital, April 23 to 25. Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, wife of Representative Bacon of New York, is chairman of the association, and Mrs. George Mesta, formerly of Pittsburg is vice chairman. Mrs. Tracey Dows of Chicago is treasurer.

The second performance of the Washington Symphony Orchestra was given this week. Mrs. Hoover heads the list of those promoting the orchestra.

Those having boxes included the Ambassador of Poland, Representative Ruth Pratt of New York, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the D. A. R.; the Minister of the Netherlands, Mrs. Lawrence C. Phipps, wife of Senator Phipps of Colorado, Mrs. Hiram Bingham, wife of Senator Bingham of Connecticut; Mrs. Bay Cutting of New York, mother of Senator Cutting of New Mexico; Mrs. Tracy Dows and Mrs. Armistead Peter.

The Ambassador of Mexico, Don Manuel C. Tellez, has taken his place as head of the diplomatic corps.

Vice president Curtis will receive a visit within a few days from his daughter, Mrs. Webster Knight II of Providence. She will be accompanied by her two children and by Mrs. Louis Gerry, a friend, and her two children.

President and Mrs. Hoover have as their guest Mrs. Hoover's aunt, Mrs. E. L. Jones of California.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Makes One Look Younger.

Men and women who used to be called Grandpa and Grandma are new setting the styles by darkening their gray hair at home.

For instance, J. A. McCrea, a well-known Californian, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture in five minutes, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. Merely take a half-pint of water, add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at trifling cost. Apply to the hair twice weekly with a comb. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

"I'd no more carry a lipstick than a hair brush"

Says MYRNA LOY

"I don't have to," explains the charming actress whose lovely lips fascinate countless film fans. "Before going on the lot or out for the evening, I simply make up my lips with Kissproof. That's my assurance that they will look their best—and keep looking their best—all day or evening long."

See the Kissproof lips of Miss Loy in "The Great Divide," and remember that she is but one of the 5,000,000 women who have found that they can leave their lipsticks at home if they use Kissproof.

Follow their example and you'll find that this lasting waterproof lisptick will do more than stay on—it will flatter your lips tremendously, making them glow with natural beauty. At any toilet counter.

Webster Alumnae Busy With New Play

ACTIVITIES of the Webster College Alumnae members are centered on the elaborate preparations for the Rev. Daniel A. Lord's new play, "A Fantasy of the Passion," to be presented the evenings of April 5, 7 and 8 at the Odeon in St. Louis.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Newell is general chairman of the play committee, with Mrs. Robert R. Rosenthal, president of the Alumnae, honorary chairman. Miss Theresa Shea is chairman of organization; Miss Rosamond Smith, chairman of publicity, and Miss Genevieve Barthel, co-chairman; Miss Agnes Tuchschmidt, chairman of the ticket committee. Miss Gertrude Jolly is in charge of the program, Mrs. James E. Carroll of the patronesses, and Mrs. Theo Monti O'Mara of the players.

Miss Tuchschmidt has organized her workers into teams of 10 under individual captains so that friends of Webster College may have personal attention in making reservations. The captains are Mrs. N. J. George, Miss Helen McAnulty, Miss Helen McGuire, Mrs. F. A. O'Leary, Mrs. J. J. Riley, Miss Dorothy Fairall and Miss Margaret Vollett. Many students at the college are helping in this work.

All Alumnae members active in preparation for the play are St. Louis and Webster Groves girls. However, many out-of-town alumnae have made reservations for the performances and will be guests at the college or at homes of friends during the period of the presentation of the passion play.

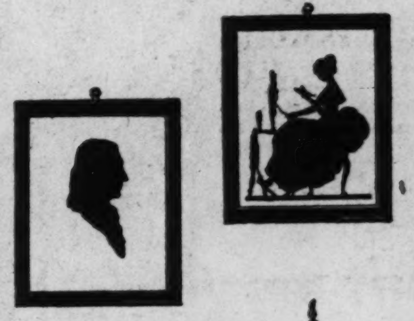
Kentucky Mountain Women to Weave Coverlets Here

An Exhibit of Rare Historic Interest on the Fourth Floor

In the Kentucky mountains there are still housewives sitting at the looms their grandfathers built . . . weaving the lovely poetic patterns that were the pride of their grandmothers to the third and fourth generations. This week St. Louis is to see a real Kentucky mountaineer woman re-create these fascinating old Coverlets on an old-fashioned loom . . . in such historic patterns as "Pine Bloom," "Wheel of Fortune," "Hickory Leaf," "Jefferson's Garden" and others rich in mountain lore and colonial charm.

Drapery Shop—Fourth Floor.

And on the Walls Hang Silhouettes

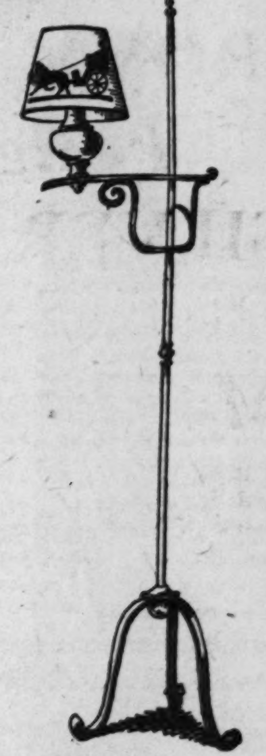


Hand-Cut—Size 7x9 . . . 5.25

Priscilla at her spinning wheel, George and Martha Washington . . . and other colonial beaus and belles that re-echo the romance of a glamorous past.

Other silhouettes in square and oval frames. 79c to $5.25

Picture Shop—Fourth Floor.



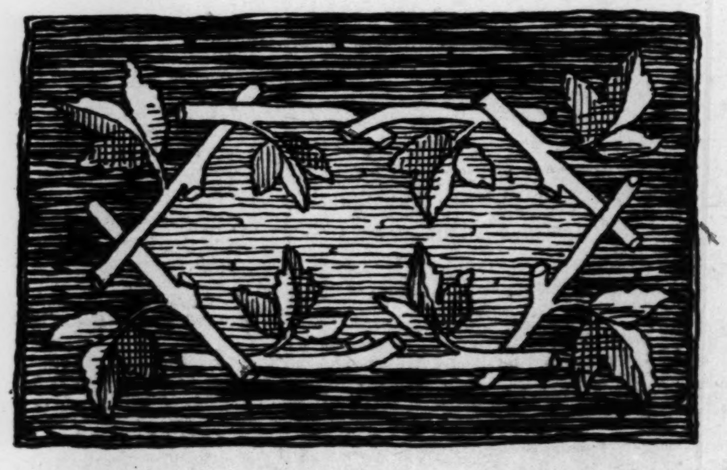
Early American Floor Lamps

With Silhouette Shades . . 10.00

When evening shadows fall, the soft glow of this Colonial Bridge Lamp will throw the 18th century room in quite the proper light . . . and it is equally at home in the modern living room. The base is finished in antique bronze effect and priced separately at $7.50. The shade, sketched, is $2.50.

Other Early American type Shades in silhouette and chintz effects......$250 and $9.50

Lamp Shop—Fourth Floor.



Antique Hooked Rugs for the Early American Interior

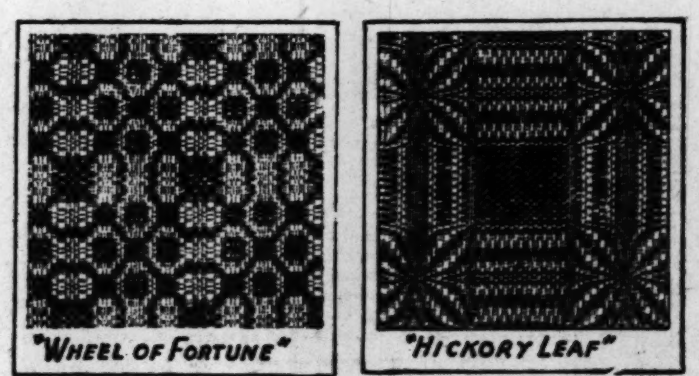
Average Size, 3.1x2.1 Feet 6.95

A setting of antique hooked Rugs adds the final touch of friendliness and comfort to the Early American room . . . and at Vandervoort's you will find one of the largest selections of these beautiful Rugs that are made in the Maritime Provinces.

Hand-Loomed Rag Rugs

No early American home is complete without a sprinkling of old-fashioned hit-and-miss Rugs like these. Size 30x36 in., $1.59. Size 30x54 in., $2.50

Rug Shop—Fourth Floor.



Reproductions of These Coverlets Obtainable in Our Blanket Shop

It is not possible for everyone to have one of these rare bits of handiwork which bring such large prices in antique shops. However, it is possible to have excellent reproductions of them for a very reasonable price . . . and nothing is more appropriate for the modern home. Only four of many interesting patterns are listed below:

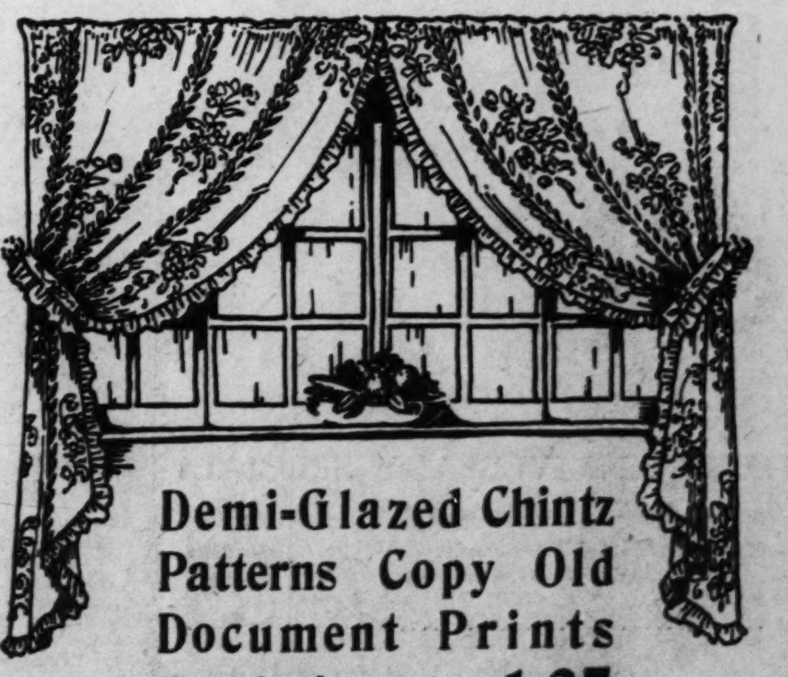
"Log Cabin;" sizes 72x108 and 90x108 ....$6.85

"Wheel of Fortune," the good luck Coverlet; size 90x108.....$6.85

"Jefferson's Garden"—original by Barbara Frietchie, 1776..$10.95

"Hickory Leaf," originated in 1776, at Harrodsburg, Kentucky, $5.95

Blanket Shop—Fourth Floor.



Demi-Glazed Chintz Patterns Copy Old Document Prints

Exceptional Value at, Yard 1.35

There are so many delightful things to be achieved with this colorful demi-glazed chintz that whether you are carrying out an early American scheme or not, you'll want some to cover a dressing table, a chair, or make some draperies or hangings. Hair Lace Trims
Smart BAKUS

Baku—the aristocrat of straws—has such youthful charm when trimmed with hair—the one illustrated is typical of our collection at this surprisingly low price. $10

CUNNINGHAM'S
419 NORTH SIXTH STREET

PROPER CARE is the first step towards lovely hair. It goes without saying Hazel Bofinger of "Show Boat" realizes this. She's wearing the LONG BOB.

Don't envy soft, wavy hair . . .

Modern hair dressers arrange the hair so beautifully that it's bound to attract attention. That's why it's so important to guard its color and lustre; keep it in perfect condition.

There is no surer, simpler way to do this than with Danderine. Each time you use your brush, just moisten it with this delicately fragranced liquid. Then as you draw it through your hair, it removes the excess oil; brings out the natural color; makes the hair fairly sparkle with new life and lustre.

How much easier it is to arrange the hair afterwards. How it stays in place. And try "setting" the waves with Danderine. They stay in so much longer.

Danderine quickly dissolves dandruff; comforts; puts the scalp in the pink of condition; helps the hair to grow long, silky and abundant! Five million bottles used a year.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

LEADERSHIP COURSES TO START THIS WEEK

Training for New and Experienced Scout Masters Is Offered.

A series of training courses in scout leadership, for scoutmasters, assistant scoutmasters and troop committeemen will open this week, according to William Pufer, educational director of the council. The courses will consist of classes both for new leaders and for men experienced in scouting.

Four classes will start this week, while two others are scheduled to begin the middle of next month.

An elementary course for men new to scouting will start at the Michael School, Forest Park boulevard and Euclid avenue, tomorrow evening, under the tutelage of Field Executive M. N. Leavitt of the Suburban District. In this course the members will be organized as model scout troop, and the classes will be conducted as regular scout meetings. The course will hold 12 meetings, one of which will be an overnight hike, attendance at the hike and at least nine other meetings being required in order to obtain a training certificate for completing the course.

The first aid class will also start tomorrow evening, at the Washington University Medical School, Scott and Euclid avenues, for men who have completed a previous elementary course. Dr. C. E. Gilliland will be instructor, while Deputy Commissioner Aubrey C. Lindsley will act as assistant instructor. Field Executive L. L. Hotchkiss of the West District will be director.

A class in swimming will start Tuesday evening at the Principia pool, Montclair and Minerva avenues, with Commodore Flint as instructor. M. D. Shippey, camping director of the council, will serve as director.

The fifth course, in different handicrafts, will start on the sixth floor of the Missouri Theater Building.

The two courses scheduled to start in April will be in nature study and astronomy. A third course, in map-making, that had been planned, has been postponed, probably until next fall.

Troop Notes

West District.

Ten scouts of Troop 2, of Pilgrim Congregational Church, participated in the East St. Louis Boy Scout Circus a week ago Friday evening, taking part in both the grand entry and in a featured rope-spinning act.

Scouts George Tooley, Harry Svatek and Truett McSpadden have been awarded prizes by Troop 26 of Delmar Baptist Church, for selling the most tickets in the troop for the recent Scout Circus. The troop's monthly newspaper, "Troop Static" recently entered its third year of existence. Its editor, Scout B. D. Moss Jr., 5862 Page boulevard, wishes exchanges with other troop newspapers.

Scout Louis Platt is to become assistant scoutmaster of Troop 30, of the Y. M. H. A., within the next few weeks, according to an announcement made at the regular meeting of the troop last week. Five other promotions will also be made at that time, Patrol Leaders Elliot Gillerman and Arnold Singer, advancing to junior assistant scoutmasters, and Scouts Bob Carp, Harry Rotham, and Charles Rosen becoming patrol leaders of the Navajos, Sioux, and Mohawks,

A new patrol, the Cobras, has been organized by Troop 101, of West Park Baptist Church. Scout George Bagot is patrol leader, and Scout Jack Talley is assistant patrol leader. The troop is planning to take a hike some time this month.

North District.

Scout Ramon Morris has been commissioned assistant scoutmaster of Troop 3, which meets at Grace Holy Cross Church, and Scout Louis Thompson has been appointed senior patrol leader. Both advancements became effective at the meeting of the troop last week. Three new patrol leaders, William Dixon, Edward Eskew and Fred Pomeroy, were also appointed, while a new recruit, Scout Walter Willis, was presented with his Tenderfoot pin. Scout Joe Conrad passed his safety test, and Scout Willis, in addition to becoming a Tenderfoot, passed his second class Scouts' pace test.

A new organization, the Older Boys' Club, has been started by the Mothers' Club of Troop 122, of Sherman Park Community Center, for the older scouts of the troop.

South District.

A new scout troop is being organized at Jefferson Barracks, under the leadership of E. P. Humphrey and Chaplain Trett of the Army post.

A talk on minerals was given by Scout Edward Montgomery at the meeting of Troop 105, of the Church of the Assumption, last week.

The scouts of Troop 168, of St. Pius' Church, have planned an automobile hike to Crystal City, Mo., for today.

Suburban District.

Scout Warren Jamison was elected Senior Patrol Leader of Troop Clayton 1 of the DeMun School, at an election of officers conducted by the troop. George O. Warner Jr. became patrol leader of the Flying Eagle patrol, Carl Sandvoss patrol leader of the Fox patrol and Charles Marquis patrol leader of the Pine Tree Patrol.

Troop Webster Groves 3, of Hagerty Memorial M. E. Church, will hold an anniversary party to celebrate its fourteenth birthday, at the church next Friday evening.

SECOND CLASS SCOUT REGULATION ALTERED

Candidates Must Appear Before Board of Review in Future.

Boy Scout candidates for second class rank must appear before a board of review for examination of their qualifications hereafter, but troops will be authorized to present second class, first class and merit badges from now on, according to two important rulings made recently by the St. Louis Boy Scout Court of Honor. The troop presentations, however, must be made by a Troop Court of Honor organized according to standards specified by the court.

Heretofore only candidates for the rank of first class scout or higher have appeared before boards of review, while presentation of badges was limited to District and City Courts of Honor held five or six times a year. A review conducted as a preliminary to the recent Scout Circus, however, as part of the Achievement Roundup, led a number of scout leaders to request that second class reviews be continued, as the candidates obtained a better knowledge of the scout work required.

The second class reviews will be conducted along the same lines as those for first class candidates, the scout passing the test beforehand and then bringing proof to the board that he can meet the requirements. The second class reviews will be held at the same time as the reviews for first class rank and those merit badges for which an examination is required. Boards will meet in all four of the districts this week, the Suburban District convening at the Webster Groves High School tomorrow evening, the North at the Farragut School Tuesday, the South at the Fanning School Wednesday, and the West at the Church of the Ascension Thursday night.

All reviews will start at 8:30 o'clock. The only merit badge that will be reviewed will be that for Personal Health, for Scouts who now have application for this badge on file at local headquarters, or who pass the badge in time to file application before next Thursday.

Troop Courts of Honor are a radical departure from previous methods of presenting awards here. These courts are formed by the members of the Troop Committees, all of whom have been appointed acting members of the regular Court of Honor. Several conditions must be met, however, for the troop court to function.

An application containing full information on all awards to be made must be filed at local Scout headquarters in advance of the date of session, on regular forms which may be obtained at headquarters. A report containing full information on all awards made to Scouts actually present must be filed within one week after the ceremony has been held. At least three members of either the Troop Court of Honor, the District Court of Honor or the City Court of Honor, or a total of three members from these groups, must be present to make the awards. Badges for the awards may be obtained from headquarters at the time the application is filed, only those badges listed on the application, however, being obtainable.

These courts will not have the power to award the high rank badges of Eagle Scout, Life Scout, Star Scout or Eagle Palms. Otherwise they will function similarly to the regular courts of honor.

One Troop Court of Honor has already been held here, almost immediately after the new practice was announced. This first court of its kind in St. Louis was conducted last Tuesday evening by Troop 198, of St. John's Episcopal Church, to award 50 merit badges, eight first-class badges and five second-class badges. The 50 merit badges were divided among 12 12 Scouts. All of the badges had been earned since Jan. 1.

Committeeman Thomas Gale acted as chairman of the court, assisted by Louis Yates, John W. Hossack, and Thomas E. Upshaw. Hossack presented the second class badges, Upshaw the first-class badges, and Yates the merit badges. Chairman Gale made the main address of the program, explaining the purpose and functions of the new court, and congratulating the troop on its being the first to organize such a body.

Merit badges were presented to Scouts Ernest Brach, Edwin Edmonson, Harry Enston, James Harrison, James Ingham, Russell Ingham, Henry Manker Jr., Elliott Reed, Rudolph Schlatter Jr., Albert Shorkey, Richard Shorkey and Rolland Stevens. First-class badges were given to Scouts Ewing Dryden, Edward McKee, Elliott Reed, Jordan Manker, Robert Neslage, Fred Grabenschroer, Rolland Stevens, and Russell Ingham, while second class badges were awarded to Scouts Donald Backus, Ralph Bradshaw, Oliver Henry, Neal Lloyd and Robert Ewers.

An individual achievement contest is being conducted by Troop Webster Groves 14, of South Webster Congregational Church, at present. The winner of the contest will receive a trip to Camp Irondale for a section next summer. Two new members have been added to the troop since the Scout Circus.

Troop Richmond Heights 1, of the West Richmond Heights School, has a new scoutmaster, K. B. Buchanan.

200,000-Watt Tests Success

WGY Conquers Static in 3 A. M. Broadcasts—Three Stations Seek 50,000-Watt Permits.

Two more stations—WSM, at Nashville, Tenn., and KGO, at Oakland, Cal.—have joined the rush of stations on cleared channels to obtain permit to erect 50,000-watt transmitters.

WSM, a 5000-watter, is the station which tunes so broadly in and around St. Louis that with WFBM, at Evansville, Ind., it prevents reception of KFI on most receivers until late at night. It uses the 650-kilocycle cleared channel.

Application has been made in behalf of WHO. Des Moines, for a construction permit for a 50,000-watt station to be erected near Grinnell or Malcolm, Ia., to be used in synchronization of WHO and WOC, Davenport. This application is a result of the plans to merge WHO and WOC.

KGO is a 10,000-watt station owned by the General Electric Co., which also owns and operates the 50,000-watt WGY. KGO and WGY originally had separate wave lengths, but when the reallocation was made Nov. 11, 1928, the Federal Radio Commission gave the 790 kc. channel, which WGY had used, to KGO, restricting WGY to daytime operation. General Electric fought the decision in the courts and won a decision that it could operate unlimited time on the 790kc. wave. Since then both stations have operated simultaneously on that channel. General Electric recently reported to the Radio Commission on a survey of reception of WGY and KGO, which showed that simultaneous operation had greatly reduced the effective service area of each station.

Listeners who have gotten up at 3 a. m. mornings the past week to tune in WGY experimenting with 200,000 watts power, the greatest ever used in radio and four times as great as the power used by WLW, WENR, WTAM or KDKA, have heard broadcasting as it should be. The quality—the depth and richness of transmission—was far and away the finest the writer ever has heard. WGY tuned as sharply, using reasonable volume, as when it ordinarily broadcasts with 50,000 watts, and that is sharp. About 3.50 last Sunday morning, in the first 200,000-watt test—WFAA, at Dallas, Tex., came on the air to test. WFAA's channel is on 800kc, the next below the 790kc WGY wave length. Not once did WGY "wash over" onto WFAA, but several times there was interference with WGY from the Texas station, which always tunes a bit broadly, as does WBAP, Fort Worth, with which it shares time on 800kc.

WGY signals rode right over the strong static from 3 to 5 a. m. There was never a time when static spoiled the broadcasting. It was possible to set the volume control at a level where static was reduced to an occasional faint scratching, yet the WGY signals came through strong, clear and true. The phrase "Came in like a local" is generally misused, but not in this case. WGY was as clear, or clearer, than any St. Louis station ever was.

The broadcasting included music by a jazz orchestra, a theater organ, an orchestra playing good music, a mixed quartet and soloists. The tone quality, the strength and clearness, the general excellence of the broadcasting as a whole, would have converted any listener to advocacy of real super power for stations with managements intelligent to use it adequately.

The application of WTMJ, Milwaukee, Wis., for increase of power from 1000 to 5000 watts has been denied.

KFYR, Bismarck, N. D., which broadcasts on 550 kilocycles, the channel used by KSD, St. Louis, WKRC, Cincinnati, and WGR, Buffalo, N. Y., is seeking an increase of power from 500 to 1000 watts at night and 2500 watts daytime. WKRC has an application for an increase from 500 to 1000 watts pending before the commission. WGR already uses 1000 watts. The growling and heterohyding on 550 kc have caused complaint for months. It would, naturally, be worse if WKRC were granted 1000 watts and still worse if the North

Campbell Expects To Break Speed Mark in New Car

Once Held World's Record, Is Building Another Automobile.

LONDON, March 15.—Capt. Malcolm Campbell, once holder of the world's automobile speed record, will attempt to break the existing record of 231.4 miles an hour now held by England's Maj. H. O. D. Segrave, some time this year.

In an old fifteenth century house near Povey Cross, in Surrey, he is at work on a car with which he hopes to attain the speed of 300 miles an hour. Closely guarding his secret are 14 Alsatian wolf hounds and a trusted group of workmen.

"My next attempt on the motoring speed record will not be my last," he recently announced, "unless I can set up such a speed that I shall be able to rest on my laurels because it will remain long unbroken.

"In my next attempt I hope to reach 300 miles an hour. I am not of the school of pessimists who, a year or two ago, stated that a car would leave the earth and rear over backwards if it exceeded 200 miles an hour. We shall see that 300 miles an hour is well within the reach of human endeavor—and possibly very soon."

Mechanism Must Be Perfect.

In order to attain such speed, Campbell says that everything playing a part in the trial must be absolutely perfect. Mechanism must be exact, tires must have perfect symmetry, body construction must be flawless and, above all, the track on which the test is to be run must be absolutely smooth and level.

Last year Campbell attempted to break the world's speed record on a dried-up lake bed in Africa. Defects in the straight-away caused his car to swerve and bump and make Campbell give up his attempts there. As yet he has not announced where he will make his attempt this year.

"Many people, hearing my ambition to reach the 300-mile mark, have objected that flesh and blood will not stand it," Campbell remarked. "I think they will—more, I am sure of it. A good deal depends on the physical fitness of the driver. I found, after my last attempt in Africa, that when the trial was finished my hands were as steady and my pulse as regular as before starting.

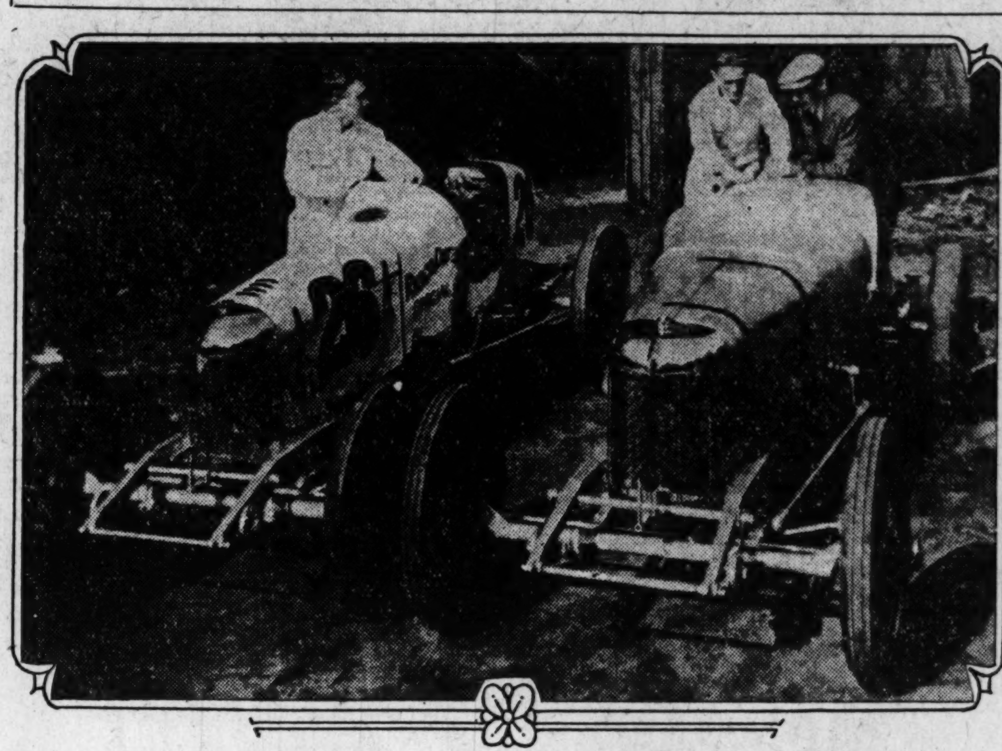
"Everything, then, depends on obtaining the correct machine and having it on a perfect track at the right time. Then, if I can set up such a recorkd as I want, I might consider making the run my last."

Mountains Crossed By Military Road

Crossing the high Atlas Mountains in French Morocco by means of a fine military road is a new experience for tourists in that country, the Foreign Travel Division of the American Automobile Association says.

"The new military road is being built by the soldiers of the French Legion," the statement says, "and its construction is well under way. This highway will eventually reach places never before accessible except by caravan. It is modern in every respect. France hopes to achieve permanent pacification by the army of her possessions in Morocco through this road."

Comparison of Old and New Types of Racing Cars



AT the left is one of the "baby racers" driven in the Indianoplis race last year, while beside it is a machine that conforms to the Speedway's new regulation that the driver must be accompanied by a mechanic, in the 1930 event.

Darker Colors, Rich in Quality, Noticeable on Cars

VISITORS at the various automobile shows this year have been impressed by the unusual color treatment on almost every line of cars. In the sport type there is a series of bright attractive lines, characteristic of the purpose of the model. On the more formal cars, though the colors may be subdued, there is noticeable a vitality and life due to the careful choosing of the shades. Black has begun to appeal less frequently and in its place have come very dark shades, rich in tone quality, which add distinction.

One Mile of New Cars in 1929 for 3 Miles of Paving

The automobile industry produced one mile of new cars in 1929 for every three miles of highway surfaced, and with 40 cars already registered to every mile, it shows how road-building agencies are being pushed to keep abreast with the needs, according to the American Automobile Association.

The A. A. A. statement is based on the fact that the industry produced 45 miles of cars per day in 1929, or 16,425 miles for the year, while approximately 55,000 miles of roads were surfaced.

"As the heaviest travel is on the interstate roads," says the national motoring body, "this situation affords a convincing argument for increased Federal aid. Congress is now considering raising the amount from the present appropriation of $75,000,000 a year to $125,000,000 a year. The outlook for more funds is exceedingly promising."

Kaye Don Places Great Confidence In Special Tires

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Kaye Don, the British racer who will strive to attain the tremendous speed of 240 miles an hour or more at Daytona Beach, Fla., within the next few weeks, stopped in Washington on his way to the scene of his speed trial.

Don, who must exceed the record of 231 miles an hour set by his countryman, Sir Henry O. D. Segrave, is placing great confidence in his tires. They are the governor of speed in any attempt of this sort, he pointed out, for it has been recognized by race drivers that the machine is only as fast as the maximum speed its tires will stand.

The tires that are to be used are made of fine cotton fabric with only a thin coating of smooth rubber. Discussing them, Don stated that they had been tested under 300-mile-an-hour conditions in British laboratories and withstood that stress for two minutes before breaking.

Don has no delusions about what may happen if there is the slightest kink in the trials. He said he was well aware of the fact that a blowout at the speed he hopes to attain would mean death and the complete wrecking of his car.

Poor Motorists Out of Luck.

One of the chief grievances of owner-drivers who use their motor cars in London, England, is that there is one law for the rich and another for the "poor," so far as parking is concerned. So long as there is a chauffeur in charge of a car, it can stop almost indefinitely outside hotels, shops, and theaters. The owner-driver, however, is not allowed to leave his car anywhere except at official parking places.

Close off the heater, if of the hot-air type, when trailing behind a smoking car.

Resort Bureau Gives Motorists Touring Data

ON request, the Post-Dispatch Resort and Travel Bureau will arrange routes motorists desiring to take long or short automobile tours. The bureau has a wealth of information from which to draw in arrangnig such routings.

Part of this service consists of furnishing maps of the various sections of the United States and Eastern Canada, at a nominal price. St. Louis and vicinity maps are also available at a slight cost. For further information regarding touring, write to the Resort and Travel Bureau.

Membership Gain Places Auto Club Eighth in A. A. A.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Gain in membership by the Automobile Club of Missouri in 1929 rates fifth in the entire A. A. A. family of more than 1000 motor clubs in the United States and Canada, according to figures announced by the American Automobile Association on the eve of the sixth annual secretaries' conference.

The Automobile Club of Missouri also advanced to eighth place in point of membership size of individual clubs, the club having moved up during the year from tenth position. The 1929 increase for the Missouri organization was 4369.

The membership growth of the Missouri club places it in a class with the other leading clubs of the country, including those at Chicago, California, Cleveland, Detroit and New York.

Opposes Repeal of Dyer Auto Theft Act

Amendments Proposed by Motorists' Body Would Penalize 'Joy Riders' Against Whom the Law Has Been Evoked, and Which Led Congressman From Missouri to Seek Its Revocation.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Opposition to the proposed repeal of the national motor vehicle theft act was voiced this week by the American Motorists' Association.

Repeal of the act is proposed by its author, Congressman Dyer of Missouri, who declares its stringent penalties, designed to break up organized automobile thievery, is being abused by Federal Judges in imposing sentences on young men and boys for joy-riding.

"When passed 10 years ago the law was never intended to make the act of joy-riding a Federal crime, nor was it intended to impose maximum sentences of five years of $5000 fines on young boys for what was many times a thoughtless act," Dyer declared in asking Congress to repeal his own legislation. "Its primary purpose was to reach gangs of automobile thieves and to prevent their disposing of loot through interstate traffic. It was a good law, but has been badly abused and should be repealed."

Amendment of the law, rather than its repeal, is urged by the American Motorists' Association, which has asked to be heard along with other interested organizations in consideration of the proposed repeal of the act. The association points out that from its passage in October, 1919, until June 30, 1928, the latest available figures, there have been 11,072 indictments under the act and a total of $14,331,840 worth of automobiles recovered.

"Largely through the enforcement of the act by the Department of Justice, there has been comparatively little organized automobile gang thievery, disposing of their loot through interstate traffic," declares J. Borton Weeks, president of the A. M. A. "Repeal of the act would result in millions of loss to motorists throughout the United States.

"The abuse complained of can be easily remedied by Congress without repeal of the act. This could be done by the insertion or addition of a special 'joy-riding' penalty, yet leaving in the act the maximum penalties for those engaged in the business of stealing and selling automobiles. Billions of dollars are invested in automobiles standing daily on our public streets, which if left to the prey of thieves will be endangered by repeal of the act."

Conference Called On Routing of Road Through Mexico

By the Associated Press.

LAREDO, Tex., March 15.—Announcement comes from Mexico City that the Mexican National Highway Commission has called a good roads convention in the capital for April 20, 21 and 22, when an agreement is expected to be signed by the commission with representatives of Guatemala, San Salvador and Honduras on a definite routing and designating of connecting points of the Pan-American highway through these three countries.

From Mexico City the highway system will extend through the States of Oaxaca, Tabasco and Chiapas, where the roads are partly under construction. In Guatemala work is in progress on the highways and an automobilist can drive from Guatemala City to San Salvador in one day, it is announced. The highway in the republic of San Salvador is already completed and construction work is under headway on roads through Honduras and Costa Rica.

From Mexico City there radiates a system of hard-surfaced highways leading to the principal cities of the republic and passing through scenic mountain fastnesses. The roads are reported in excellent condition and American tourists seeking "something different" in automobile trips will find it there.

Motor Deaths Increase.

Deaths from motor car accidents in 32 major cities of the United States showed an increase of 5½ per cent last year over the year before. New York was highest, with 1262 persons killed. The total number of deaths in the 32 cities was 5092, as compared with 4825 in 1928.

'Six' Which Sells At From $795 Up Now on Market

Low-Priced Chrysler Model Is a Distinct Addition to the Line.

After months of experimental work, Chrysler this week is introducing the lowest-priced six-cylinder car in its history. New from front to rear bumper, it has a price range of from $795 to $845 at the factory and is now on display in the salesrooms of Midwest Motors, Inc., St. Louis distributer, and associated dealers.

Five body styles in attractive color combinations and with refinements in mechanical detail and appearance are offered. The models include the three-window, four-door sedan, the coupe with rumble seat, business coupe, phaeton and roadster. According to L. M. Stewart, president of Midwest Motors, the present factory production schedule will supply immediate demand.

Chrysler engineering resources have been utilized to the utmost to give quality, performance and riding comfort to the low-priced automobile field. Thousands of miles of mountain road tests were made and the cars subjected to extreme operating conditions.

Features of the new six include silent, all-metal bodies of a design different from those of any other Chrysler product, insulated from the frame and cushioned in rubber; a rustproof process on all enameled parts, a high-compression 62-horsepower motor, hydraulic, four-wheel internal expanding brakes, hydraulic shock absorbers and positive fuel pump.

Bodies Are Stream-Lined.

Sweeping body lines are accentuated by the modern narrow radiator profile, cowl bars, hood and body molding. All exterior hardware including head and cowl lamp rims, radiator shell, hub caps, bumpers, tail light and door handles are chromium-plated, insuring a lustrous nontarnish finish which harmonizes with the wide range of lacquer combinations offered. Heavy steel fenders are of exclusive Chrysler design. The bonderite rust-proofing treatment applied to fenders, dust shield, fuel tank cover and hood sills, insures a permanent finish for the life of the car.

The new all-metal body construction is a distinct Chrysler development, and provides rigidity and balance which only this design affords. The front end, cowl and sides are heavy one-piece stampings from sheets of metal welded together to make a single body unit. Insulation of felt and rubber plus depressions and ribs stamped in the underbody prevent rumbles and squeaks. The all-metal type doors are used, and they are provided with adjustable rubber buffers, heavy hinges and special latches to eliminate annoying rattles.

Interiors give the impression of custom coach work, being designed to provide maximum room and comfort. Upholstery is broadcloth in the closed models and leather in the open models. Silver finished interior fitments are in harmonious design. Seat cushions are wide and deep. tilted at the proper angles for riding comfort. Arm rests, smoking set and vanity case are provided in the rear compartment of the sedan model.

Driving Controls Are Convenient.

Convenience and completeness are featured in the attractively arranged controls in the driver's compartment. Grouped in a panel and indirectly illuminated are speedometer, ammeter, oil pressure gauge and electric fuel gauge. Carburetor choke and theft lock ignition switch are within easy reach of the driver. On top of the three-spoke finger-thin steering wheel are the light control switch, gasoline throttle and horn button. Spark control is entirely automatic. Gear shift is standard, three speeds forward and one reverse.

The new engine, incorporating the latest Chrysler features, is the L-head type with a bore of 3⅛ inches and stroke of 4¼ inches. Chrysler's silver dome cylinder-head is standard equipment.

Four main bearings support the statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft. Improved manifolding, carburetion and ignition systems insure uniform compression and add materially to the smooth performance of the engine. Aluminum alloy pistons of the Isotherm steel strut type are provided with two tongue and groove compression rings and one oil control ring Exhaust valves are of silcrome steel and intake valves of chrome nickel steel.

Standard Equipment.

Standard equipment includes newly-styled wood wheels of the artillery type, although wire wheels are available as special equipment. Oversized balloon tires (19x5), are provided.

Chrysler hydraulic four-wheel brakes, completely enclosed and expanding in 11-inch drums, afford positive and equalized braking facilities at all time.

The total spring length is 89½ inches. Every spring leaf is of silico-manganese steel, and controlling their action are special type hydraulic shock absorbers as standard equipment.

School for Salesmen

A school for salesmen is being conducted at the Mound City Motors, 1900 Locust street, DeSoto distributer, by H. R. Lasley of the sales promotion department of the DeSoto Motor Corporation. The sessins are being held in the evenings.

Orders for 68 Cars Received by One Company

Jack Beebe of E. J. Johnson, Inc., Declares Business Is Not So Poor.

A day's business at E. J. Johnson, Inc., local Willys-Knight, Willys and Whippet distributer, would tend to disprove rumors that business is not so good this month.

Jack Beebe, assistant general manager, paused the other day in the midst of arranging to fill orders for new passenger cars, long enough to give a few succinct details of the day's routine.

"Twenty 'driveways' and 12 carloads of cars, with the end not in sight," was the gist of Beebe's remarks. "Doesn't look like business is poor here, does it?"

A "driveway" takes place when a dealer outside of St. Louis has a rush order to fill and comes here personally to drive back the car.

As the average carload of Willys-Knight cars contains four units, this would mean that E. J. Johnson sold 68 cars in just one day, at both wholesale and retail.

Beebe also made it known that sales of the company in February showed a 200 per cent gain over those in January. To date, this year's sales are keeping well up with those in the corresponding period in 1929, he asserted.

Seasonal Hints to Drivers

SOMETIMES when starting off cold the engine will gallop less if the spark is retarded a little.

Ever notice that the temperature heat indicator will register higher after starting out on a very cold day than on a milder day? This is due to the fact that the radiator shutters do not open as quickly on account of the thermostat taking longer to warm up and act.

It is not a fair test of the condition of the oil in the crankcase to drain off a little and examine it. Diluent collects at the bottom. On the other hand, this habit serves to remove a troublesome content in the oil.

When parking in an ice storm the windshield wiper should be left running if of the electric type. Where a vacuum type is used place a piece of cardboard or paper over the glass under the wiper blade.

When visibility is poor and there is doubt as to the man behind seeing your hand signaling, switch on the tonneau light.

Should the horn start to blow continuously, and a search for the cause of the trouble is inappropriate at the time, simply turn the adjustment screw at the back of the horn housing to the left until the horn motor runs free but noiselessly.

Keep going if the ignition has become wet when parking in the rain. The engine's heat together with the air draft from the fan will dry off the water soaked parts.

Housewife Says Good Breakfasts Cut Down Accidents

A Cheery Smile in Morning Will Prevent Many a Mishap.

Good breakfasts leavened with a cheery smile and served by a bright-eyed housewife in a fresh, crisp frock is the latest recipe for cutting down traffic accidents. The idea is sponsored by Mrs. James N. Downey of the safety division of the Detroit Police Department and chairman of the Women's Safety Committee.

"Give a man a well-cooked breakfast, send him off with a smiling face and half of the traffic troubles will just vanish into thin air," said Mrs. Downey in outlining her plan to officials of the Dodge Brothers Corporation.

"Send him off with quarrels and no breakfast and he is furious at the world. He steps into his automobile and drives onto the city's streets hating the world. He doesn't care about the other fellow. Then accidents happen!

"Women haven't any idea how important their conduct is in the whole matter of traffic," Mrs. Downey explained. "The breakfast table is of first import.

"Keep men happy and good tempered and they won't quarrel with their fellow drivers. Any employer will tell you how quickly he can tell which of his men are unhappy at home. The same applies to automobile drivers. Ask any police officer how frequently speeders tell they they are breaking traffic laws because they've just had a quarrel with the wife."

And Mrs. Downey practices what she preaches. Every morning of her life she sends her husband, a Deputy Sheriff, off to work with a fine breakfast of porridge, toast, fruit and coffee.

"And he never has an automobile accident, I can assure you!" the wife added.

Mrs. Downey pointed out other ways in which women can help materially in reducing traffic accidents. They are the worst offenders, she maintains, when it comes to jaywalking. If they would obey traffic laws when they are walking and stop their annoying habit of "back seat" driving when they are riding with their men folks, it would save time, trouble and even lives in many cases, Mrs. Downey declares.

Used Car Sales Called 25 Per Cent Greater Than in 1929

An indication of the rapid expansion of the used car market and an assurance of a brightening business outlook is contained in an announcement by the Chevrolet Motor Co. that winter sales of used cars by the nation-wide Chevrolet dealer organization are exceeding by more than 25 per cent the best previous winter record.

Despite the extremely cold and stormy weather in the Northern States in January and adverse weather conditions in some other sections, sales of used cars by Chevrolet dealers during the month totaled 60,000 cars as compared with the January record of 48,000 established last year.

The Reo Motor Car Co. of Lansing, Mich., announced that non-shatterable glass is now available on its sedans in the model 20 and 25 classification at a slight increase over the standard price.

Phillips Dealers Hold Meeting at Cape Girardeau

More than 80 dealers and agents of the Phillips Petroleum Co. of Bartlesville, Ok., from Southeastern Missouri, Southern Illinois and Arkansas attended a meeting at the Marquette Hotel in Cape Girardeau, Mo., Wednesday. Fred Cordell, St. Louis district manager, and R. C. Jopling, manager of the marketing division of the company, spoke. The sales and an advertising program for 1930 was outlined.

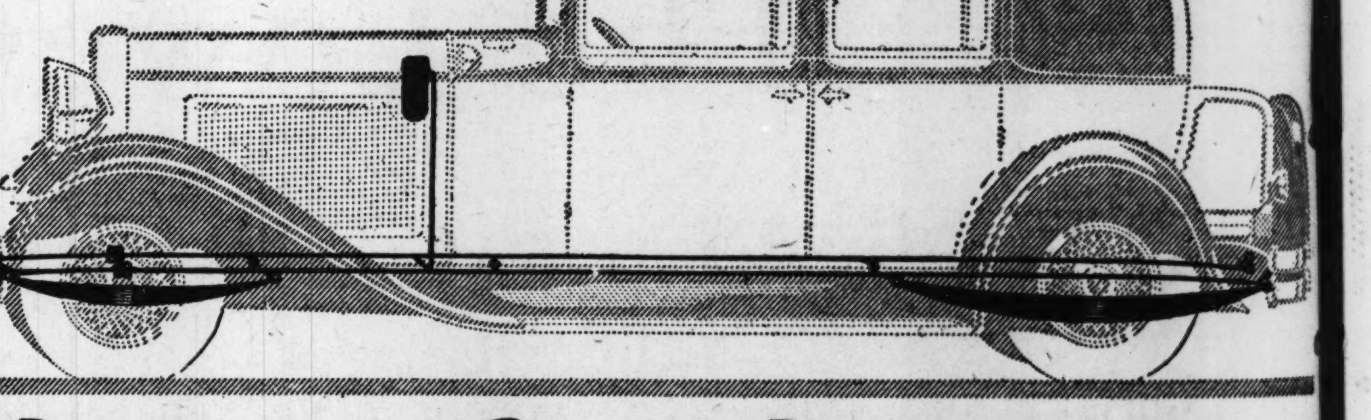
THE OIL CUSHIONED CHASSIS



CHASSIS PROTECTION, CHASSIS PERFORMANCE, that Nash alone Provides

NASH engineering has built an amazing amount of extra value and extra satisfaction into the 1930 Nash "400's." You will not find the oil cushioned chassis in any other car at the Nash price. ¶ Eventually, perhaps, but not now. And Nash offers you this superior chassis protection in both the Twin-Ignition Eight and Six. ¶ All Nash models, even the lowest priced, are equipped with an efficient, modern system of centralized chassis lubrication which eliminates the bother and uncertainty of hand greasing. ¶ In addition, the Twin-Ignition Eight and Six have permanently lubricated springs, encased in steel spring covers. This means chassis bearings, including spring shackle bolts and springs, constantly bathed in oil. No squeaks, creaks, or rust—longer life! ¶ And you will find the "400" price no higher than that of other cars without this valuable safeguard.

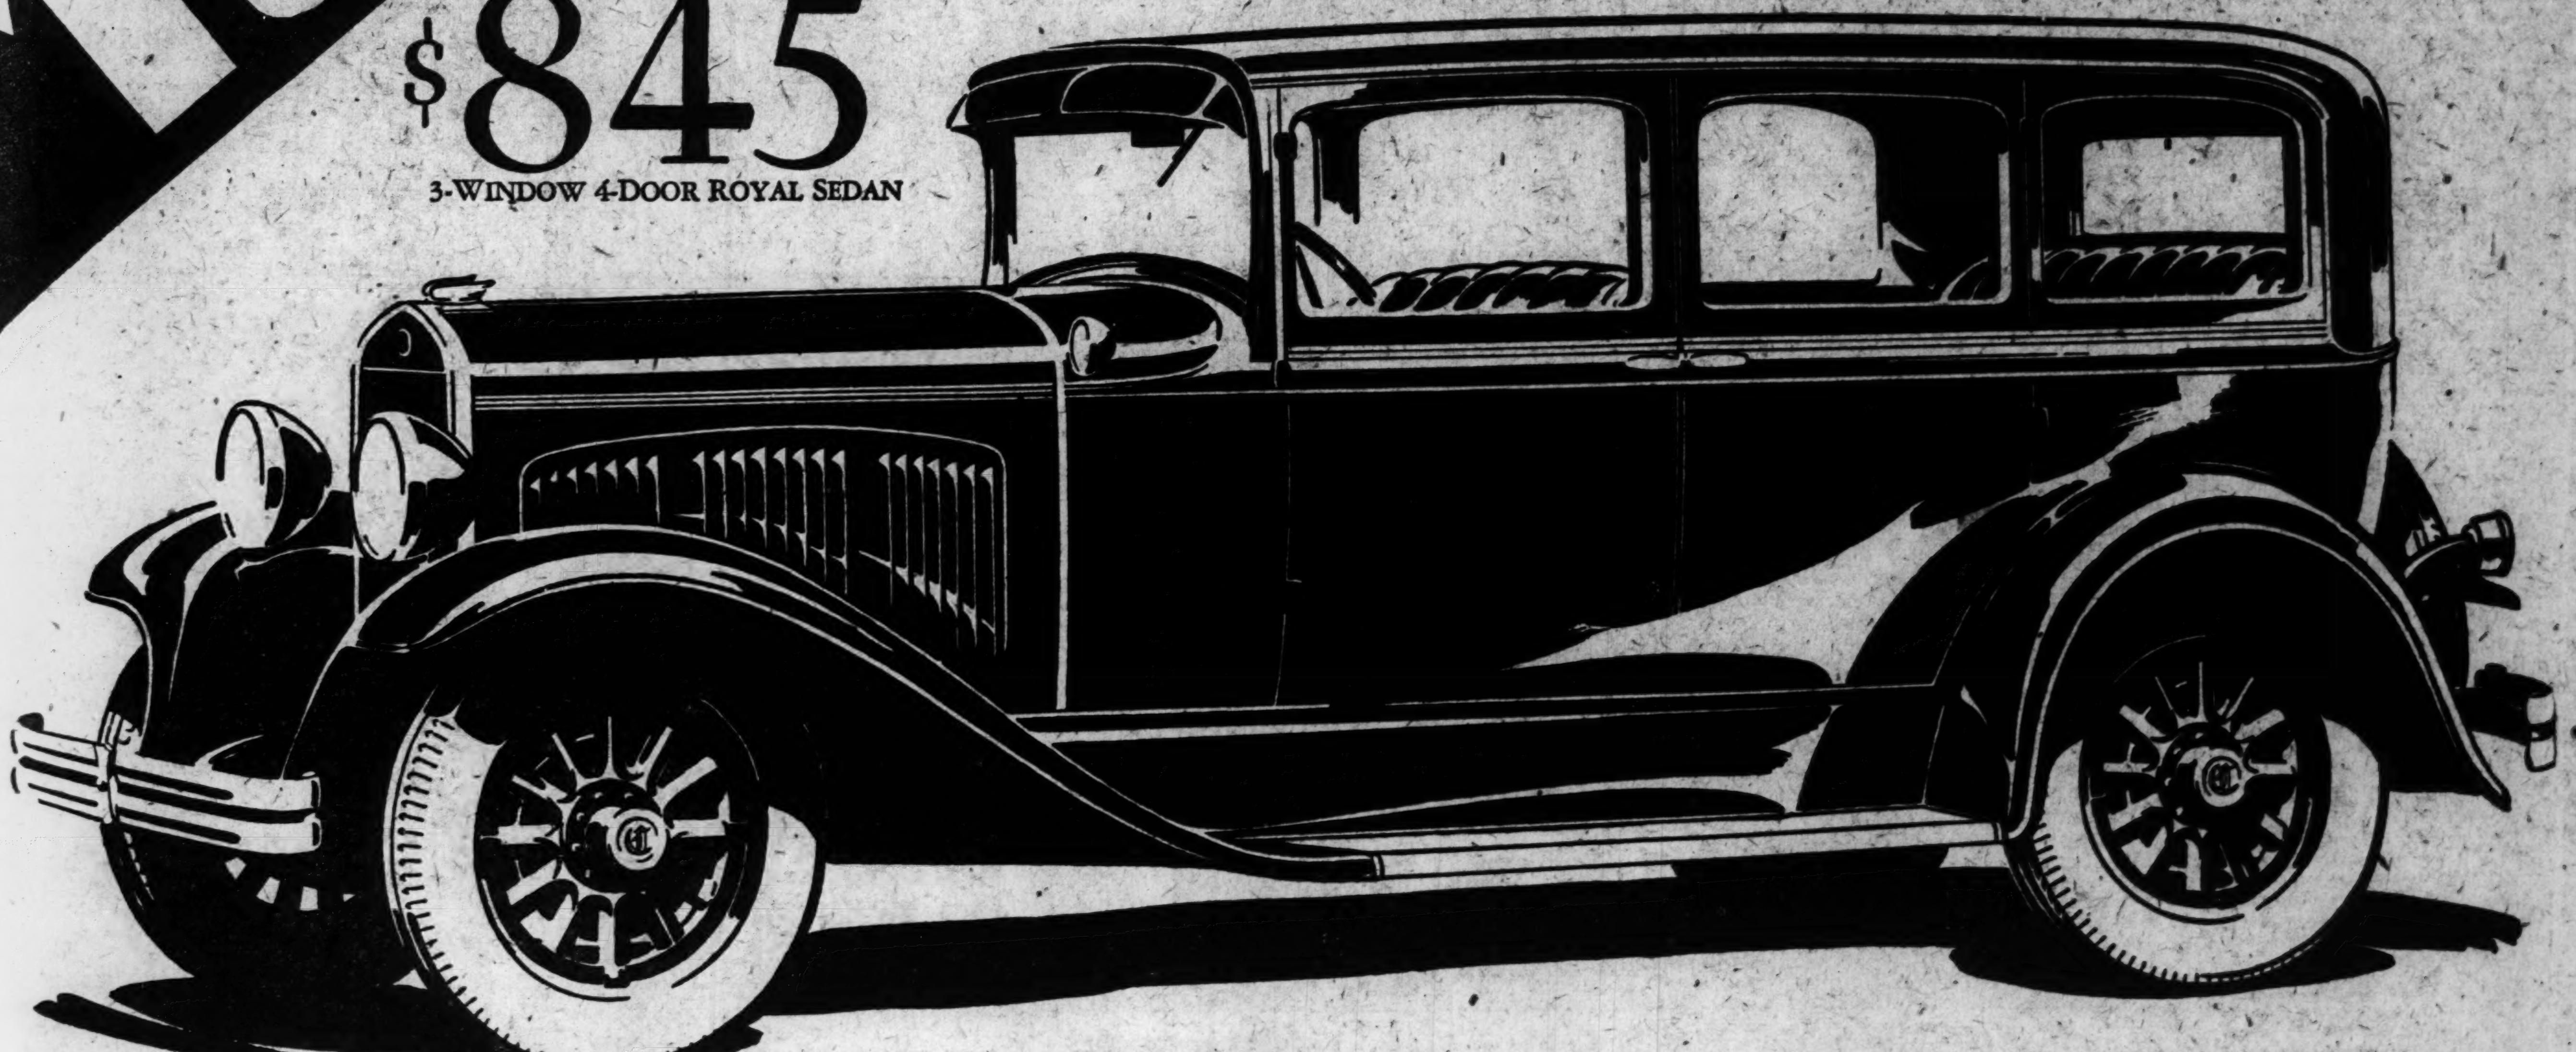
THE NEW CHRYSLER SIX

$845
3-WINDOW 4-DOOR ROYAL SEDAN

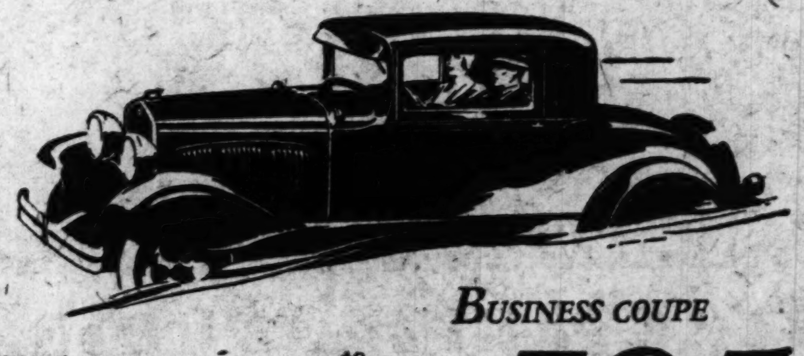


The Lowest-Priced six ever to bear the Chrysler name

Chrysler today introduces a brand-new Chrysler Six—priced from $795 to $845—the lowest-priced six ever to bear the Chrysler name.

Here is Chrysler engineering—with such progressive developments as internal-expanding 4-wheel hydraulic brakes; 62-horsepower high-compression engine mounted on rubber; Iso-therm pistons; fuel pump instead of a vacuum tank; low-swung chassis; special-type spring shackles and hydraulic shock absorbers; small base wheels with large balloon tires; and Chrysler-styled all-metal bodies of new design and rigid construction.

Here is Chrysler craftsmanship—that precision craftsmanship characteristic of Chrysler Standardized Quality.



BUSINESS COUPE

Touring	$835
Royal Coupe	$835
Roadster	$835
Royal Sedan	$845

F. O. B. Detroit (Special Equipment Extra)

Here is Chrysler performance—all of that snap, speed, smoothness and stamina for which Chrysler has been famous ever since its beginning.

Inspection, trial and comparison inevitably lead to the one positive conclusion that by all current measurements of performance, smartness, comfort, safety, economy and quality, the new Chrysler Six takes its place as the greatest six-cylinder value in the world.

We are eager to place a new Chrysler Six at your disposal—today.

Radiator-Cooled Motor Oil Called New Principle

First Introduced on Large Hupmobiles; Improves Efficiency.

DETROIT, Mich., March 15.—The principle of radiator cooled oil for automobiles is an innovation in the United States. It was first introduced to this country on the 133-horsepower Hupmobile straight-eight models recently.

In response to questions, the Hupp Motor Car Corporation is presenting the following explanation of the construction and operation of this new oil cooling system which is said greatly to increase automobile engine efficiency:

"It is a well-known fact that while a certain amount of heat improves the efficiency of engine oil, excessive heat reduces its efficiency and also shortens its life. Oil specialists generally agree that the danger zone begin at 210 degrees Fahrenheit. At temperatures above this point the cylinder oil becames so thin that it loses practically all of its lubricating qualities.

Motion Generates Heat.

"Without sufficient lubrication, the rapidly moving parts generate excessive heat through metal to metal friction, and the result is burned-out bearings, scored pistons and cylinders, or, at the very least, unnecessary wear on all working parts of the engine. In addition, above a certain temperature the oil undergoes a process of crystalization and carbonization which permanently impares its efficiency.

"Exhaustive tests have shown the cylinder oil in this new Hupmobile engine to run from 40 to 50 degrees cooler than in an engine of comparable size not equipped with the radiator cooling system. So efficient is this system that even in warm weather, at sustained high speeds, the oil temperature remains well under 210 degrees; in other engines of large horsepower it is not uncommon for the oil temperature under the above conditions to soar to 240 or even 250 degrees Fahrenheit.

"On this new Hupmobile engine there are two oil pumps of equal capacity. One forces the oil to the bearings, the other to a small section of the radiator, which is partitioned off from the water cooling system. All engine oil is thus constantly circulated through the radiator, exposed to the cooling effect of the air in the same manner that the water is cooled, and then returned to the engine crankcase. The cooled oil is then picked up by the second pump and sent through the oil filter to the bearings.

Oil Thoroughly Circulated.

"These two pumps are unusually efficient. The capacity of each is five gallons per minute at 60 miles an hour. In other words, the entire 12 quarts of crankcase oil are circulated through the radiator, cooled, returned to the crankcase, picked up by the second pump and sent through the oil filter to the bearings and returned again to the crankcase once every 36 seconds at this speed.

"Exhaustive tests have shown that this development reduces the temperature of the engine oil from 40 to 50 degrees. The oil temperature in this engine is held to predetermine limits for starting and for cold weather driving by thermostatically controlled radiator shutters. Between the pump and the radiator oil section is a pressure release valve which permits the cold oil to spill back into the crankcase until the engine is thoroughly warmed up. It gradually opens as the oil temperature rises until it permits full circulation to the radiator at 180 degrees Fahrenheit.

By making use of radiator cooled oil, in this high-powered engine Hupmobile reduces the possibility of burned-out bearings, insufficient lubricating film at continued high speeds, excessive wear on working parts, and short life of the oil; and at the same time provides smooth and quiet operation at all speeds and under all driving conditions.

Auburn Invites Competitors to Ride in Cord Cars

As a preliminary to "invitational week" to be held March 23 to 30, Auburn has invited all automobile dealers and members of the trade to ride in and drive a Cord front-drive car.

"Invitational week," national in scope, is for the purpose of giving the public an opportunity to learn more about the Cord front drive and the advantages which it offers.

In inviting competition to drive the new Cord front drive, R. H. Faulkner, vice president of Auburn, said:

"Due to the interest which our 'invitational week' will arouse for the public, automobile dealsr, their salesmen and mechanics will be asked many questions. Many of the persons who will ride in the Cord during this special week are now customers of other companies and they respect the judgment of the men who have sold them automobiles in previous years.

"We feel that the privilege of gaining first hand knowledge of the exclusive advantages of having a car pulled instead of pushed is due these automobile men and that they will want to be in a position to tell their customers that their estimate of the Cord front drive is based on actual experience."

Use Choke Lightly.

Down-draught carburetion, becoming more common, puts still more of a premium upon careful use of the choke. Gravity puts fuel into the engine with this type of carburetor and, with the choke intemperately used, more fuel than is usable may get into the combustion chamber. The design of the system partially takes care of this eventuality but the car owner must use wisdom to accomplish the rest.

Many Changes in Lowest-Priced "Straight Eight"

Marmon-Roosevelt for 1930 Offers More Power, Many Refinements.

Improved appearance, more powr and many mechanical refinements are combined in the 1930 Marmon-Roosevelt announced by Marmon as a new model of the traight-eight which was the first o sell in the $1000 field. The car was formerly known as the Roosevelt. A complete showing is being made at the Archer-Mann Motor Co., St. Louis distributer, and associated dealers.

It is the fourth new straight-ight to be presented by Marmon this year. The Marmon "8-69" and "8-79" in the $1500 and $2000 fields, respectively, and the Marmon Big Eight in the higher price classification are the other new models.

The Marmon-Roosevelt bears a close resemblance to other Marmon products. Its radiator, hood, body lines and entire general appearance follow familiar Marmon style and design.

Developing 77 horsepower, an increase of seven horsepower over the preceding model, the motor has a bore of 2¾ inches and a stroke of 4¼ inches.

Refinements in Chassis.

Refinements in chassis design, particularly with respect to the front axle and spring system, bring the new car appreciably lower to the ground and this fact, combined with larger tire sizes, a more massive front end and redesigned fenders, have resulted in more beautiful as well as sturdier appearance from bumper to bumper. The car is 14 feet four inches in length from bumper to bumper. A larger radiator similar in contour to the radiators on other Marmon cars with a pointed beak and ample depth for effective chromium plating, is used and the name plate has been redesigned in accordance with the new name of the car.

Outstanding among the improvements are the interior fitments which are not only far better in appearance, but enhance riding ease and comfort. Attention has been paid to roominess and an idea of the interior size may be gained by the dimensions of the front and rear seats of the five-passenger sedan.

Arm rests in the rear seats have been hollowed out for greater comfort of passengers and to provid ample room for three occupants. Upholstery on the seats, which i smooth without piping, harmonizes with the outside appearanc of the car. The dashboard an all garnish molding around windows are of walnut. Toggle grips are provided in rear compartments.

Built in Four Body Styles.

The Marmon-Roosevelt continues to be manufactured in four body styles. These types are a five-passenger sedan, two-passenger coupe with rumble seat, four-passenger victoria coupe and convertibl coupe with rumble seat. Cars ar available in either wood or wir wheels with the latter, mounte forward, included in de luxe equipment at moderate additional cos

New colors and color combinations are available on the variou body styles and wheels are painte to match or harmonize with th general color effect. New shad of blue, green and brown predominate, together with a striking blac that is particularly popular many sections of the country.

With thousands of Rooseve cars in the hands of owners, wi mechanical construction prov and with durability accepted, major changes were made in t engine of the new Marmon-Roosvelt except to refine it in many spects. The crankshaft is balanc statically and dynamically, counter weights being necessar and, following Marmon precisi standards, the bearings are fitt without the use of shims.

The engine is lubricated by f pressure to all rotating parts means of a gear-type pump mounted in the oil sump and controll by a pressure regulator. The capacity of the crankcase is quarts and an oil pressure gau is included in the instrument c ter.

Called an Economical Car.

Refinements in carburetion manifolding have resulted in an usual economy standard for a of the power and performance the new Marmon-Roosevelt, it said. Likewise, special atten has been paid to the cooling tem of the car, and the system i designed that not only is water culated by means of an impe type pump, but thermo-syphon tion also may take place.

Riding qualities of the new M mon-Roosevelt have been emp sized by careful balance of the tire car, by the use of unusu long semielliptic springs with adjusting spring shackles and the use of hydraulic shock abs ers engineered into the fram the time of manufacture.

Four-wheel, self-engineering chanical brakes are continued the new model of Marmon's tribution in the moderate pr field.

New Assistant Salesmanager of Olds Motor Works

Owing to the growth of the Oldsmobile-Viking sales organization, an additional assistant sales managership has been established, it is announced by J. T. Collins, general sales manager. L. J. Blunden, for several years a sales executive in the organization, has been appointed to the newly created position.

L. J. BLUNDEN.

Under the new arrangement all Oldsmobile-Viking sales activities will be under the direction of Collins, assisted by Blunden and H. S. Wier, who has been assistant general sales manager for several years.

For the past 19 months Blunden has been Midwest regional manager of the Old Motor Works, with headquarters in Kansas City. Prior to that, for several years he was manager of the Oldsmobile-Viking branch in Chicago. He has had years of experience in all phases of automobile selling activities and is thoroughly familiar with retailing activities which will form the basis of his new work.

Truck Salesmen And Distributers Hold Meeting

A complete discussion, accompanied by illustrations, of the comprehensive General Motors truck line for 1930 was given at a meeting in the Coronado Hotel Wednesday by regional and factory officials of the General Motors Truck Co.

Harry Howard, regional sales manager, and V. Babcock, regional sales promotion manager, had charge of the meeting. Afterwards a banquet was held for General Motors truck dealers at which representatives of Buick, Oakland-Pontiac, Oldsmobile and finance companies were guests. O. H. Perkins, district manager of the truck company, presided.

Among the automobile men in attendance were A. C. Williams, branch manager of the Olds Motor Works; Ross Williams, district manager of the Oakland-Pontiac organization; W. G. Sabine, manager here of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co.

The meeting was held simultaneously with a salon showing of the new General Motors truck line at the St. Louis branch office.

'Auto Pulse' Said To Keep Gasoline Flow Constant

The S. G. Hoffman Magneto Co., 3134 Washington boulevard, has acquired the distributership of the "auto pulse," an electrical device which is said to sustain a constant pressure of fuel into the automobile engine, insuring undiminished flow at all speeds. The device is said to be especially effective at speeds greater than 45 miles an hour.

Opens Used Car Branch on Easton

William D. Walsh, president of the Walsh Motor Car Co., authorized Ford dealer at 5127-35 Delmar boulevard, announces the leasing of 4821-23 Easton avenue as a used car department. The building has 13,000 square feet of floor space. The department will be under the supervision of Frank J. Walsh, vice president in charge of sales.

The Walsh company also has recently completed the installation of an elaborate Neon display sign at their main headquarters.

Conducts Series of Service Meetings

Walter Marten, special representative of the Oakland Motor Car Co. of Pontiac, Mich., addressed a meeting of service managers, shop foremen and mechanics connected with the Oakland-Pontiac distributer and dealers here, at the Coronado Hotel Thursday. His subject was "Service on the New Oakland Eight."

Marten will hold meetings at the following points in the St. Louis territory: Quincy and Mount Vernon, Ill., and Cape Girardeau, Columbia, Jefferson City and Springfield, Mo.

Chevrolet Offers New Service Plan

DETROIT, March 15. — The Chevrolet Motor Co. announces a new and broader service policy. Any Chevrolet owner, experiencing defective workmanship or material on a Chevrolet car under the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty, is invited to call upon any authorized Chevrolet dealer in the United States or Canada where the work will be done at no cost to him.

The plan, known as the owner's service policy, is now in effect in the 10,000 authorized Chevrolet service stations in the United States, operating under the general supervision of the 52 Chevrolet branch offices.

Caution Will Help.

Fan blades occasionally become bent. In bending them back into shape, car owners may take too much advantage of the pliability of the blades. They may distort the blade in such a way that the air current is directly away from the engine point at which it is most needed. In most cases it might be well to let a mechanic do it.

International Tunnel.

The United States and Canadian tunnel, connecting Detroit, Mich., and Windsor, Ont., under the Detroit River, will be opened to traffic this year. Constructed at a cost of $25,000,000, it will be approximately one mile long between portals and accommodate 1000 vehicles an hour in each direction.

The NEW ESSEX Challenger

Challenger Week Proves It
VALUE OF VALUES

All motordom saw the amazing results of the Challenger Week demonstrations. Essex holds outstanding marks in every locality for fast get-away, speed, reliability, hill-climbing and economy. More than 5,000 cars participated. Speed was established above 70 miles an hour. Average economy better than 20 miles to the gallon was shown. Prove for yourself its outstanding ability.

THE greatest appeal of the New Essex Challenger is dollar-for-dollar value. That is the verdict of owners, new buyers and prospects, in the widest campaign of personal demonstration ever conducted for any automobile.

So eager has been the public response that dealers everywhere in the United States and Canada are continuing their invitations to Ride—Ride—Ride! Come examine, drive and know the New Essex Challenger.

You will like its beauty and quality that you can see and feel in the very upholstery, in the wheel you handle and the hardware you touch. And it will cap the proof of greatest dollar-for-dollar value, with a pride of ownership that is distinctive in its field.

General Upward Trend in Output In Detroit Area

Five Automobile Companies Report Increases in Daily Schedule.

DETROIT, Mich., March 15.—Indications that a general upward swing in production and sales is under way were noted frequently in the industry's activity this week, according to B. H. Cram, president of Cram's Automotive Reports, Inc., industry authority.

Five companies reported that increases in daily output schedules, ranging from slight gains to a step-up in one instance of almost 100 per cent, had been instituted, while with but one exception all tentative set-ups for March production provided for a substantial gain.

One company kept its March set-up at a figure equaling its February production, although incoming orders and sales have shown moderate gains. This was a concern, however, which at the first of the year announced a conservative policy in regard to its output and has since maintained levels strictly in acordance with demand.

Output Geared to Demand.

From this it is not to be inferred that those concerns which have increased their output have done so with no regard for the trend of demand. The fact is that these schedules have been fixed because the sales volume warranted such output. During the last two weeks of February sales began to show an upward trend and during the past week this improvement has been more pronounced. More than a majority of companies reported that incoming orders have been gaining steadily and none has experienced a definite slackening.

The increases in schedules occurred principally in the medium-priced field, with three of the companies stepping up production having representation also in the high-priced class. No gain in output of low-priced cars occurred, both of the two largest volume producers holding schedules at unchanged levels.

Truck Production Shows Gain.

Representing an even greater proportion of manufacturers than did the schedule gains of passenger car output were the increases in truck production. In this division also five companies stepped up output, the sharpest gain being one of about 50 per cent. Most of the companies entered the month with a good bank of orders on hand and where tentative March set-ups have been fixed these show a gain over February production. The majority of companies report sales gaining steadily.

Small Peerless '8' Now Placed In Production

The Peerless standard eight, the smallest of the three quality motor cars which were exhibited at the national automobile shows, is now in production and will soon be in the hands of the dealers, according to an announcement by J. A. Bohannon, president.

This model, complete in five body styles, is listed at the factory at $1495 for the five-passenger sedan; five-passenger club sedan; $1545, five-passenger club sedan; $15.45, five-passenger brougham, and $1595, two passengre cabriolet.

The body of the standard eight has all of the qualifications which distinguish its companion cars, the custom eight and the master eight. The upholstery is rich mohair furnished in tones which harmonize with the exterior finish. The interiors are designed for special comfort and convenience for both the driver and passengers.

A comfort feature is the two-inch range of adjustment on the stereing column and a four-inch range on the front seat. The 22 inches intervening between the back of the front seat and the front of the rear cushion assures extra ample leg room for passengers in the rear compartment. The distance from the ceiling to the floor measures 47 inches, which provides more than sufficient head room for the tallest of persons. Nonshatterable glass in the windshield is standard equipment in the standard eight.

Power is furnished by an eight-in-line "L" type engine. Cylinders are cast en bloc integral with crankcase. The piston bore is 2⅞ inches and the stroke is 4¾ inches. The total piston displacemen is 246 inches. The motor is mounted by four points of suspension and is set in rubber to lessen vibration. The engine develops a brake horsepower of 85 at 3000 r. p. m.

Equips Car With New Carbon Eliminator

"Apollo" Gauge Is Added to Equipment of F. S. Wiemeyer, Inc.

Several additions of equipment have been made to the service department of F. S. Wiemeyer, Inc., 2625 Locust street, and, according to Jean P. Freymann, newly appointed general manager, will afford car owners the same accurate motor and carburetor testing facilities used by the manufacturer.

An Apollo motor gauge, developed by Stromberg engineers, embodies devices to check the magneto, wiring, switches, ignition and valve timing and detects causes of overheating, loss of power and other motor troubles.

Another addition is an elaborate testing stand for carburetors made at the Stromberg Motor Devices factory, which is said to eliminate guesswork in checking carburetor ailments.

The Wiemeyer company is the local distributer of Stromberg carburetors, Houdaille shock absorbers, Triplex safety glass and other accessories.

Obtains Contract To Furnish Fuel For Universal Lines

The Phillips Petroleum Co. announces securing of a contract with the Universal Aviation Corporation, a division of America Airways, for supplying the mail and passenger planes with Phillips "77" aviation gasoline. Universal operates the largest unit of American Airways, which is the operating company of the Aviation Corporation. The contract calls for minimum daily delivery of 5000 ballons at airports along the Universal routes, including Cleveland and Akron, O., Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Mo.; and other poitns.

Effect of Loose Bearing.

A loose connecting rod or main bearing may be responsible for the sudden drop taken in the oil pressure gauge. In the case of the car whose engine boasts of a pressure oiling system, too great a clearance in the bearings will be shown up on the oil pressure gauge. Other possible explanations should be checked over first, however.

F. W. A. Vesper Attends Session of Uniform Traffic Committee

F. W. A. Vesper, president of the Vesper-Buick Auto Co., Buick and Marquette distributer, left for Washington Thursday to attend the meeting Friday and yesterday of the Committee on Uniform Traffic Regulations, of which he is a member.

This committee was appointed by President Hoover while he was Secretary of Commerce during the Coolidge administration, to draft a uniform traffic ordinance and develop traffic regulations generally.

Through the development of uniform ordinances and regulations in the handling of traffic—with particular emphasis on signals, lights, turns, etc.—the committee hopes to have adopted throughout the country uniform traffic codes.

The uniform ordinance developed by this committee has been adopted in many cities, and was recently passed by the Board of Aldermen here, with a few minor changes of local nature.

A number of additions and changes in the uniform traffic code—recently suggested to meet national conditions—were considered at the meeting.

Reo Distributors And Dealers Meet In St. Louis

A recent meeting of the Reo Motor Co. at the offices of the Steiner-Fahrenkrog Motor Co., local distributer, and at the Coronado Hotel, was attended by dealers and distributers within a radius of 100 miles of St. Louis. Talks were given by Earl Smith, assistant sales manager; Carl Parker of the truck division; William Mitchell of the engineering department, and Clark Prentriss of the truck promotion department. Similar meetings are being held in Cincinnati, O.; Atlanta, Ga.; Dallas, Tex., and Omaha, Neb.

Hot Air Device Clears Off Fog

Hot air sprayed out in front of an automobile by an attachment on the exhaust of the car has been found effective in clearing away London's time honored fog, the American Automobile Association reports.

The rising current of heated air created by the device, a recent invention, literally lifts the fog for about 10 feet before the front wheels and does it quickly enough to permit a forward speed of about 15 mile san hour in the densest fog.

The fog lifter can be attached to any car's exhaust and is much simpler than the average windshield wiper. It has been tried out in London and is being adopted by motorists there.

14 Miles an Hour.

Because of the congested traffic conditions, 14 miles an hour is the maximum speed made by automobiles traveling in New York City. Vehicles on the bridges spanning the East River and on the approaches to the bridges move at a speed of only 11 to 14 miles per hour.

Valve Springs Vital.

Important to continued good engine performance are valve springs which have just the right tension. Motorists who fail to realize this may be missing the explanation for sluggishness on the engine's part.

Valves Are Tougher.

Silcrome steel, the material o so many exhaust valves, is to tough to be affected by man vlave grinding compounds. It worth knowing if the motorist accustomed to doing his own valv grinding.

Cars that are pushed arou public garages during the wint months will need more freque checking up of the headlights.

At St. Louis Airfields

ADDITIONAL lighting equipment for night landings is undergoing tests at Lambert-St. Louis Field in compliance with recommendations to the Airport Commission by pilots that more flood lights be installed.

Several types of lights were demonstrated, 14 lamps being arranged in three groups and a Sperry light of the arc type being demonstrated separately. Landings were made by pilots in an efforts to determine the type of light best suited to local conditions. The tests will be continued, with the light placed at various angles, and a definite recommendation to the Air Board will follow.

20 Pct. Cut in Price of Planes.

A price reduction averaging 20 per cent on nine types of airplanes has been announced by Curtiss-Wright Flying Service.

The Challenger-Robin, formerly priced at $7500, is now sold at retail at $5995. The OX-Robin, which sold for $4200, has been reduced to $2495. Other reductions include the Gipsy-Moth, to $3960 —the previous price was $4970; the OX-Commandaire, now $1800, a reduction of 43 per cent, and the OX-Travel-air, deuced 33 per cent to $2195.

Improving Lambert Field.

Improvements planned for Lambert-St. Louis Field in the near future include a concrete taxi strip connecting the north end of the apron with the asphalt runway, which terminates at the northwest corner of the airport. There is a similar connection between the apron and the concrete runway under construction at the south end of the field. The area between the two runways, extending along the greater portion of the runway, is to be oiled to keep down the dust.

300 Per Cent Increase in Travel.

Passenger traffic over the Universal Airlines increase 300 per cent during the first 30 days of the new low rate. During the period planes of the company carried 3013 revenue passengers, as compared with 1060 passenger in the preceding 30 days. Operations were increased 150 per cent to take care of the traffic increase.

Seeks Official Recognition.

Recognition as an authorized repair depot approved by the Department of Commerce is sought by Parks Air College for the airplane and engine mechanics school of the institution. Such recognition would permit the relicense of planes rebuilt at the school. Department of Commerce Inspector E. A. Yuravich is inspecting the facilities offered and will make a recommendation on the application.

No Gardner Trophy Race This Year

The Gardner trophy race, held last Memorial day from Parks Airport, will not be repeated this year. It is anticipated, however, that the event will be revived next year. Speed Holman, stunt flyer, won last year's race and the $5000 first prize.

New Instructor Engaged.

Due to the large number of students in the mechanical department of the Von Hoffmann Flying School, an additional instructor, Wade Epperson, formerly employed as mechanic for the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service, has been engaged.

Night Flying Class.

Students of the Universal Flying School put in 20 hours of night flying last week. Two St. Louis students, C. J. Fryer and Harry Satterlee, made their first solo hops during the week, while four other students qualified for licenses. Joseph McGann, Washington, received his transport license, and Ralph Henson, Unionville, Mo.; John Winstell, Chicago, and W. S. Weldon of St. Louis were licensed as limited commercial pilots.

Raleigh Revue New Program to Begin on KSD on March 28

The Raleigh Revue in two "acts" and 16 "scenes" with a very modern Sir Walter as master of ceremonies will begin as a weekly broadcast over KSD Friday night, March 28, at 9 o'clock. A large, special orchestra with a conductor new to radio; a piano duo heard in numerous Broadway shows; a quartet, each member of which has been a featured soloist; an accompanist who is a leading conductor and arranger, and a soprano soloist will make up the permanent personnel. The revue is sponsored by the Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corporation.

Gibbons to Report On Prohibition Poll For 2 More Weeks

Nightly radio reports by Floyd Gibbons on the Literary Digest's national prohibition poll will be continued for two more weeks. Reports on the nationwide balloting were scheduled to end March 15. The extension postpones the wind-up to March 29.

Woman Invents Radio Tube With Replaceable Filament.

A radio tube in which the filament can be replaced has been invented by Mrs. Clara E. Quinn of Cleveland, O., a radio engineer, according to the Associated Press.

Mrs. Quinn's tube is of the heater type, with the filament outside the vacuum. It is a high resistance wire, well insulated. The filament is fastened to a removable section of the tube's base held in place by a small screw. This section also contains the two filament prongs.

Built permanently in the tube are the grid, plate and cathode, which is a small hollow tube of special metal, open at the bottom, into which the filament is inserted. This tube is sealed in so that no air can get into the tube proper.

Such a filament burns in the open air. While it is in the center of the tube, it is actually outside the vacuum. It heats the cathode, which glows dull red like a hot poker, by thermostatic action.

Mrs. Quinn has been associated with the electric light industry since 1899, having first started her career as a teacher of stenography and accounting.

Late in 1922, she entered electrical development work on her own account, establishing a laboratory and factory in Cleveland.

Much Depends on Ground.

A poor ground connection is worse than none at all. A poor ground may be the result of too long a ground wire, poor contact at the receiver or the point to which the wire is attached, or whatever is used as a ground is unfavorably located to give good contact with the earth.

Lofty Building for R. C. A.-Victor.

Plans for a 50-story building at Lexington and Fifty-first street, New York City, for the R. C. A.-Victor Co., Inc., have just been disclosed. The structure is to be 650 feet high.

A recent court ruling in Alabama is that radio is not a musical instrument and dealers in retail receivers in the State are not subject to the license tax required of music dealers.

Chain Artists In KWK Radio Shows Today

A number of artists and entertainers heard frequently in broadcasts over NBC networks are scheduled to appear today at KWK's annual "Radioland" party, which will be held in The Arena twice—at 2 o'clock this afternoon and at 8 o'clock tonight. Also, many of the St. Louis entertainers who are on KWK's staff or sing or perform from that station are on the bill.

Altogether, 35 artists, entertainers and acts are scheduled. There will be eight announcers, including Curt Peterson, who is head of the NBC announcing staff in New York, and Ted Pearson, who announces NBC programs for its Chicago studios. Peterson, like Alois Havrilla, sings as a baritone.

Among the other National Broadcasting Co. stars who are to take part in today's KWK "Radioland" shows, according to Thomas Patrick Convey, president of the company operating the station, are: Billy Jones and Ernie Hare, who broadcast as the Interwoven Pair; Scrappy Lambert and Billy Hillpot, who play the Smith Brothers; Gladys Rice, the nationally known soprano; The South Sea Islanders; Chauncey Parsons, the tenor of the Yeast Foamers broadcasts, and Baby Rosemarie.

Jack Weis and Hazel Baare, known locally as "Jack and Priscilla," also are on the bill.

Arthur Nealy, the "Singing Policeman," who began his theatrical career in St. Louis and has been singing in theaters in the East, also is announced to appear today at KWK's showe in The Arena.

Radio adaptations of Booth Tarkington "Penrod," now a Sunday night NBC feature, go on the air over the NBC Pacific Coast chain Saturday nights at 11:30 St. Louis time.

Here and There on the Air :-: :-: :-: :-: :-: :-: By J. L. S.

John Philip Sousa and seven other noted bandmasters will conduct the Armco Band for an hour-long program to be broadcast at 10 o'clock this afternoon by WIL in a hookup of stations including WOR, WMAQ, KMBC, WTAM and WLW.

The concert will be picked up by WLW from Middletown, O., where members of the American Bandmasters' Association will meet for their first annual convention. Frank Simon, conductor of the Armco Band, will hand his baton over to the other bandmasters, who will in turn conduct the 60-piece organization.

The program follows:

Overture: La Princesse Jaune (Saint-Saens), directed by Albert Austin Harding, musical director of the University of Illinois.

"Woodland Serenade," directed by Victor J. Grabel, conductor of the Chicago Symphony Band.

"The Khaki Review," directed by Capt. R. B. Hayward, conductor or the Toronto Regimental Band.

Overture to "Tannhauser" (Wagner), directed by Edwin Franko Goldman, conductor of Goldman's Band, New York.

"Irresistible March," directed by Lieut. Charles Benter, conductor of the United States Navy Band.

"The Knight Errant," overture, directed by Capt. Charles O'Neill, conductor of the Royal Twenty-Second Regiment Band of Quebec, Canada.

"Dwellers of the Western World," suite, directed by John Philip Sousa.

"The Iron Master," march, directed by Peter Buys of the Hagerstown (Md.) Municipal Band.

Jean Goldkette's orchestra will play in a Studebaker Champions broadcast at 9:15 p. m. today over WEAF, WDAF, WHO, WGN, WOW and other stations.

Three screen stars are to sing songs with which they won national attention, in the Voices from Filmland broadcast tomorrow evening. Their names will not be given during the broadcast.

A series of eight broadcasts over WLW on Sundays and Thursdays until April 10 will begin at 8 p. m. today and will parade before the microphone the people of "Perkinsville," a typical though mythical small Mid-Western town.

A Shakespeare hour is a new feature over WEW. Miss Mary Belle McCoole and Sylvester Kuntz are taking the roles in the readings. An instrumental trio also takes part in these programs, the next one being scheduled for 5 p. m. Monday, March 24.

GRAND OPERA arias, Negro spirituals, ballads and songs from his own talking picture, "The Rugue Song," are programmed for Lawrence Tibbets, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera, in his Atwater Kent Hour concert set for 8:15 next Sunday night over KSD. The "Toreador Song," from "Carmen"; the air, "Di Provenza Mar Il Suol," from "La Traviata" and Moussorgsky's "Song of the Flea," are among songs he is to sing. It should be interesting to compare his singing of the "Toreador Song" with that of the same aria by that other famous baritone, Emilo de Gogorza, in the Mobiloil concert on KSD next Wednesday evening.

Edward Johnson, who will sing in the Atwater Kent concert over KSD tonight, began his operatic career as Eduardo di Giovanni in Italy 10 years before America heard him sing. In the last nine years he has created more leading roles at the Metropolitan Opera than any other tenor. He was born in Guelph, Canada.

An adventure of Baron Munchausen, most famous of liars, will be broadcast over WLW at 9:30 tonight.

* * *

George Junkins, director of KMOX, has been appointed State manager for a second year for the Atwater Kent National Radio Audition. Mrs. Frederic Nussbaum of St. Louis is State chairman.

What's New In Radio Industry

O. E. McCanne and J. A. Rohan to Represent Stromberg-Carlson—Bosch Auto Receiver Tested—Gardner Co. to Handle A. C. Dayton Sets—Five-second AC Screen Grid Tube Developed by Speed—Brown and Hall Hold Course for Salesmen—Trade Notes.

McCanne and Rohan Form Firm.

Oval E. McCanne, who has been factory representative for Stromberg-Carlson receivers and speakers in the St. Louis territory, has taken John A. Rohan Jr., formerly with Brunswick, into partnership under the firm name of McCanne & Rohan, Inc. The new firm will continue to represent Stromberg-Carlson in Eastern Missouri and Southwestern Illinois, and will have an increased territory. Offices and a wholesale display room will be opened at 1934-35 Railway Exchange Building.

The Stromberg-Carlson line includes two new models—a No. 652 lowboy and a No. 654 radio-phonograph combination. There is also a No. 642 highboy model. All of these models have a powerful AC screen grid chassis. A No. 846 model with a 10-tube chassis has several exclusive features. It has visual tuning, a sensitivity dial and automatic volume control that holds the volume of a station at any desired level, no matter how the signals fade or swell. This receiver also can be tuned silently so that there will be no blares of static or sudden bellows from passed over stations. All these receiver cabinets have curved fronts in French designs.

There are also three custom-built models, designed especially for period homes.

Character Analyst Gives Talks for Radio Salesmen.

Con O. Lee, a psychologist and character analyst, who spoke recently before the St. Louis Radio Trades Association, has been engaged by the Brown & Hall Supply Co. to give a series of three talks a week for two weeks to Atwater Kent dealers and salesmen. The talks are given at Hotel Statler from 8:30 to 9:30 Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings.

Lee asserts that men and women fall into one or other of five biological types—nutritive, thoracic, muscular, osseous and intellectual. The first, who runs to flesh, he says, wants things comfortable and rather showy. The second type wants the best, buying, for example, the most pretentious car he can. The third buys from the viewpoint of the practical and the best value. The fourth is conservative in his notions, wanting the same kind of a suit that he had last year. The fifth is academic in his inclinations.

The first type accumulates financially as well as physically, is good-natured and for peace. The second is the one from which the best salesmen and actors come. The third is the type to which 40 per cent of human beings belong. Roosevelt was a high-powered example of this type. The fourth is the great conservative. Lee instanced Woodrow Wilson as of such a type. The fifth is cerebral "brainy," nervous, Coolidge being an example.

Bosch Motor Car Set Passes Tests in Tour of City.

The new Bosch receiver for installation in automobiles was tested on a run through St. Louis streets Wednesday night in a car driven by James C. Gordon, the distributer. It is installed back of the dash of a car, and both receiver and speaker are well out of the way of front seat occupants. The tuning device, which works smoothly and efficiently, is on the dash, at the right.

Its chassis has three AC screen grid R. F. tubes, an AC screen grid tube as a power detector, and a 112A tube in a single resistance coupled audio stage. As a result, tone quality is clear and true. Pick-up of noises from the engine or ignition system of the car is guarded against with a well-designed system of resistors and by-pass condensers. B current is supplied by three B batteries, and A current from the battery of the car. AC screen grid tubes are used instead of the DC type because they are of sturdier construction and have a higher amplification factor.

The set is selective and powerful. As the car cruised around the city the local stations were tuned in clear and strong. Even under the aerial of KWK, the set separated that station completely from WIL, while stations were picked up below KWK and between KMOX and WIL. Stations were tuned in on most of the channels between KSD and KRLD-KTHS. WTAM was not coming through with any strength, as radio reception conditions were generally poor Wednesday night.

The set passed the tests very successfully, and appeared well designed for use in a running motor car and, with a long speaker cord, at a residence or summer home or camp. The car stood for nearly an hour on Art Hill, in Forest Park, where many stations were tuned in with ample volume.

Uniform Amplification Claimed for Stewart-Warner Sets.

The antenna compensator device in Stewart-Warner receivers is so designed that a light socket aerial may be used as well as any length of inside or outside aerial. Another characteristic is generally uniform sensitivity, so that a station on 500 kilocycles is received with practically the same volume as one on, say, 1170 kc. Better balance of parts, through synchronized design, also makes for greater sensitivity, selectivity and tone quality.

A C Dayton Receivers Will Be Continued.

The Gardner Radio and Electric Corporation has been appointed factory representative for A. C. Dayton receivers. A reorganization of the A C Dayton plant is under way, and a new model, using a band pass pre-selector tuner and A C screen grid tubes, is said to be about ready for production.

New Speed A C Screen Tube Heats Up in Five Seconds.

A Speed A C screen grid tube that heats to the operating point in five seconds has been put into production. A. D. Strathy, director of sales for the Cable Radio Tube Corporation, who was in St. Louis the past week, said that reducing the time required to get screen grid tubes to working in a set would mean virtually instantaneous operation. It should be, he declared, as important a development as when the heating up period for 27 type tubes was reduced to a practicable limit.

Thomas L. Gaukel, manager of the St. Louis branch, Department of Commerce, is to begin a series of talks over KWK at 5:30 tomorrow evening.

upled audio stage. As a result, ne quality is clear and true. ck-up of noises from the engine ignition system of the car is arded against with a well-degned system of resistors and byss condensers. B current is supied by three B batteries, and A rrent from the battery of the car. C screen grid tubes are used inead of the DC type because they e of sturdier construction and ve a higher amplification factor.

The set is selective and powerful. s the car cruised around the city e local stations were tuned in ear and strong. Even under the rial of KWK, the set separated at station completely from WIL hile stations were picked up bew KWK and between KMOX and IL. Stations were tuned in on ost of the channels between KSD d KRLD-KTHS. WTAM was t coming through with any rength, as radio reception condins were generally poor Wednesy night.

The set passed the tests very sucssfully, and appeared well deyned for use in a running motor r and, with a long speaker cord, a residence or summer home or mp. The car stood for nearly an ur on Art Hill, in Forest Park, here many stations were tuned in th ample volume.

niform Amplification Claimed for Stewart-Warner Sets.

The antenna compensator device Stewart-Warner receivers is so signed that a light socket aerial y be used as well as any length inside or outside aerial. Another racteristic is generally uniform nsitivity, so that a station on kilocycles is received with pracally the same volume as one on, y, 1170 kc. Better balance of rts, through synchronized design, so makes for greater sensitivity, lectivity and tone quality.

C Dayton Receivers Will Be Continued.

The Gardner Radio and Electric rporation has been appointed ctory representative for A. C. yton receivers. A reorganization the A C Dayton plant is under y, and a new model, using a band ss pre-selector tuner and A C reen grid tubes, is said to be out ready for production.

w Speed A C Screen Tube Heats Up in Five Seconds.

A Speed A C screen grid tube at heats to the operating point in e seconds has been put into proction. A. D. Strathy, director of es for the Cable Radio Tube Corration, who was in St. Louis the st week, said that reducing the ne required to get screen grid bes to working in a set would ean virtually instantaneous operon. It should be, he declared, important a development as en the heating up period for 2½ pe tubes was reduced to a pracable limit.

Thomas L. Gaukel, manager of e St. Louis branch, Department Commerce, is to begin a series talks over KWK at 5:30 tomorw evening.

FRIDAY — Walter Damrosch's orchestra is to play the third and fourth movements of Mozart's Symphony in G-Minor and the last two movements from the Brahms Symphony No. 2, in D, in the Musical Appreciation concert at 10 a. m. over KSD and KWK. The usual chain broadcasts are scheduled for the afternoon and evening.

SATURDAY—No special changes in the network broadcasts for the day are scheduled. The Damrosch concert in the General Electric Hour, at 8 o'clock over KSD, will bring a march from "Tannhaeuser," the prelude to Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun," the Allegretto from Brahms' Third Symphony, Dunn's "We," which is regarded as the most successfull attempt to depict musically Lindbergh's transAtlantic flight, and the overture to "Die Meistersinger."

William M. Griffith, comedian, who has played in Broadway musical comedies, made his radio debut recently in an Empire Builders brodacast over an NBC net.

Collier's Hour at 7:15 p. m. on KWK. Grand Duchess Marie of Russia is announced as one of the speakers for the dedication of the new NBC roof theater studio which is to be the feature of this period. She is to talk on "Educating a Princess." Dr. Clarence True Wilson, noted dry law worker, is on the program for a brief talk. Mayor Walker of New York, speaking from Chicago, is to make the dedicatory address. A small army of notables have been invited to be present in the theater studio on the New Amsterdam roof, in New York, to witness the broadcast. All the regular Collier's Hour performers and speakers, as well as the Grand Duchess and Dr. Wilson, will be visible to the audience of 600 as the program goes on the air from the stage behind a six-ton curtain made of glass panels in steel frames that can be raised or lowered as can any other theater curtain. A battery of spotlights will direct vari-colored rays on the speakers and entertainers. The audience in the studio will hear everything said or sung behind the curtain, through special speakers.

Consumer purchases of Stromberg-Carlson radios in the nation's most competitive market, Boston and New York, for five years. Each year September through August.

What Permanence in Radio means to the Public
BY reason of the great number of "orphan" radio sets on the market today, purchasers are asking this vital question: "Is the manufacturer of the set I buy really succeeding?" Many who have thoroughly investigated this question are buying Stromberg-Carlsons.
Those who wish to assure themselves real radio satisfaction over a period of years, will do well to study the record of Stromberg-Carlson growth illustrated in the chart. It is the most consistent growth in the radio industry.
Others have skyrocketed and dropped to earth but Stromberg-Carlson has been satisfied to increase its enthusiastic adherents by fifty per cent each year. Owners of models built in 1924 argue the merits of their sets with owners of 1930 models. All are satisfied. Each knows that a telephone manufacturer of more than thirty-five years standing as well as the most consistently successful radio manufacturer stand behind their radio satisfaction.
All this would be important to every prospective purchaser if the Stromberg-Carlson were rivaled. It is doubly important in the face of the admitted fact that, "There is nothing finer than a Stromberg-Carlson."
Listen Monday evenings to the Coast-to-Coast Broadcast of the Stromberg-Carlson Orchestra over the National Broadcasting Company's Blue Network and Associated Stations.
No. 654 Radio-Phonograph Combination. Plays records with Stromberg-Carlson radio tone. Triple Screen Grid. Price, less tubes.. $369
Stromberg-Carlson standard models range from $155 to $369. Custom-built cabinet models from $695 to $795.

Chevrolet announces

A NEW SERVICE POLICY

The Chevrolet Motor Company and its dealers are pleased to announce that a new and broader service policy has now been made effective for the benefit of Chevrolet owners throughout the United States.

This policy is one of the most liberal ever offered on a low-priced automobile in the history of the automotive industry.

Put into force as a written and signed agreement given to the purchaser by the Chevrolet dealer when the car is delivered—it sets forth, in plain and understandable language, the greater service protection to which every Chevrolet owner is now entitled. Briefly, it offers the following provisions:

1 Every Chevrolet owner receives his car from the dealer in perfect condition—thoroughly lubricated, properly adjusted, and ready to operate efficiently from the first mile of ownership.

2 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection and adjustment of his car at the end of the first 500 miles of usage.

3 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every 1000 miles thereafter, so long as the car is in operation.

4 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part which may prove defective, either in workmanship or in material, within the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty. This includes labor as well as parts.

Door Lock Key No.........
Tire Lock Key No.........
Rear Deck Key No.........

5 Provision number 4 will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States. As a result, the Chevrolet owner may change his residence, or travel to any part of the country, with full assurance that the guarantee on materials and workmanship will give him complete protection.

In addition to saving money for the Chevrolet owner, this new policy constitutes definite proof of Chevrolet's high quality—for such liberal provisions could only be made in connection with a car built of fine materials to exacting standards of workmanship.

Back of this policy, and assuring its successful operation, is one of the most complete and efficient service organizations in the motor car industry.

There are more than 10,000 Authorized Chevrolet Dealer Service Stations in the United States alone—operating under the general supervision of fifty-two Chevrolet district offices. Every one of these Service Stations is capable of performing any service operation that a Chevrolet may require. Each employs skilled mechanics thoroughly trained at Chevrolet Service Schools. Each has specially designed tools and machinery developed exclusively for Chevrolet service work. And each has on hand, at all times, an adequate stock of genuine Chevrolet replacement parts. As a result, Chevrolet's flat-rate charges, including both parts and labor, are the lowest in the industry on many service and repair operations!

In considering the purchase of a low-priced automobile, think what this service means to you—in terms of lasting satisfaction, as well as in increased economy.

PROGRESS IN EASY CREDIT MOVEMENT DURING WEEK

The New York Federal Reserve Bank 3 1-2 Per Cent Rediscount Rate Restores the Lowest Charge Adopted Since August, 1927.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted weekly financial review says:

"The emphatic ease of the last few days in money is no outgrowth of a temporary condition. Next week redemptions by the Government will pour more money into the market that the clearance of tax checks will remove. Then the latter ill pull funds away. But the long pull benefits to the money market of a sobered fnancial position were not to be felt apparently until the boom mechanism had been fully unwound. Now at last these benefits are impressing themselves forcibly in a market for bonds that gives the best exhibition of und lying strength in two years. If the return of a good market in bonds was a prerequisite to world recovery in business we are laying a reliable foundation for the restoration of normal conditions but the timing of the event is not easy.

Rediscount Rate to 1927 Level.

"Money the world over is getting cheap without any artificial assistance. The Federal Reserve this week resumed the purchase on a large scale of Government securities. With the supply of paper now low the alternative of expanding their bill portfolio from the market was not open. The move to a 3½ per cent rediscount rate restores the lowest charge adopted since August, 1927.

Certain Mixed With Uncertain.

"Forecasting the stock market is a goal of the speculator that seems eternally illusive. The certain is always mixed with the uncertain. It is now. Between the certainties of easy money and the uncertainties in business the market is torn. Viewed as an animate object it does not know whether to go up er the market foreshadows an uper the market foreshadows on up turn in business, or business foreshadows a downturn in the market. But which? For convincing information of the spring revival we must wait yet a while. So far the recovery has not been impressive. But if progress has been slow the elements that always work their cure eventually are present. The necessary restoratives in times have not always been available well toward the beginning of the difficulties. Even the dis disheartening decline in commodities is a handicap that with the application of easy world credi can be checked.

Signs of Public Participation.

"Technically the stock marke meantime is strong enough to with stand almost any shock excep signs of a fresh turn downward i business. This week's substantia rise in brokers loans gave the fir evidence of increased public par ticipation in the market. Afte allowing for expanded loans in con nection with a heavy maturity o "rights" the figures do reveal fres nibbling for stock. Up to two o three weeks ago the buying ha been largely for cash. But eve with the loan increases this mont the brokerage position is exceed ingly strong. The total still is ve close to the bottom volume reach in the week following the drast November 13 liquidation. It w be interesting from now on watch the movements of loans see how rapidly confidence on t part of speculators is restor through an injection of che money and in the face of busine reports still puzzling.

STOCK MARKET IS MODERATELY LOWER AT CLOSE

Offers Firmer Resistance Than on Previous Day—Price Movements for Most Part Are Irregular.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Bearish pressure was again exerted against the stock market in today's abbreviated session, but the market offered firmer resistance than it did yesterday, and rallied moderately under the influence of short covering. Renewed selling appeared in the final dealings, however, and closing prices averaged moderately lower. For the most part, price movements were narrow and uncertain, the majority of shares fluctuating over a range of only a point or so. Total sales aggregated 1,530,700 shares for the two-hour session.

Wall Street was left in a rather confused frame of mind by the conflicting developments of the week. Professional traders apparently unable to decide whether the ease in credit rates, or the tardiness of the business recovery would dominate speculative sentiment next week. Reports from the steel trade failed to indicate whether further slackening of steel mill activity may be expected. One of the larger producers in the Youngstown area reported that it would cut production further next week, while another producer planned a substantial stepping up of activity.

Few Specialties Advance.

There was less concern than usual over the huge shifting of funds incident to the quarterly income tax payments and treasury financing. What with the easy condition of the money market, and the stabilizing influence of an expected Government overdraft upon the Federal Reserve, no troublesome disturbance of the money market is expected. The total turnover of funds is estimated at only about $1,500,000,000, as compared to $2,000,000,000 at this time a year ago. Maturing Treasury certificates are less than a year ago, and Washington looks for a considerable shrinkage in income tax payments.

A few specialties were sent up 2 to 3 points to new high levels for the recovery, including Atlas Powder, A. M. Byers, Congress Cigar and United Carbon. Oils generally encountered week-end profit-taking on their advances of the week, but losses were small, and Simms was again a strong spot, rising 1½ points to a new 1930 high. Pierce Petroleum, a low-priced stock, was bid up ⅜ of a point to a new high at 6¼.

Utilities Under Pressure.

Auburn Auto dropped 6 points and International Business Machines nearly 7. Utilities were generally under pressure. American Telephone, American Power & Light and Standard Gas lost about 2 points, and Western Union 4. Other shares losing 2 to 3 points included Atchison, Chesapeake & Ohio, Lackawanna, Electric Auto Lite, Westinghouse Electric and Underwood-Elliott-Fisher. U. S. Steel closed off ½ point. Republic slipped back 2¾ points to 72, a new low for the year, in a small turnover.

The commodity markets were generally steady to firm. Wheat sagged a little under the influence of lower Liverpool cables, then rallied to close steady. Corn closed about a cent higher, and cotton was 40 to 70 cents a bale higher at the close.

Foreign exchanges were dull and inclined to ease, although sterling cables held steady at $4.86 3-16 and the Japanese yen was firm.

Ask Authorization for Issues.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Permission to issue $45,186,000 of first mortgage bonds was requested today from the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railroad to be used as security for payment of a note.

WAGNER ELECTRIC STOCK IS LEADER OF WEEK'S TRADE

Close Is Higher but Range for Period Less Than 2 Points — Moloney Electric Reacts 3 3-4 Points After Recent Spurt.

Trading showed slight change in volume on the St. Louis Stock Exchange during the last week. Of the business transacted, between 20 and 25 per cent centered in Wagner Electric common. The stock had a rather narrow range on its turnover of more than 2700 shares.

Some of the other more active shares of the week also moved within ranges of only about a point and half or so. These included International Shoe, Brown Shoe and National Candy. Moloney Electric, however, lost 3¾ points of its recent upturn. Hamilton-Brown lost a point. St. Louis Public Service common opened at 6¼ and recovered to 7½ for net loss of 1½ points.

Coca Cola Bottling gained three points on turnover of almost 800 shares. Missouri Portland closed unchanged after selling higher. Laclede Steel advanced.

In the banking group, declines were the rule. First National Bank lost 3¼, Mississippi Valley Trust 5 and Mercantile Commerce 2½ points.

Scullin Steel 6s and Moloney Electric 5½s were higher in the bond section of the market.

LARGEST SATURDAY BOND TRADE IN YEAR

Sales Approximate $9,000,000 Demand for Investment Issues Goes on at Lively Pace.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The bond turnover today was the largest for a Saturday session in about a year, totaling approximately $9,000,000, or more than the figure for a full day's trading in some of the markets early this month. Demand for investment securities went forward at a lively pace and the averages equalled the high for the past year at 99.9.

There were a few indications of speculative profit-taking in holdings bought at lower levels, but the absorption of such offerings was rapid and declines on these transactions held to minor fractions. Convertibles played a negligible part in the day's dealings.

A few rails, utilities and industrials were singled out for special attention. Cleveland Union Terminal 4½s rose 2½ points to 98, Consolidated Gas of New York 5½s touched 106¼, up ¾. American Telephone 5s of 1965 went to 104, up ½. International Match 5s finished just under par, up ⅜, and Postal Telegraph 5s advanced ⅛ to 99. Buying in each was substantial and all went to new tops. Some of the oils, notably Shell Union 5s with warrants, and Skelly 5½s, firmed appreciably. Wabash listings were steady in the face of reports of a new issue.

Bonds of the Missouri Pacific Railroad stiffened with yesterday's $25,000,000 offering out of the way. Other firm rails included Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s, Pennsylvania 4¾s, Texas & Pacific 5s and St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s and 4s.

Trading in foreign bonds was relatively light, but the list continued upward. German Republic 7s at 108⅜ were in new high ground. Rhine-Westphalia 6s with warrants, German Agricultural Bank 6s, Budapest 6s, Cordoba City 7s and the Antioquia issues showed marked improvement. French 7s advanced a point to 118, a new maximum.

The Treasury 3⅜s featured the United States Government's rising 19-32 to 106.29, against the previous high of 106.10. Treasury 4¼s and Liberty 3½s closed slightly higher, but the pace in this group was slower than in recent markets.

LARGEST SATURDAY BOND TRADE IN YEAR

Sales Approximate $9,000,000 Demand for Investment Issues Goes on at Lively Pace.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The bond turnover today was the largest for a Saturday session in about a year, totaling approximately $9,000,000, or more than the figure for a full day's trading in some of the markets early this month. Demand for investment securities went forward at a lively pace and the averages equalled the high for the past year at 99.9.

There were a few indications of speculative profit-taking in holdings bought at lower levels, but the absorption of such offerings was rapid and declines on these transactions held to minor fractions. Convertibles played a negligible part in the day's dealings.

A few rails, utilities and industrials were singled out for special attention. Cleveland Union Terminal 4½s rose 2½ points to 98, Consolidated Gas of New York 5½s touched 106¼, up ¾. American Telephone 5s of 1965 went to 104, up ½. International Match 5s finished just under par, up ⅜, and Postal Telegraph 5s advanced ½ to 99. Buying in each was substantial and all went to new tops. Some of the oils, notably Shell Union 5s with warrants, and Skelly 5½s, firmed appreciably. Wabash listings were steady in the face of reports of a new issue.

Bonds of the Missouri Pacific Railroad stiffened with yesterday's $25,000,000 offering out of the way. Other firm rails included Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s, Pennsylvania 4¾s, Texas & Pacific 5s and St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s and 4s.

Trading in foreign bonds was relatively light, but the list continued upward. German Republic 7s at 108⅜ were in new high ground. Rhine-Westphalia 6s with warrants, German Agricultural Bank 6s, Budapest 6s, Cordoba City 7s and the Antioquia issues showed marked improvement. French 7s advanced a point to 118, a new maximum.

The Treasury 3¾s featured the United States Government's rising 19-32 to 106.29, against the previous high of 106.10. Treasury 4¼s and Liberty 3½s closed slightly higher, but the pace in this group was slower than in recent markets.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Total sales amounted to $8,800,000, compared with $20,147,000 yesterday, $5,858,000 a week ago and $4,156,000 a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were $558,865,000, compared with $542,438,000 last year and $697,196,000 two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar; that is, for instance, a sale printed 99—24 means $99 and twenty-four thirty-seconds of a dollar, and not $99.24.

Following is a complete list of bonds traded in on the New York Stock Exchange today, giving sales, highest, low and closing prices:

LOSSES PREDOMINATE AT CLOSE ON THE CURB

Extensive Week-End Readjustment of Speculative Accounts Causes Irregularity.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Expensive week-end readjustment of speculative accounts accounted for the highly irregular price movement in today's Curb market, net declines predominating at the close.

A brisk demand for United Gas, which was marked up about 6 points to a new high record, was the day's feature. Total transactions in United Gas, which retained most of its gain, accounted for nearly one-fourth of the day's entire volume of business.

Oils, which were heavily bought earlier in the week, turned irregular on profit-taking. Humble and Gulf closed about a point higher, but Lion dropped 2¼. Indian Territory Illuminating 1⅛ and most of the other leaders fractionally.

Public utilities were in rather free supply all day. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore fell nearly 5 points, and American Gas and Electric, Central States Electric and Electric Bond and Share sagged a point or two. Nevada-California Electric moved into new high ground on a small turnover. American Natural Gas also sold at a new high for the year.

Nathan Strauss attained a new peak on buying, influenced by rumor that first quarter earnings were running more than 20 per cent above the corresponding period last year. Ford of France touched a new high at 9 on unofficial reports that the company had declared a 10 per cent dividend. Other stocks to reach new 1930 peak prices were the Bahia issues, Blaw-Knox, Ferror Enamel and Silica Gel.

HOG PRICES SLUMP IN THE LATE WEEK TRADE

Big Packers Practically Out of Market and Dullness Features This Period.

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, Ill., March 15.—(United States Department of Agriculture).—On a slow market after mid-week, steers mixed yearlings and heifers lost the price ground which they had gained earlier in the session. The cow trade was more active during the period under the stimulus of a few outside orders, but vealer prices were subjected to a very sharp decline.

Compared with the close of the previous week, vealers sold from $1@1.25 lower; cows, cutters and low cutters steady to 25c higher; all other slaughter classes and stocker and feeder cattle about steady. Tops for week: 781-lb yearlings, 1511-lb. steers and 692-lb. mixed yearlings, $13.50; 601-lb heifers, $13.15; cows, $9.75; medium bulls $7.90; vealers, $14.75; heavyweight steers tipping the scales at 1433, 1474 and 1511 lbs. cashed at $12.60, $12.75 and $13.50, respectively, with one load at $12.60, averaging 1344 lbs. Medium weight steers averaging 1228 to 1274 lbs. brought $11.60 and $12, majority at the latter figure. Other medium weights, or those scaling 1124 to 1199 lbs., ranged from $10.85@13.25, bulk $11.25@12.75. Lightweight steers ranged from $9@13.50, the majority $10.25@12.75, which was also bulk of all steers. Fat steers went principally at $12.35@12.75; fat mixed yearlings and heifers mostly $11.75@13, medium kinds largely $10.50@11.50; most cows $7@8.50; low cutters generally, $4.25@5. Best medium bulls at the close of the week brought $7.75, while the top on good and choice vealers stopped at $13.50.

Hog Market Lower.

Swine receipts locally approximated 65,000 this week as compared with 73,348 last week and 60,441 corresponding week last year. Supplies increased at other main centers and buyers used a dull outlet for dressed pork as a basis for cheapening costs. Prices held up well during the early part of the week but during the latter half drastic reductions were effected. Big packers were practically out of the market and dullness featured late sessions. Compared with last Saturday most hogs finished 50c to 75c lower and at the lowest point since the first week in February. Pigs were scarce and found a relatively better outlet with prices 25c lower for the period. Trade Saturday was quoted 25c to 50c below the best time of Friday and was slow at the decline. Top reached $10.80 for one load of choice 170-pound weights while bulk of 160 to 210 pound averages moved at $10.50 to $10.75. Most 220 to 240 pound butchers sold within a spread of $10.10 to $10.40, with decided unevenness noted. Several loads of 250 to 280 pound descriptions realized $9.75 to $10.10. Extreme heavies were scarce. Several lots of 130 to 150 pound light lights turned at $10.25 to $10.65 and most 100 to 130 pound pigs scored $9.25 to $10.25. Packing sows finished at $8.50 to $8.75, more at the latter price.

Lambs Strong to Higher.

Supplies in the sheephouse this week totaled approximately 4600 compared with 7586 last week and 3399 corresponding week last year. Diminishing receipts resulted in a better tone to all classes and trade for the week was quoted strong to 25c higher, with most lambs reflecting the full upturn. Quality was about average and a moderate proportion of the supplies was from Colorado. Wooled lambs topped for the week at $10.75 on several sessions, while bulk for the period turned at $10.25 ot $10.65. Throwouts were weighed at $8 to $8.75. Clipped lambs topped at $10 and bulk of sales were made at $9.75 to $10, occasional loads of less desirable descriptions at $9.50. A few lots of heavy clipped lambs went at $8.75 and a few common to medium descriptions earned the same figure. On Monday a small lot of good to choice yearlings cleared at $8.50; a few 2-year-old wethers realized $7.50; and a part load of aged wethers scored $6.50. Fat wooled ewes bulked at $4 to $5.50, a few up to $6.

Horses and Mules.

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, March 15.—Price trend during the week was uneven in the horse and mule market with supplies again of heavy volume although showing a decrease from marketings the preceding week. Mules continue to predominate but horses made up a larger percentage than previous weeks.

NATIVE HORSE QUOTATIONS—Good to choice draft $125@150; medium to good draft, $75@100; medium to good chunks, $50@60; choice southern horses, $40@55; fair to good southern horses, $25@35; smooth-mouthed southerners, $15@25; plugs, $5@15.

NATIVE MULE QUOTATIONS—Draft mules, 16 to 17 hands, $185@225; mine mules, 15 to 16.2 hands, $150@185; sugar mules, mares, fat, good hair, 16 to 16.2 hands, $130@165; cotton mules, mares, fat, good hair, 14.2 to 15 hands, $90@140; cotton mules, mares, rough-haired, 15 to 15.2 hands, $75@125; cotton mules, mares, rough-haired, 14.2 to 15 hands, $45@85; horses mules, $15@20 per head less than above quotations; farm mules, broke, good bone, 15.2 to 16 hands, $100@150; medium farm mules, $85@100; farm mules, thin, half broke, 15.2 to 16 hands, $50@75; small, common mules, $15@40.

SHARP UPTURN IN CORN IS FEATURE OF GRAIN TRADE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 15.—Sharp upturns in corn prices today resulting largely from sudden curtailment of receipts did much to rally the wheat market and counterbalance early wheat losses. Reports that Kansas, the banner wheat state, had failed to receive more than a few showers, counted also as an offset to previous advices indicating that drouth dangers to the winter wheat crop southwest had practically been averted. Buying support from Farm Board allies was likewise effective in rescuing the wheat market from declines.

Closing quotations on corn were strong at nearly the day's top level, 1c to 2⅝c above yesterday's finish. Wheat closed irregular, varying from ⅛c net decline to ¼c advance, with oats ½c to ⅝c up, and provisions showing 7c to 30c drop.

Corn traders definitely cut loose from the influence of wheat today almost from the outset. Some wavering of the corn market was witnessed at the opening, but soon afterward a notable upward sweep of corn values set in what continued almost unchecked right through to the final transactions. Evidence of a good shipping demand here for corn was an outstanding feature, and there was also a broadening out of speculative buying, coupled with talk of scanty stocks or corn East and of less new movement of corn from rural sources.

Talk was current that there will be comparatively small receipts of corn from now on until after corn planting is finished, and there was general belief expressed that recent heavy selling out of corn holdings had carried prices down further than conditions warranted. Particular notice was taken that today's arrivals of corn in Chicago amounted to only 83 cars, against 273 cars a week ago. Furthermore, corn receipts at all primary points today totaled but 623,000 bushels, just about half as much as one week back.

Wheat at first was chiefly responsive to rain reports from the Southwest, Oklahoma and Texas in particular, and to weakness of Liverpool quotations, where Argentine shippers had reduced their asking prices 3 cents a bushel. However, the action of corn became later a stimulus to wheat buyers, and so likewise did wheat crop damage comment from Southern Illinois.

Oats followed corn rather than wheat.

Provisions went lower on account of setbacks in the value of hogs.

STRENGTH OF CORN IS AID TO WHEAT

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, March 15.—The wheat market was helped by strong corn prices and closed unchanged to ¼c lower after being down early on report of rain at points in Southwest and lower Liverpool market. Argentine, too, was said to have lowered offering price to Europe. Unfavorable crop comment was a late wheat factor. Primary receipts of corn were said to have been but half of year ago.

In the cash grain market soft wheat was steady to 1c higher. There was a demand for choice No. 2 but none of this grade was offered, although some orders were filled from stores at prices steady to 1c higher than previous levels. Supplies were light but there was no demand for available selections and everything was reported carried over. Sales of No. 2 from store were on a basis of 9¼c to 10¼c above the Chicago May figure. Hard wheat was nominally unchanged. Supplies were light and the market was slow, the only sales reported being a lot of 10 cars No. 2 on an overnight offer at $1.03, basis 3½c below the Chicago May figures. There were several cars of No. 2 hard winter and No. 2 hard yellow on the market, which were generally held at 3c below the Chicago May level, with bids ½c to 1c lower. Corn was 1c to 2½c lower. Demand was fair at the upturn. The basis as compared to futures was ½c to 1c lower. Offerings were fairly large and mills, industries, shippers and elevators furnished the chief outlet. Oats were steady to off 1c. There was a ready demand for the good qualities.

Opening a cent lower may wheat sold down further early before rebounding some. July wheat also was off. Liverpool closed ⅛ to ½d lower. Winnipeg was fractionally lower early. Corn opened unchanged to fractionally lower and then sold net higher.

May wheat opened at $1.03, July wheat $1.01¾, May corn 79⅞c and June corn 8½c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 53,200 bushels, compared with 114,800 a week ago and 60,200 a year ago, included 19 cars local and 19 through. Corn receipts, which were 84,000 bushels, compared with 144,200 a week ago and 93,800 a year ago, included 43 cars local and 17 through. Oats receipts, which were 44,000 bushels, compared with 99,000 a week ago and 77,000 a year ago, included 15 cars local and 5 through. Hay receipts were 20 cars local and 9 through.

Standard bran was offered for immediate shipment at $22.75 and $23, pure bran $23 and $23.25, gray shorts $24.75 and $25, standard middlings $23.50 and $24. Oat-feed was quoted at $7.80 and white hominy feed $26.50. Sales reported were as follows: 1 split car soft late yesterday (in transit), bran $23.50 and gray shorts $25 local, 2 cars standard bran from the west (immediate shipment, proportionate billing) $22.75 local and 2 mixed cars (to go out) pure bran $23.50 and gray shorts $25.50.

Transactions in mill feed futures totaled 800 tons.

METAL MARKET REVIEW

NEW YORK, March 15.—Publication of February copper statistics, showing further increase in refined stocks to the largest total in eight years, evidently encouraged consumers to continue restricting purchases to immediate needs. Demand from both home and abroad was quiet. While the easier statistical position led to rumors of price reductions, large producers were said to be holding firm at 18c for electrolytic in the Connecticut Valley. Trade statistics shows that domestic deliveries of wier bars for January and February were 78.6 per cent of the same period a year ago, while deliveries of other shapes dropped to 49.1 per cent.

Lead was very weak early, but steadied somewhat later.

Zinc was a trifle steadier toward the close of the week. London showed renewed weakness, but there was less selling pressure here.

FURTHER ADVANCE OF $1 A BALE IN COTTON MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 15.—A continuation of the recent covering or buying movement was reflected by further advances of about $1 per bale in the cotton market today. The demand which was promoted by relatively steady Liverpool cables and rather a better view of reports from the goods markets, sent the price of May up to 15.05c or 19 points nets higher and 102 points above the low level of last Monday. That delivery closed at 14.97c or 8 points off from the best under realizing and the final tone was easy, although last prices showed net advances of 8 to 14 points. Spot steady, 14.85c.

The opening was very steady at an advance of 7 to 19 points on covering and trade buying which appeared to be stimulated by the relatively firm showing of Liverpool. Cable advices reporting an improved inquiry for cotton cloth in Manchester with further business pending, also came in for some attention and part of the early demand was supposed to come from the trade abroad.

The advance met considerable week-end realizing and there may have been some selling on reports of rains in West Texas which has recently been complaining of drought. The offerings were absorbed on comparatively moderate setbacks, however, and the market firmed up again during the middle of the morning on a continuation of the demand. July advanced to 15.25c and the old October contract of 15.32c, making net advances of about 17 to 18 points on active months. The recovery of approximately a cent a pound or $5 per bale from recent low levels attracted additional realizing, however, and closing quotations showed reactions of some 8 or 9 points from the best.

Reports from the domestic goods market indicated that a cut in the price of one of the leading constructions had stimulated demand. Liverpool cable said there had been continental, Bombay and American buying in that market together with some trade calling and covering. The amount of cotton on shipboard at United States ports awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 135,000 balaes, against 111,000 last year.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The first sale reported by the single selling agency in Cuba in a long while was reported today when a cargo probably about 25,000 bags was reported to have been bought by an outport refiner at 3.77 duty paid.

Locally, refiners showed no interest at this price and in fact some duty frees for New York only were available at from 3.64 to 3.67 delivered. The demand seemed principally of a filling-in character, and the sale of Cuban probably was just in the right position to suit the buyer. Other transactions included 14,000 bags of Philippines to an outport refiner and 12,600 bags to an operator, both for April-May shipment at 3.71 delivered.

Raw futures were quiet and after opening unchanged to 2 points higher on a little covering that may have been insp by the steady spot market, prices reac under liquidation and some selling houses with Cuban connections. On t whole, there was little interest on eith side and operators were inclined to li fresh commitments and await new develo ments.

The close was net unchanged to 1 po lower in the No. 1 contract with sales 4650 tons and net unchanged in the N 2 with sales of only one lot or 50 to Closing prices: No. 1, March, 1.74; M 1.78; July, 1.79; Sept., 1.86; Dec., 1. Jan., 1.95; March, 1.99; No. 2, Ju 3.69; Sept., 3.77; Dec., 3.83.

Refined was unchanged at 5.00 fine granulated.

Sugar futures closed steady. Appr imated sales 4650 tons. March 1.74, M 1.78, July 1.79, Sept. 1.86, Dec. 1.94, J 1.95.

GREAT NORTHERN HALF THE FUN OF VACATION'S THE GOING!

Ride these regal trains to America's wonderland

Of course you're going west this year . . . maybe to Glacier Park, maybe farther . . . Mount Baker or Rainier, perhaps, or the Columbia River country. And you'll want your vacation joys to start when you board the train!

Come, then, and ride the new Empire Builder, or the luxurious Oriental Limited—twin aristocrats of the rails—between Chicago and Puget Sound.

You'll find new luxury on these famous trains. You'll know what really clean travel means—twelve hundred miles of clean, cinderless travel over dustless roadbed, behind super-power, electric and oil-burning locomotives.

Come, take the adventure trail to the great West . . . via Great Northern. Phone, write, or visit us for rates, and illustrated booklets.

NATURAL GAS SECURITIES
Afford a Particularly Attractive Investment Opportunity

We recommend the purchase of a Natural Gas Utility Security which shows from its original offering price in May, 1928, to the present book value an increase of 2600%.

Cash dividends paid during 1929 were equal to the original offering price of this stock in May, 1928, and at the present market price of $37.50 per share is selling for $15.50 less than actual book value.

Rapid developments in the distribution of natural gas through long distance pipe lines, a vast natural gas reserve and the operation of a complete natural gas utility unit, engaged in an extensive expansion program offer investors an opportunity to share in profits that should far exceed the past record of this company.

We shall be pleased to send complete information on request.

ST. LOUIS OBTAINS 7 NEW INDUSTRIES DURING FEBRUARY

With Eight Expansions, New Employes Total 135—Month Establishes Record for Inquiries.

OTHER BUSINESS DATA PRESENTED

Building Permits, Bank Clearings, Barge Line Tonnage and Freight Loadings Show Decrease.

Seven new industries were acquired by the St. Louis industrial district in February, and eight existing firms expanded their facilities.

"In the aggregate," the Industrial Bureau reports, "these new industries and expansions represent the absorption of 105,100 square feet of existing floor space and will require 135 additional employes. Four new buildings, with a total of 52,900 square feet of floor space, are to be built. The selection of St. Louis as the location for the research and development work of the Swann Corporation is probably the most significant.

"While no important industrial development announcements occurred during Feburuary, the month was not without its significance. During the month, the Industrial Bureau received the largest number of industrial inquiries for any single month since establishment of the bureau more than two years ago, indicating a renewed interest on the part of American manufacturers in analyzing problems of production and distribution within their industries. Contacts were made during the month with a number of enterprises, which under normal circumstances should result shortly in industrial acquisitions of substantial proportions.

"Principal business barometers for the month, as compared with February, 1929, may be summarized as follows:

"Building permits decreased 58.23 per cent; bank clearings decreased 13.17 per cent; debits to individual accounts decreased 11.37 per cent; industrial failures (liabilities) decrease 74.22 per cent; barge line tonnage decreased 31.46 per cent; postoffice receipts decrease 1.48 per cent; water consumption decreased 4.14 per cent; loaded freight cars handled by the St. Louis Terminal Railroad Association decreased 20.1 per cent.

"For the previous month, as compared with Jan ary, 1929: Telephone calls increased 4.43 per cent; avenue street car and bus passengers decreased 8.91 per cent on lines of the St. Louis Public Service Co.; bus revenue passengers increased 8.62 per cent on lines of the People's Motorbus Co.; industrial gas consumption increased 2.7 per cent, and industrial electricity decreased 20.41 per cent.

"Building contracts awarded in St. Louis during February, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation, were $2,150,700, compared with $2,776,700 for February, 1929, a decrease of 22.54 per cent."

Carl Pleasant, Builder, Dies.

By the Associated Press.

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 15.—Carl Pleasant, contractor and engineer of Phoenix and Tulsa, Ok., died at a hospital here today after a brief illness. He was 43 years old. Pleasant built the Carl Pleasant Dam across the Agua Fria River, 35 miles northwest of Phoenix in 1925. Born at Lyndon, Kan., Mr. Pleasant graduated from the University of Kansas in 1909 and was a member of the Jayhawk football team of that year. He designed and built many other projects in the Southwest.

SURVEY SHOWS BETTER MARKET FOR FARM LANDS

Realty Men Get Data on Sales—Desire to Engage in Agriculture Influenced More Buyers Than Investment Purpose.

The market for farm lands is better than it was a year ago, say many farm land brokers in reply to a questionnaire sent to them by the Farm Lands Division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Sixty per cent of the replies reported the market definitely improved; about 30 per cent indicated that the market was about the same in 1929 as in 1928, while less than 10 per cent reported a poorer market.

Seventy-eight farm brokers submitted data on sales in all sections of the United States and Canada.

An increase of 25 per cent in the number of farms sold during 1929 over 1928 is reported. The brokers reported that in 1929 they had sold 838 farms, while in 1928 they sold only 670. The sales were larger as to acreage, too. The number of acres sold was 146,855, as compared with 136,194 acres sold by the same group of brokers in 1928.

The average size of farms sold was 200.7 acres. The average selling price was $14,281, an average of $71.15 an acre.

The average price an acre in the east north central section was $110, in the west north central, $54; in the east south central, $68, and in the west south central, $41.

More of these tracts were bought for actual farming than for any other reason. Sixty-seven per cent of the purchases were made because the buyers chose to take up tilling the soil as a business. Next to farming, more land is bought for investment than for any other reason. Five of the purchases were for assemblying land for an airport. Twenty-one farms were bought for homes, two for subdivisions, one for a forest preserve, and only three were taken in trade.

The reasons given for selling farms were varied. More sales were made because of financial troubles than for any other reason, but 12 owners sold because they could make a good profit. Other reasons were the desire for a place of different size, the wish to retire from business, a mortgage, moving to some other locality, to be near a school, no help available and to buy a cheaper farm.

The majority of the purchasers had been brought up on farms, but had never been tenants. About half of the buyers had worked as farm hands. More of the farms were bought by purchasers 35 to 40 years old than by any other age group. Only four farms were sold to men younger than 25, and only three were bought by men over 65.

FORMER ST. LOUISAN JOINS NATIONAL REALTY CONCERN

Announcement is made that Charles C. Nicholls Jr., real estate expert, has joined the Joseph P. Day organization as vice president in charge of chain stores, private sales and leasing. Nicholls, who has had national experience in real estate operations during the past 15 years, will continue his connection with Retail Properties Inc., of which he was recently elected president. The appointment of Nicholls is in anticipation of more intense activity in the real estate field in New York and throughout the country in the current year. Nicholls is a native St. Louisan.

25TH ANNIVERSARY OF DICKMANN FIRM

Company Was Pioneer in Opening Real Estate Branch Offices.

The Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co., 623 Chestnut street, is celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary. In 1904 Joseph F. Dickmann completed his third term as Sheriff of St. Louis. In the spring of 1905 he entered the real estate business.

The Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co. was a pioneer in the opening of branch offices, first locating in the old Tower Grove Bank Building at the northwest corner of Grand boulevard and Junita avenue, 16 years ago. This office has since been moved to 2125 South Grand. Teh company recently opened a Southwest office, now at the corner of Arsenal street and Watson road.

The company has been instrumental in the development of several large projects in the central part of the city. It handled the sale of the Humbolt Building at Grand and Washington to make room for the Fox Theater. It subdivided 100 acres of land at Valley Park for clubhouses.

Joseph F. Dickmann Sr. was actively associated with the business until his death in 1923. Bernard F. Dickmann has been active with the firm for 23 years and Otto Dickmann for 22.

Bernard served many years as a director of the Real Estate Exchange, as well as secretary.

MULLIN-WALTERS REALTY CO. CLOSES BUSINESS LEASES

The Red Diamond Clothing Co. has leased for a term of years the entire third floor in the building at 1312 Washington avenue to be used as an office, stockroom and sample room. This lease was made for the account of the Tober-Saifer Shoe Co.

The Tabler Cleaning Co. has leased the storeroom at 2011 South Thirty-ninth street to be used as a pressing and cleaning shop.

Adolph Tasch has leased the storeroom at 2525 South Jefferson avenue, where he will be located on and after May 1, 1930. It is the intention of the lessee to operate a restaurant in this store.

J. Grupper has leased a portion of the building at 1901 North Broadway for a term of years.

H. B. Owsley, president of the Lakewood Equipment Co., has leased the building at 1900 North Ninth street for a term of years. Owsley has been located at 1716 North Broadway.

All parties in the above transactions were represented by Mullin-Walters Realty Co.

SILENT OIL BURNER FIRM TAKES LEASE

Mercantile-Commerce Trust Co. Handles Deal for Building on Olive and Lindell.

One of the important leases closed within the past week was for Silent Automatic Sales Corporation covering the entire building located at the Olive-Lindell cut-off at Channing avenue. The building, occupied for the past 15 years by the Del-Home Light Co., distributers of the frigidaire electric icer, will now be occupied by one of the largest oil burner concerns of the country, with principal offices in Detroit. The building, at 3321-23-25 Olive street, runs through to Lindell boulevard.

Stanton Fitzgerald, who has been in St. Louis for some time looking over locations, represented his firm in negotiating the lease. The Silent Automatic Corporation has nine major branches and over 300 dealers.

The lease was made for the account of the Pickel Realty Co. The Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. represented both parties in the transaction.

$150,000 DEALS HANDLED BY C. G. JOPLIN REALTY CO.

C. G. Joplin Realty Co., Inc., reports the following sales totaling almost $150,000: Eighteen-family apartment at 714-16-18 Interdrive, University City, for L. P. Brasch for $100,000; residence, 5333 Maple avenue, for the Advance Realty & Building Co., for $15,000; apartment, 7031 Tulane avenue, $22,500; residence, 5870 De Giverville, for Mrs. Mollie Kolker, $14,000.

Joplin also reports that arrangements have been made to finance five new residences to be built in University Park. Construction will start March 17. These residences will all be of eight rooms, two baths, lavatory on first floor and will sell for $25,000.

MEDNIK WIPING MATERIALS CO. LEASES BROADWAY BUILDING

The Mednik Wiping Materials Co. has leased the five-story and basement building containing 24,000 square feet at 804-06-08 Broadday and has installed machinery and equipment necessary for handling sterilized wipers, cheesecloth, mill ends and cotton waste.

This is a newly organized company, and the officers are Maurice H. Mednik and Leo Mednik. They are thoroughly familiar with the business, in which they have been engaged for the past 10 years. They expect to be in full operation within the next few days. They were represented by Martin & Breitt, while the owner, William Molasky, was represented by Charles E. Musick.

PUBLIC INFORMED ON BUILDING PRACTICES

Better Business Bureau Makes Studies to Protect Public in Home Buying.

Progress is reported by the construction industries division of the Better Business Bureau of St. Louis in assembling and establishing technical standards of practice in the various fields of the construction industry.

In many fields years of study and research by members of the industry and various branches of the Government have established a fund of knowledge in given fields that is often of inestimable value to the home builder or purchaser in determining the adequacy or eficiency of the many classes of workmanship and materials that go into a home.

The field of hot water heating is an example of this condition. For years that industry has been developing what they term a "certified" method of evaluating the character and efficiency of home-heating plants. Through exhaustive tests of their own and in collaboration with various branches of the Government they have amassed a group of statistics that have a value even to the uninitiated.

Formerly the amount of heating to be installed in a building has tabulated scientific methods of guess. The contractor with the best sales ability usually secured the order for the work, and the owner was in a position where he was unable to judge as to the relative merits of the heating plants quoted on, nor was he able to judge the relative prices of the material offered.

The heating industry all over the United States has organized and has tabulted scientific methods of figuring the size of a plant. They have adopted standards which make it possible to arrive scientifically at a uniform answer for any given problem. In addition to adopting these standards, organizations have been formed in many cities which maintain inspectors and engineers who actually check the plans and who certify to the fact that they meet the recognized standards.

The heating and piping contractors of St. Louis maintain such an organization. The facilities of these organizations are available without charge to the public either by consulting them direct or through a request registered with the Better Business Bureau of St. Louis.

C. W. Herald Jr. Joins Exchange.

C. W. Herald Jr., conducting a real estate and appraisal business at 715½ Chestnut street, was admitted to active membership in the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange Thursday. He has been engaged in the appraisal of real estate for the last 14 years.

PLANS NEW ADDITION NEAR EAST ST. LOUIS

R. W. Sikking Buys for Development Five Acres Adjoining Hilltop.

Mrs. Kate Kampmeyer last week sold to R. W. Sikking a five-acre tract which he purposes to make an addition to Hilltop, adjoining East St. Louis. The price, it is understood, was about $2500 an acre.

Sikking says he plans a road connecting Hilltop and the hard road running along the foot of the bluffs from Edgemont to French Village, called Fekete avenue or Bluff road.

This tract he will cut up into 20 building sites. The City of East St. Louis will be petitioned to take the new tract into its limits.

JULIUS HALLER REALTY CO. IN WAINWRIGHT BUILDING

The Julius Haller Realty Co. has moved its offices to suite 216 Wainwright Building. This company was originally organized in 1906 as the Lenz-Haller Realty Co. and was taken over in 1914 by the Haller-Lambrecht Realty Co., which was absorbed several years later by the Julius Haller Realty Co., comprising Julius Haller, president, and Alfred D. Ruth, secretary.

Upon the death of Julius Haller in 1923 the company was continued with the following officers and stockholders: Alfred D. Ruth, president; L. W. Morrow, vice president and secretary, and Mrs. E. Haller, treasurer. Ruth is first vice president of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange.

CRANE CO. LEASES 3 STORES IN FOX BUILDING

Plumbing Supply Firm Takes Space at 3618-20-22 Washington Boulevard.

The Crane Co. of Chicago, heating and plumbing material manufacturer, has taken a long lease of three stores at 3618-20-22 Washington boulevard in the Fox Building.

The stores will be used for display of Crane products. The company maintains display rooms in all the large cities of the country. Contracts have been let for costly alterations of the Washington avenue stores which are just west of Grand boulevard.

1930 DEVELOPMENT PLANS FOR INGLESYDE SUBDIVISION

The John C. Greulich Realty & Investment Co. has started the construction of the first group of 10 of the 50 bungalows scheduled for the 1930 building program in its Inglesyde No. 1 subdivision, which together with Inglesyde No. 2 embraces the territory between Goodfellow boulevard and Kingshighway.

The lots are 40 to 50 feet wide and the houses are so placed that there is an average of 15 feet of space between the buildings.

In 1929, 36 homes were completed, which makes a total of more than 100 new homes erected in Inglesyde.

In Inglesyde No. 2, the grading has been completed and the installation of water and sewers will be started this spring. This parcel has a frontage on Kingshighway boulevard Northwest and is adaptable for apartment sites. In Inglesyde No. 3, grading will start this spring, after which the regular development will follow. This parcel has a frontage on both sides of Kingshighway Northwest boulevard (130 feet wide) north of Halls Ferry road and also is at the intersection of the new State Highway No. 99 and at the new traffic circle where Goodfellow boulevard, Halls Ferry road and Highway No. 99 converge.

COOK TO MANAGE BUILDING AT GRAND AND WASHINGTON

The Isaac T. Cook Co., agents for a number of commercial and industrial properties including the Arcade, Paul Brown, Frisco, Carleton, University Club, Leather Trades, Buder, Pineate, Mallinckrodt, Drygoodsman and Sesame Buildings, announces it has acquired the management of the building on the southeast corner of Grand and Washington boulevards.

The newly acquired Washington-Grand Building is in the center of the retail and theater district of Grand boulevard and is one of the many structures recently built in this locality. The Cook company also announces a lease made to Wm. F. Ogden for the store at 808½ Pine street for use as a first-class dairy restaurant. Mrs. E. M. Thornton has leased space on the second floor of the Pineate Building for a beauty culture school. The M. M. Cohen Manufacturing Co. has taken additional space on the third floor of the Mallinckrodt Building at 615-21 North 9th street. A. Edison has taken space on the fourth floor of the Sesame Building at 505 North Seventh street.

All parties in these negotiations were represented by the Isaac T. Cook Co.

Sales by Dolan Realty Co.

The John P. Dolan Realty Co., 6401 Manchester avenue, reports the following sales: Two double flats, 1314-16 and 1326-38 Hawthorne place, Richmond Heights, for Louis D. Reppell to Arthur E. Pahl; 1227 Highland Terrace, to Kirby Reppell for Arthur E. Pahl; 6445 Plateau avenue and 2844 Clifton avenue, for Arthur E. Pahl; 6167 Crescent avenue for Marie Ryan; 3508 Commonwealth avenue, Maplewood, for Mrs. Rose Williamson to George Wiley; 7018 Tulane avenue, for Elmer E. Null; 1227 Highland Terrace and 6445 Plateau avenue, for Louis D. Reppell to a client; also a vacant strip fronting 118 feet on Botanical avenue, for a client of the Thomas M. O'Gorman Realty Co., Rose Donati; also 7226-28 Richmond avenue, to Marie Ryan.

PITZMAN TO ADDRESS REAL ESTATE CLASS ON SURVEYING

Fred Pitzman, president of Pitzman's Company of Surveyors & Engineers, will address the class on the Fundamentals of the Real Estate Business conducted by the Exchange at the Downtown Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening, on the subject of surveying and its relation to the ownership of real estate.

At the last regular meeting of the exchange directorate it was resolved to oppose the erection of poles and overhead wires on the widened Vandeventer avenue for the proposed "trackless trolley" cars of the Public Service Co. Another resolution was adopted endorsing the 85-cent school tax rate.

On March 27 the exchange will sponsor a sales conference for its active members and their sales forces which will be conducted by A. John Berge, sales counselor for the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and Guy W. Ellis, president, Guy W. Ellis Real Estate Co. of Detroit. The subjects are "How to Build and Use Sales Kits" and "Creative Selling." Ellis will talk on "sales set-ups as aids in selling" and "showing the property."

The conference will be held in the gold room of the Hotel Jefferson and will open at 10:30 a. m. and continue until an intermission at 1 p. m. The second section will convene at 2:30 and continue until 4:30.

EQUIPMENT CONCERN TAKES LEASE AT 1510 N. 13TH ST.

The Lincoln Equipment & Materials Co. has taken a long term lease on the two-story building at 1510-12 N. Thirteenth through Martin & Breitt. The building is particularly adapted to the requirements of a concern of this character. It has a ceiling height of approximately 30 feet, and flood lights along the walls give the show room the appearance of a small exposition, in which are displayed an extensive variety of contractor's machinery and equipment.

This company is just three years old and in this location will be in a better position to serve its trade which is rapidly increasing. The building is one of the group of the Brecht Casing Co. property and is served by the Illinois Traction System. It is the fourth building leased in this block by Martin & Breitt, agents for the property.

WEEK'S SALES AS REPORTED BY DIMMITT-RICKHOFF-BAYER

RESIDENCE—My country home; 10 rooms; stucco; large grounds; garage. Store, 1203 South Broadway, St. Louis, Mo.

STORE BUILDING—2 acres of land near Joachim River; electricity, artesian water; suitable for club or business. D. D. Jarvis, Hematite, Mo.

REAL ESTATE—OTHER CITIES

BEAUTIFUL suburban homes; large and small and acre tract. See J. A. Johnson, south end of St. Clair av., Collinsville, Ill.

BUNGALOW—New, modern; price $3000. Warrenton. Address Box J-3, P.-D.

BUNGALOW—5 rooms, at Barnhart, Mo., on highway 61; modern; 115 feet front on highway, 214 feet to alley. Agent, Ora Hoyt. (c7)

FRAME DWELLING—For sale or trade; 9-room; 2 lots; for small business around $2500; city or large town. S. S. Freeman, Piedmont, Mo. (c99)

HOUSE—6 rooms, Bunker Hill, Ill.; 250 chickens; $2500. RIverside 6048.

HOUSE—9 rooms; every convenience; 8 acres. Mrs. S. B. Avery, Troy, Mo.

HOUSE—7-room brick, cellar, hot-water heat; garage and all modern improvements; lot 167x127 feet. S. E. Bresland, Ironton, Mo.

LOTS—I have a few left that I must sell at once. I own them free and clear and will send you deed in your own name. The lots are at Quogue, L. I., N. Y., in the town of Southampton, less than a mile from the station and best bathing beaches on Long Island. All guaranteed high, dry and level.

The full price for 20x100-ft. lots is $16.75. Restrictions make it necessary to sell no less than two lots. Title guaranteed by New York Title and Mortgage Co. There are no assessments and taxes will only amount to about 50c a year per lot.

The fact that I am selling these lots through the mails is sufficient guarantee that what I say is true; otherwise I would go to jail.

Send cash at once, and I will send deed in your own name. This is a BIG CHANCE for you. Write at once. Joseph M. Gross, 554 Atlantic av., Brooklyn, N. Y.

AUCTION!
Balance of Stock of Tate Motor Co. Stock of USED CARS
will be auctioned Wednesday evening, March 19, 1930, at 5:30 P. M.
Until Every Car Is Sold

Our sale Friday was the most successful auction on automobiles ever held in the history of St. Louis. Sixty cars were sold in 5 hours—actually selling one car every 5 minutes. The short space of time did not permit us to sell all of the 100 cars. Every car left will be auctioned without reserve to the highest bidder. This is the final wind-up, as we have retired from business. Wednesday's sale must clean up the balance of the many good used cars that time did not permit us to auction Friday night.

DEALERS ATTEND

TERMS—All cars under $50 cash, above that amount 40% down, balance regular monthly payments. Sale will be held inside, rain or shine.

I wish to thank my relatives and friends for the sympathy shown me in the loss of my dear husband, our dear father, Emil Naumann, who died March, 1, 1930; especially the pallbearers, the Revs. Lubeley, Schaller and Bremerich of Holy Trinity church; and for the beautiful floral offerings. MRS. PAULINE NAUMANN (nee Schmid). (c)

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our many friends for the many beautiful floral offerings and kind sympathy shown us in our sad bereavement in the loss of my beloved wife and our dear sister, Emma Graul. Especially do we want to thank the Rev. H. Thomas for his comforting words of consolation, pallbearers for their assistance, the Stroot and Carroll Undertaking Co., for kind and efficient services rendered.
WM. A GRAUL AND RELATIVES.

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received from our many friends in our sad bereavement in the loss of our dear son and brother, Joseph. We especially thank all the Rev. Fathers of St. Francis de Sales' Church for their kind and consoling words.
MR. GEORGE BUSCHMANN AND FAMILY.

To all our relatives and friends we wish to extend our sincere thanks for their kind expressions of sympathy, as well as the beautiful floral offerings they extended in the time of sadness caused by the death of our beloved mother, Margaret Zwick; especially do we wish to thank the Rev. R. Kretschmar for his prayers and kind words of consolation, and also Julius H. Schmitt, undertaker, for their kindly and efficient service.
THE ZWICK FAMILY. (c)

We wish to thank our many friends and relatives for their kindness and sympathy shown us in our late sad hour of bereavement in the loss of our dear daughter and sister, Pauline Bishop, and for the many beautiful floral offerings. We wish especially to thank the Rev. Ernst of Presentation Church for his kind and consoling words; the pallbearers, and the Bromschwig Undertaking Co., for their kind and efficient service.
CONRAD BISHOP AND FAMILY. (c)

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness and messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received from our many friends and relatives in the loss of our dear brother and nephew, August Schweiger. We especially thank Father Ripper, the pallbearers and John P. Collins & Bro., funeral directors, for their kind and efficient service.
MARGARET BROWN AND THE SCHWEIGER FAMILY. (c)

We wish to express our appreciation and extend our heartfelt thanks to our relatives, friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown us during our sad bereavement in the loss of our beloved mother, grandmother, great-grandmother and sister, Friedericke Andelfinger. We wish to especially thank Rev. H. F. Gercke for his comforting words and assurances set forth in his consoling address; Miss L. Neuhaus, Ladies Aid, school children and organist for their soothing musical program. The pallbearers, Chouteau Valley Society for their attention, Peetz Bros. funeral directors for their courteous and efficient service and for the kind remembrances expressed through the many beautiful floral offerings.
ANDELFINGER FAMILY.

IN MEMORIAM

ANSLINGER—Edward Anslinger died March 15, 1929. Recalls sad memories of our brother, where tears often in silence flow. Sadly missed by his sister,
JOSEPHINE JENNE.

ANSLINGER—In loving memory of Edward Anslinger.
One year has passed since the sad day,
The one we loved was called away.
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts he liveth still.
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

BECKER—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mathilda Becker, who passed away March 14, 1917:
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true;
There's not a day, dear mother,
We do not think of you.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN. (c)

BRESLIN—In loving memory of my dear sister, Eva Breslin, who departed this life March 13, 1929.
Sadly missed by her
SISTER AND FAMILY. (c)

BRICKEY—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Thos. G. Brickey, who passed away March 18, 1924:
Not lost to the ones who loved you,
But only gone before,
To a beautiful isle of somewhere,
Where parting is no more.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, DAUGHTER AND SON.

BRUENNING—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mary Bruenning, who departed this life March 18, 1914.
Sadly missed by all, never forgotten by
HER DAUGHTER. (c)

DICKSHOT—In remembrance of Elsie Dickshot, who died 17 years ago March 15, 1913.
Sadly missed by Daughters Marie Leahy, Anna Presswood.

ELSER—John Elser, who departed this life three years ago today, March 16, 1927.
His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall.
He had a kindly word for each and Died beloved by all.
Sadly missed by MOTHER, BROTHER, SISTERS.

EVERDING—In loving memory of our dearly beloved wife and mother, Margaret Everding, who departed this life March 17 1929.
A faithful mother, so kind and true,
We always pray and think of you.
You are not forgotten in our minds,
To us you were so good and kind.
For all of us she did her best,
God grant her eternal rest.
Sadly missed by her
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

FITZPATRICK—In loving memory of my son, Daniel J. Fitzpatrick, who departed this life eight years ago, March 17.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, MRS. CORA SULLIVAN.

FLOYD—In loving memory of P. C. Floyd, who died March 16, 1929, but who still lives in the hearts of his friends. (c)

GERBER—In loving memory of my dearly beloved father, Julius Gerber, who departed this life five years ago, March 13, 1925.
Sadly missed by his daughter,
MRS. H. G. OBENHAUS.

GUENTHER—In loving memory of my beloved wife and dear mother, Margaret Guenther, who departed this life one year ago today, March 17, 1929.

It's lonesome here without you,
And sad and weary the way;
Life has not been the same to us
Since you were called away.

Peaceful be your sleep, dear mother,
'Tis sweet to breathe your name;
There will come a day we'll meet you
And be together once again.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

HERBST—In loving memory of my dear wife and our dear mother, Agnes Herbst, who departed this life three years ago, March 17, 1927.
Sadly missed by family.

JUTZE—In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Florence Jutze, who departed this life March 14, 1927.
The world may change from year to year
And friends from day to day;
But never will the one we loved
From memory pass away.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS AND SISTER.

KOHLER-PFENNIG—In loving memory of our dear mother, Katharina Kohler-Pfennig, who departed this life five years ago, March 13, 1925:
When a mother breaths her last farewell
The stroke means more than tongue can tell.
The world seems quite another place
Without the smile of mother's face.
Sadly missed by her children and all who loved her.

LUTZ—In loving memory of Selma Lutz, who departed this life three years ago March 19:
I have lost my soul's companion
A life linked with my own;
And day by day I miss her more,
As I walk through life alone.
Sadly missed by her husband.
CHAS. F. LUTZ.

MICHEL—In sad memory of our dear sister, Ella Michel, who departed this life 6 years ago March 20, 1924.
Sadly missed by HER SISTERS. (c)

MUELLER—In loving memory of Theresa Mueller, who passed away March 17, 1929:
A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better God never made;
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true,
One in a million, that mother was you.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loved by your friends, all whom you knew,
Our wonderful mother, that mother was you.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, CHILDREN, GRANDCHILDREN AND FRIENDS. (c)

PAULUS—In loving memory of our dear brother, August C. Paulus, who departed this life March 19, 1929;
The pearly gates were opened,
A gentle voice said "Come,"
And with farewell unspoken
He gently entered home.
Sadly missed by
SISTER AND BROTHERS.

PFEIFER—In loving memory of Margaret Pfeifer, who departed this life a year ago, March 18. Not one day passes that we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by
THE PFEIFER FAMILY.

PRITCHETT—In loving memory of Florence Pritchett, who departed this life four years ago today, March 14 1926:
Gone, but not forgotten.
Sadly missed by
Mother, Father, Sister and Aunt, Uncle, Grandmother and all who loved her.

Missed by Sisters.

SCHICK—In memory of our dear husband and father, Louis Schick Jr., who died March 17, 1922.
In my heart your memory lingers
Always tender, fond and true;
There's not a day, dear Louis,
I do not think of you.
Sadly missed by WIFE AND CHILDREN.

STORLL—In loving memory of Lillian Storll (nee Paul), who departed this life one year ago, March 17, 1929:
One year has passed since that sad day
When you, dear Lillian, passed away;
The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought your death so near;
We grieved when you departed.
Time was too short to say farewell.
We miss your coming footsteps, we miss you everywhere;
Home is not what it used to be since you.
Dear Lillian, are not here.
Sadly missed by
F. STORLL, CHILDREN, MOTHER, FATHER, SISTERS, BROTHERS.

WAGSTAFF—In loving memory of my beloved husband and dear father, Arthur, who departed March 17, 1927:
Jusst a token of love's devotion,
That our hearts still long for you;
Some day we hope to meet you;
Some day we know not when,
To clasp your hand in a better land;
Never to part again.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, CHILDREN and all who loved you.

WENZEL—In loving memory of Virginia Elizabeth Wenzel, who departed this life March 20, 1929. Requiem high mass at New Cathedral, 8 a. m., March 20.

If You've Lost Your Job...

HERE'S A WONDERFUL CHANCE TO MAKE

$15 a Day

Did the slump hit you? Are you one of the hundreds who lost their jobs? Are you wondering where the money is coming from to pay your bills? Don't worry any longer. I've got a good opening for you right now. And I'll give you a chance to make $15 a day—starting at once. I'll never lay you off or fire you. There are no slack seasons in my business. With me you'll be sure of steady work from now on

$125 IN A WEEK

Just send me your name—that's all. I'll tell you about Van Allen who made $125 in a single week with my proposition—Tyler who reports $30 to $35 in a single day—Mrs. Eva McCutchen who cleared $26.55 the very first day, after holding down an office job at $10 a week. Of course, some of my people make more than others. But these big earnings of a few of my Representatives show the wonderful possibilities. And right now I'm offering you a proposition even better than the one I gave these people.

NO CAPITAL OR EXPERIENCE NEEDED

All you do is call on your friends, neighbors and my customers in your locality and take care of their orders for my fast-selling Groceries and other Household Necessities. I have thousands of customers in every State. These customers in your territory must order from you because I never sell through stores. You set your own hours and work as you please—full time or spare time. No bosses—no time clocks—no layoffs—no losing your job when you need money most.

SEND NO MONEY

If you want a sure, steady chance to make $12 to $15 a day with an old, reliable, million-dollar company, then mail free coupon at once. I'll rush full details of my wonderful offer. I'll also show you how to get a new Ford Tudor Sedan free of cost. This is NOT a contest. The car is given outright to producers as an extra reward or bonus—in addition to their large cash profits. If you already have a car I'll give you the cash instead. You can't lose by mailing the coupon. Do it now—today—SURE

— MAIL THIS NOW —

Albert Mills, Pres., American Product Co., 5764 Monmouth Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio.

I'm sick of short pay and long layoffs. Without cost or obligation, tell me about your plan that offers a sure, steady chance to make $12 to $15 a day—starting at once. Also explain your FREE Ford Offer.

A POINT-BLANK QUESTION

What are you willing to do to gain the success you want?

If you've read our ad before, and were not willing to investigate the opportunity that's here you are not the type of man we want.

We want a man with ambition enough to go after success when he is told where others have found it—and character enough to want success, not just a job.

If you can sell, and seek a real opportunity—come in any day between 9 and 2.

The Coming of Mr. Gillette

Actor, Who Retired in 1921, Is Now, at 74, Making Last Tour of the Country in His "Sherlock Holmes"—Casey Players, With Dramatic Field to Themselves This Week, to Do "Shanghai Gesture"—Thurston Holds Over at the American.

THE Casey Players, at the Orpheum, have the dramatic field entirely to themselves this week for Thurston, with his daughter, Jane, and their bag of entertaining tricks, remain over at the American while the Shubert Theater will be dark, the coming of the comedy, "Dear Old England" having been put over until next Sunday night.

The Casey company, which has been tremendously successful in its policy of presenting excellent plays with guest stars for two weeks periods, will, tonight, offer "The Shanghai Gesture" which was played here several seasons ago by Florence Reed. At other times, in the east Mrs. Carter was the star and for the local production Mary Hart will be seen in the leading role. H. Langdon Bruce of the original Florence Reed company will play his part of Mandarin Koo Lot Foo, and Edgar Mason of Mrs. Leslie Carter's company that of Prince Oshima.

"The Shanghai Gesture," as most theatergoers know, is a tale of barbaric vengeance. It tells of a Chinese girl, daughter of an aristocratic home, idealistic and romantic, who sacrifices tradition and position for the love of an Englishman who deserts her for a career. She is sold into a life of terrible degradation. Her character and beauty triumph over the wretchedness of a junk-girl on the China coast, and she achieves wealth and prestige as a great courtesan. She has never forgotten nor forgiven the Englishman, Sir Guy Charteris, and she waits for the day when she can wreak her vengeance upon him. As a she-wolf famous, or rather infamous, on two continents, she has reached the peak in her power. Her former lover is at the summit of his British success. On the Chinese New Year, she gives a dinner party and summons the notables of Shanghai and their wives. They dare not refuse her invitation, for she knows too much of their inner lives. Then comes the denouement, in which are tragically interwoven the lives of her own child, by Sir Guy, and the latter's child by his English wife.

WILLIAM GILLETTE, whose farewell to the stage brings him to the American Theater for a week's visit, starting Monday night, March 24, in his famous creation, "Sherlock Holmes," has for years enjoyed a following in this country which few actors of our time can match. This wide circle of ardent devotees had its inception at the performance of the first play of his own authorship, "Esmeralda," at the Madison Square Theater, in New York, in 1881, and has been consistently augmented throughout all his distinguished years up to the time of his last previous performance, that of "The Dream Maker," at the Empire Theater, New York in 1921.

Epigrammatists have said: "The more famous the actor, the more frequent his farewells." William Gillette is an exception. The present tour in "Sherlock Holmes" is his first, last and only farewell, we are assured. After "The Dream Maker," Mr. Gillette quietly retired without any announcement to the ease, repose and the affluence of his estate at Hadlyme, Conn. Independently wealthy, he had no need of the emoluments of the stage; and it was only after prolonged importunity that he was convinced by his old friends, the late A. L. Erlanger and George C. Tyler, that the stage had need of him—that, in the words of John Philip Sousa to Mr. Gillette himself, a farewell tour "would show the people of this generation that we had actors in our generation!"

The scion of at least two of the most distinguished New England families (on his father's side prominent in the United States Senate and on his mother's side the founders of the Colony of Connecticut and of the city of Hartford). Mr. Gillette is a native of Hartford where he was born 74 years ago, and is a graduate of Yale. His professional career began in the old Boston Museum and his early training was in the McCauley Stock Company of Louisville and the Ben De Bar Stock Company here in St. Louis.

GILLETTE early framed a sound theory of the art of acting based upon the personality of the actor and in accordance with this credo he established as his aim the acting and directing of plays written by himself for himself. Therefore, the great majority of the plays in which he appeared were either of his own adaptation or of his own authorship. The result was that an audience saw precisely what the playwright intended it should see. And the further result, because of his mastery of stagecraft, was that William Gillette became the idol of playgoers throughout the country. And on the professional side of the theater he is still a dominant landmark—actor, manager, director, dramatist, fictionist, theater manager, and according to many the father of the modern school of acting.

Mr. Gillette's ideal of one directing intelligence in the production, directing, acting and selling of a play was achieved when he took over the physical management of the old Madison Square Theater in New York in the early eighties. That playhouse thenceforth became the habitual resort of the intellect, the culture and the refinement of New York City. His plays were among the very few that were enthusiastically supported by all the great divines of the day, since he never permitted a questionable line or situation in any of his offerings. "Esmeralda" was the first of these plays, followed later by "The Professor." It was here that he became the great exemplar of the so-called naturalistic school of acting.

THOSE were the days of the sweeping, rhetorical, rotund, declamatory and highly stylistic and artificial methods on the stage. Gillette's method was an abrupt change. Critics and theatrical experts complained that he didn't "act." While the profession decried him, the public loved him, and gave him the warmest support. Gillette didn't "act" because he was merely himself on the stage. His very manner of lighting a cigar in a scene became the talk of New York. The Gillette method has since been formulated in the precept handed to most young actors: "Act by not acting."

"Sherlock Holmes," written by Mr. Gillette in collaboration with Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, and first produced in 1899, is one of the finest and most popular of his plays, though many playgoers will

JANE THURSTON---Strictly Modern Witch

WHILE women in general are interested in magic, the number of women who have adopted magic as a profession, so far as the records of the art reveal, may be counted on the fingers of one hand. The very first magic lady who practiced the black arts—with the exception of Eve, who did a little prestidigitation with apples in the Garden of Eden—was doubtless the redoubtable Witch of Endor, whose deeds are recorded in the ancient Scriptures. And, according to all reports, she knew her incantations.

From the dark days of Endor to the year Anno Domini 1930 is a long, long unrolling of the scroll of years, as they used to say in the movie titles. Enter now the latest witch, who is practicing the subtle arts of necromancy and hocus-pocusism. A fair-haired witch, with eyes mutable as the sea, and a roguish smile lurking about the corners of her mouth like bubbles of sunlight in the petals of a rose. An ultra modern witch, who does not ride broomsticks o'nights, nor brew black broths in fiery caldrons on Walpurgis eves. But an authentic witch, none the less, who, like the Black Lady of Endor, knows her mystic spells and her incantations.

AND why not? She comes by her necromantic lore by right of descent. For this witch is the daughter of a wizard. The wizard is none other than Howard Thurston. The witch is his daughter, Jane, who is doing her "witching" with her father at the American Theater.

Ever since Jane was a little girl who played with dolls and Teddy bears she has been on more or less intimate terms with hocus-pocusism. Whenever she wanted anything her father told her that Hocus-Pocus would get it for her. And Hocus-Pocus, the familiar of the Thurston household, usually delivered the goods.

No wonder the daughter of the House of Thurston grew up to be a believer in the efficacy of the magic art.

THE little girl who had believed in the efficacies of Hocus-Pocus is now a sub-deb of sorcery. For years her father has trained her in the art of which he is master, and Ned Wayburn schooled her in dancing. Her education was looked after in the Rayson School for Girls in New York City. She was graduated two years ago. Followed a post-graduate course in dancing at Ned Wayburn's and a year of intensive training in magic. And then, a year ago, Miss Jane Thurston, the modern witch, made her professional bow to the public. That is the brief story of her professional career.

And the future? Well, her father says that she will continue to be the witch of the Thurston Show, he hopes, for many years. And he has great plans for her—as leading figure in a magical-music-dancing revue.

Reuter Soloist With Symphony Under Goosens

American Pianist Will Be Heard in Loeffler's "Pagan Poem" and a Beethoven Concerto.

THE American pianist Rudolph Reuter will appear as soloist of the Symphony Orchestra's concerts at the Odeon Friday afternoon and Saturday evening, playing the piano part of Charles Martin Loeffler's "A Pagan Poem" in the course of the presentation of that work, as well as presenting the Beethoven C minor concerto.

Loeffler is a native of Alsace, but spent his early life in Russia and in Hungary. He studied violin under Joachim and after having made a European reputation came to America at 20 to spend another 20 years at the first desk of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Since then he has been devoting himself to composition.

"A Pagan Poem" draws its inspiration from one of Vergil's Eclogues—the eighth—which in turn derives from the second Idyll of Theocritus, and is concerned with a soceeress and the spells by which an enamoured maid seeks to win back a recreant lover.

The Beethoven C minor concerto, which Mr. Reuter will also play, is the third and perhaps the greatest of that master's works in that form. Beethoven played it himself at his last public performance in concert.

Reuter, has had a most distinguished career in music, and has won a place of high rank among this country's pianists. He comes from a family of musicians, his grandfather having been the friend and teacher of Theodore Thomas. While yet a boy he was studying organ and was soprano soloist at St. James Church, famous for its boy choir in New York. At 14 he was himself a church organist, and at 15 choir leader, devoting himself also to recital and concerts in the vicinity of New York, his birthplace. In Europe at 16 he studied under some of the greatest masters including Barth, Dohnanyi, Bruch and Stange. At 19 he won a Mendelssohn prize and that year made his debut in concert with the Hamberg Symphony orchestra.

Mr. Goossens begins his program with Mozart's D Major Symphony (The Prague Symphony), and besides the piano numbers it includes Debussy's "Fetes" and a rarely-heard work by Rimsky Korsakoff, the "Doobinooshka," which was inspired by the composer's experiences in the abortive Russian revolution of 1906.

Yiddish Star Will Appear at Odeon

On Tuesday night Michel Michelesco, well-known star of the Yiddish stage in New York, will present the musical comedy, "Lucky in Love," at the Odeon, under the direction of Sol Goldman, local impresario.

Michelesco will bring his entire company here from the East for the production. There are more than 20 musical numbers in the play and a large local chorus will take part.

At the Play — in — New York

By Robert Littell.

NEW YORK, March 15.

IF this season, reputed to be the worst season since last season, is remembered for nothing else, it will be remembered for the excitement produced by Marc Connelly's new play, "Green Pastures," surely one of the finest things that our theater has ever shown to a laughing and slightly moist-eyed world.

"Green Pastures" is founded on Roark Bradford's book, "Ol' Man Adam an' His Chillun," a collection of Bible stories on a familiar, homely level, as told to Negroes by each other. The play is humorous and homely, too, but it rises above the amusing quaintness of dialect simplification to something also majestic, naive and profoundly touching. A cast of nearly a hundred Negro actors, swelled by a magnificent chorus of Spiritual singers, does something to this version of the Old Testament that white actors could never do. Mr. Connelly had directed the play with immense skill and reverent affection, and Robert Edmond Jones has contributed some of the finest scenic and lighting effects of his career.

What American play, or production of a play, I am asking myself, have I ever seen that can compare with the simple humorous dignity of what Marc Connelly and his Negro actors have done? At the moment the answer is none. For the further reason that, without bothering to try to determine what species of drama it belongs to, "Green Pastures" is unique in the feelings it gave me. There are funny plays that also move you, but in "Green Pastures" the enchanting humor is part and parcel of its dignity and adds to it.

I SHOULD like to be able to talk quietly about "Green Pastures," as quietly as it talks about the creation of the world and the Lord's patient struggle with imperfect humanity, but for the present I seem to be only able to yelp and stammer in sheer joy and admiration. And I am not sure that you who have not seen it will like it the better for hearing comment on it and description of it which must fall so short of the lovely shock and freshness of the play itself. If I tried to quote what the Lord says as He leans out of His little office with the swivel chair and the roll-top desk and looks at that miraculous rectangle of blue sky and commands "Let it be a little cooler," you would not understand why that scene arouses in the beholder laughter that is something more than mortal.

"Green Pastures" takes you a thousand miles out of yourself and deep into childlike legend in the very first minutes after the curtain goes up. The homely, reverent, unself-conscious Bible stories that compose the play are adroitly introduced by an irresistible first scene in a Negro Sunday school, with the gentle, matter-of-fact and dreamy voice of the teacher and the sharp, natural little voices of the children. Here the mood is set, a mood that sweeps on and up as the play continues.

THAT the mood is not broken, that the fragile, familiar bubble never bursts, is due, of course, to secrets of creation that we cannot penetrate, nor should want to. It is all of a piece. The extraordinary sets and lighting contributed by Robert Edmond Jones, the stabbing strength and simplicity of the Negro actors, the background of the Hall Johnson choir and their spirituals, all merge with the lines written by Mr. Connelly, and you cannot tell—nor should you be able to tell, in a really good production—which of the artists concerned is at any one moment responsible for the effect that pours upon you, golden and indivisible as sunlight.

But the more I try to say something about it the further I am getting from it and clouding over its simplicity and depth with little wisps of words. So, unburdened by borrowed words, go to see it. And then you will probably want to see it again. And again.

I see that they are selling a new dictionary which boasts of 418,000 "entries," most of which are words. But among those 418,000 entries there are no new winged arrows to replace the worn, blunt-tipped, draggle-feathered darts we critics shoot at things that deeply stirred our insides.

I look at the quiver and I look at "Green Pastures," and all I have wherewith to translate two hours of helpless happiness and surprise are such sawed-off little arrows as "moving," "lovely," or "unique." Words which have been riddled and punched like a commuter's ticket, from their many weary trips to the altar of creation.

Case of Sergeant Grischa

One of the Greatest of the Stories of the War Arrives on the Screen As It Was Written, a Grim Tragedy Without the Conventional Happy Ending—The Downfall of the European Stars

BY NIE.

ONE of the greatest stories of the World War—perhaps the greatest of them all—was "The Case of Sergeant Grischa," a stark, grim tragedy which, you may recall, ended with the death of, well if not exactly the hero, at least the principal character, at the hands of a firing squad. Now that sort of a finish is not in keeping with the general idea of motion pictures. The customers are supposed to want to see their stars alive and on the way to church with wedding bells in tune while the best man and other attendants sing a theme song. But, all the same, "The Case of Sergeant Grischa," which has been done as a talkie and is on view now at the St. Louis Theater, has, in the films, remained just the way Arnold Zweig wrote it originally. Grischa goes to his death and there are no wedding bells, nor even a final clinch, for him and his sweetheart, Babka.

Thus cinema tradition is shattered and it will be interesting to note the reaction of the picture fans. No doubt the Hollywood magnates had the theme song in mind when they bought the rights to the story. Five thousand chorus girls, in glorious technicolor—which registers pink very effectively—probably were ready to rush on with a monster petition which would have saved Grischa's life and brought the affair to the regulation climax. But, as it happened the making of the film was in the hands of Herbert Brenon, one of the most artistic directors in the movie game. Brenon said he would do the thing as it was written—and did.

BRENON has had a long and varied career to fit him for his present post. In Dublin, Ireland, where he was born, his father, mother and brothers all were journalists, and he spent his early life in an environment where writing for the press was the principal occupation, an honorable profession which some day he fancied he would adopt as his own.

But, although he always liked writing and things literary, he turned to the stage when a young man. While attending St. Paul's School and King's College in London, he found his interest in the theater increasing from day to day as the pages of dramatic literature were unfolded before him.

His theatrical career actually began in America when he secured a job as call boy for Augustin Daly's company at the Daly Theater in New York City. That was in 1898. The following year he went on the road with a traveling troupe as an actor and spent the next seven years in one-night stands over the country.

Forming a vaudeville team with his wife in 1906, they played dramatic sketches on the Orpheum and other vaudeville circuits for three years. In 1909 he became a scenario writer with the IMP company. Carl Laemmle, then president of the IMP, gave him his first chance as a film director the same year and from that time on his work has been done behind the camera.

His most ambitious early productions were made in 1914, when he filmed "A Daughter of the Gods" and "Neptune's Daughter," starring Annette Kellerman. In the last 15 years the pictures he likes to recall as his best were "War Brides," "Peter Pan," "The Street of Forgotten Men," "Beau Geste," "The Great Gatsby," Sorrell and Son," "Lummox," and now "The Case of Sergeant Grischa."

IF Vilma Banky means what she says when she declares that she is going to leave the screen flat St. Louis is getting one of the last shots of her in "A Lady to Love" down at Loew's this week. Never a great screen star, from a box office viewpoint, Miss Banky, a very beautiful woman, has always been a pleasing and capable performer for the camera. The coming of the talkies, which has wrecked the screen future of many of the foreign stars who came to this country, no doubt has a great deal to do with the announced retirement of Miss Banky, who was born in Nagydorg, Hungary, daughter of a Hungarian government official. Walking on the streets of Budapest one day, a friend asked her to go into the cast of a certain photoplay. She did so and was an immediate success.

When Samuel Goldwyn visited Hungary as part of a European tour he signed Miss Banky to a long-term contract and brought her to America. Her first picture under the Goldwyn banner was "The Dark Angel," and others include "The Winning of Barbara Worth," "The Eagle," "Son of the Sheik," "Night of Love," "The Magic Flame," "Two Lovers" and "This Is Heaven." Goldwyn recently loaned her to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to make 'A Lady to Love," from a story by Sidney Howard.

THE making of outdoor film romances in picturesque localities all over the world is the object of a new department which has been launched by Fox Films. Eleven productions are on the department's schedule and $3,000,000 has been appropriated for their making.

Regions already chosen for specific pictures are the pampas of the Argentine, the African veldt, the tropics and the mountains and deserts of the western United States. Officials of the company consider this one of their most important projects since the introduction of sound on film.

First of the eleven productions scheduled is Zane Grey's "Last of the Duanes," with George O'Brien in the leading role. A. F. Erickson, who now is directing O'Brien in a picture of the northwest woods titled "A Holy Terror," will also direct "Last of the Duanes." Work will be started as soon as the present picture is completed.

The second picture of the new organization—the great outdoor romances department, it is termed at the Fox studios—will be Max Brand's thriller, "Alcatraz." Also scheduled are three other Brand works, "The Untamed," "Trailing" and "Wild Geese," and adaptations of three more Zane Grey novels, "Riders of the Purple Sage," "The Rainbow Trail' and "The Lost Trail." Others are "Drag Harlan" and "Brass Commandments" by Charles Alden Seltzer, and "The Great K and A Train Robbery," by Paul Lester Ford.

Two More Plays for Theater Tournament

TWO additional plays are announced by the Art League Drama Committee of the Little Theater Tournament to be held in the Wednesday Club auditorium the first week in April: "Jilted," by Shirley Seifert, produced by the Little Theater Work Shop of the Granite City Community High School and directed by Mary Blackburn, and "Obligato," by Anne Saunders, produced by the Loretto Players of Webster College and directed by Anna McClain Sankey.

Maxine Block's "Eyes," which took first prize in the English drama course at Missouri University, will be directed by Harry McClain. Cyrus W. Beach's "The Wagon Tramp," which took the first prize in an Art League manuscript competition, will be directed by the author. Milton McGovern's "The Guest Unheard," produced by the Playhouse Club of the St. Louis University, also will be directed by the author. "Futile Lies," by Edna Warren, produced by the Spotlight Players and to be directed by Alice Jones Wientge, has been broadcasted on the radio several times in St. Louis. Other group directors are Florence Grant Armstrong, Grace Adams, William C. Ogden and Ellona Garland.

Why the Soprano Saxophone Couldn't Play

Embarrassing Moments in the Orchestra—Rubinstein and Dr. Muck—When the Cat Jumped Between Arbos' Legs.

By Thomas B. Sherman.

WHEN something goes wrong with the orchestra during the progress of a symphony concert the audience does not always know about it. A quick witted conductor can usually cover the break well enough to prevent the music from coming to a dead stop. But whether he conceals the contretemps or not, the conductor and all parties concerned, undergo, for the moment, a refinement of torture that can hardly be surpassed.

Every seasoned conductor has had at least one experience in his career when he wished he had followed his Aunt Mamie's advice and gone in for banking. Usually he lives long enough to add the experience to his collection of after dinner stories.

Among those which will probably appear in the memoirs of Eugene Goossens is the one dealing with what happened when the soprano saxophone lost his pad. A pad, let me explain, is a bit of felt attached to the keys of a saxophone without which it is apparently worse off than a Ford without a carburetor. It can't function. That's all there is to it and one might as well use the darn thing as an ash tray until some one comes along with new pads.

It was during the performance of Ravel's Bolero last Saturday night two weeks ago when this mishap occurred. Just when it was that the saxophone player discovered the loss of his pad has not been established but Mr. Goossens discovered it when the time came for that instrument to take up the main and only theme of the piece. Instead of shattering the air with a biting C natural as the score called for the saxophone player held his instrument up in the air and indicated by his facial expression that it had lost its voice. The oboe player jumped into the breach a few measures later and faked the tune as best he could from memory. But by this time a mild panic had descended on the woodwind section so much that the picolo player came in two measures too soon.

Eventually, by using a few sledge hammer beats Mr. Goossens straightened it all out and only those who had heard the Bolero before suspected that anything was wrong. A person hearing the composition for the first time might have reasonably supposed that those empty measures when nothing but the rhythmic pattern was being sounded were executed according to instructions which said "vamp until ready." In any case those members of the audience who wondered why Mr. Goossens left the podium in such a hurry now know the reason.

DURING the same week of the Bolero incident Sir Thomas Beecham—who habitually conducts without score or baton—suffered a much more embarrassing mishap in London while directing the Royal Philharmonic Society and Alfred Cortot in Beethoven's G Major Concerto. The London Times reported that affair as follows:

"Sir Thomas Beecham conducted brilliant performances marred by one moment of such acute discomfort for everybody that mention of it had better be got over as quickly as possible. There was an accident in the finale of the concerto. For a moment the pianist was at a loss, then the orchestra became equally so, and there was a complete stoppage. If the initial mistake was M. Cortot's his was the credit for beginning again, since the conductor without a score was powerless. It may be suggested that conducting without a score is all very well so long as everything goes right, but the best memory will be aided by a score in an emergency; moreover, it is surely safer for a conductor to use a stick when playing with a solo artist who may be disconcerted by his personal method of miming with both hands."

Even if the accident noted above was the fault of M. Cortot it would not have been the first time that a famous pianist faltered or forgot. The story of what happened once to the famous Rubinstein is told in the current Saturday Evening Post by Olin Downes, music critic of the New York Times. In the course of an article called "Genius Backstage" he speaks of different kinds of terror that sometimes descends on artists.

"Nor according to history," he says, "have the greatest ones of the past escaped. A Jean de Reszke, trembling in every limb, pale as a sheet scarce able to walk on the stage and cast his magic spell as the shining knight in Lohengrin. A Rubinstein, sweating blood, fuming, cursing under his breath, the great drops rolling from his forehead as he blunders and fakes his way through the cadenza of his concerto. He has forgotten the very key the piece is in. Karl Muck who conducted for him that night told me the story and anyone who has watched Muck can visualize the scene: The orchestra waiting for Rubinstein to find the right chord, so that it can strike in with the accompaniment. The audience, waiting too, aware that something is wrong. And Muck, his baton poised with mock solicitude, waiting to give the long-awaited signal. He watches with a saturnine grin; he lets the lion suffer.

"At last, when the tension has become almost unbearable, Muck leans over, saying, in a whisper distinctly audible, "D Major." Rubinstein in the dressing room after the performance, cursing the day he was born and the "verdammte box of keys" which had nearly been his ruin. He had criticised Muck years before, when that young man remarked that he did not intend to become a pianist, but to lead orchestras. And now Muck's turn has come. Muck murmurs affably to the surrounding air, 'I preferred to be a conductor.'"

ONCE in New York Walter Damrosch did not like the amount of noise the audience was making during the opening measures of a symphony so he stopped the music and announced that he was going to start again. And once in London Claude Debussy, who, like so many composers was a poor conductor, was directing a performance of his own "Fetes" when it became apparent to him that the orchestra was in a hopeless snarl. Rapping on the stand he turned to the audience and said, "Please don't blame the musicians—it was all my fault."

E. F. ARBOS, who is known in five countries as a gifted conductor and an equally gifted raconteur, had added a new story to his repertoire when he was in St. Louis a few months ago. It concerned a minor disaster that occurred while he was directing a performance of Honneger's "Pacific 231" during his summer tour. Those who have heard the piece will recall that it is a very realistic tone picture of a locomotive in action—hissing steam, clanking pistons, whistles, bells and everything. The performance, which was being given in a small Spanish town, was being accorded the closest possible attention by the audience when suddenly something happened to an electrical appliance on the stage. There was a sputter, followed by a sharp explosion. Two violinists were knocked out of their chairs and a cat, which nobody had seen up to that time bounded through Mr. Arbos' legs and into the auditorium. Though shaken somewhat, Mr. Arbos stood his ground, encouraged the musicians to go on and finally brought the piece to its proper conclusion.

The audience broke into vociferous and prolonged applause—so prolonged that the orchestra was forced to repeat the number. But when it was concluded the second time, though the performance had been quite as good as the first, the applause was only lukewarm. Mr. Arbos did not discover the reason until after the concert. The audience thought that the explosion and the cat were all part of the performance and naturally felt cheated when they did not show up the second time.

OUT IN HOLLYWOOD

Chester Conklin Quits Pictures For Vaudeville Stage

HOLLYWOOD, March 15.

CHESTER CONKLIN took his walrus mustache and his plate glass spectacles with him to the stage but he didn't take his voice.

CHESTER CONKLIN

For that reason he is unique among motion picture figures who take a flyer at the two-a-day when business gets slack in Hollywood.

Conklin, who has already proved that his vocal chords are in pretty fair shape by appearances in several talkies, speaks not a word in his vaudeville appearances. He resorts to the pantomime he used in his early show days as a circus clown and of his more successful ones as a featured comedian in silent pictures.

In Conklin's act, which was so successful that he is returning again soon for another tour, he is a janitor who drops into a hotel room while an actress is rehearsing with her partner over the telephone. The humor is in Conklin's pantomimic reactions to the one-sided conversation.

CONKLIN'S mustache is at once his trade mark and his omen of good fortune. It is a cloth and crepe counterpart of one that he had seen on the upper lip of an Iowa baker for whom he worked as a boy.

Conklin, after a year in an Omaha, Neb., law office, went onto the stage and eventually joined a circus. When he became a clown he recalled the funny mustache and made one like it. He has worn it since, as a Keystone Kop, in countless comedies and finally on the stage. The mustache goes everywhere with Conklin, safe in an old tobacco tin that just fits into his hip pocket.

HOLLYWOOD is the last frontier for the American cowboy. Fences dissecting the country that once was open range have driven the picturesque "cowpuncher" to filmland, where he works less for more pay.

Jack Moore, a veteran cowman and ranger, who now is foreman of a movie ranch, estimates that several hundred cowboys who once herded cattle in the real West are here making a fairly decent living.

JOE and Farina and Jean and others of "Our Gang," who have grown too old to continue their kid pranks, may continue acting together in other pictures. Tests are being made of some of the children to determine whether they will fit characters of some of Booth Tarkington's stories. Hal Roach, their mentor, hopes to be able to feature them in several.

JOE COBB

Joseph Cobb, the fat boy, was graduated from "Our Gang" several months ago, and Farina, who is really Sonny Hoskins, now has an understudy who may replace him when he learns the ropes. Mary Kornman, long with the gang, left the comedies some time ago.

One studio has its scouts looking for young Americans who can ride, swim, fight, run, jump, and, in fact, do everything an all-around athlete is expected to do.

They must have good voices, but need not know how to sing; they must be good looking and screen well. Stage experience will help, but it is not essential.

Types like the late Fred Thomson, of both college and movie athletic fame, are sought for "outdoor hero" roles.

The search for more screen he-men indicates that microphones are being taken off the sound stages and into the open spaces. The almost daily improvements in sound recording are making it possible to take outdoor scenes heretofore considered too difficult.

WHEN Don Terry, whom Harvard knew as Donald Locan, came to Hollywood two years ago a writer suggested he try the movies. Locan, adopting the name Terry, took a test for a role in "Me, Gangster," and got the part.

He was given a contract, but things didn't pan out so well and Terry played a few minor roles in the next six months. He was released and decided to try to forget about the movies.

In the last year Terry has built up a paying drapery business. Pictures, however, were still on his mind, so he recently sought the lead in a picture—and got it.

He has had chances to play other roles, but turned them down until the right one came along. The movies are a contrary business and Terry probably will be flooded with offers now.

HERE'S another story: Thomas Lennon, an Oakland, Cal., newspaper man, came to Hollywood to write scenarios. One studio asked him his qualifications for story writing. He asked for an office and a typewriter.

Two hours laters he returned with a story synopsis, which the studio purchased. Lennon got a permanent job.

AND here's still another true one: A dance director recently imported from New York was putting 100 chorines through their steps when the studio owner walked onto the stage to watch the tutoring operations.

Plainly perturbed, the chorus master walked over to his boss and asked:

"Haven't you anything better to do than to come here and waste your time?"

"Certainly," the owner answered. "I've got a job of firing to do right now—you're through."

The firing stuck.

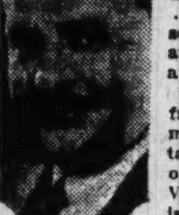
How Jean Hersholt Moves Along By New Mannerisms

JEAN HERSHOLT, once one of Denmark's leading actors, is in the first flight of movie character players because he adopts new and different mannerisms to every role.



JEAN HERSHOLT

He does not differ his characters in make-up and dress alone, but in peculiarities of action also.

As the crafty, scheming merchant in "Hell Harbor," a recent picture Hersholt used certain mannerisms that were not his own but those of the merchant. Contrasting in his role of Christ in "The Servant in the House," one of Hersholt's first big pictures in this country.

Hersholt, who began his American picture career nearly 15 years ago, at first was always the heavy-browed villain.

Despite his long row of successful "heavy roles," he prevailed upon a director to let him have an entirely different type of part, that of Christ. The part was handled so convincingly that he soon played two more like it.

SOME time later Hersholt became a director and in one of his pictures there was an extraordinarily villainous role that he desired to play. When he returned to acting several months later, he discovered he was typed.

However, by refusing certain roles and seeking others, Hersholt has managed to vary his characterizations. In "The Case of Sergeant Grischa," Hersholt has a part that both gives and gets sympathy, but in "Hell Harbor" there is neither for him.

Hersholt was sent to this country in 1915 to stage the Danish national fair at the San Francisco exposition. He met the late Thomas Ince and through him became interested in pictures. He has not been home since.

First fame came to him in "Greed," and later he was in "Stella Dallas."

however, at the sun-kissed California salaries.

But, while Europe has practically ceased making silent motion pictures and is turning out creditable talking films, production methods there are approximately one year behind those of America.

So declares Ludwig Berger, Paramount director, who is in America again after two months' vacation in Germany and France.

Ufa, the big German production company, is strictly up-to-date in one respect, Berger states. It is producing talking films in two, three and even four different languages. The pictures are first filmed in German, English, French and Hungarian versions then are invariably made.

"The European producers now have first-class equipment with which to work," says Berger. "They are hampered, however, by a lack of trained personnel. Men who understand how to properly use the sound recording apparatus are comparatively few. The pictures being made there now generally resemble the first talking films produced in America."

THE work of an American director, Josef von Sternberg, has proved illuminating to European producers, Berger declares. Von Sternberg directed Emil Janings' first talking picture for Ufa.

"Von Sternberg's film equals anything done in America," Berger declared, "proving my contention that it is not the equipment but the training and technique behind it who keep the present European pictures from being abreast of the Hollywood product."

The European audiences are particularly interested in musical films, Berger says. The American musical pictures are proving popular and will continue to be so. He was the recipient of many inquiries about "The Vagabond King," which he directed just prior to his vacation.

LKS TO CITIZENS ON CIVIC PROBLEMS

Chamber of Commerce Campaign, Part of It on Radio, to Start Tomorrow.

A campaign will be started tomorrow by the Chamber of Commerce with a view to arousing concerted action in such long-standing civic problems as the city and county merger, railroad consolidation, the bridge question, the transit situation and public improvements.

Radio talks will form an important part of the campaign and a speakers' bureau of nearly 500 men has been organized to appear at various meetings in the city. Former Mayor Kiel and L. C. Haworth, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will direct the campaign.

The first radio address will be delivered tomorrow at 6 p. m. over Station KWK by W. L. Hemingway, vice president of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co. On successive evenings at the same hour speakers will be E. J. Russell, chairman of the City Plan Commission; Jacob M. Lashly, lawyer; Wood Netherland, president of the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis; Col. Albert T. Perkins; Edwin B. Meissner, president of the St. Louis Car Co., and Luther Ely Smith, lawyer.

"The campaign is designed to focus attention on some overdue steps in city progress," said Erastus Wells, chairman of the Chamber's board of directors. "The Chamber will offer for the consideration of all St. Louis business interests the facts in regard to these problems. What is to be done about them is a question for the commercial and civic minded to answer."

To Liquidate Mexico Bank.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 15.—State Finance Commissioner S. L. Cantley announced today that the Southern Trust Co. of Mexico, Mo., which was closed last Thursday after a heavy run of withdrawals by depositors, would be liquidated at once. He appointed J. C. Mundy, officer of another bank in Mexico, special Deputy Finance Commissioner in charge of the work. The Southern Trust Co. had deposits of approximately $320,000, according to its last report to the State Finance Commissioner. The deposits included about $200,000 of Audrain County funds, which were secured by a personal bond of the directors and other paper. After the bank closed the Clearing House Association of Mexico recommended liquidation.

I know many—one indeed better than anyone else—who were, what with money losses and unexpected expenses, forced to borrow heavily to pay their income taxes this year. Thus are hundreds unable to put a little by for a rainy day. The Government tax on earned incomes is out of all proportion and in many cases absolutely unjust. And a lot of good this squawk will do!

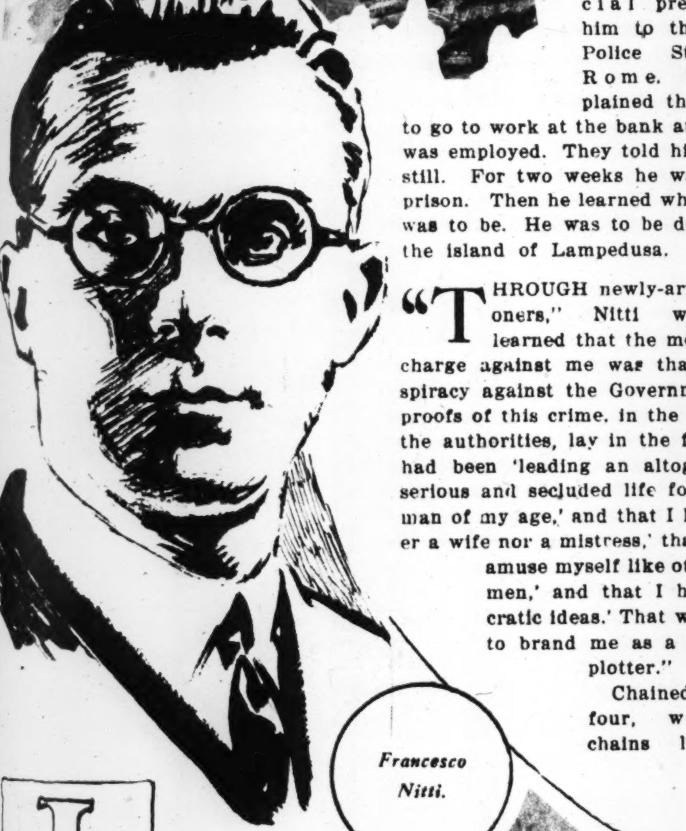
How Francesco Nitti ESCAPED from Italy's "Devil's Island"

And What Happened to Him and Other Political Prisoners Before He and Two Companions Swam to an Open Boat and Dashed to Freedom.



Francesco Nitti.

ITALY sends her political prisoners to one of several barren, wind-swept islands between the coasts of Sicily and Africa. They are kept under the most rigorous guard, shut away from all contact with the world. The islands are surrounded by cruisers that at night play their searchlights over the coast line. Yet Francesco Nitti and two companions escaped to freedom.

Nitti, living in Paris now, has told the story of that miraculous escape and of the hardships and brutality that he and his two friends, Carlo Roselli and Emilio Lussu, had to endure. It is an amazing narrative, one that will take rank with the great escapes of all time. It is a story of fortitude, endurance, quiet, disciplined bravery, and, at the last, sheer luck.

Francesco Fausto Nitti, the son of former Premier Nitti, also now in exile, says he was imprisoned for placing flowers on the spot on which Giacomo Matteoti was murdered for his opposition to Fascism. This, together with his friendship for Matteoti's widow and his steadfast refusal to support Mussolini, brought about his arrest, he relates.

It came without warning. He was awakened at 6:30 on the morning of December 2, 1926, by a loud knock on his door. Three men entered and without any official pretext took him to the Central Police Station in Rome. He complained that he had to go to work at the bank at which he was employed. They told him to keep still. For two weeks he was kept in prison. Then he learned what his fate was to be. He was to be deported to the island of Lampedusa.

"THROUGH newly-arrived prisoners," Nitti writes, "I learned that the most serious charge against me was that of 'conspiracy against the Government.' The proofs of this crime, in the opinion of the authorities, lay in the fact that I had been 'leading an altogether too serious and secluded life for a young man of my age,' and that I had 'neither a wife nor a mistress,' that 'I didn't amuse myself like other young men,' and that I had 'democratic ideas.' That was enough to brand me as a dangerous plotter."

Chained four by four, with the chains linked to handcuffs, Nitti, with 57 others, started for the island of Lampedusa.

After a terrible journey, they reached the penal island. Nitti writes:

"The island of Lampedusa lies in the Mediterranean, about midway between Malta and the coast of Tunis. It is one of the Pelagian group, belonging to Italy, and has a circuit of about 13 miles. It is arid and rocky, and the sun of Africa beats implacably down on the sparse vegetation sprouting amid the stones that cover its scorched soil.

"On the first morning that I awakened on Lampedusa I strained my eyes in vain to see anything but stones, shriveled shrubs and sterile earth, cracked with drouth. At the foot of a rocky eminence a solitary palm tree stretched its stiff leaves toward the sun—the only tree on that barren isle.

"OUR life on Lampedusa was regulated with military precision. At 7 a. m. the door of our vast cell was opened by the guards. At 8, the first roll call was held. Each of us was handed 10 liras—less than 50 cents—the daily indemnity which the Government accords to political prisoners for their living expenses. Afterwards we were free to walk around the village until 5 o'clock. At this hour we had to assemble before our prison to answer a second roll call. A company of carabineers was drawn up behind the police. The prisoners entered the room singly, after having answered to their names. Then the doors were locked for the night.

"I FOUND the village full of a ragged and miserable crowd of evil-looking men—ordinary criminals, who had been deported to the island and were living under conditions very similar to ours.

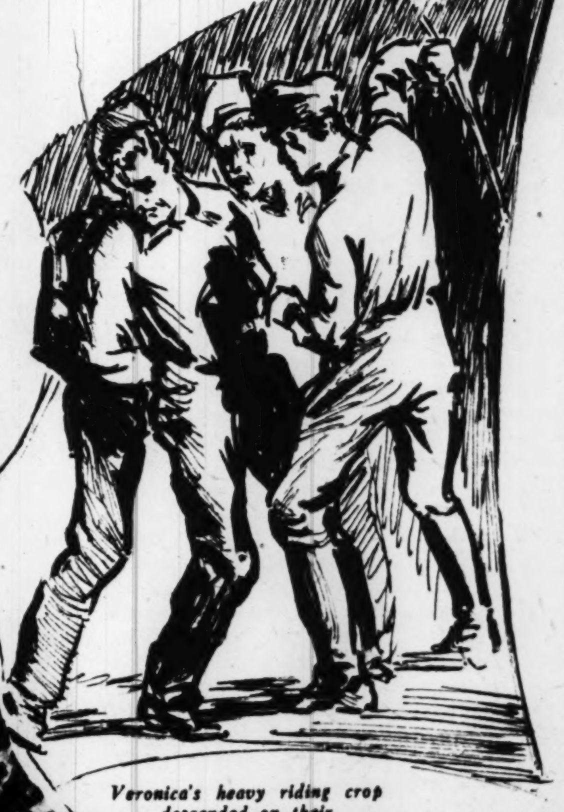
"There were about 300 of these convicts on the island, men from the ages of 20 to 70, living in a nauseous atmosphere of vice and moral degeneration.

"Lieutenant Francesco Veronica was our master on the island of Lampedusa.

"Veronica, who was destined to play a leading role in our tragedy, was a young man about 27 years of age, rather stout, but of athletic build. His uniform was always very elegant, but he had no medals for bravery pinned on it. I am convinced that he harbored a personal, implacable hatred against us. He had under his orders about 200 men of the Fascist militia, 80 carabineers and about the same number of policemen."

This Lieutenant Veronica held the power of life or death over all the prisoners. He was a supreme autocrat, who seemed touched with madness. There were increasing signs of this, Nitti relates. On one occasion he summoned all the political prisoners to his headquarters and at the point of the bayonets of the carabineers demanded to know of two young brothers who had sent them a postal card with an illegible signature. They refused to tell him, fearing for the safety of an old friend who had been loyal to them. With this Veronica seized a riding crop and beat them over the face until they were both drenched with blood.

Again, when the political prisoners organized some amateur theatricals to relieve the deadly monotony of Lampedusa, Veronica charged into their common cell and ordered the carabineers to take all the Romans to his office. There he singled out Pietro Rossi and, holding a dagger against his bared breast, screamed, "Cry 'Long live Italy!' immediately or I'll kill you." Rossi refused. Veronica pushed the dagger into Rossi's flesh, again making his demand. Once more Rossi refused. At this Veronica lost all control and plunged the dagger deeper and deeper into Rossi's breast. When the young prisoner fainted, Veronica commanded the most muscular carabineer to trample the prone figure and kick the face of the unconscious Rossi. He was at last left for dead with the other prisoners, who managed to bring him back to consciousness.



Veronica's heavy riding crop descended on their faces.

Nitti relates that it was he who was instrumental in having this mad tyrant removed. Through a secret channel, which he cannot even now disclose for fear of reprisals, he was able to smuggle out a report of the cruelty and ill-treatment endured on the island. Not long after Veronica had been removed and sent to the mainland, Nitti, with most of the other political prisoners, was transferred to the island of Lipari, often referred to as Italy's Devil's Island.

Here existence was a little more endurable. There were trees and a fairly decent village. Vigilance was unceasing, discipline stern, but at least there were no flagrant brutalities. And it was here, shortly after Nitti's arrival, that he met two newcomers, Emilio Lussu and Carlo Roselli. The latter was of an old and wealthy family. Lussu, a member for many years of the Italian Parliament, had organized political opposition to Mussolini in Sardinia. The plot to escape began to take form almost immediately.

"Lussu was ready to embrace any scheme, even the most risky, to regain his liberty. But he was more carefully guarded than any of us. His house was watched day and night, and even when he went out for a walk he was followed at a distance by four detectives. In this the island authorities were obeying special orders from Rome.

"Roselli and I were also watched, though less strictly. Roselli was regarded as a dangerous deportee because he had staged the flight of Turati, and also because he was wealthy. Escape from Lipari costs money, like all enterprises of that nature, and the authorities always seemed rather nervous about him.

"And here I must reveal that there were no longer three of us. To my great regret, I cannot even now reveal his real name, for he was the man who a few months later had to come personally, facing the most terrible risks, to deliver us from our island prison. Let us call him Fortunio. He had been at Lipari about two years.

"FORTUNIO was not so closely guarded as we were. It was easier for him to elaborate our plans and particularly to organize a system of communication with the outside world.

"Before adopting our final plan we had considered various schemes, but we gave them up when we received definite news from our friends in Italy that they were prepared to come and take us off the island with a high-powered motor boat, if we could provide them with exact information regarding the spot where we would be waiting for them and the surveillance exercised by the warships and police vessels that guarded the coast.

"Our most difficult problem was to determine the place where we should wait for our friends to take us on board their boat. It was necessary that it should fulfill two essential requirements: first, it must be near enough for us to reach easily at nightfall and to return from to our quarters before the evening roll call in case our friends failed to meet us; second, it must be so situated that our friends could approach at high speed to within a few hundred yards of us without exciting suspicion.

"We were forced to reckon with the possibility that our friends for some reason might be unable to be at the rendezvous at the hour fixed. In that case we would have to get back to our houses in time to be 'present' when the night patrols made their rounds. If we were only half an hour late the alarm would be given and all our plans might be discovered.

"The whole thing had to take place in less than 45 minutes.

"It was arranged that our friends, on sighting the island, should develop motor trouble and lie far out at sea until nightfall, out of range of the semaphore on Vulcano, a nearby island, and the signal stations on the other islands of the group. Then they were to dash in at full speed, turning off their motor when within a few hundred yards of the rendezvous and letting their boat drift noiselessly until we could swim out and be picked up.

"At this time our friends informed us that they also were encountering unexpected difficulties in perfecting their plans. We felt downcast and disappointed, but we were careful to conceal our feelings, even from our fellow deportees.

"Lussu and Roselli were admirable actors. Being more closely watched than Fortunio and I, they had to exercise far greater powers of dissimulation."

The first attempt failed and the three conspirators were plunged into despair. They had swum out to the jutting rock that was the pre-arranged place. For an hour and a half they waited for the friends who were to take them away. And then in desperation they hurried back to their quarters so they would be able to answer "Present" at the evening check-up. To have been caught out after 9:30 would, of course, have meant the end of all their hopes.

A few days later they received word that their rescuers had had to put back to shore because heavy seas threatened to swamp the motor boat. A new time was fixed. Nitti describes the successful attempt as follows:

"THOSE last hours of my deportee's life I passed wandering aimlessly about the village, just as so many other afternoons and evenings had passed in the weary months of our captivity. I chatted with friends until the clock on the municipal building struck 8:30.

"Then I started to walk slowly toward my house. Half-way to it I abruptly changed my course, and, first making sure that I was not observed, hastened down to the port. Everything was silent. Apparently all was as I wished it.

"But at the end of the dark quay I found neither Lussu nor Roselli waiting. That troubled me. But there was no time to worry. We had agreed that the first to arrive should not wait for the others. If one, or two, could not get there, the fortunate ones should proceed as best they could.

"So I slipped out of my clothes and again swam, as we had done a fortnight before, to the rocky point which by now seemed very familiar to me. I moved through the water as silently as possible, trying not to splash.

"At the destination I waited, all but my head hidden in the water. From there I could see a good portion of the port, a few fishermen on the quay, a Fascist patrol along the shore, and a group of boys at play.

"Suddenly the noise of a motor came to my ears. I could see nothing. The sound came nearer and nearer. Then, although apparently nearer, the sound diminished. That meant they had put on the 'silencer.' All at once out of the shadows emerged a darker shadow, definitely taking shape as a small boat.

"It was my friends! No doubt of that now. I recognized the characteristics of the boat just as they had described them to me.

"Desperately I swam toward them. As I approached, the sound of the motors died away. I was almost touching the boat's side before they saw me, and then, midst stifled cries of mutual joy, they reached over and hauled me on board.

"Immediately I recognized X, who had organized the rescue. Dear friend! Brave man! Then in the darkness I distinguished the features of Z, another friend, a man of great intelligence and energy.

"'You are alone?' X asked me at once. 'The others? Where are the others?'

"'I was the first to arrive at the appointed place. I waited but did not see them,' I explained. 'They will come.' My teeth were chattering, my breath still coming in gasps after the frantic effort of that swim. A coat thrown around my shoulders and a vigorous drink of brandy pulled me together.

"'WHERE can they be? It is nearly 9:15.' X was increasingly worried. 'We ought to be on our way by now.'

"Strain our eyes as we would, there was nothing to be seen ashore. What had happened? Had they been captured? If the latter, the uproar was sure to start at any moment.

"Suddenly we were aware of a terrible catastrophe which had overtaken us. With the motors shut off, a strong current was sweeping us straight into the harbor! All at once we realized the swift change in our position as our launch moved out from the shadows into the full light from the port square.

"With a rush my friends broke out the oars from their lashings, got them over the side and did their best to move the boat back against the current. But they could not do it. Their utmost efforts were in vain. Inch by inch we crept further into the tell-tale glare.

"IT WAS close to 9:30 now. In a few minutes the patrols would make the rounds of our residences and our absences—certainly mine—would be noted and the alarm given. In whispers I was explaining that to the others when suddenly X gripped my arm.

"'There! Look!'

"He pointed over the stern. Sure enough, two blacker shadows moved toward us through the gray shadows of the water's surface—the heads of our two friends swimming toward us.

"'Here we are! It's us!' The breathless low cry came from the swimmers.

"'The motors!' Z gave the order.

"No further need of prudence now. Our hope of safety lay in speed.

"In that moment of triumph and relief the shrill blast of a bugle rent the silence of the summer night. Other bugles answered in the town and their call was taken up by the whistles of the warships. The night patrols had discovered the escape!

"With a roar the powerful engines started, and, heeling far over as it circled, the swift boat dashed for the open sea.

"Distant shouts of command, the hubbub of the awakened harbor, were drowned as the roar of our own engines gained volume."

All night long they raced on at full speed. Standing by the wheel, the silent commander listened anxiously to the motors. He scarcely took notice of the fugitives huddled on deck in their scanty clothes.

Daybreak found them off a shadowy, mountainous coast line on the horizon.

"Take your last look at Italy," said the commander. "Yonder lies the Sicilian coast."

Long and earnestly the refugees gazed at the fast-fading land. A mist came before their eyes, Nitti records.

Despite all the injustice they had suffered there at the hands of cruel and ruthless jailers, their countrymen, it was the land of their birth to which they were bidding farewell, perhaps forever.

FIVE hundred miles off the coast of Ecuador, almost straddling the equator, lies the Galapagos group of islands, black, rocky, barren shores, mothered by volcanoes, foothills that half-heartedly yield to vegetation, and, toward the center of each lava-garmented isle, a mountain cone housing its crater.

The Galapagos group has not a pretty history. Once the nesting place of buccaneers and pirates, the islands became sites for Ecuador's penal colonies after the Republic added the group to its domain. Now the penal colonies, too, have gone, and in their place are a few small settlements, the homes of plantation workers.

But one of the major islands of the group—and it probably is only 10 miles in length—has not had the good fortune even to acquire a plantation workers' straggling settlement. Unprepossessing, its shore burned and fire-blackened, its chief claim to fame has been Postoffice Bay, where tramp steamers and others of their kind put in occasionally to visit the island's postoffice, an unattended barrel stuck upon a pole, where mail might be dropped from one tramp for another.

WHEN the yacht Mizpah of Chicago, cruising those seas late in January, dropped anchor in Postoffice Bay, her commander, Commodore Eugene F. McDonald Jr., and his six guests decided to do the conventional thing—peer into the barrel. They did, and they found a note, written in German and addressed to the captain of a small trading ship. Only one of McDonald's guests could read German, and only two of his crew of 27 knew anything about the tongue. As the latter were more conversant with the spoken variety than the written, the job of translation fell to the guest, Baker Brownell, professor of contemporary thought at Northwestern University, who confessed to me the other day that, much as he disliked to admit it, his German had become rather shaky. But Brownell put his eye to the page and he found an amazing story. On this supposedly uninhabited island, Brownell read, were a man and a woman, a Dr. Friedrich Ritter and Frau Ritter, who announced that their supplies had been stolen by a passing ship, that they had been injured and were without antiseptics, that they were low in food supplies, that, in short, they needed help. The note was five days old when the Mizpah found it.

IT WAS late in the day; there was very little that could be done. The hostile rocks and broken stretches of lava made a night searching party out of the question. There was nothing for the Mizpah to do but fire guns and sweep the skies with her searchlights, and though these substitutes were resorted to, they were of no avail. The Ritters, if they were aware of the signals, failed to answer them.

The next morning two groups of searchers set out. One, led by Professor Brownell, headed for the center of the island, guiding themselves by a broken trail that led over rocky gulches toward the foothills. On they went, and as the trail began to rise sparse vegetation appeared. But as they went on they began to wonder why these Ritters were near starvation. For all about were wild things—birds, goats, wild pigs, any of them possibilities of food. And on the shores there were turtle eggs, fish were in the sea, and turtles likewise.

The searchers tramped on. For more than an hour they marched and then, as they approached a spring that suddenly flowed out of the hills, they heard voices. From out of the mesquite brush a man and a girl appeared. "Gott sei dank," the man cried, and the girl, a small, slender thing, danced happily toward them. The Ritters were discovered.

But the Ritters were only lost in a very restricted sense. These were not people tossed by the sea upon a deserted isle. They had, instead, come there of their own volition, so they might leave the world behind them and remain there the rest of their lives, free of the impediments of civilization as well as of its luxuries.

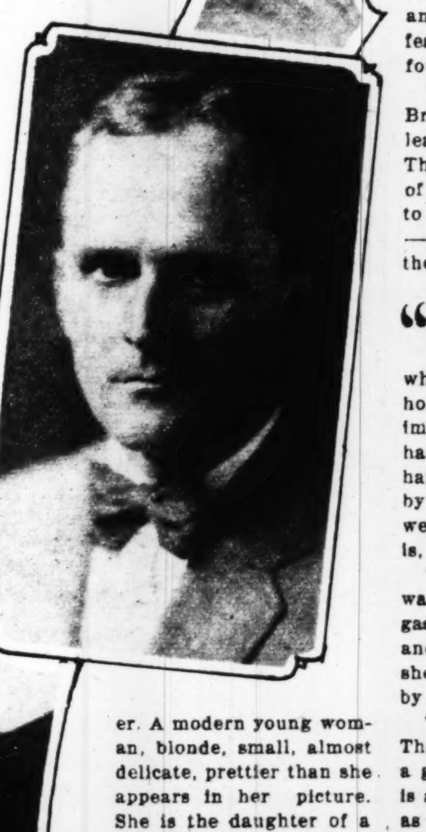
When Professor Brownell found the Ritters they had been on Charles, or Santa Maria, Island as it is sometimes known, for five months. They had weathered the worst period of the year, the rainy season. Almost 100 miles from the nearest island of the group, with no means of their own for getting to it, they were happy and content, now that aid had come, with no wish but to remain and continue this strange way of living.

Ritter is twice a doctor, a doctor of medicine and of philosophy. A man now of something more than 40, he has had an evidently successful career in Germany, for shortly before he left his home he was offered a professorship at Freiburg. He has done considerable experimentation in nutrition.

But the philosopher in him was repelled by our modern civilization. A student first of Schopenhauer and Nietzsche, he turned to the ancient Chinese philosopher and mystic, Lao-Tse, and in him thought he had discovered what he wanted.

DURING the war Dr. Ritter served three years with the German army. How far those experiences influenced him there is no way to determine. He did lose much of his fortune as a result of the conflict. But it was something else that caused him to break his home ties and, with his wife's permission, to take Dore Koerwin with him and try to find surcease on the rocks of Charles Island. It was, perhaps, his conclusion that the world was beyond redemption, that he could do nothing for it, as it could do nothing for him, that proved to be the germ of his decision to retire from life as other men live it. Anyhow, when Dr. Ritter was discovered out in the Pacific there by Brownell, he came across a man who could understand him, for Brownell is something of a student of Lao-Tse himself, quoting the Chinese philosopher in his book, "The New Universe."

But if Ritter is a man who has had time to find the way for himself, his helpmeet is a disciple—a disciple among disciples, a woman convinced. She is twenty-six years old, according to report from Berlin, although Brownell thought her two or three years younger. A modern young woman, blonde, small, almost delicate, prettier than she appears in her picture. She is the daughter of a well-to-do family of Charlottenburg, near Berlin. A young woman, used to the life of the German capital, to its music, its singing, its dancing, she has seen fit to desert them all for Charles Island—and Ritter.



Prof. Baker Brownell.

When the Ritters were asked to sign the Mizpah's log, Ritter wrote down, "Dr. Friedrich Ritter and Frau." The girl was invited to put her name upon the log; she wrote, "Dore Koerwin Ritter." But recent advices from Berlin say that Dr. Ritter was married in Germany, and that his wife, evidently not sharing in his beliefs, released him and allowed him to go upon his way with Dore Koerwin. Dr. Ritter then found it possible to realize upon an inheritance before it was paid out to him, and with this money financed his adventure.

Ritter and the girl are vegetarians. They not only refuse to eat meat or fish, but they will not taste of milk or eggs. Vegetables make their menu, and frequently these vegetables are uncooked. That is why, with goats and pigs and birds in abundance, they feared starvation when their rescuers found them.

"We came upon the Ritters," Brownell told me, "just as they were leaving their camp near the spring. They had seen and heard our signals of the night before, but were afraid to try to get to the ship in the dark —afraid they would fall and hurt themselves.

"RITTER was dressed in white duck trousers and a white shirt, Frau Ritter wore a white wash dress, something like a house dress, I should say. Both were immaculate. Ritter is a small man, hardly taller than she, with reddish hair and beard that have been burned by the sun. He is slender, hardly weighing more than 120 pounds, but is, I suspect, rather wiry.

"They both were injured and he was anxious for antiseptics. He had gashed his arm by falling on a sickle, and the wound was hardly healed, and she had a badly-scarred knee, torn by falling on the rocks.

"They were delighted to see us. Their camp consisted of a tent with a garden patch beside it where Ritter is attempting to grow vegetables, such as we are used to, and fruits. He expects to do especially well with bananas. He carried a small sack of tomatoes he had grown to the ship for our benefit, and was very proud of them.

"Their great difficulty, and their reason for writing the note which we found, came about by the theft of their supplies. They had cached, near the shore, nearly all of the supplies they'd brought to the island. Some ship had come along, taken everything they owned, and left them desperate.

"Ritter reminds me of the early Christian type, the sort of man who went into seclusion to think about it all. He is a mystic and a very gentle, humane man. He is a trusting soul. That is likely the reason he lost his supplies; he probably never thought of anyone taking them.

"When I asked him why he didn't use one of the many wild donkeys on the island as a beast of burden, he shook his head, and told me he did not think that was right.

"He never seemed to realize that he and the girl might be subject to attack from maurauders who might land on the place. The birds, he told me, were eating his garden; he hated to do it, but he wondered if we had a shotgun we could let him have. We had none, but we gave him a rifle and 1500 rounds of ammunition. The rifle would be good defense against other maurauders than birds. Ritter knows how to use firearms.

"The girl is a cultured, well-educated young woman. She and Ritter had lunch with us on the yacht. I walked to the phonograph, and asked her if she minded American popular music. She said she didn't, told me that she liked it. I put on a record, and she listened to it, doing a few steps as any young girl will. That interested me—that this girl, young and alert, who had so recently been a part of the world, could be reminded of it and enjoy it, and still be thoroughly content where she was.

"They were with us five or six hours. Then, before it became too late, they started on the return to their camp. Mr. McDonald must have left them a ton of stuff. Dynamite, which one of the crew showed Ritter how to use; antiseptics, rubber shoes, clothing and any food supplies which conformed with their theories.

"They wanted to pay us for them—of course we refused.

"THEY told us that they planned to build a house, that a boat was to bring them lumber. There are caves on the island, and I think they will use them to store their supplies and protect them from the wet of the rainy season. Charles Island, though just below the equator, is not nearly so hot as one would suppose, due to the tempering influence of the Humboldt current. The temperature is about 80 degrees.

"Frau Ritter told me she hoped for a visit from her mother and sister.

"I think Ritter's vegetarianism finds its source in a combination of two things: he believes a vegetarian diet more advantageous; he does not believe in the slaughter of animals.

"As they made their way back to their camp, they were happy people. I had asked them how long they intended to remain. 'We shall stay here always,' Dr. Ritter told me. 'We have come down here to live our own lives. We keep a diary and we are experimenting to some extent on the effects of light and uncooked food on the human system. But we came to live a life of contemplation, of mutual love and simple work with natural things.'"

FACING DESTITUTION with a "MILLION-DOLLAR" SECRET

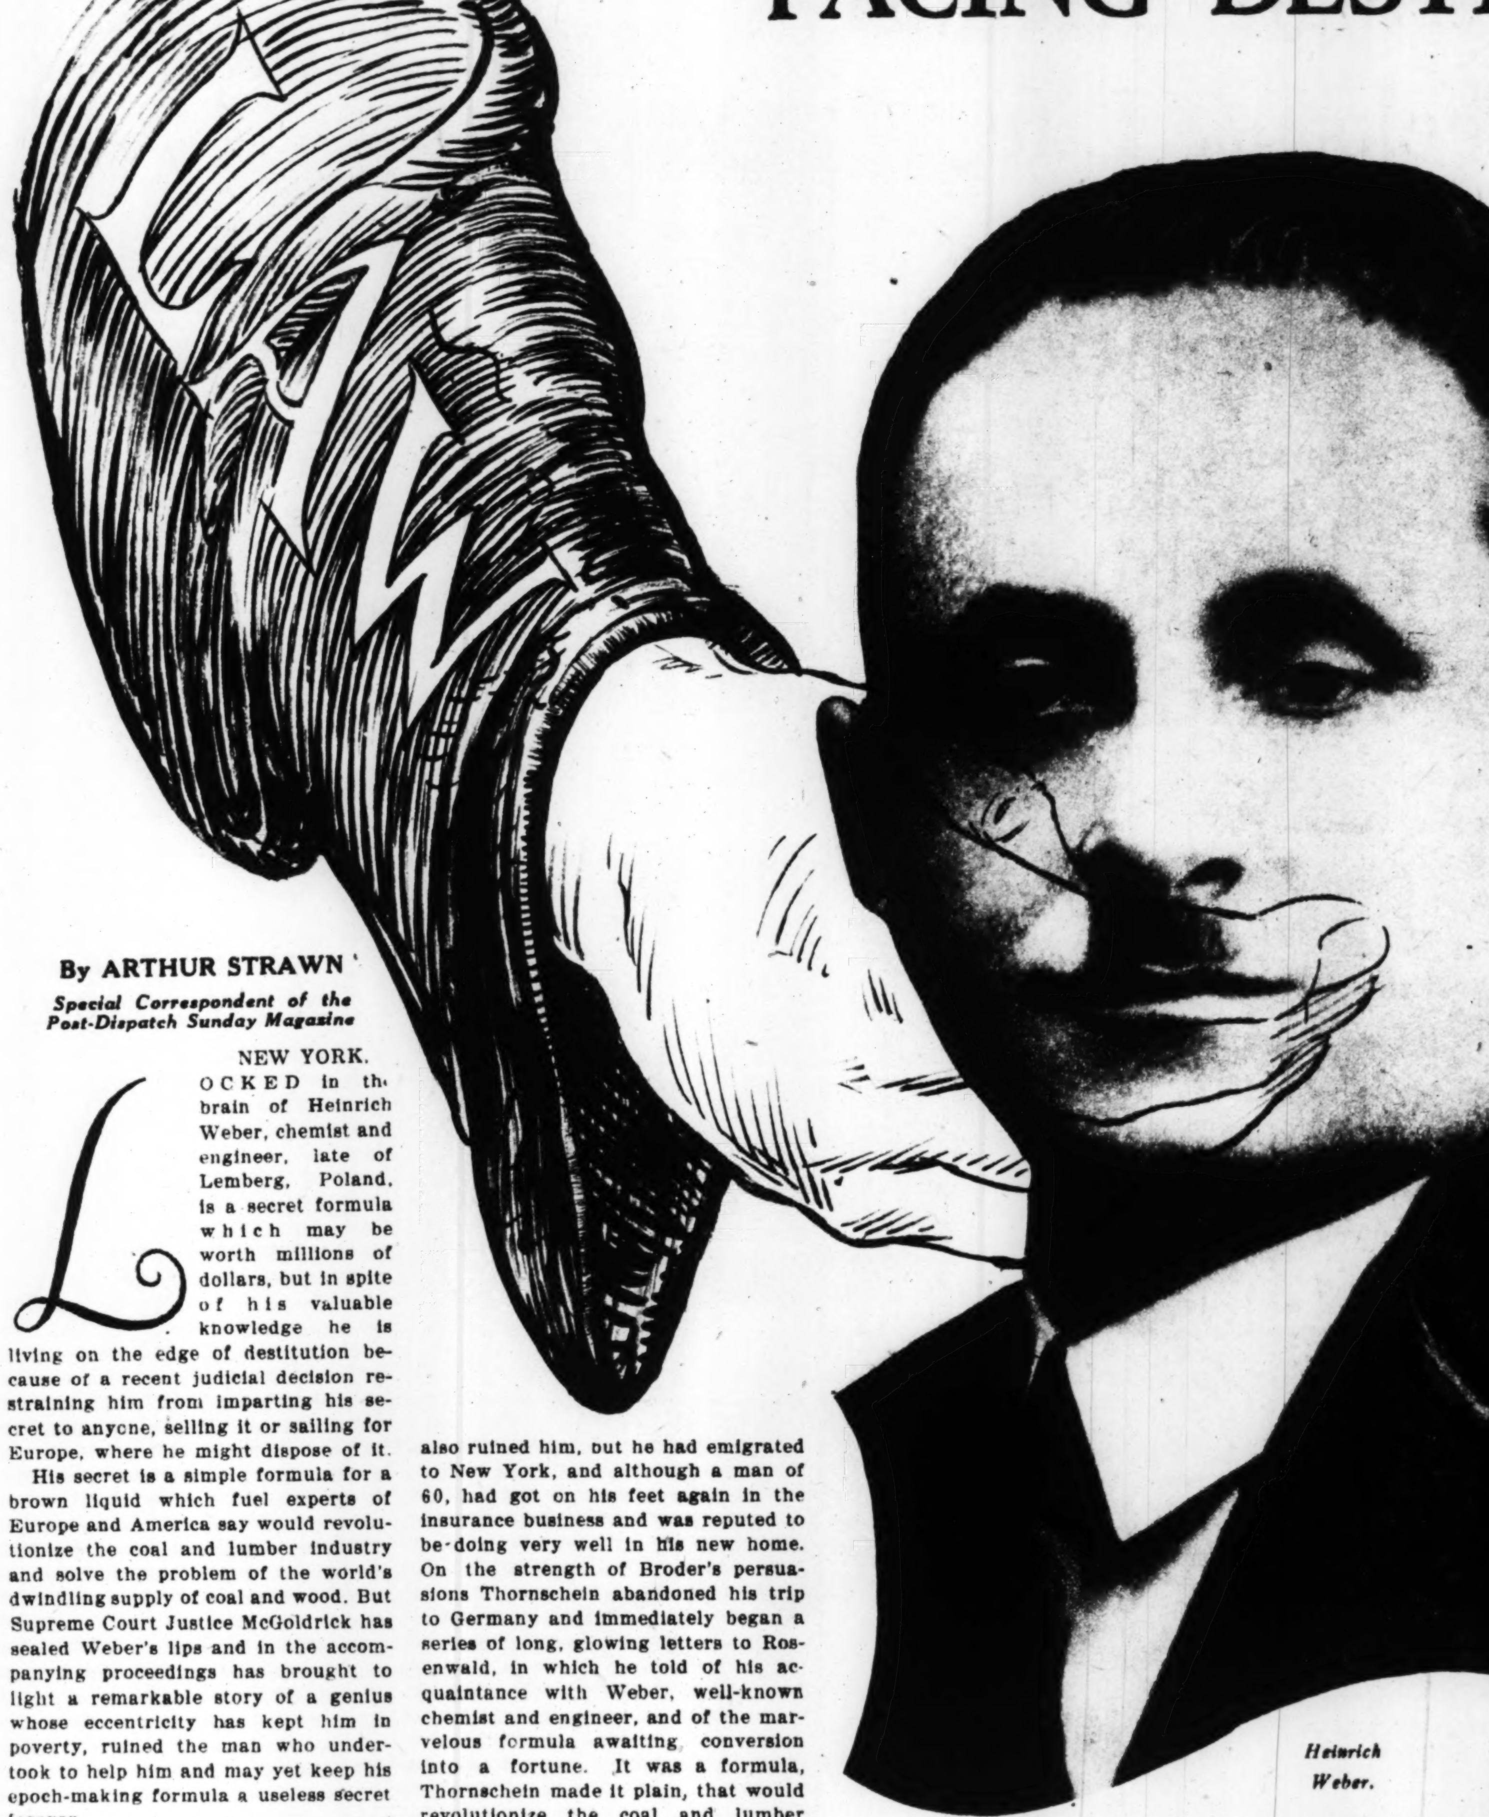
The Strange Situation Whereby Heinrich Weber Has Been Prevented by Court Order From Disposing of a Formula Which Experts Say Would Revolutionize the Coal Industry.



Heinrich Weber.

Moses Rosenwald.

By ARTHUR STRAWN

Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

LOCKED in the brain of Heinrich Weber, chemist and engineer, late of Lemberg, Poland, is a secret formula which may be worth millions of dollars, but in spite of his valuable knowledge he is living on the edge of destitution because of a recent judicial decision restraining him from imparting his secret to anyone, selling it or sailing for Europe, where he might dispose of it.

His secret is a simple formula for a brown liquid which fuel experts of Europe and America say would revolutionize the coal and lumber industry and solve the problem of the world's dwindling supply of coal and wood. But Supreme Court Justice McGoldrick has sealed Weber's lips and in the accompanying proceedings has brought to light a remarkable story of a genius whose eccentricity has kept him in poverty, ruined the man who undertook to help him and may yet keep his epoch-making formula a useless secret forever.

The story starts at Lemberg, Poland, during the war. There one Isadore Thornschein, a man of some substance and influence, became friendly with the chemist, Heinrich Weber. It was Thornschein who saved Weber from military service during the great war, making it possible for him to continue research which led to his discovery of the formula. Thornschein also contributed liberally to Weber's support, and in return Weber agreed to give him a share in the profits of the formula when it was marketed.

By July, 1927, the formula had been perfected and Weber and Thornschein were prepared to take steps to profit from it. Thornschein, though once a man of wealth, had as a result of the war lost everything, and it now devolved upon him to go in search of capital with which to exploit his friend's discovery. He decided to go into Germany to consult coal barons about the invention. Accordingly, he stopped in at the photograph gallery of one Joseph Broder in Lemberg to have a passport photograph made. Thornschein was acquainted with Broder, and happened to mention to him the fact that his friend the chemist had succeeded in discovering a liquid which, when applied to coal dust, bound it together into briquettes which could be manufactured more cheaply than coal could be mined and which were even more efficient as fuel. Thornschein went on to say that by using the same formula Weber could make wood out of sawdust and shavings, and marble from marble dust.

BRODER was much impressed. "But why do you go to Germany with a discovery like that?" he asked. "America is the place for it and there you will be sure to make a fortune."

"Of course," Thornschein agreed, "but we don't know anyone in America. It is much further than Germany and it is an expensive trip."

"America is the place," Broder persisted. "And my brother-in-law there is the man to handle it for you. He has some capital and he knows the big business interests there. You get in touch with Moses Rosenwald and he will handle it for you. You will be rich."

Thornschein knew Rosenwald, for he, too, had formerly been a wealthy resident of Lemberg. The war had also ruined him, but he had emigrated to New York, and although a man of 60, had got on his feet again in the insurance business and was reputed to be doing very well in his new home. On the strength of Broder's persuasions Thornschein abandoned his trip to Germany and immediately began a series of long, glowing letters to Rosenwald, in which he told of his acquaintance with Weber, well-known chemist and engineer, and of the marvelous formula awaiting conversion into a fortune. It was a formula, Thornschein made it plain, that would revolutionize the coal and lumber business and the only thing needed was capital with which to exploit it, and that was why he was writing to Rosenwald.

UPON receipt of these letters Rosenwald communicated with relatives in Poland and asked them to investigate Weber's professional standing. And they in turn reported that Weber's briquette invention had aroused the interest of the great banking houses of Rothschild and Hohenlohe and of the German and Polish Governments.

Rosenwald immediately sailed for Europe and in September, 1927, met Weber and Thornschein in Lemberg. Weber then explained that his artificial briquettes could be made out of coal dust, cold water and a very cheap binding fluid, the formula for which he had discovered, but which, however, he would not disclose. He said that the cost of manufacturing such briquettes in the United States would hardly exceed $1 a ton, and that they were a better fuel than coal because they were consumed entirely, burning to a fine powder, and not to large, lumpy cinders. They were far superior to the briquettes already on the market, which were made of pitch and tar, giving off considerable odor and gaseous smoke and which were almost equal in cost to mined coal.

Isadore Thornschein.

Weber then gave Rosenwald power of attorney and a number of sample briquettes which had been made with his formula, and Rosenwald returned to the United States to interest capital in the invention.

Rosenwald went to officials of the Lehigh Valley Navigation and Coal Company, the largest coal producers in the United States. He showed Vice President Becker the samples and explained the situation to him. Becker was impressed. He said that if Weber would patent the formula, the Lehigh company would be willing to furnish the capital to exploit it. He said that it was a very important discovery, because coal at the mines cost about $9.75 a ton, and existing briquettes almost as much, and Weber's cheaper and more efficient product costing about one-tenth as much would revolutionize the industry.

The Prospect Coal Company, another large American producer, was likewise greatly interested when they saw the samples Rosenwald showed them. Rosenwald then got officials of that company to send a letter to the United States Consul at Warsaw which resulted in a special visa to exempt Weber and Thornschein from immigration restrictions and to permit them to enter the United States as inventors.

The following January Rosenwald again went to Poland and there had a conference with Weber and Thornschein. They drew up an agreement. Rosenwald was to bring them to the United States and to pay all their living and traveling expenses. He also agreed to raise the necessary capital to exploit the discovery within a year, and if at the end of that time he had failed, he was to be granted a six-months extension. In return Weber agreed to give him a 17½ per cent interest in the profits, the same share that Weber had agreed to give Thornschein for the important services he had already rendered. And it was likewise agreed that Weber was to cooperate with Rosenwald and do everything reasonable to help him convert the formula into a marketable product. When the agreement was signed, Rosenwald gave Weber $3000 and Thornschein $800 to provide them with funds, and in the summer of 1928 they sailed for America. Rosenwald also gave the necessary bond for them when they arrived at Ellis Island and the three men entered the country where abundant wealth was waiting for them.

The first conference was with the Prospect Coal Company, which had obtained the admission of Weber and Thornschein into the country. Officials of the company undertook to erect a factory and to provide all living expenses of Rosenwald, Weber and Thornschein until the business was established, in return for a 25 per cent interest. But Weber, in return, they insisted, must protect them by having his formula patented. Weber and his partners took the proposition under advisement, and, at Weber's insistence, decided that they ought to talk business with the Lehigh Valley company to see what sort of offer they would make.

The Lehigh officials said that they were very interested in the discovery and were willing to exploit it, with liberal terms for Weber, but first he must demonstrate the truth of his assertions. They offered him the exclusive use of one of their laboratories, guaranteed him all the privacy he wanted, and asked him to make up several hundred of the briquettes for test purposes. If he could, as he had claimed, make them out of cold water, coal dust and his own secret binding liquid, they would have him patent his formula and then he could dictate his own terms.

IT WAS at this time that Weber first showed his almost pathological distrust of other persons' honesty and his fear, which apparently amounts to an obsession, that he will be defrauded out of his rights. He immediately expressed the conviction that the company wanted the sample bricks to analyze them to obtain his formula and then manufacture them without paying him anything. He said he would make them all the samples they wanted and also have his formula patented, if the company would first pay him $200,000. The company, of course, refused, and now, convinced that his suspicions were justified, Weber refused to have anything more to do with the Lehigh people, in spite of Rosenwald's efforts to persuade him that the company was acting in perfectly good faith. No, Weber would hear no more of it. He was convinced that plans were afoot to pirate his formula.

Next Rosenwald arranged a meeting with the Susquehanna Coal Company and they, too, were eager to exploit the discovery. They offered to put up a factory and to pay Weber a cash bonus, but insisted that he patent his formula first. But by this time Weber's fear of being tricked out of his discovery blinded him to all other considerations. He refused to have his formula patented unless he was first paid several hundred thousand dollars by the company. He was afraid, he said, that the patent would be stolen.

ROSENWALD tried to convince him that there was no danger of that.

"I'll get a reputable lawyer," he said, "and he'll take it to Washington and get it patented for you. That's the regular procedure, and that's the way all patents are obtained. It will be registered, and after that if anyone uses your formula you will be protected."

"Yes," replied Weber, "but what if someone in the patent office telephones some of the coal people as soon as the formula gets there and tells them what it is? I have no influence; the coal companies are rich and powerful. What would happen then?"

In vain Rosenwald tried to convince Weber that his suspicions were unfounded and that no one wanted to steal his formula.

"The coal companies want you to patent it," continued Rosenwald, "simply to make sure that it is patentable, that it doesn't infringe on anyone else's patent, and so they'll be protected when they set out to manufacture the briquettes for you."

But Weber couldn't be talked out of his conviction that a patent was to be applied for so that the formula could be stolen from him before the patent could be granted. Otherwise, he reasoned, why weren't they willing to pay him a substantial sum in advance, if they were acting in good faith?

ROSENWALD'S futile efforts to convince Weber of the honesty of the coal producers had an unexpected result. Weber now began to get suspicious that Rosenwald was actually acting in collusion with them and against him! That suspicion soon grew into a certainty. When, after conferences with other coal producers and capitalists, Weber still refused to do a thing until $200,000 had been paid to him, Rosenwald told him he was acting unreasonably. There was a quarrel. Weber then announced that he had decided not to come to any agreement with any company, but instead would wait until Rosenwald's contract with him expired. Rosenwald would then have no more claims on him and Weber would then go ahead and do what he wanted with his formula and would have to pay nothing to Rosenwald. Weber and Thornschein, who had been living at Rosenwald's home ever since coming to America, and at Rosenwald's expense, then moved out.

Rosenwald's situation was desperate. His year-and-a-half contract with Weber was almost up, and he had, of course, failed to raise the capital, although, to be sure, Weber's unreasonable suspicions were responsible for that. Furthermore, Rosenwald had put up a second bond at Ellis Island for an extension of time allowed the two visitors in this country. That time would soon expire and there would be nothing to prevent Weber and Thornschein from returning to Europe and making from there whatever arrangements they wanted for the disposal of the formula. Rosenwald had spent about $10,000 in trying to help Weber, had given up an insurance business that paid him between five and ten thousand dollars a year, and had devoted two years to the project. He had spent everything he possessed and was now reduced to dependence on relatives, and his efforts to help Weber had simply resulted in the latter's conviction that Rosenwald was engaged in a plot with the coal barons to defraud him!

IN THIS desperate situation Rosenwald went to a lawyer, who in turn appeared before the New York Supreme Court and obtained an injunction against Weber, preventing him from selling his formula, divulging it to anyone or from leaving the country. The original agreement between Weber and Rosenwald called for judgment by arbitration in case of disagreement between them. The case will come up for arbitration in a New York court some time this spring, but since Weber's leave in this country would have expired by then, the injunction will insure his presence in court.

Whether or not the ultimate arbitrators will be able to convince Weber that his suspicions of Rosenwald, the coal companies and the patent office are unfounded, remains to be seen. And if they fail to convince him of that, there is no known legal method of compelling him to divulge his formula if he chooses not to.

And in the meantime, the formula which experts believe will revolutionize the coal and lumber industries and should be worth millions of dollars has proved itself a particularly burdensome boon to the three men most interested in it. Instead of wealth, it has brought poverty to them all.

INTERESTING ST. LOUISANS

Judge Charles B. Faris

A NEW FEATURE OF THE POST-DISPATCH SUNDAY MAGAZINE

The Perpetual Student of the Law Who Never Allows a Case to Go to the Jury With the Issue Clouded.

By GUY FORSHEY
Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

YOU'D think he was asleep, sitting there behind the bench with his eyes squinted shut. You'd wager that not one word of the testimony was registering on his judicial mind. From the sour expression on his face you might suspect he was dreaming that somebody had broken the lock on his boathouse and was tampering with that motor launch up at Stone Lake, Wisconsin. Anyway, you wouldn't suppose he had heard that last question put to the witness on the stand.

But the attorney sitting there at the counsel's table has heard it. You know that right off. He is a wide-awake fellow who gives you the impression of being very much on the job. Alertly he rises and begins the familiar protest.

"Your Honor, I ob——"

"Sustained," interposes the Judge calmly, and the wide-awake attorney looks a bit startled and sits down. He was primed for an argument and would have been quite ready and willing to explain to the Judge why that question wasn't permissible.

The Judge beat him to that one, you muse. It really looked as if the Judge had been waiting for him to catch up.

The case goes on. Pretty soon another attorney gets up and with elaborate preamble starts to point out to the Court that there is an obscure Federal statute which says so and so.

"Yes, yes," the Judge breaks in with a little impatience. "That is in Section 219 of the Federal Code, but the Supreme Court, in the case of Brown vs. Jones, ruled thus and so. I believe you will find it on page 161 of 256 Federal Reporter."

Such occurrences are characteristic. If you stay long in the court of Federal Judge Charles B. Faris you are more than likely to make a few salient observations, to-wit: that the Judge is always one jump and sometimes two or three ahead of any lawyer who comes before him; that he is never more assiduously on the job than when he appears to be napping; that his memory is extraordinary; that he is able to dissect and analyze a legal point in the twinkling of an eye, and that a case is never permitted to go to the jury with the issue clouded.

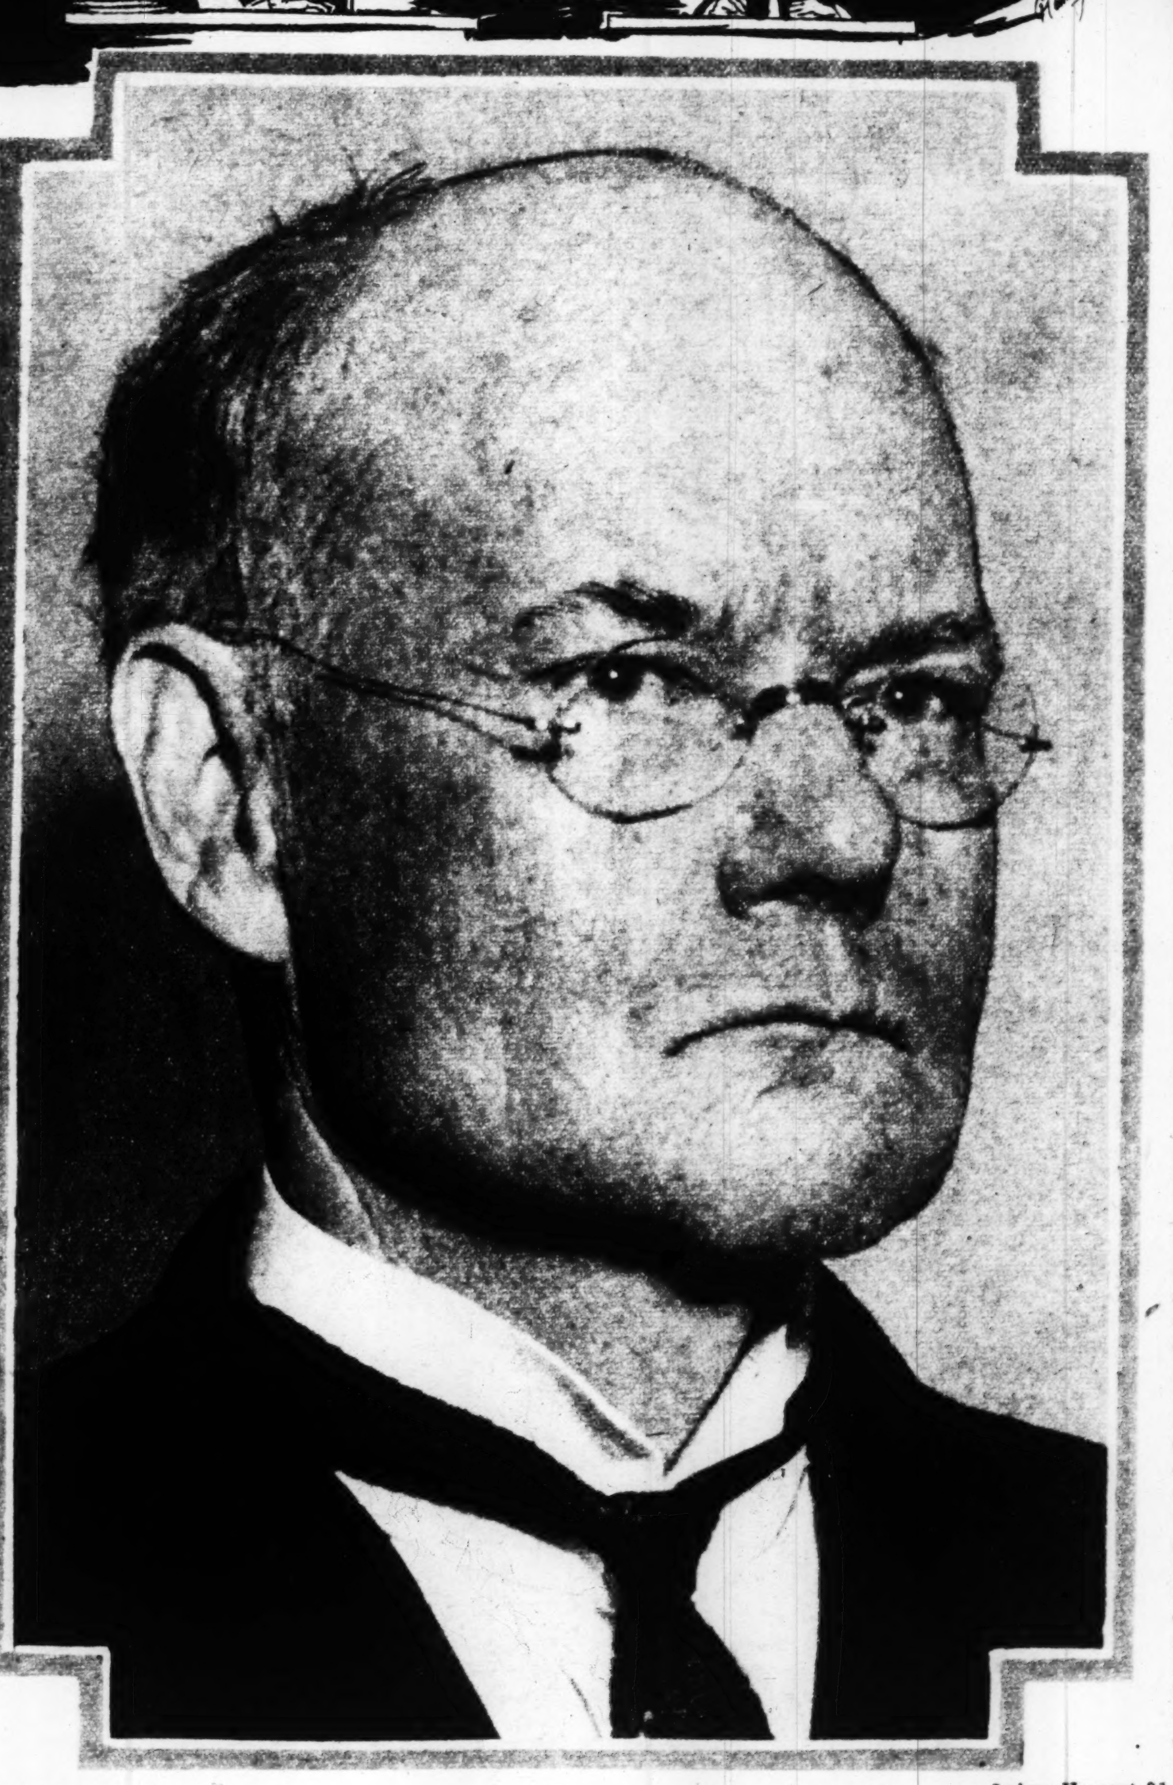
HIS habit of beating a lawyer to a disputable point and being ready with a ruling when, and if, the lawyer catches up is a courtroom characteristic of his that is frequently remarked upon. When, as sometimes happens, the lawyer doesn't catch up at all, the Judge squirms uncomfortably in his chair, clears his throat or gets up and paces back and forth behind the bench. A sharp-witted lawyer himself, and an industrious student, he is visibly nettled by stupidity in another. Concerning most matters, he has the reputation of being one of the most tolerant of men, but unjustified ignorance and particularly ignorance traceable to indolence, is not one of those matters. And it is said to take him three minutes, on the average, to discover whether or not a lawyer has worked on a case.

Frequently when it appears that injustice to a client may result from a lawyer's dullness or inexperience he will take the examination of a witness out of the attorney's hands for a moment and ply the witness with questions himself until the issue has been stripped of irrelevancies and the evidence laid squarely before the jury. Such, in brief, are a few of the conspicuous traits of the senior Judge in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Missouri.

Persons informed on such matters will tell you that this court enjoys high prestige among courts of the land and that this district is more fortunate than the majority of its own citizens suspect. Even among such high and stern tribunals as Federal Courts, justice is merely relative. It is achieved only insofar as the man who sits on the bench is just—and capable. A good judge is not always conspicuous. He is something like good health, which is noticed most when you don't have it. He is expected to be just and capable, and possession of such virtues is taken for granted. So it is with other judicial virtues which, theoretically, are not virtues per se, but rather lack of faults. Counted upon to try cases strictly on their merits, to put aside personal prejudices when justice is at stake, to grant no judicial favors or special privileges, to regard his personal friends and personal enemies as equals before the law, and to refrain from making off with the courthouse steps, a Judge, it may be argued, is entitled to no special citation for measuring up to expectations. But at the same time the practice of measuring up to these ideals has something to do with the widely heard assertion that the Eastern District of Missouri is fortunate in having such a man as Judge Faris on the bench.

It is an easy thing for a Federal Judge to become a tyrant in his court. The setting is eminently fitted for turning a man's head unless he be a man of strong moral fiber. He is appointed for life and is beyond the reach of popular elections. He must answer only to Congress and then only when that body has been aroused to sit as a court of impeachment.

But something besides honesty, industry and the ability to rise above tyranny must also be counted among the qualifications of a Federal Judge. He must be the ablest of lawyers, for his court handles an enormous variety of cases. The scope of law involved is forbiddingly vast for one man to encompass. The law affecting patents and bankruptcy alone is so intricate that many attorneys specialize in these fields and handle cases of no other kind, and yet a Federal Judge must be equipped to try them all and dispose of a few hundred bootleggers and drug peddlers in between.



JUDGE CHARLES B. FARIS.

AS A RESULT of his special knowledge of chemistry and engineering, Judge Faris has found his court in great demand for the trial of patent infringement cases. Many corporations bring their patent suits to St. Louis from distant states for that reason. He has a way of penetrating the formidable phraseology of technical experts, grasping the fundamental issues and dragging them out to public view.

The business of applying himself for weeks at a time to one phase or another of learning, with all the diligence of a student facing final examinations, is declared by his friends to be one of the Judge's most firmly fixed habits. He is a sort of perpetual student. Books are his dissipation. He has in his home an unusually extensive library of classics and is said to read himself to sleep at night with regularity. An intimate acquaintance of the Judge declares he doubts if there is a lawyer anywhere in the United States with a more comprehensive knowledge of sciences, languages and literature than Judge Faris. Years ago he acquired sufficient command of French and German to qualify as an interpreter of those languages in his court and once in a forgery case he qualified as a judge of Hebrew handwriting.

Books really constitute his main diversion but his bent for fishing is not to be overlooked when one speaks of the Judge's dissipations. Every summer finds him at Stone Lake, Wisconsin, in resolute and whole-hearted pursuit of trout and muskellunge and whatever else there is in Stone Lake that will bite at a hook. They say it was he who caught the biggest fish ever taken out of Stone Lake. Even the Judge himself admitted it was a "whopper," which was going pretty far for him, because he is a modest man.

It interrupts the progress of this narrative to state that Judge Faris—Charles Breckenridge Faris — was born. But it is a customary practice and besides it may be listed as one of the early misfortunes which he, like all other great men, has had to overcome. He was born on a farm near Charleston, in Mississippi County, October 3, 1864. That is in the region known as "Swampeast" Missouri, a region famous for its cotton, its drainage projects and the New Madrid earthquake. Young Faris finished high school at Charleston and in further pursuit of education went to the University of Missouri.

His college career was distinguished by two things in particular. One was that he was a campus liberal, a bit precocious in penetrating shams and frauds and given to the habit of speaking his mind. Another was the fact that he was suspended because of this habit a short time before he was to have received his degree. The specific offense for which he was called on the carpet was the issuance of an unauthorized campus publication called the "Bogus Program." The trouble with the "Bogus Program" was that it lampooned certain members of the faculty and student body and told things, generally known as fact, but which didn't look well in print. His degree was withheld for a year or so as a result of the disturbance but eventually was granted. Then in 1922, more than 30 years afterwards, came an interesting commentary on the affair when the University of Missouri conferred on him the honorary degree of LL. D. in recognition of his achievements and the honor he had brought upon the institution.

Faris finished his legal education—or rather, his law course—at Washington University and set himself up in practice at Caruthersville, Pemiscot County, in his home district. One of his earliest cases was a lawsuit in which he represented the Frisco Railroad. It is related that he was jubilant at winning the case and proudly wired to Frisco headquarters in St. Louis: "Justice has been done."

Back came the laconic reply: "Appeal at once."

Two of the lower rungs on the ladder leading to a Federal judgeship commonly are those of City Attorney and Prosecuting Attorney. Faris paused for a time on each of these and was elected to the State Legislature besides. Then he was elected Circuit Judge. When he went into office the court was several hundred cases behind the docket. By disposing of cases at a rate never before attained in his circuit and by holding court 42 weeks out of each year of his two-year term, he managed to overhaul the docket and leave office with a clean slate. Enforcement of the law against carrying concealed weapons was one of his eccentricities during his term as Circuit Judge. He sent 21 men to the penitentiary for this offense within two years. Another eccentricity was his habit of compelling divorce seekers to prove their charges. A quaint fellow was this Caruthersville jurist.

His record on the circuit bench was a dominating factor in his election in 1912 as a Judge of the Missouri Supreme Court. There he continued to command marked attention, not only by reason of his capacity for work and thoroughness, but also by his willingness to depart from precedent if such action seemed necessary in order to effect what he considered to be justice. Two of his decisions in particular were precedent-making. One of the most famous in the history of the Missouri Supreme Court was his decision in the Lumber Trust case in which he levied a fine of $436,000 against lumber companies of the State for violation of the anti-trust laws. It was the heaviest fine ever assessed in the State.

ANOTHER was his invoking of the rule of Res ipsa Loquitur against owners of hotels and lodging houses in cases of personal injury to, or death of, tenants in fires. The rule previously had been invoked in railroad damage suits. In substance, the rule places upon the owner of such property the burden of proof that injury or death of victims in accidents did not result from the owner's neglect or his failure to comply with the law.

The case in which he invoked the rule and thereby set a precedent which frequently has been followed since that time was the outgrowth of a lodging-house fire in Kansas City in which a woman lost her life. Children of this woman filed suit against the owner of the building, charging neglect in that the building was not equipped with fire escapes. They lost the case in the Jackson County Circuit Court, however, on the contention of the defendant that there was nothing to show the woman would have got out alive even had there been fire escapes. In reversing and remanding the case, Judge Faris wrote as follows:

"* * * * We are not able to concur with a view of the law (in those cases where defendant, by actual criminal negligence in failing to comply with simple police regulations devised in consonance with the spirit of humanity, has brought about a holocaust which snuffed out many lives) which in effect, holds it possible for those only to sue who are crippled, but which seals up the facts and the law when the lips of the dead are sealed, that no action may be brought for their death. Such a view penalizes the innocent for the benefit of the guilty. The law ought not to allow the guilty defendant to be the sole financial beneficiary of this woman's horrible death. * * * * "

After reviewing circumstances of the fire and pointing out other cases in which the rule had been invoked, he continued:

"We think these reasons suffice to uphold the rule, but if they do not and if to hold thus makes necessary the creation of a new precedent then we ought, in a case of such crying necessity, to create it. Neither the day for the making of new precedents is past, nor is the field thereof already occupied to exclusion."

IT WAS in the fall of 1919 that Faris resigned from the State Supreme Court and became a Federal Judge upon appointment of President Wilson. He says if his behavior continues good he probably will remain in the post for the rest of his life.

Not often does he submit a written opinion any more. He once explained he abandoned the practice of writing them when he learned that written opinions were being assembled and sold by a publishing house. He said the pressure of business in his court did not permit him to take the time necessary for writing opinions as carefully as they should be written, especially if they were to be published. By submitting oral opinions, he pointed out, he could serve the ends of justice quite as well and save a great deal of the court's time.

In spite of this general policy, however, some famous opinions have come from his pen since he has been on the Federal bench. One of the most notable was that rendered two years ago in the St. Louis & O'Fallon Railroad case. Although this case concerned specifically only an obscure little coal-hauling line nine miles long, it leaped into nation-wide prominence. It was called the "biggest lawsuit in history" because of its acceptance by both the Interstate Commerce Commission and the railroads of the country as a test of the principles and methods to be employed in the valuation of all railroads, both for the purpose of rate-making and for the recapture by the Federal Government of one-half of excess earnings above 6 per cent.

The case was heard by a special court of three Federal Judges, comprising Judge Kimbrough Stone and Judge Arba S. Van Valkenburgh of the United States Court of Appeals and District Judge Faris. The special court rendered a decision upholding the Interstate Commerce Commission, the opinion being written by Judge Stone and concurred in by the others. The special court did not find it necessary to go into the moot question of valuation to decide the specific point at issue. However, Judge Faris wrote a separate opinion in which he went above and beyond the findings of the special court and delved exhaustively into valuation methods.

After pointing out that the Supreme Court had never laid down a rule for arriving at valuation, Judge Faris himself wrote a formula. While the whole subject of valuation is very technical, it may be said briefly that his formula provided two things: first

NEW YORK.

COLONEL CHARLES A. LINDBERGH, the world's most famous aviator, has gone in for teaching flying in a serious way, and though his class is a very exclusive one, being limited, in fact, to one pupil, the results have been so satisfactory as to prove beyond a doubt that Lindbergh can preach what he practices, and every bit as well.

The fact that his star and only pupil happens to be his wife, Anne Morrow Lindbergh, merely serves to enlarge the proportions of his accomplishment. Not that Mrs. Lindbergh was a difficult student. Quite the opposite was the case. But when one recalls how few women are able to learn such a simple thing as driving an automobile from their husbands, with whom they are in other matters (with the possible exception of bridge) able to get along perfectly, one begins to suspect that as a teacher Lindbergh must have had unusual tact and patience. Indeed, not only did Lindbergh's instructions enable his wife to win her airplane pilot's license last August, but the course was apparently so satisfactory to both teacher and pupil that it was continued, and only last January Mrs. Lindbergh was able to obtain an advanced degree in the form of a first-class pilot's license for gliders.

JUST when Mrs. Lindbergh received her first lesson in flying from her celebrated husband is a matter of some conjecture. That she took her first solo flight at Hicksville, Long Island, on August 23, is a fact that was then regarded of sufficient interest to be announced on the first page of most newspapers. As far back as last March it was rumored that Lindbergh was instructing his future wife. At that time Lindbergh was visiting Ambassador Morrow at Mexico City, and on several occasions went aloft in a dual-control plane with his fiancee. Observers came to the conclusion that Lindbergh was giving her lessons. They pointed out at the time that the flying which Miss Morrow had been doing with her future husband bore many resemblances to ordinary student flying. Just what these resemblances were none of the self-styled experts mentioned, nor were they detailed in the news reports that came up to this country from Mexico City at the time. When questioned, the young couple would neither deny nor affirm the rumors, and, as far as Anne Morrow's ability to fly an airplane was concerned, the matter of necessity rested there.

Then early one August morning an airplane landed on the private field of the Long Island Aviation Country Club near Hicksville. It is an exclusive club whose members are selected from the social register and who, it follows, are very particular about who makes use of the lovely green turf that covers their landing field.

Accordingly, when Major Gillis, formerly an officer of the Royal Air Force and now steward and instructor at the club, was rudely awakened by the sound of the airplane's motor and saw that it was not yet 7 o'clock, he promptly came to the conclusion that it would be very unlike any member of the club to be engaged in such strenuous exercises at that hour, and that therefore the person who was blandly practicing landing on the club's expensive turf was an interloper and a trespasser.

ABANDONING hope of any more sleep with the roar of a motor so near, Major Gillis hastily dressed and appeared in front of the clubhouse to investigate. Just at that moment the plane made another landing and taxied to a standstill some distance away. It was a dual-controlled Curtiss-Fledgling plane, of a type frequently used for instruction. It contained two occupants. When the plane stopped one of the occupants climbed out of his seat and could be seen speaking to his companion. Major Gillis shouted to them, but with the propeller at their elbow, he made, of course, no impression. Then he began to wave his arms energetically, signaling as courteously as was possible under the circumstances for the trespassers to be gone. The aviator who had climbed out of his seat suddenly observed the Major. He waved back, got into his seat again and the plane took off.

But just as the Major was about to re-enter the clubhouse, to his annoyance and in spite of his gestures the plane blandly settled on the field again for another landing! Major Gillis dashed across the field toward the plane, determined to convey his meaning in a form that wouldn't be open to misinterpretation. But his remonstrance was never uttered, for as he neared the plane he suddenly recognized that its occupants were not only members of the club, but the most famous couple on the roster. They were Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh, and, as the Colonel smilingly informed Major Gillis, he was teaching his wife how to fly. They had driven out that morning from New York to Roosevelt Field, whence they had flown to the club to insure privacy and to practice landing on the excellent field provided.

Two days later, on Monday morning, at about the same hour, there was again the roar of an airplane landing and taking off and landing again on the field of the club near Hicksville. This time Major Gillis merely smiled to himself as he realized there would be no more sleep. He got up and got dressed. As he entered the lounge of the club a member who had been spending the night there suddenly thrust his head from a door. He was obviously quite annoyed at having been so rudely awakened.

"Who the devil can that be," he asked of Major Gillis, "flying around here at this hour? How can anybody sleep with all that going on? Who is it, do you know?"

"I do," said Gillis. "It happens to be Colonel Lindbergh, and he's teaching Mrs. Lindbergh to fly."

"Oh, you don't say!" exclaimed the other chap, suddenly forgetting his wrath. "Teaching her how to fly, eh? How interesting. I think I'll have to look at that myself."

And with the same air of eager curiosity characteristic of a youngster about to watch Babe Ruth practice batting, the erstwhile disgruntled one hastened back to his room to get dressed.

There followed several hours of practice with Mrs. Lindbergh at the controls. The plane would take off, circle several hundred feet above the field and then land. After each landing Lindbergh would climb out of his seat and speak to his wife for a minute or two, telling her just what was good and bad about the manner in which she had handled the ship, and then they would go at it again. After several hours of this they called it a day and flew the plane back to Roosevelt Field.

The Lindberghs were so pleased at the privacy and quiet of the Country Club, as compared with Roosevelt Field, that they decided to complete the course there. They could spend the night at the club, and thus save themselves an hour's drive from the city each morning. The club also owned a Curtiss-Fledgling dual-control ship which could be rented by members for $20 an hour.

ACCORDINGLY, on the night of August 19, the Lindberghs drove from their apartment in New York out to Hicksville, traveling in the Colonel's sedan.

The next morning, Tuesday, they were up around 8 o'clock, breakfasted in the club's little colonial dining room, and at 9 o'clock went out to the hangar and climbed into the Fledgling, this one being a brilliantly colored ship with orange fuselage and yellow wings. For an hour Mrs. Lindbergh practiced taking off and landing, with Lindbergh climbing out of his seat to talk to her after each landing. After the lesson they drove away.

That night before bedtime they returned again to the club, and the next morning were in the plane at 8:45. The routine was repeated, only this time it lasted until 12:45, a matter of four hours, which, as any aviator will tell you, is an exceptionally long period of instruction, most lessons lasting about thirty minutes. Mrs. Lindbergh, although tired at the end of the morning, wasn't exhausted, nor did she seem to feel that she was being subjected to a severe strain. When the matter was mentioned to Lindbergh he said that he believed the reason why most flying lessons lasted but a half-hour wasn't because of the strain on the student, but because teachers had so many students they usually couldn't give any one of them more time. Many flyers, however, believe that any lesson that lasts longer than between one and two hours is apt to prove a strain, particularly in the case of a woman.

Nevertheless, Mrs. Lindbergh didn't feel that she was being roughly handled, and the next day they were again in the Fledgling at 8:50 for a lesson that lasted two hours and fifteen minutes.

That night they spent in New York City, but next morning they were at the club in time for breakfast at 8:30. After breakfast Lindbergh talked over the telephone to someone in Washington, D. C., and a few minutes later he and his wife were on the field.

FOR about an hour they flew around in the Fledgling, landing repeatedly and taking off. After one of these landings by the pupil the teacher was seen climbing out of the plane. He spoke a few words to his pupil and she was off in a roar across the field, picking up speed rapidly. The Fledgling rose easily as the fledgling flyer "gave her the gun" and pulled back the stick. She circled until she attained an altitude of 500 feet and then returned to the ground in an exceptionally good landing.

Lindbergh stood silently watching and when the plane stopped rolling he walked over to the side of the fuselage and spoke a few words. No one knew whether it was encouragement or further fine points in the art of flying, but Mrs. Lindbergh was seen to nod and she was off for the second time. Again she rose easily, climbed to a height of 500 feet, circled several minutes around the field and came down again. Once more she made a perfect "three-point" landing. Again Lindbergh spoke to her and again she was off.

This time she stayed aloft longer, and Lindbergh sat down on the porch of the clubhouse and glanced at a paper, lifting his eyes every few seconds toward the sky. He put aside the paper to watch her make another excellent landing, and this time he climbed into the plane with her and together they were off for a half-hour of practice. Mrs. Lindbergh, although she had previously often handled the stick on rides with her husband, had at last taken her first solo flight.

THE telephone call to Washington was now explained. Lindbergh had telephoned to William MacCracken, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, that Mrs. Lindbergh had taken the required physical examination and had been found fit. As she was about to solo in a registered plane, and as such a plane can be operated only by persons duly licensed by the Department of Commerce, Lindbergh called MacCracken to request that the necessary papers be prepared. Thus, technically, Mrs. Lindbergh was licensed when she took her first solo flight, although she was not then in possession of the document.

The next morning the Lindberghs spent another hour during which Lindbergh instructed his wife in spins and spirals. In the meantime, however, the newspapers had learned that Mrs. Lindbergh had made her solo flight the previous day, and on the following morning an enterprising newspaper cameraman chartered a plane at Roosevelt Field and flew over to Hicksville to get a few shots. Lindbergh, however, feared that the proximity of the photographer's plane might disconcert his pupil and, rather than risk any accident, brought the course of instruction to an end.

JUST how many hours of actual instruction Mrs. Lindbergh had before she soloed is difficult to estimate. In the club's Fledgling she had but eight hours, but there were also several hours of instruction in the plane previously rented at Roosevelt Field two mornings. Nor should one overlook the fact that in flying so often with Lindbergh, before and after their marriage, she must have acquired considerable knowledge. In fact, it is reasonable to suppose that Mrs. Lindbergh had developed a very acute air sense before she began her lessons. She had accompanied her husband on practically every distance flight he made.

The flying costumes worn by the couple, if not remarkable, were certainly interesting, if only because of their contrast. Lindbergh wore an ordinary gray suit of clothes, sometimes wearing a black aviator's helmet with it. Mrs. Lindbergh, however, was more colorful. She wore tan whipcord riding breeches with black riding boots, a white shirt, necktie, a navy blue leather flying jacket, a blue helmet and brown kid gloves.

On another occasion she was less the well-dressed woman of the air. That was just a short time ago, when she followed close on her husband's heels in flying a glider. Lindbergh won his glider pilot's license, and it wasn't long before Mrs. Lindbergh, attired in a pair of overalls that looked like they had been made for a man of six feet, was after one of her own.

Mrs. Lindbergh's glider was catapulted from Soledad Hill, near San Diego. From this 1000-foot height she floated toward the Pacific Ocean for three minutes. Then she wheeled her glider to the right in a 90-degree bank, again banked 90 degrees, this time to the left, and swooped down for a perfect landing in a field a mile and a half from where she started. She had won her glider pilot's license

LURID LOVES

Little Jaunts in Modern Literature: The Confession Story.

IN MY home town they called me Dazzling Daphne—Daffy for short. I was something like a pageant in grandeur. Every time I waltzed down Main street all business came to an abrupt halt as the merchants and customers piled out of the stores to admire my limpid blue eyes, alluring red lips and fresh young teeth.

I was in charge of the local library. One afternoon an attractive young man came in and I asked him what he was doing there. He said he was trying to start his car on a hill and wanted to know whether we had Wurgle's "History of Philosophy" and Gilp's "Introduction to Civil Law," as he needed something hefty to brace the rear wheels.

I knew that I had met my dream-lover at last. His name was Skoldak Brunkzeewic and he had great, brawny shoulders and long, powerful arms. To my surprise he didn't belong to the all-America team, but toiled and sweated all day in the steel mill. His job was to open the mail, keep the inkwells filled and answer the telephone.

After our marriage, we bought a lovely little dream-cottage next to the quarry on Railroad street. All day and night long freight trains rumbled across our front yard while blast furnaces roared in the back yard and occasionally a flock of fire engines went screaming by from the station house on the lee side of us.

However, I possessed a deep longing for the bustle and confusion of the great city. I had read somewhere that the metropolis was the only place that could provide the proper setting for one's glittering beauty.

"Good news, Daffy," said my husband one evening. "The quarry is extending its property, and if our home is in its way they'll offer us a splendid price for it. I also discovered that the firm has hired an investigator to check up on my character and habits to see if I'm worthy of a promotion. Perhaps they'll send me to the main office in the city. I'm the acknowledged champion of Building D, and it wouldn't surprise me a bit if they made me a vice president."

"Oh, Skoldak!" I cried rapturously. "Now we can pay some of the bills that have been bothering us, and even put a little in the bank each week! Aren't you glad I made you clip that coupon? You must write and thank those Betterself Correspondence School people. Then you might take up the Hawaiian guitar."

"The news of our impending good fortune has spread all over town," continued Skoldak. "I came home today in regal splendor with an entourage of automobile and washing-machine salesmen."

IN THE ensuing few days several incidents occurred that made me banish all thoughts save those of regret for my glorious looks. Being beautiful isn't always as pleasant as some of my readers might think.

My husband had left the car at home for me to clean and I was smacking the upholstery with a baseball bat when a strange man approached me. He was tall, slim and well-dressed, with piercing eyes.

The man watched me silently, and then, after a moment of indecision, stepped forward and said: "Why not get rid of the old ash can?"

I drew in my young breath sharply. Oh, the nerve of the sneak; the bold, unmitigated effrontery of him! What a coward he was to berate my husband in his absence!

"Get out of here!" I cried. "I know men and you can't deceive me with your glib promises. The 'old ash can,' as you say, I love and intend to keep with me forever."

"But, madam," he protested, "surely you don't want a junk-wagon like this for the rest of your life? You're young and beautiful. You require a smart, up-to-date model and here's a splendid opportunity to get one. If you'll only say the word, I'll be more than glad to"——

"How dare you!" I cried, beating him with my small, white fists. "Get out of here instantly or I'll tell my husband. And that can mean but one thing—a cruel death."

The stranger turned pale, clamped on his hat and vaulted over the fence. My face was a sight after this nerve-wracking experience, so I went inside to doll up a bit and then sauntered out to the porch. Oh, horror! A short distance down the street a wretch in a checkered suit and riding trousers was gazing insolently at me through a telescope he had mounted on a tripod. As I caught his eye he had the impudence to wave.

I angrily turned my back and faced the opposite direction, but was shocked to see a second roughly-dressed scoundrel waving to me. I ran into the house and slammed the door. Scalding tears coursed down the delicate contour of my young cheeks. Why couldn't these guys let me alone?

Promptly the next morning the flirts got on the job again. When I answered the door bell a good-looking young fellow in a neat blue suit swept off his hat, sidled up to me and murmured: "Why not get rid of the old washtub?"

I SHUT the door in his face and rushed out to the back yard, where I busied myself removing tin cans from the potato patch. And still those wretches came after me. The next intruder was a nicely-dressed, well-built young fellow, and he was better looking than any of the others.

"Good morning, madam," he began, in a pleasant voice. "No doubt my presence causes you some apprehension, but rest assured I'm here for your own welfare. My name is Robert Twackett and I've come to ask you a few questions about your husband. Does he stay out at night and then come home and spin a lot of phony excuses? Does he ever beat you? Track mud in the house? Leave the telephone off the hook? Let the toast burn when you're out in the kitchen boiling eggs?"

"Skoldak does none of those things, Mr. Twackett," I said with spirit. "He's a model husband and nothing on earth can make me change my love for him. At least, I'm pretty certain."

Mr. Twackett, seemingly undiscouraged, proceeded to ask more questions. As we talked, he absently scribbled in a notebook—probably because he dared not gaze into my devastating eyes. In spite of myself I was conscious of a strange fluttering in my pink little heart. Was it the dawn of a new love—a real love?

"Madam," said Mr. Twackett, closing his notebook, "I'm happy to say that everything's all set. How would you like to live in the city—have a motor car, furs, jewels, all those things that are so dear to the heart of a beautiful woman and form her rightful heritage?" He leaned forward intently.

"I—I don't know, Bobbie," I faltered. "You must give me time to think."

"Certainly, madam," he replied, "but you must make up your mind by tonight. Otherwise the opportunity will be lost forever."

Oh, what a torment raged in my comely head that seemingly interminable afternoon! Throughout the long dreary hours I pitted one against the other. Bobbie was handsome, elegant, refined; he could give me everything and his name didn't sound like stove polish. And wasn't my husband just what my admirers called him—an ash can and an old washtub?

Finally the long shadows fell and I knew the exhausting day had ended. Skoldak came bounding through the kitchen.

"Great news, Daffy!" he shouted. "The firm's investigator reports that I have an excellent character, so they've given me my promotion. It means the city, dear. I've sold our home to the quarry people. And I've bought a new car because the salesman gave me a swell trade-in allowance."

How happy I was that I had decided to remain with my husband! Within an hour we were speeding over the highway in our handsome new car and I was spared the ordeal of crushing Bobbie with my refusal. A tear glistened, star-like, on my long, silky lashes as I thought of the stupid fellow's discomfiture.

A River Combine — Professional

By
Raymond S. Spears

THIS Is One of a Series of Prize Stories, by Celebrated American Authors, Which Is Being Published in the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine.

I DON'T know 'f I eveh told you about Stepping May or not. She came down the river awhile back in a clinker-built skiff. She was so blamed pretty it was a wonder they ever let her come down the banks onto old Mississip' at all; but theh she was, big as life—about 5 foot 7 tall, and her lips straight and resentful, but her eyes twinkling. You see, a lady lots of times keeps her jaw set square when she'd rather be smiling two foot wide. Lots of men can't let a lady grin without thinkin' she's soft on 'em.

The first test I seen of Stepping May was along about Hickman, Kentucky, one of those mean, miserable days when the autumn northers begin to whisper an' growl down out o' the ice cap mountains. Hadn't begun to rain yet, but hit was mean. I was into my green cabin boat which I bought off a feller who built it up the Alleghany in N'York State to trip down to N'Orleans, but found the Ohio so big he never had the grit to see the old Mississip' at all. Theh I was, jes' plumb comfy, an' this blamed gal come along—pretty as a picture, an' jes' about as accommodating.

She hearn my fiddle talking along, so she pulled up an' hailed. I stepped outside, not thinkin' what I was doing, an' course, the minute that wind hit my warm fiddle strings, snap! An' I had two broken.

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" she said, the way a girl does when she knows what she's talking about. "I didn't mean to do that!"

SHE was cold, her cheeks red, an' her hands reddish. You know how a man feels when he knows he ought to ask a lady something, but expects she'll sure miscue 'im. I had a good cabin, warm, two chairs—comfortable! I didn't know what to say, so she said hit herself. If only ladies'd speak first their feelings, hit'd be lots nicer, wouldn't it, for men? Lots an' lots of times a man passes up something he'd like to do, probably he'd oughta do, jes-account of him bein' 'fraid a lady'd be insulted, or like that.

"Mr. Man," she said, her eyes sparkling. "I'm 'most froze to death! Won't yo' let me stand by yo' fire an' warm?"

Why, say, I just told that gal she could have my whole blamed shanty boat if hit'd 'commodate her any. She laughed, and come aboard, dropping a bowline on my bumper cleat, trailing the skiff alongside.

I give her my fiddling chair, but she took t'other one. We sat theh while she warmed her red hands an' I strung up my bow. When I 'gun to play, she turned her head to listen—sharp!

She listened so blamed int'rested I was wondering, for the music was "Caving Bends." Yo' know that piece, which started 'way back yonder, which all the riveh fiddlers has played just natural, till now everybody knows hit? Played right, yo' can hear the water suckling an' sawing along the bend, an' then the lumping-lumping down as the ground falls in, a tree swings out and falls a-splashing, and all good music, which you can dance by.

"Oh, what's that?" she asked.

I knowed right away she wasn't a riveh gal, but like me, from up the banks, though more recent. So I told her "Caving Bends." Then I told her about some more river music: "Cyclone," "Crossing Ripples," "Steamboat," "Spring Birds," "Cold Winds," "Sandbar Whispers"—theh's a lot of those funny musics that jes' imitate the way the old Mississip' sounds one time an' anotheh, which anybody could play if he's good at slidin' notes an' picking an' knows the riveh.

"RIVEH music!" she whispered. "Why—why, I didn't know they had music like that! You know—I dance!"

While I played "Crossing Ripples," she danced, too. Lawse, that gal was steppin'! I jes' looked at her. She was professional, I could see that—but more than professional, too, somehow. She had to 'dapt her stepping to the music, finding which was best, if shuffling and sliding or tap-tap or lifting and floating. Seemed like I played twict as good as I'd eveh played in my life before.

My cabin was six foot four high, an' there was about eight by 10 foot square she could dance in; hit wan't any too much, but she used all the floor an' most of the roof, so to speak. She'd dance a round or two, an' then she'd sit an' ask me questions. That was about the busiest afternoon I remember, and 'fore I knowed hit, night had come, closing down on the riveh like a door, taking me right by surprise!

"Oh, 'it's dark!" she cried, waking up.

I jumped out, give a look around, an' then pulled for the west bank. Lucky hit was the foot of a long bend, an' I anchored in the eddy at the head of the bar—I don't know which bar, either. Somewhere below Putney Bend, anyhow, an' she stood nervous and doubtful as she looked out into that black night.

"We better cook supper," I told her. "You've a tarpaulin so's you can sleep into your skiff?"

"Oh, yes!" she said. "I sleep into it."

I LIGHTED a big, round-burner lamp I had, and we stretched her tarpaulin over the hoops, for it seemed like rain was right theh. We cooked supper on my oil stove, she being mighty good at hot bread, while I ain't no slouch cooking meat. Course, I'm one of those people that always has a plenty to eat on board, even if I am a fiddler. I made good money. I'd come down the rivers just so I wouldn't be pestifered by neighbors and anybody, practising my music all day an' all night, too, 'f I wanted to. We had a regular meal, which she ate of hearty, as I did, both being right hungry after all the work that afternoon—work we loved, but work, at that.

I wondered who this girl was, course. She was brave—Lordy, but it took nerve for her to come down that coiling old running lake if she didn't have to! But she wasn't the kind of a girl anybody asks questions of, free and easy. When she danced she found her skirt too tight, and slipped it off so casual and easy that in trying to run the music right I didn't really notice she was in knickerbockers till afterward. Course, professional people are thataway. In no time we knowed we'd be teaming it.

We both were tired after supper. I stirred up this soft coal I'd found in a tow barge wreck on a sandbar, opening up the front gates in the fireplace stove I had for a heater. She sat into a low rocking chair, and I kittering across from her in an old armchair I'd picked up in a drift pile. I'd relined my shanty cabin with building paper, but some curling wisps of cold circled around from the north wind so the fire felt mighty comfortable.

"How come hit you're a shanty boater?" she asked, quick as that.

COURSE, nobody asks questions like that down the rivers if you ain't off the bank, or one of them writin' fellers or a sneakin' detective. I couldn't answer first off. A man don't tell even a pretty girl some things, and I mout say, specially a pretty girl. I knewed, though, I'd tell her when I'd laid tongue to words quiet enough to use.

"Why," I answered, careless like, after a minute, "I jes' come down. I jes' took my fiddle an' come down—"

"No, you didn't!" She shook her head. "It wa'n't thataway. You know theory. You've taken lessons—real lessons, on the violin. Nobody who hadn't done that could play river music the way you do. Besides, you talk river talk like you learned it in school."

'Taint no use trying to fool some women. I never met one I could fool. That's be'n my experience. Perhaps some'rs there's women I could hoodwink, but they ain't on old Mississip'!

"Course, I'm from up the bank," I admitted. "I just tripped away down same's anybody."

"Same as anybody!" she nodded. "That's so—I came because I couldn't stand bein' a dancing girl in a hick town! And you?"

"Why—why—" You know how a man don't talk of some things when he has to, an' can't get out of it. "I couldn't stand being a fiddler in a hick town, when—when—"

I couldn't say it. Some things hurt too much to say it.

"I know!" she said. "Somebody thought more of good business than of good music?"

"Jes' so!" I told her. "You know some girls, they don't want a fellow, a sweetheart, a husband that don't know nothing but music, sort of no 'count in the chamber of commerce and on Main street."

"Yes, suh!" she nodded. "I'd no right to ask you. I wanted to know. I had to know. I could tell you was white, honest—the way a good man is when he thinks he's lost out. Musicians, artists, writers—big ones, but undiscovered—always feel they're mean an' trifling beside of good money makers. You're thataway!"

I HADN'T never looked at hit before the way she put it. I jes' knowed I had a powerful big ache down around my heart, where I'd felt like a humming bird looking into a big rose in those old days. Yes, suh. Now I saw that girl lookin' into the fire, her eyes full. She had a mighty powerful mouth and jaw, but she hadn't no way of controlling her eyes. They'd twinkle, and they'd fill up, the way they had, feeling sorry for me. I reckon just that one look I had at her face before that fire in the red light—I was obliged to save kerosene, an' she'd turned the light down, knowing it, even if I did have lots to eat on board. You see—well, course a man picks up eats down the rivers—a shoat here, a yearling there; maybe some chicks and so on, besides game, if he's anyways slick and don't givvadamn.

"Prenaux!" she said to me, the first I realized she knew my name. "I was sick of dancing in a hick town. You know those smart city kids, and those big-footed country goofs. They never saw me dance. All they saw was—was legs. So I came down the river! Prob'ly I was a fool, only I wasn't. No, indeed— The first thing, in less'n 10 days I heard your music—"

That's the way we found it down old Mississip'. Lots come down who don't neveh find what they aches for. Men trip down an' down, an' floats, rollin' along the bottom into the Gulf at last. Women is thataway, too—young ones an' old ones. But I knowed a preacher once who'd lost his hold an' a business man who'd mixed in scandal, an' others what tried to lose themselves down the riveh—an' firstest they knowed the gates of happiness spread wide open for them.

Probably we understood each otheh that night as well as eveh we would. There wan't much talkin' an' explainin'. We jes' had hit in ouh hearts. She stepped back, swung the chair clear, an' stepped four five measures without any music but the voices of the riveh dark—which she heard, an' I heard. She opened the bow door, bowed a pretty curtsy to me, an' shut the wind out the cabin. I caught up a lantern to hand to her, but she had one of her own under the skiff tarpaulin hood. Lawse, but that were a cozy eddy that night!

Well, suh, next day we had breakfast together. She read some music I had, all kinds that I'd picked up for my fiddling. Course, when I came on the riveh, if music wasn't classic I sort of despised hit. But I'd been growing careless. I'd took to admiring the music river fiddlers played, some of it awful to listen to, but always, two three measures, perhaps one piece would be right out of the river's heart. I'd learn that piece. I'd maybe have to smooth it up, for my ear, account of somebody not knowing how to run the times together, or maybe breaking the refrains or splitting up the melodies the way mountain fiddlers do.

AN' WHEN we'd settled our breakfasts, resting around, I brought out the old fiddle to tighten up and tune the strings, an' she stepped, exercising to take out the kinks the cold an' sleeping on the bottom of her skiff'd hooked into her knees an' joints. An' her dancin' scales was purtier n' some steppin' of lots of heel-an'-toe folks.

May Gardner was sure wonderful, even in those days, and patient. If some step bothered her, she'd work at it, steady, minutes, hours till she had it to the lift and fall of a ripple, while I played the music she wanted, steady, oveh an' oveh again. I hadn't practiced so much as I'd played. I used to let some hard places go. She made me go at those measures till my fingers and my bow'd walk through them, same as her dancing went through the swing, turn and change, the balance and the mark, the beat and the sway—Lawse, man! Hit wa'n't no work for me, but she'd toil along till she dropped into a chair, plumb wore out.

"Lucien!" she exclaimed, "you're so good to me. You don't know what it means—this chance to practice thisaway!"

You'd think one day was like anotheh, down the reaches and bends. We had to drop down pretty well, account of winter coming on. I remember when the fresh meat was gone and we was down to sowbelly and corn, for I'd neglected providing. We hadn't any money. I was looking along for a flock of shoats on a bar, or maybe a steer caved down at a riveh bank; you know what I mean. I'd be'n on the river so long, staying my appetite thataway, never careless or being caught, that prob'ly I didn't rightly think about hit, the way I should of. I told her I'd have to lift a pig.

"Lucien Prenaux!" she turned on me, hard and set. "You sha'n't!"

We had hit out. She'd rather starve 'n steal, she said, and I hadn't. She had her way. Course, one way it wa'n't none of her business how I found my grub. We weren't nothin' to each other, 'ceptin' we was professional partners. But in a way, we were eatin' together, floatin' down together, an' you mout say, to'ably close together—if we hadn't be'n, her an' my boat tied together, we'd be'n miles apart, cut away by the current. So we jawed two three days, me not graftin' any meat, an' she arguin' there must be some honest way.

Yes, suh! Theh we was, broke. I hadn't a cent. She hadn't any money. She went uptown in Mendova, an' come back smilin'. I was dog-gone hungry, an' she'd lost weight practisin' on an empty stomach. She let her lips smile, when her eyes twinkled to me.

"We get $5 for a turn into Palura's!" she told me.

Course it was her steppin', about four fifty for that, an' fifty cents for me. I'd never had the nerve to play for the public thataway, but she made me. We done a turn that night on Palura's stage. He was a flat-face feller, who'd killed three four men, an' his place was a show for everybody from N'Orleans to St. Louis.

I FELT mighty swell when I sat in the corner, an' she came walkin' down in those white satin knickerbockers she'd put on special. I was jes' in my old pants, for I hadn't any other, an' a woolen shirt. I played for her to come a walking. Lawse! She'd jes' had them old knickers practising. Now she was like a white rose grown up around a pink rose, for she was white an' pink dressed—and step? Seemed just like she'd practised till now she was right.

Yes, suh! She was like a chimney swift flying, like a tall tree leaning before a strong wind, like the running waves on the flowing riveh—she just danced as natural as anything pretty you all eveh saw in motion, and not one step that wasn't beautiful. She danced 14 minutes—that's how long it takes to play "Crossing Ripples" the way I do it, an' she faded out on it the way the riveh

Yes, suh! Those people, up-the-bankers an' steamboaters, didn't make a sound or motion till long afteh I'd took down my fiddle an' was tightening up the E string. Seemed like the best we had to do wa'n't nothing to them. I felt like it wa'n't no use. I wanted to take May in my arms an' tell her we didn't cyar a whoopin' damn what they thought—then—slam!

Yes, suh! Those quality folks, who was spreein' down to Palura's, come down on the floor with both feet, an' split their gloves or stung their palms. I'd be'n afeared maybe Palura'd welch on that five dollars an' we'd be hongry. Instead of that, when we was back in, he come an handed May a twenty-dollar note, an' me the same. Forty dollars. I looked at hit. Seemed like it was a mistake—me, twenty dollars! Just for iddlin' that riveh piece.

Then Palura shoves us out on he stage again. I stood there flustered an' ready to cut an' run. May put her arm around my shoulders.

"Dear old boy! Dear old boy!" he exclaimed. "Let's have that Flying Swans' piece!"

'TAIN'T much of a piece. Watching the black geese, an' whooping cranes, an' brent an' Canadian geese flying by away up in the blue ky, their wings flashing in the unshine, I'd—well, kind of et their motion to music. She lways liked that piece. Course, no man can really set birds a-flyin' to music. Not Chopin, or Beethoven, r Wagner—not anybody. But 'd made kind of a pitiful little tagger at it, which she loved, account of how much she thought of me. You know the way women s—anything somebody they like does is sorta int'restin' to them.

So I played what she said. I couldn't think of nothin' else. So he danced, which took their attention off what I was playing—nd watching her, you know, she arried my music right along! I lmost forgot I was playing. Yes, uh—she flew down the stage like great white swans fly down the ine traveling out of the North, white, strong, shimmering. Lawse! Lawse! Seemed just like those quality folks sporting in Palura's nspired her to dance. An' I felt n ache in my heart, yes, suh!

You know how a man feels about a beautiful woman. He wants her to know how much he admires her. He wants to put at her feet all that he's got, all that he eveh can be in God's world. He'd put down his bleeding heart, with all its aches, for her to walk on; an' the pain of hit 'd be the greatest joy that he'd ever known! All that kind of stuff—you know what I mean. An' he knows he cain't he'p her none. He cain't he'p her no better than he can he'p an oriole to sing, or an American lotus blossom to be lovely. All he can do is jes' wish he mout he'p some. An' then his heart aches, for all he'd like to do—an' afteh all, it's somebody else that can he'p her. Theh those folks was—an' she danced like she'd neveh danced before, for them.

An' afteh hit was all oveh, those quality men came a-walking up, a basic valuation as of the arbitrary date selected by the Commission for its first appraisal of the property after the regulatory law under which the appraisal was made became effective; this appraisal should give due consideration to all elements of value, including "reproduction cost new"; second, once this basic valuation was arrived at, additions should be made only in the sums actually prudently invested in the property thereafter.

THE effect of such a formula would be to give the railroad owners the benefit of the highest reasonable value that could attach to their property as a private business up to the time when the Government, after due notice through legislation, changed the character of the railroad business from private enterprise, entitled to "all the traffic would bear," to that of a quasi-public institution with its rates and profits regulated by law; and, after regulation became effective, to allow profit to be earned on this basic valuation plus only the actual dollars thereafter invested, and at the rates fixed by law.

A year later the Supreme Court reversed the decision of the special Court, but Judge Faris' separate opinion still occupies the status of a classic.

Watching the black geese, an' whooping cranes, an' brent an' Canadian geese flying by away up in the blue sky, their wings flashing in the sunshine, I'd—well, kind of set their motion to music. She always liked that piece. Course, no man can really set birds a-flyin' to music. Not Chopin, or Beethoven, or Wagner—not anybody. But I'd made kind of a pitiful little stagger at it, which she loved, account of how much she thought of me. You know the way women is—anything somebody they like does is sorta int'restin' to them.

So I played what she said. I couldn't think of nothin' else. So she danced, which took their attention off what I was playing—and watching her, you know, she carried my music right along! I almost forgot I was playing. Yes, suh—she flew down the stage like great white swans fly down the line traveling out of the North, white, strong, shimmering. Lawse! Lawse! Seemed just like those quality folks sporting in Palura's inspired her to dance. An' I felt an ache in my heart, yes, suh!

You know how a man feels about a beautiful woman. He wants her to know how much he admires her. He wants to put at her feet all that he's got, all that he eveh can be in God's world. He'd put down his bleeding heart, with all its aches, for her to walk on, an' the pain of hit 'd be the greatest joy that he'd ever known! All that kind of stuff—you know what I mean. An' he knows he cain't he'p her none. He cain't he'p her no better than he can he'p an oriole to sing, or an American lotus blossom to be lovely. All he can do is jes' wish he mout he'p some. An' then his heart aches, for all he'd like to do—an' afteh all, it's somebody else that can he'p her. Theh those folks was—an' she danced like she'd neveh danced before, for them.

An' afteh hit was all oveh, those quality men came a-walking up, a-bowing in their dress suits, an' the women, who'd split their gloves, came up, and account of there bein' such a crowd around May they come to me, to talk, and tell me how nice it all was, May's dancing. And I stood there in those old clothes of mine, feelin' like the shanty-boater I was.

They was one feller there, he come from the op'ry house, an awful swell, dressed right up to the handle. He took May off, by herself, an' she called me in, too. I wondered about that, but seems he wanted her to come up an' dance on his stage, too. Palura he cussed and squabbled around about it, argying. 'Fore we knowed it we had quite a job, May an' me did.

We walked down Ferry street to our boats, which we'd left with Jim Horseshoe, at the landing. She come on board my boat, to warm, for the night was fresh, walking down. She danced; in the cold it chilled her; I hated to think of her going out into that chilly rag shack over her skiff.

"Yo'll catch cold!" I told her. "All het up, thisaway!"

She looked at me, first into one eye, then into the otheh, with both her eyes. By an' by she laughed a low, funny little chuckle.

"You dear boy!" she said, jes' like that. "Just to please you—I'll take your bed tonight!"

So I went out into her skiff, mighty glad she'd have that comfy cabin to sleep in.

Next night we played, regular in the theater. May caught the crowd. They throwed bouquets at her, an' we was called the "River Number," just like that. Her dancing to my music was "wonderful entertainment," they said in the newspapers. In a month we'd saved about six hundred dollars.

I wasn't happy any more. If I'd come off down the rivers, account of my being just a fiddler, and the girl I thought so much of back there shook me for a fellow making twenty dollars a week—she hadn't any voice, she couldn't dance, an' wa'n't nothing but pretty—now I was ready to go back up the bank. The way folks crowded around May, coming back, to see her—and to ask me about her, men an' women!

OH, I KNOWED I loved her! One woman come to me, a swell-looking woman, wearing jewels an' clothes all shimmering and perfume. She told me my music was perfectly wonderful—taffy like that. I knowed what she was driving at. It wa'n't no time when she was asking about May.

"Your wife's a wonderful dancer!" she told me. "How your music does inspire her! It is the most inspiring music I ever heard!"

"My wife?" I looked at her. "Why, lady, that girl wouldn't marry me. I'm jes' a fiddlin' shanty-boater. She's a stepper."

"Not married!" this woman exclaimed. "But—but — oh—yes! I've heard on the river—I suppose she wouldn't— How honorable of you to put it that way!"

She sniffed—at May! Course, I hadn't thought anything before. We were jes' two professional people. There wasn't any real violinist May could find, no real musician, so she'd put up with me. Lots of geniuses is thataway, putting up and getting along with what they have, not complaining of anything.

"Who's that woman you were talking to?" May asked me afterward.

"Why, I don't know—one of those uptown women—"

"Oh—was it?"

I KNOWED right away that May knew I'd blundered, saying something. I hadn't thought anything. Imagine me thinking anything about May! She was awful quiet, along. There was a tall, handsome man come to her with flowers, saying it, as they tell around. I sure despised that up-the-banker. He wa'n't fitting for May. The bestest man in the world wasn't fit for her. He come to me once. He wanted to know if May wasn't my wife? I told him, the same as I would anybody, how it was. We were only professional people.

Those were mighty lonesome days for me. Seemed just like May an' me was being tore apart, stretching the aching strings of my heart. Course, I jes' knowed hit didn't matter to her. She was thinking about her dancing. She was busy having new clothes made and was studying the new life that was opening up to her.

"Lucien!" she told me one day, down on the boat. "Just think—the world wants us!"

"Us!" I laughed, but it hurt. "Hit's you!"

She gave me one of those quick, birdlike looks as though I was plumb ridiculous. I knowed I was, too, or she wouldn't be making fun of me, as if I was much more'n jes' somebody to mark time for her. She could dance to "Patting Juba," making it sound like the "River Voices" when old Joe Parmer plays hit.

I had some jobs fiddling at private houses; ten, twenty, fifty dollars they'd pay me. They paid May five hundred dollars one night to dance at a business men's dinner, on the table. She came down to the boat crying mad. I don't know what happened. She scolded me, rearing right down on me.

"Don't you know what I want?" she told me. "Don't you see what they think? Oh, you poor idiot—have I got to say it?"

"Say what?" I asked; an' then she reared at me. She'd been awful patient with me, one time and another. I couldn't always he'p showin' her what I thought, even if it was insulting for me to love her. I just couldn't bring myse'f to ask her to marry me, account of when you do that to a girl she's always sorry for you, an' she promises to be your sister an' don't know you the next time you meet her.

If I asked her to marry me, course, she'd cut loose, prob'ly go uptown, an' all that'd be left for me would be to trip off down the river, with just her picture on my heart, a picture burned in deep, beautiful, but a scar as big as a Texas brand. I didn't feel like I could ever stand a hurt like that—the hurt of losing her, never seein' May again, nor her dancing, nor her eyes brimming with laughter and sympathy—and her lips that smiled free for me, until she begun to dance, and we needn't to wonder if we'd have enough for breakfast the next morning to eat.

That woman I was telling about come down to the ferry in her automobile one day. May'd gone uptown, so she asked Jim Horseshoe to come up the bayou to bring me down. I come down, course, so she took me with her account of May not being there, she said, my music being good, if there wasn't anybody to dance but her.

SHE was an awful high-toned woman, an' you know she wanted to dance herself, trying the riveh music. So I played for her. Course, if you dance riveh music, you got to know the riveh—know the rocking of the boat in the eddies an' the swing of the current. But this Alice Haven was quite a stepper at that. She said my music just carried her right along. She danced bold, though, not the way May did. Course, she was a good flinger an' had a little kick to her that was graceful—but she didn't have to be professional. She was rich. And when she was tired, she come and laid her head on my shoulder for a breathing spell. That kind of thing neveh made any man feel bad, course. But the way May acted when this Alice Haven brought me back in her car like a cabin boat!

"She's trying to break up our combination!" May said, talking more spiteful than I ever did get to hear her talk before.

I was s'prised. I'd been worrying my heart out, fearin' May'd see how no 'count I was to her, an' be shut of me like I was an old hat. When she talked thataway, letting on she feared we'd break up, my heart jes' grew so big it hurt, like it would burst. May didn't want to lose me! She was so mad at the thought, she lashed me with her tongue, stinging, biting, slighting, scolding words. But, shucks! Theh's no joy so sweet as the raw wounds a woman gives a man, account of her being jealous.

"That woman dancin' to my music!" May scorched me, her face twisting an' her eyes squinting mad. "You fiddlin' for her to dance! That woman!"

I expect some men is so sure an' pop'lar that it don't mean nothin' to them when a woman's jealous on their account. Probably up-the-bankers, swell folks, neveh know what hit is to find out a lady likes them so much she hates anybody else that's friendly.

I COME down on the riveh account of a woman's laugh at my playing music, the best I could do, for her—when she'd been listening to jingling dollars in another man's pocket. Funny, ain't it, how things work out! I've been making more money in a day 'n that feller she jilted me for has evah made in a week.

I was at May's feet. I kissed those pretty silk stockings, between the straps of her slippers. I cried, tears coming down my cheeks—but not on account of being sorry, no indeed! I was happy!

An' I took her hands in mine. I kissed them, grateful as a dog for the friendly pat of his mistress. I'd neveh in God's world deserved any happiness that dancing girl had given me; the rewards of heaven couldn't have tempted me away from what it dawned on me was coming to be mine—account of her jealous of that up-the-bank woman!

Course, d'rectly I was standing up. I was standing in the cabin of my shanty boat, on the floor where Steppin' May'd been practising. An' she was right theh, with my arms around her, an' her face turned up to me.

"May," I said, "yo' don't mean—yo' don't want me to ask yo' to marry yo', do you?"

"Don't I?" she asked awful sarcastic. "What do I want, then?"

I couldn't believe it, even then, an' in my arms, all limp—to have for my own, to kiss those lips, to claim those eyes! Lawse! Lawse! Fiddling Luce come to this down old Mississip'!

I MARRIED her. We cut loose from Mendova, trippin' down. When night come, I couldn't believe hit were so, that she wouldn't, an' I wouldn't either, go out into that skiff alongside, to sleep under the tarpaulin—but this was our cabin, our room, and she'd sit on my lap. Sho! Sho!

Yes, suh! Lots drap down old Mississip', and the farther down they go, the more miserable they are. They'd better quit 'fore they roll out at the Passes. But some—some that hear the music, some that see the flash and spread of the colors, some that listen to the birds and feel the soothing in the sting of the north wind, an' smell the fragrance of the blossoms in the dank of the swamp brakes—they'd sure better keep on trippin' down; yes, indeedy!

I tell yo', if a man can keep step to the song old Mississip' sings, he better not break with it. He'll march into the halls of plumb comfort, if he marks the time, yes, suh. That's my experience. 'Tain't everybody's, but hit's mine. An' May, she says it's her experience, too. We've been far together, New York an' the Coast — Sho! No matter if we's busy—ev'ry wunst in a while we stop off on old Mississip', buy a shanty boat an' trip down. That's what we're doing now. But we don't neveh stop to Mendova any more. May won't let me.

"I ain't going to have that woman—any other woman—steppin' to your music!"

Just like that, and then we both laugh.

Interesting St. Louisans—Judge Charles B. Faris

a basic valuation as of the arbitrary date selected by the Commission for its first appraisal of the property after the regulatory law under which the appraisal was made became effective; this appraisal should give due consideration to all elements of value, including "reproduction cost new"; second, once this basic valuation was arrived at, additions should be made only in the sums actually prudently invested in the property thereafter.

THE effect of such a formula would be to give the railroad owners the benefit of the highest reasonable value that could attach to their property as a private business up to the time when the Government, after due notice through legislation, changed the character of the railroad business from private enterprise, entitled to "all the traffic would bear," to that of a quasi-public institution with its rates and profits regulated by law; and, after regulation became effective, to allow profit to be earned on this basic valuation plus only the actual dollars thereafter invested, and at the rates fixed by law.

A year later the Supreme Court reversed the decision of the special Court, but Judge Faris' separate opinion still occupies the status of a classic.

In his handling of criminal cases, observers will tell you, the Judge displays a frigid determination that the law shall not be flexed. With the guilty—and he usually knows when a man is guilty long before the jury does—he is relentless. Particularly merciless is he with habitual offenders or with offenders who, he thinks, should have known better. But underneath this judicial frigidity, he is found to be human and sympathetic after all. He has become almost as widely known for the homely philosophy which he dispenses from the bench as for his weightier opinions. Frequently such expressions are heard in connection with prohibition cases, for although he deals severely with prohibition violators, he openly deplores the law that makes such action necessary.

"One of the principal troubles with the law," the Judge declared not long ago in passing sentence on a woman, "is that it corrupts men, women and children."

His attitude toward the prohibition law is probably illustrated best by one of his own anecdotes. Quoted as saying he was opposed to prohibition, the Judge took a reporter to task, declaring he hadn't put it just that way.

"If you had said," explained the Judge, "that my position was like that of the lawyer who, upon being asked if he was trying to show his contempt for the court, replied, 'No, Your Honor, I'm trying to conceal it,' you would would have stated my attitude."

With a lively sense of humor and a droll manner of delivery, the Judge holds high rank hereabouts as a story teller, but he steers clear of banquets and, indeed, of all other social festivities. They take up too much time. He is too busy. He explains he has a one-track mind and can't mix business with pleasure.

A perpetually overcrowded docket, rendered so by the interminable flood of prohibition cases, appears to be his sorest grief. Only a very limited number of cases can possibly be tried during a term with but two judges for the district. It is policy, therefore, to induce as many pleas of guilty as possible in prohibition cases to save time for trial of other cases. For this reason, there is a wide difference in the severity of penalties imposed after pleas of guilty and those imposed on offenders convicted by trial. If they insist on standing trial and then are found guilty they fare much worse.

WORKING in this manner, he manages to keep within a year or two of even with the docket, but in no case is haste so pressing as to thwart what he considers a fair trial. Thoroughness, his associates declare, is with him a passion that approximates a religion. The United States District Court, in Judge Faris' opinion, is something more than a tribunal for the punishment of law violators. He regards it as an institution through which American justice, as exemplified by the Supreme Court, makes its direct contact with the people. It is the chief bulwark for the defense of American liberty.

The chart illustrates the proportion of Classified Advertising carried by each of the St. Louis news papers during 1929.

Leadership in CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

IN ST. LOUIS FOR 1929 IS SHOWN AGAIN BY THE POST-DISPATCH WITH A TOTAL OF

4,585,000 Agate Lines

A Gain Over 1928 of 85,860 Lines

The number of lines of Classified "Wants" and Real Estate Advertising carried by St. Louis newspapers during 1929 follows:

Post-Dispatch	4,585,000	lines
The THREE others COMBINED	3,854,400	"
Post-Dispatch excess over all	730,600	"

The Post-Dispatch carried 2,208,100 lines more than its morning competitor and more than three times the volume of the two other St. Louis evening newspapers combined!

....growth that came from more resultful service to both readers and advertisers.

For a quarter of a century the Post-Dispatch has been "the newspaper with the want ads" in St. Louis.

This barometer of newspaper reader-interest placed the Post-Dispatch first in the list of profitable advertising mediums in St. Louis years ago, a position in which it continues its supremacy.

Advertisers recognize through the number of answers they receive the far greater value this newspaper offers with its greater circulation in every district of St. Louis than that of any other St. Louis newspaper.

St. Louisans in all walks of life, like St. Louis merchants, concentrate in the Post-Dispatch for most satisfactory advertising results.

WHAT DO YOU MAKE OF IT, WATSON?—A miracle sir—clearly a miracle. William Gillette, now in his seventy-fourth year, again plays the title role in "Sherlock Holmes," a part he created back in the nineteenth century. He dresses the part today exactly as he did some 30 years ago. Old-timers will recognize the picture above, taken only recently, as one exactly like those used when Conan Doyle's detective was a novelty.

Their gardening secret? VIGORO

LaFayette Roses and Madonna Lilies (below) form an interesting group in the gardens of Elmbrook Farm, the S. M. Lehman Estate at Tarrytown, New York. "Vigoro produces more brilliantly colored flowers—and earlier," writes John W. Dowlen, Supt. "We also use Vigoro exclusively in our vegetable gardens and on our lawns."

At MOUNTAIN LAKE SANCTUARY

The famous "Singing Tower," Edward W. Bok's Mountain Lake Sanctuary, Lake Wales, Fla. Vigoro helped create the setting of unusual beauty. "It gives finer results than any other product with [illegible] hibiscus, plumbago and ferns," writes [illegible] Stabler, Supt. of Landscape. "We are extending its use."

[illegible] warm and vivid. The [illegible] to the right is from the gardens of J. L. Budreau, Savannah, Ga. "I have used Vigoro for some time," he writes. "Results have been very satisfactory."

On the A. K. BOURNE Estate

Gold of sunlight—and the soothing green of velvety lawns. Scene on the A. K. Bourne Estate, Pasadena, Cal. "Vigoro thoroughly solves the plant food problem for us in growing beautiful grass, flowers, trees and shrubbery," says Nicholas Pappas, Gardener. "The best all around plant food I have ever used."

"The finest I've ever had," Mrs. Selene Corlett, Shaker Heights, Ohio, calls these violet pansies. "Vigoro has produced astonishing results in my whole flower garden. It's the best plant food I know."

EVERYWHERE you see Vigoro's results! Richer lawns, leafier shrubs and trees, larger flowers and more of them! Juicier vegetables!

Long known to gardeners has been the need for one complete plant food containing all essentials.

Vigoro is Complete, properly balanced. Clean, odorless. Formulated by Swift & Company experts.

Easy to use! Just read directions; apply evenly; wet down.

Vigoro promotes vigorous growth and resistance to disease. Increases humus. Helps choke out weeds.

Cost? Only 10c to 20c per 100 sq. ft. for healthy grass and flowers, leafy shrubs and trees, succulent vegetables! Your property greatly improved, its value increased.

Vigoro comes in 100, 50, 25 lb. bags; lb. and 12 oz. packages. Get enough for everything you grow.

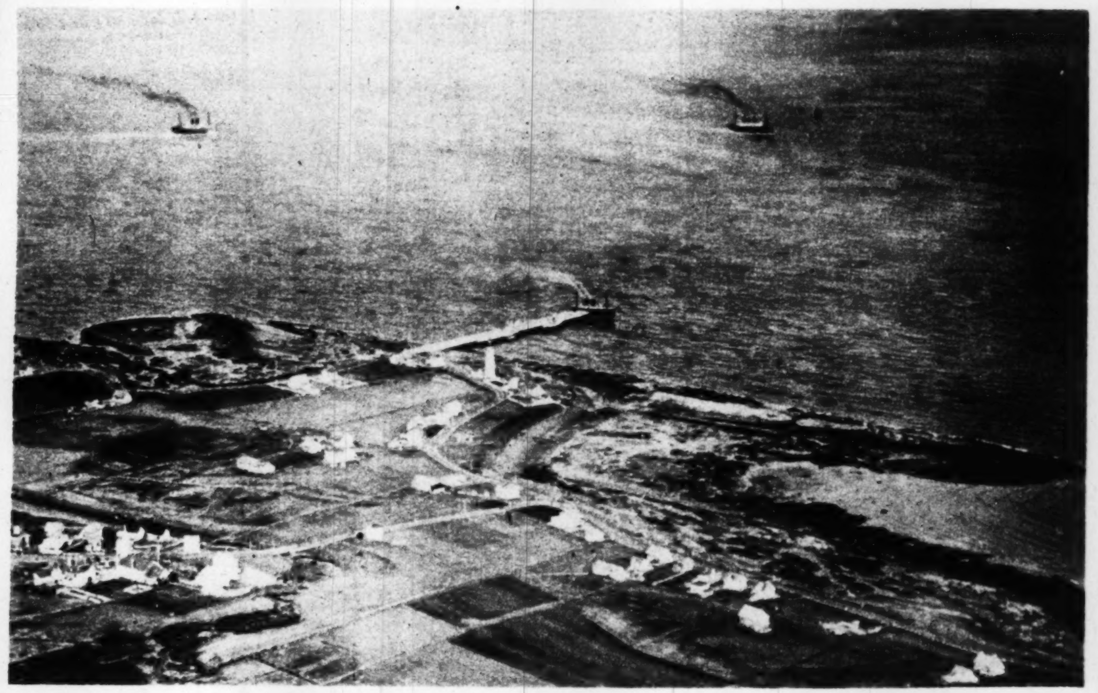
1000 MILES INLAND

. . . where giantess ocean fliers embark for Europe



Father Point, where the St. Lawrence is 20 miles wide © ASSOCIATED SCREEN NEWS, LTD., MONTREAL

DO YOU KNOW THE DRAMATIC ORIGIN OF THIS GREAT SEAWAY?

HOW does it happen that America's second largest seaport lies 1000 miles from the sea? What super-geographer created this mammoth seaway which allows transatlantic greyhounds to sail 2 days within the verdant majesty of a continent?

Ages and ages ago the Atlantic adjusted its boundaries. It thrust out a giant arm. It wedged 1000 miles of its salt water deep and wide into North America. Its avenue-like appearance raised the hopes of early French explorers. They were sure it was the long-sought passage to China. Thus, the St. Lawrence seaway!

Every year, new thousands of enlightened travelers take this giant seaway to Europe on a Canadian Pacific liner. They delight in its widening path to the Atlantic . . . 2 miles, 10, 20 miles across, between 2 magic coast-lines.

Both to port and starboard, Norman-French Canada cries them a 2-day "bon voyage" on the St. Lawrence crossing. Habitant villages, ox-tilled fields, forests, rivers, mountains fill their drowsy deck-chair reverie, while a pink-cheeked cabin boy serves tea.

Then, after only 4 days open ocean, they disembark at Southampton, Cherbourg, Havre, Antwerp, Hamburg, Liverpool, Glasgow, Belfast. They have discovered the St. Lawrence way of going to Europe.

EMPRESS OR DUCHESS . . . CHOICE OF ACCOMMODATIONS

You may have any sort of accommodations you desire on the St. Lawrence seaway to Europe. The great Empresses offer every first-class luxury. The 4 new Duchesses, 20,000 gross-ton sister ships, present the last word in cabin class. You may go popular tourist-third, and third-class, too. There are 3 to 5 sailings every week by Canadian Pacific's fleet of 18 giantesses.

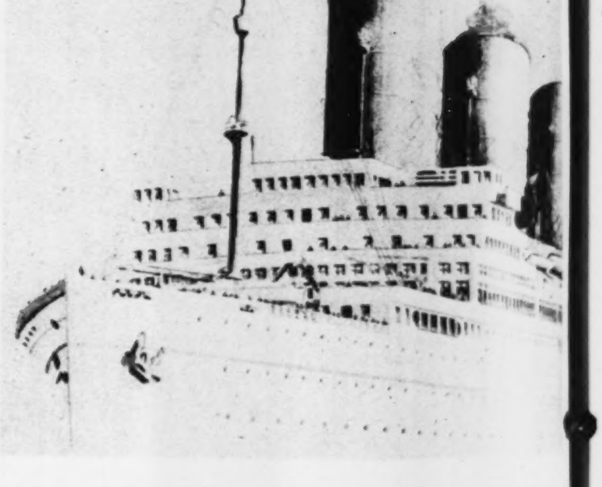
TODAY, 220 ships a month sail up and down the St. Lawrence seaway, full steam ahead. Leaders of these are the 18 luxurious liners of Canadian Pacific's fleet, headed by the famous white Empresses and Duchesses. They make the most direct Atlantic crossing. They sail from Quebec or Montreal, the latter America's second largest seaport, 1000 miles from the sea . . . an overnight jump for 75% of America's population.



AND, in 1931, a giant, new queen of the fleet . . . S. S. Empress of Britain, 40,000 gross tons. Embodying every sea-going luxury, her mammoth white hull will speed from Europe to the heart of America in five days.

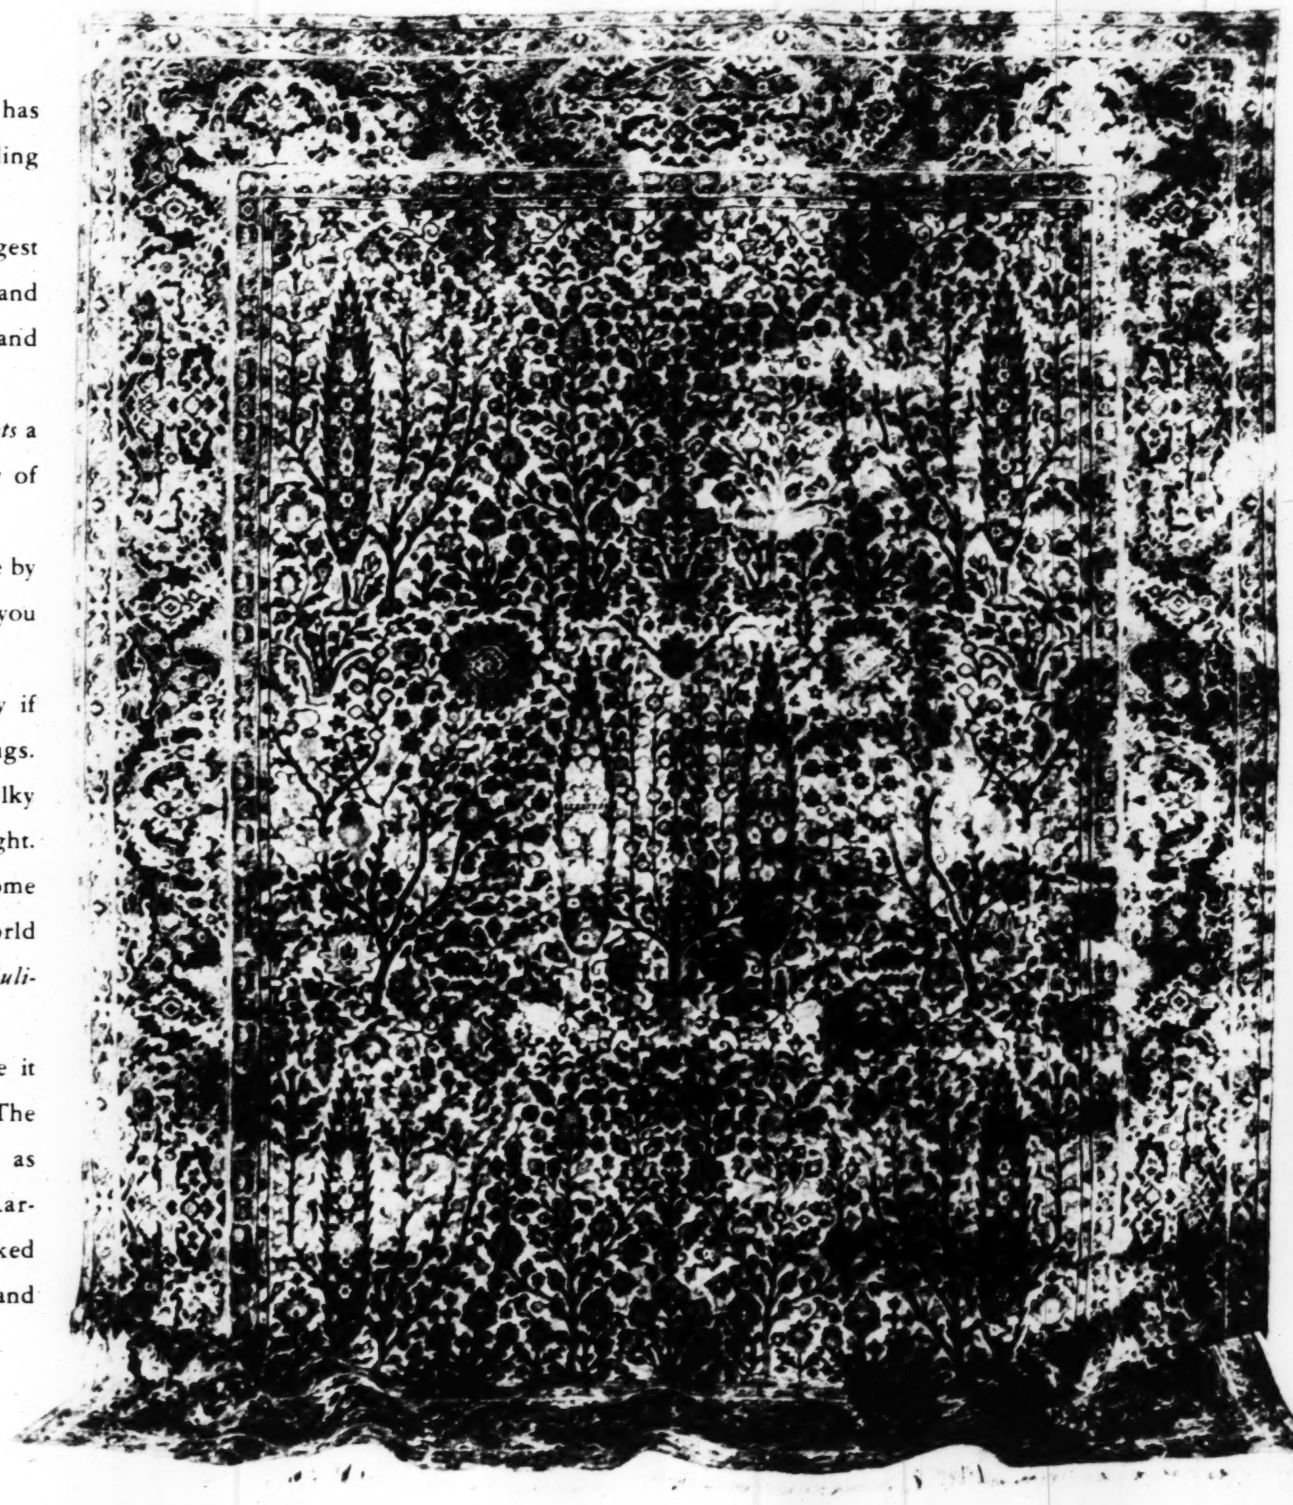
SENSATIONAL NEW RUG
Revolutionizes Values!

$150

At this price you can now buy a 9 x 12 foot American Rug that has the luxurious sheen and beauty of a true Oriental, and which makes over any room into a dream of beauty.



One of the largest manufacturers of fine rugs has developed a New Type of Rug which the leading stores in St. Louis are now exhibiting.

The House of Karagheusian is one of the biggest producers of beautiful Oriental Rugs, designed and woven by their own native craftsmen in Persia and China.

They have now achieved in their American Plants a wonderful Rug with the sheen, lustre and luxury of imported Orientals.

Experts are amazed at the similarity! Placed side by side with thousand-dollar Kashans and Kermans you will be astounded to find exactly the same sheen.

See Gulistan today for the pleasure of it. Buy if you are ready. Bid farewell to flat, dull-looking rugs. Enjoy soft, rich colors, deep, generous pile, silky sheen shimmering and changing tone with the light. The day of longing for Oriental beauty on your home floors is over. You can have it at less than the world ever dreamed of. Your favorite store is showing Gulistan now.

Have a Gulistan sent to your home today. Place it alongside a costly Oriental if you have one. The sheen is the same. All the wools are the same as have been selected for years by the House of Karagheusian for its Oriental rugs. They are picked qualities, especially imported from the Near East and China. More than sixty pounds of the best material in each 9 x 12 ft. Gulistan Rug!

That is why Gulistan is actually superior in wearing quality to many of the popular-priced types of Oriental Rugs. Three Gulistan Rugs were selected for the Model Home organized by the Hartford "Times." More than 83,000 people trod them. This is practically equal to a life-time of ordinary home wear. The rugs were then washed and people judged them to be new.

Gulistan can be obtained as scatter rugs, room sizes, hall runners or stair carpets. All standard sizes from 22½ in. by 36 in. ($10) to 11 ft. 3 in. by 21 ft. ($435).

You make your selection from a thrilling assortment of different designs and color combinations. The rug illustrated on this page is only one of the many priceless Oriental designs owned by museums and millionaires that have been recreated in Gulistan!

Remember—only Karagheusian can produce Gulistan! Look for the silken label illustrated above. It is on the back of every rug and guarantees you are getting GULISTAN!

500 YEAR OLD DESIGN . . . WORTH A FORTUNE
recreated in a Gulistan Rug! See it at your store now!

A carpet that "scholars rate among the first half dozen of ancient carpets now in existence."

So says the Official Handbook of the Pennsylvania Museum of Art, where the original of the Gulistan illustrated above hangs today!

It was woven 88 years before America was discovered, when Tamerlane the Great reached the height of his power in Samarkand! Note the cypress trees, expressing life eternal, which make up the rich field of this rug!

Wealthy collectors have spent fortunes acquiring a rug like this old Persian masterpiece! Museums cherish such rugs as their most priceless possessions.

To have reproduced this famous design in a Gulistan rug, with such amazing fidelity and beauty, represents an outstanding achievement in American loomcraft.

Six different color schemes to harmonize with your interiors. See all six and make your choice. Pattern number is Gulistan 25082.

A Faster Way Found

To Increase Your Child's Weight

A Discovery From Switzerland That May Make Your Child Over—Not a Medicine, But the Most Delicious Food-Drink Known

Please Accept 3-Day Supply to Try

WATCH WEIGHT INCREASE
A POUND A WEEK
NERVOUSNESS DISAPPEAR

THE special test offer made here is to enable mothers to try this new creation from Switzerland before purchasing a regular supply.

New to America, but old to Europe, its use has spread over 54 different nations of the world. Over 20,000 doctors are advising it.

It throws a new light on the problem of the underweight or nervous child. Weight increases of a pound a week are common to it. Nervousness is frequently curbed in a few days.

What It Is

It is a food-drink called Ovaltine—utterly different in formula, taste and effect from any other known. Enticing beyond words to the childish palate, Ovaltine is a scientific food-concentrate not remotely to be confused with powdered cocoa, chocolate, malt or sugar mixtures offered as substitutes.

Ovaltine may make your child over—try it.

Developed 38 years ago by a famous Swiss scientist, Ovaltine contains, in highly concentrated form, virtually every single vital food element necessary to life, including, of course, the Sunshine Vitamin D.

Due to an exclusive process, employed by no other food-drink known, it supplies those vital elements in such easily digested form that a child's system will absorb them even when digestion is impaired.

"Leo Gained a Pound a Week"

"Leo is five years old, a very nervous child, and I was about discouraged trying to get him to drink milk, when I noticed the advertisement of Ovaltine. "It was very easy with the Uncle Wiggily Mug. He quickly finished the three days' trial and we have purchased a large size can. I weigh him each week and he gained a pound a week last month. And his nervousness is decreasing wonderfully."
Mrs. Anthony H. O'Rourke,
37 French Ave., S. Braintree, Mass.

How It Acts

Some of those elements in Ovaltine build bone and muscle. And thus create new strength. Others build firm flesh. And thus constantly increase weight. Others develop nerve poise; for, as weight increases nervousness perceptibly decreases.

Other elements foster richer blood. And thus combat conditions of anemia. All are supplied in scientific ratio to meet the body's needs. That is why results are often so astonishing.*

Digests Starches

Then, too, Ovaltine has high diastatic value. Which means the power of digesting the undigested starches from other foods eaten. Thus, this scientific creation not only furnishes tremendous food energy in itself, but greatly increases the effectiveness of all starch foods your child eats. Such as oatmeal, bread, potatoes, etc., which comprise over half the normal child's daily diet. Consider what this means.

Results will surprise you. Note the difference in your child's weight, in nerve poise, in greater strength and energy. Find out, for your child's sake, what this creation means to you and yours. Give at breakfast, always. Give at meals and between meals. Get Ovaltine at any drug or grocery store or send coupon for 3-day test.

"Gained 5 Pounds in 3 Weeks"

"My boy gained 5 pounds in 3 weeks, after using Ovaltine. When he started in school he was nervous and thin, and played so hard he didn't take time to eat. At night he would toss and roll in his sleep, and sometimes scream.

"Since trying Ovaltine he eats his 3 meals a day, drinking Ovaltine with each meal and also between meals. We see the greatest change in him—he's filling out, sleeps quietly at night, and is no longer a 'nervous' child."
Mrs. R. O. Campbell, 503 N. Grand Ave., Pittsburg, Kansas

(Note)* Thousands of nervous people, men and women, are using Ovaltine to restore vitality when fatigued. During the Great War, it was a standard ration prescribed by the Red Cross as a restorative food for invalid soldiers of all nations.

GEORGE! GEORGE! ARE YOU AWAKE? LISTEN. WHEN I WENT TO GET A DRINK OF WATER AWHILE AGO I NOTICED A LIGHT BURNING NEXTDOOR. I WATCHED IT FOR A LONG TIME. IT'S STILL BURNING.
A LIGHT...... MY WORD! THAT COMIC NEXTDOOR IS TOO TIGHT TO LEAVE A LIGHT BURNING AT NIGHT EVEN BY ACCIDENT.
THERE IT IS. I WATCHED IT FOR HALF AN HOUR. I KNOW THOSE FOLKS ARE NOT AT HOME ALTHOUGH THEY DIDN'T SAY ANYTHING TO US ABOUT GOING OUT.
YES SIR, STILL BURNING. WHAT TIME IS IT NOW? HOW LONG HAVE WE BEEN WATCHING THAT LIGHT? THAT'S SURE A MYSTERY
THERE! WHAT WAS THAT NOISE? I KNOW IT WASN'T MY IMAGINATION. I'VE BEEN HEARING LITTLE THINGS EVER SINCE I NOTICED THE LIGHT.
SH-HH! I HEARD SOMETHING TOO. I WONDER IF IT'S BURGLARS? WHAT COULD THEY GET OVER THERE EXCEPT A HEADACHE? WELL I'LL FIND OUT.
SILENCE......EXCEPT FOR THE BELL RINGING..........AH SOMEONE SNEAKING TOWARD THE DOOR..... AND ME HERE WITH NOTHING TO DEFEND MYSELF.
I RANG THE BELL. THEN I DISTINCTLY HEARD SOMEONE CREEPING TOWARD THE DOOR. IT'S BURGLARS! WHERE'S MY BASEBALL BAT, JO?
OH GEORGE BE CAREFUL. WHEN YOU TIPTOED AWAY FROM THE DOOR IT OPENED A LITTLE AND SOMEONE LOOKED OUT AT YOU
CHIQUITA, JUST AS I LOOKED OUT IN THE HALL BUNGLE SNEAKED AWAY FROM OUR DOOR. THIS, I FEEL, IS THE RESULT OF THE TROUBLE I HAD WITH HIM LAST WINTER OVER USING OUR COAL. IT TOOK HIM A WHOLE YEAR TO THINK OF SOME WAY TO FIX ME.
OH DO BE CAREFUL, BARKER.
SILENCE........NO, I HEAR VOICES...... WHISPERING..........WELL I'LL BE READY FOR THEM THIS TIME.
CHIQUITA, IT'S BUNGLE AGAIN. STANDING AT OUR DOOR WITH A BIG BASEBALL BAT IN HIS HAND AND A FEROCIOUS LOOK ON HIS FACE. WAITING FOR ME TO PUT MY HEAD OUT THE DOOR SO HE COULD BUST ME GOOD.
OH SUCH PEOPLE!
I HEARD FOOTSTEPS AGAIN......SNEAKY...... AND ALSO A WINDOW OPENING.....
HEY!
COME ON, PUT 'EM UP! I'LL TEACH YOU HOW TO GUMSHOE AROUND OTHER PEOPLE'S DOORS AT ALL HOURS OF THE NIGHT. LET'S GO .....MAY THE BEST MAN WIN.
PUT 'EM UP!
WAIT, ONE SECOND. UNTIL I GET THIS SACK OFF MY HEAD.
WHOOIE! EVERY TIME I STARTED TO EXPLAIN HE HIT ME AGAIN. IT WAS TERRIBLE. FINALLY I GOT THE SACK OFF AND THEN HE TRIED TO GET A CHANCE TO EXPLAIN.
SUCH A BUSINESS! AND TO THINK THAT AFTER ALL IT WASN'T A LIGHT WE SAW BURNING, BUT MERELY A REFLECTION OF THE MOON ON THAT WINDOW.

I BOUGHT SOME BLANKS ON WHICH YOU CAN MAKE RECORDS YOURSELF_ALL YOU HAVE TO DO IS PUT THEM IN YOUR TALKING MACHINE AND MAKE A RECORD_LET'S TRY IT_LET'S SING THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER_WE ALL KNOW THAT
OH-H-H SAY CAN YOU SEE-E BY THE DAWN'S EARLY LIGHT_WHAT SO PROUDLY WE HAILED, AT THE TWILIGHT'S LAST GLEAMING
NOW, LET'S TRY IT AND SEE WHAT RESULTS WE GET
OH H SAY CAN YOU SEE_BY THE DAWN'S EARLY LIGHT
ISN'T THAT WONDERFUL? JUST PERFECT_IT'S LOTS OF FUN, TOO
I WOULDN'T PLAY THAT RECORD WE MADE ANYMORE NOW, JUNIOR_THEY WEAR OUT EASILY YOU KNOW
OH-H SAY CAN YOU SEE_BY THE DAWN'S EARLY LIGHT
I WENT OUT AND BOUGHT TWO BLANKS WITH MY OWN MONEY_I'LL MAKE A RECORD ALL BY MYSELF AND PLAY IT ALL I LIKE
MRS KNAPS IS COMING OVER
WHY DIDN'T YOU TELL HER WE WERE GOING OUT?_DO I HAVE TO SIT HERE AND LISTEN TO THAT SCANDALMONGER?_WHEN I LOOK AT HER FACE I GET GOOSE PIMPLES!
STEP RIGHT IN, MRS. KNAPS
WHY, MRS KNAPS, THIS MAKES IT A PERFECT DAY
DO YOU WANT TO HEAR A NEW RECORD I JUST MADE? I DIDN'T HEAR IT MYSELF YET_I LEFT IT GOING ON THE KITCHEN TABLE WHILE I WAS AWAY_LET'S SEE WHAT MAMA WAS SAYING
"I'LL HAVE TO PUT THESE COOKIES SOMEPLACE WHERE THE LITTLE RASCAL WON'T FIND THEM_I'LL PUT THEM IN A JAR AND HIDE THEM IN THE FLOUR BARREL"
THAT'S YOUR VOICE ALL RIGHT, MOTHER_HA-HA-HA!_NOW YOU'LL HAVE TO FIND ANOTHER "PLACE" FOR YOUR COOKIES
WANT TO HEAR ANOTHER ONE?
NO, THAT'S ENOUGH_RUN ALONG AND PLAY
AW, LET HIM PLAY THE OTHER RECORD_WE'RE ENJOYING THEM
"MRS KNAPS IS COMING OVER"----"WHY DIDN'T YOU TELL HER WE WERE GOING OUT?_DO I HAVE TO SIT HERE AND LISTEN TO THAT SCANDALMONGER?_--
"TAKE THAT OFF THIS MINUTE!_DO YOU HEAR ME!_DO YOU WANT A GOOD WHIPPING? TAKE IT OFF!

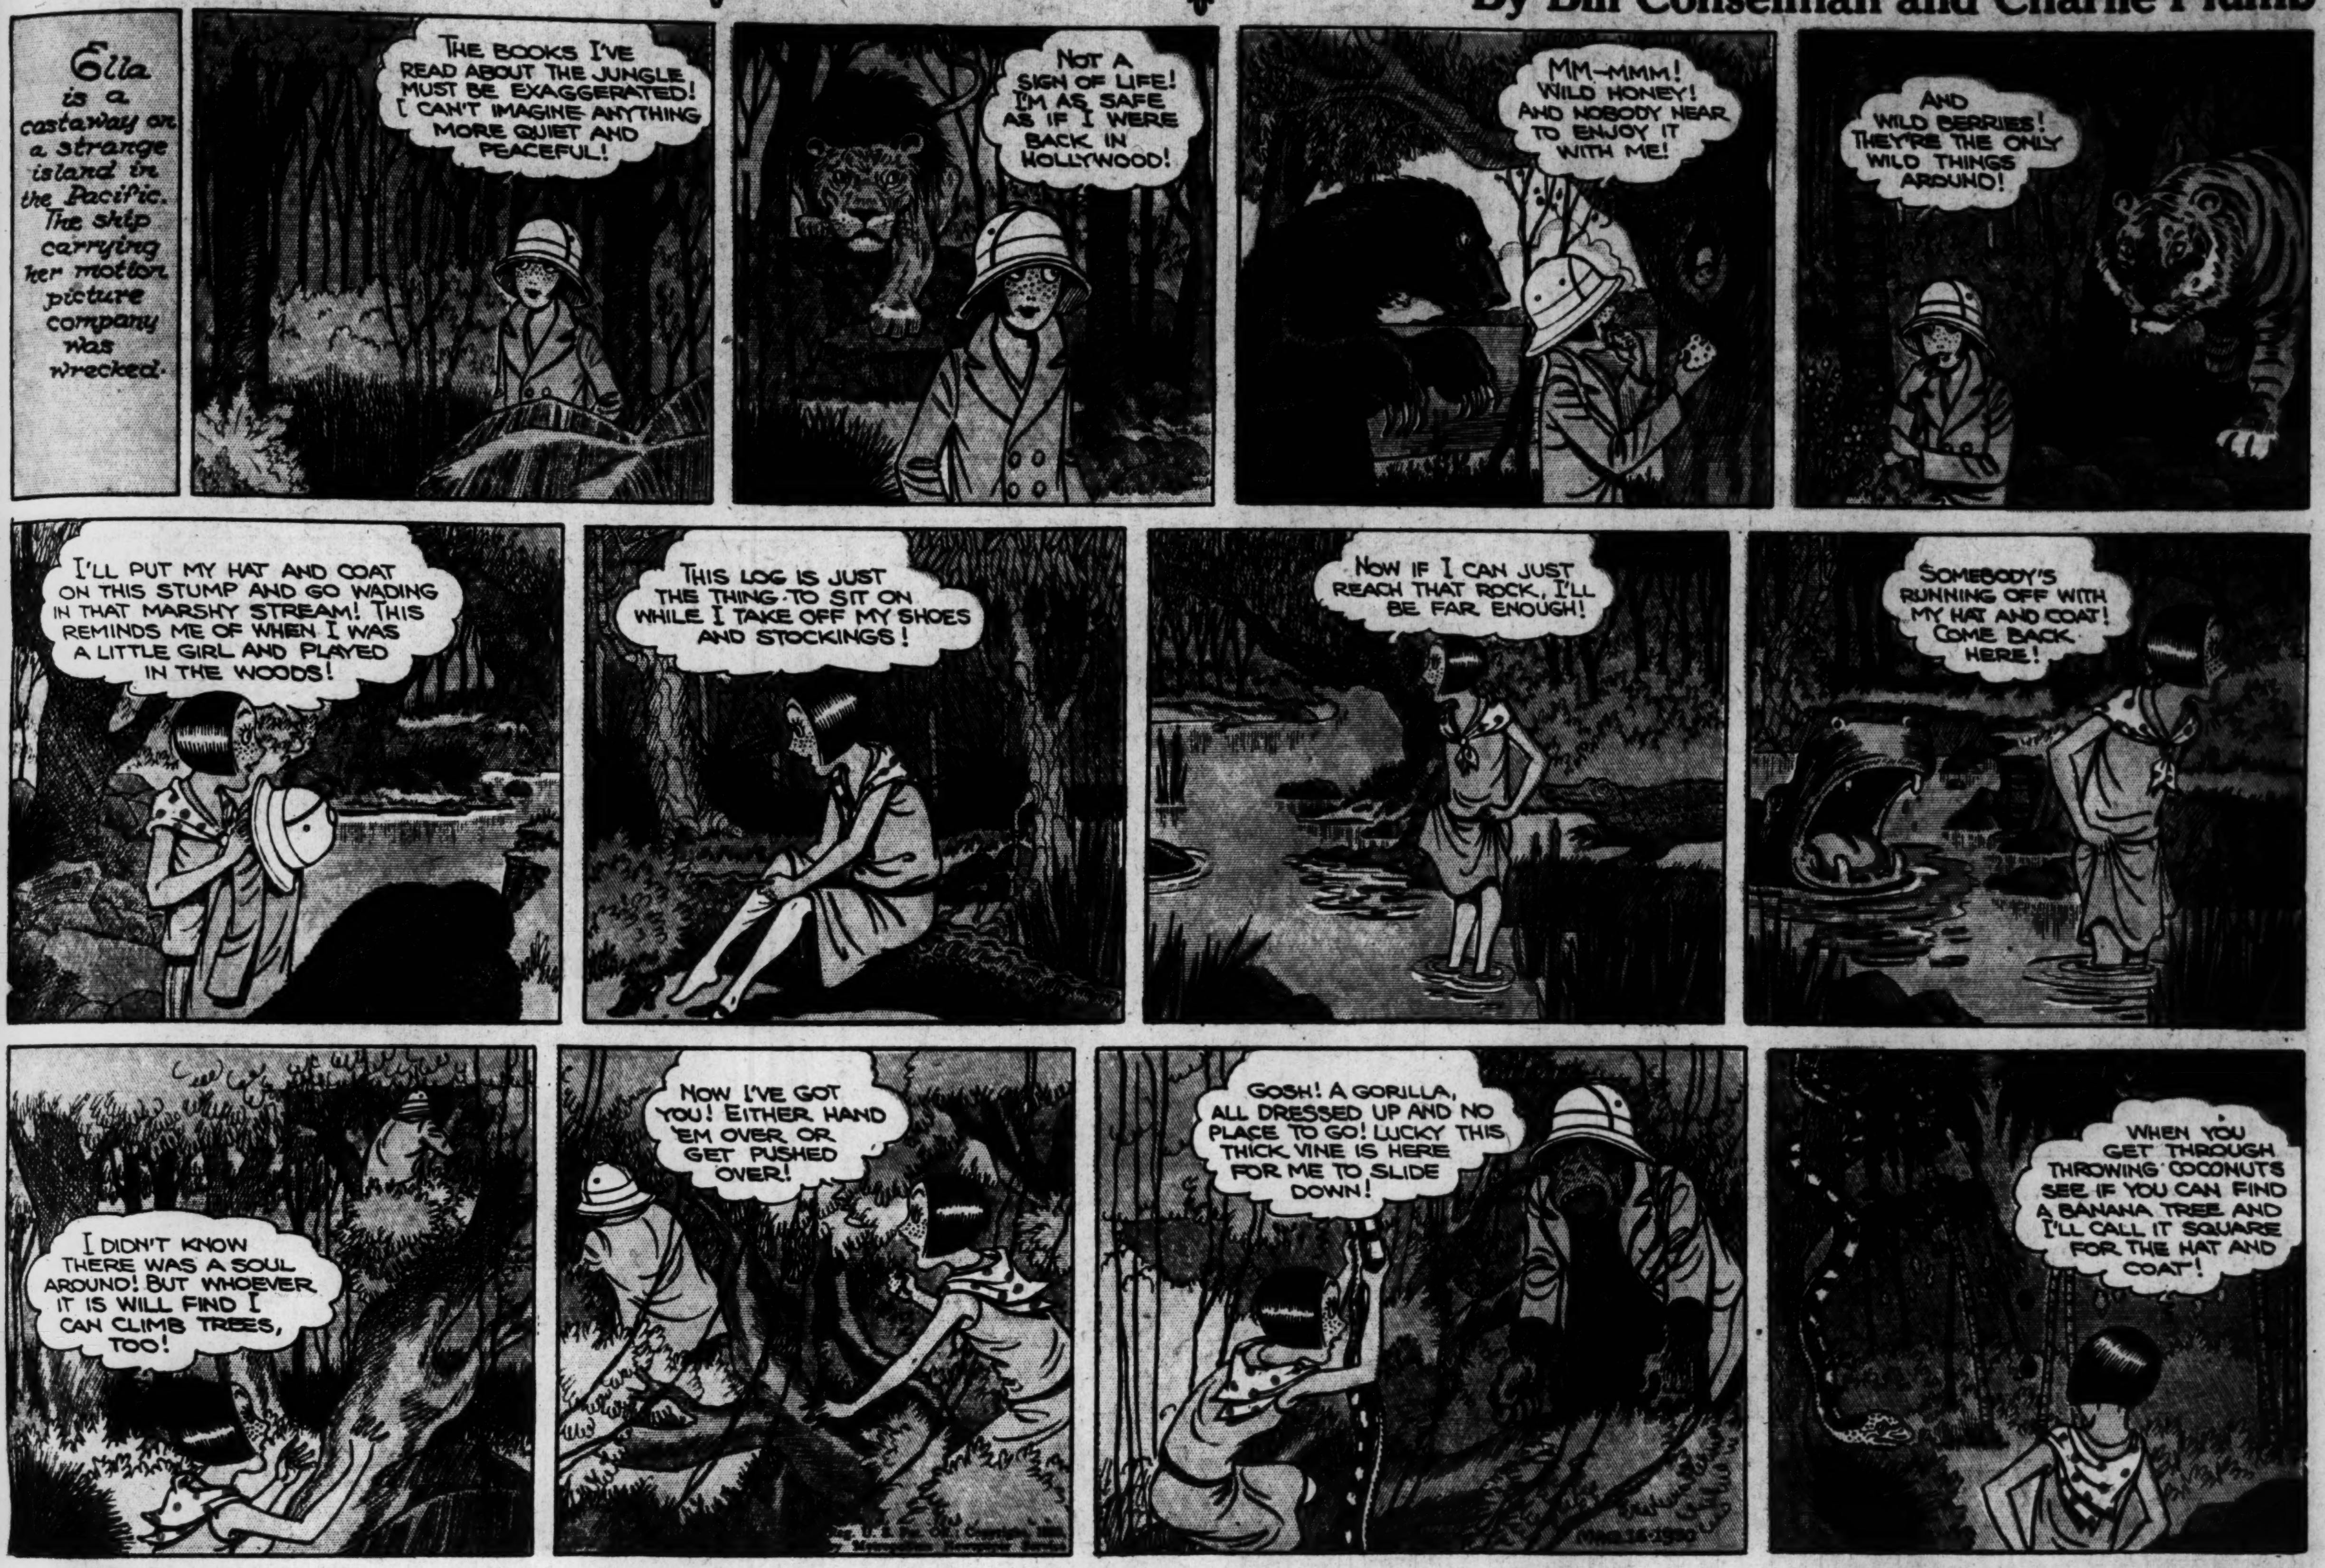
By Bill Conselman and Charlie Plumb



Ella is a castaway on a strange island in the Pacific. The ship carrying her motion picture company was wrecked.
THE BOOKS I'VE READ ABOUT THE JUNGLE MUST BE EXAGGERATED! I CAN'T IMAGINE ANYTHING MORE QUIET AND PEACEFUL!
NOT A SIGN OF LIFE! I'M AS SAFE AS IF I WERE BACK IN HOLLYWOOD!
MM-MMM! WILD HONEY! AND NOBODY NEAR TO ENJOY IT WITH ME!
AND WILD BERRIES! THEY'RE THE ONLY WILD THINGS AROUND!
I'LL PUT MY HAT AND COAT ON THIS STUMP AND GO WADING IN THAT MARSHY STREAM! THIS REMINDS ME OF WHEN I WAS A LITTLE GIRL AND PLAYED IN THE WOODS!
THIS LOG IS JUST THE THING TO SIT ON WHILE I TAKE OFF MY SHOES AND STOCKINGS!
NOW IF I CAN JUST REACH THAT ROCK, I'LL BE FAR ENOUGH!
SOMEBODY'S RUNNING OFF WITH MY HAT AND COAT! COME BACK HERE!
I DIDN'T KNOW THERE WAS A SOUL AROUND! BUT WHOEVER IT IS WILL FIND I CAN CLIMB TREES, TOO!
NOW I'VE GOT YOU! EITHER HAND 'EM OVER OR GET PUSHED OVER!
GOSH! A GORILLA, ALL DRESSED UP AND NO PLACE TO GO! LUCKY THIS THICK VINE IS HERE FOR ME TO SLIDE DOWN!
MAR. 16-1930
WHEN YOU GET THROUGH THROWING COCONUTS SEE IF YOU CAN FIND A BANANA TREE AND I'LL CALL IT SQUARE FOR THE HAT AND COAT!

WHY DO ALL THESE JAZZ BANDS PLAY AND SING THE SAME SONGS ALL THE TIME?
I'M JUST A VAGABOND LOVER
I'LL NEVER KNOW, BUT I DO KNOW IT'S HIGH TIME SOMETHING WAS DONE ABOUT IT! LET'S ORGANIZE A "SOCIETY TO PREVENT ORCHESTRA CROONERS FROM SINGING THE SAME SONG OVER AND OVER"
IT'S A MORE SERIOUS PROBLEM FOR THIS COUNTRY THAN NAVAL DISARMAMENT -- YOU KNOW WE NEVER HAVE GOTTEN OVER THAT "RAMONA" SIEGE FROM TWO YEARS BACK
LET'S MAKE A TOUR OF THE LOCAL BROADCASTING STATIONS AND HAVE A HEART-TO-HEART TALK WITH THE ORCHESTRA LEADERS
SOME SONGS ARE PRETTY AND ALL THAT, BUT THERE'S NO USE GETTING HYSTERICAL OVER THEM
HERE'S STATION WOLR LET'S GO IN TO SEE THE MUSICAL DIRECTOR
MR. PEZALNI, WE'VE COME TO SEE YOU IN THE INTEREST OF RADIO LISTENERS THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY
IT'S ABOUT PLAYING THE SAME SONGS DAY IN AND DAY OUT
WHY, ROD, I THINK THIS IS GOING TO BE A SUCCESS -- HE WAS NICE ABOUT IT AND PROMISED TO GET SOME NEW NUMBERS IN HIS PROGRAMS
NOW, WE'LL GO OVER TO STATION W.O.O.F.
THERE'S WILLY NILLY-- W.O.O.F.'S CHAMPION ORCHESTRA LEADER AND CROONER! HE'S THE GUY WE WANT TO SEE GEE HE'S HANDSOME!
MR. NILLY, THERE'S A MATTER WE'D LIKE TO SPEAK TO YOU ABOUT -- IT'S OF VITAL IMPORTANCE TO A HUNDRED AND TWENTY MILLION CITIZENS
OH, WE COULD TALK IT OVER SO MUCH BETTER AT OUR HOUSE -- WON'T YOU DROP OVER FOR A FEW MINUTES, MR. NILLY?
ROD, RUN INTO THE DRUG STORE AND GET A QUART OF ICE CREAM ---- WE'LL GO ON TO THE HOUSE --- GET THE ICE CREAM AND BRING IT RIGHT OVER MY GOODNESS, YOU'VE GOT ME TERRIBLY EXCITED-- WHAT CAN THIS BE THAT'S SO IMPORTANT?
OH, WE'LL TALK ALL THAT OVER WHEN ROD COMES WOULD IT BE IMPOSING TOO MUCH IF I ASKED YOU TO SING A LITTLE SONG WHILE WE'RE WAITING FOR ROD?
NOT AT ALL -- I'D BE DELIGHTED
I'M JUST A VAGABOND LOVER
HOW LOVELY! SIMPLY DIVINE
AND NEXT WEEK WE'RE GOING AFTER THOSE BARITONES THAT KEEP SINGING, "THE ROAD TO MANDALAY" CAN'T WAIT NOW-

HEY!
I WONDER WHAT ARAB IS RUNNING FOR OR FROM!
I DON'T KNOW OR CARE. BUT HE'S JUST THE LAD THAT I NEED FOR THE TRACK TEAM! IT SEEMS TO ME THAT HE COULD DO THE 100 IN NOTHING!
HURRAH! (PHFF) I'VE LOST THEM, BUT I'LL HAVE TO BUY A NEW PAIR OF RUBBER HEELS!
MARGY'S VANITY CASE!
MY FRIEND, YOU LEFT THIS IN YOUR OVERCOAT POCKET!
I'M THE NEW ATHLETIC COACH. YOU ARE JUST THE ELECTRIC RABBIT WE NEED TO SHOW THE BOYS HOW TO WIN!
PARDON MY KEEPING YOU WAITING, BUT OUR COACH INSISTED ON SIGNING ME FOR THE TEAM!
OH! MARGY!

YOU'LL NOT GET OUT OF THIS HOUSE TO-NIGHT WHILE I'M AT THE OPERA- I'VE HIRED A MAN TO SEE TO IT THAT YOU DON'T-
WELL- YOU DON'T HAVE TO POKE MY EYE OUT-
THERE'S THE DOOR- BELL- THAT'S THE MAN NOW-
JAIL IS A LUXURY BESIDE THIS PLACE-
REMEMBER- HE IS TO STAY IN HIS ROOM AND YOU WATCH EVERY MOVE HE MAKES-
DON'T WORRY! HE'LL NOT GIT OUT- I KNOW MY BUSINESS-
THAT'S HIM- SO JUST TAKE CHARGE-
HUH! THIS IS EASY- SIT DOWN-
IS THIS THE GUY THAT'S GOIN' TO READ BED-TIME STORIES TO ME?
WELL- OLD KID YOU'RE IN FER THE NIGHT- MAKE UP YOUR MIND TO THAT-YOU HAVEN'T SAID ANYTHING BRIGHT YET-
WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH JIGGS? HE SAID HE'D MEET ME ON THE CORNER AT EIGHT O'CLOCK!
I'VE JUST GOT TEN BUCKS- YOU KIN HAVE 'EM IF YOU LET ME OUT-
LISTEN BOZO! YOU CAN'T BRIBE ME- BESIDES- THAT AIN'T ENOUGH- I GIT TWENTY FER KEEPIN' YOU IN PAID WHEN YOUR WIFE GITS BACK-
WELL- WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT THAT? HERE I'VE BEEN WAITIN' FER AN HOUR AN' THERE HE IS SITTIN' UP THERE AT THE WINDOW-
MAYBE HE'S ASLEEP- I'LL WAKE HIM UP-
HELLO CLANCY- I'LL BE RIGHT DOWN IN JUST A MINUTE-
COME ON- WE GOTTA STEP ON IT- WE'RE LATE FER THE CHOWDER PARTY NOW
IF IT HADN'T BEEN FER THAT BRICK- I WOULDN'T EVEN HAVE A CHANCE TO BE LATE-
